LATEST U.S. MOVES

Gremillion Says New Integration Order Stage Set

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion said Saturday the Department of Justice's latest move in Louisiana was in anticipation of an early order to integrate schools in two more parishes and six state trade schools.

And Gremillion said U.S. Judge J. Skelly Wright's ruling to allow the U.S. Justice Department to enter the school integration cases as unauthorized procedure.

"The actions of the Justice Department in this instance," the Louisiana attorney general said, "places it in this litigation like a tiger pouncing on an alley cat.

'BIG STICK'

"It gives them a big stick that could be utilized even if the defendants thought about disobeying a court order that has not yet come into existence," he said.

Wright signed an order to allow the Justice Department to enter the cases.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, in Washington, said the move was "to enable the United States to act promptly to head off critical situations before they occur and to protect the integrity of the judicial process."

The government Friday also asked Judge Wright to declare unconstitutional two new state laws aimed at punishing persons who help parents send their children to integrated public schools.

In a third action, U.S. Atty. Hepburn Many requested a preliminary injunction against a special legislative committee assigned to investigate the Orleans Parish school board.

The U.S. attorney already had a restraining order against the committee obtained when the committee seized records of the Orleans school system.

The records were held by Shelby M. Jackson, state education superintendent, ordered to purge himself of federal court contempt by next Friday.

Gremillion charged Wright allowed the government to enter the cases involving East Baton Rouge and St. Helena parishes and the tax-supported trade schools without giving the defendants a hearing.

Stage Is Set In Minimum Wage Battle

Kennedy Forces Concede Shortage Of Needed Votes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House heads Monday into a minimum wage battle in which President Kennedy's forces concede they are short of votes and a Republican - southern Democratic coalition already is claiming victory.

As presently scheduled, before the end of the week the administration will have faced its stiffest legislative test since it won the House Rules Committee control battle by a whisker last month.

DELAY POSSIBLE

There was some speculation that administration strategists might try to slow down the process—as they did in the rules battle — until their nose count shows victory assured.

Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., who will manage the bill when it reaches the House floor, admitted Saturday that "we are somewhat behind," but added:

"We started way behind, but now we're catching up a bit." He predicted that the administration would have enough votes when the chips are down.

Several labor movement spokesmen agreed with that assessment.

But Rep. William Ayres, R-Ohio, leader of the anti-administration forces, said Kennedy was going to lose by at least 25 votes. He predicted the outcome would be the same this year as it was last session, when a coalition substitute bumped a bill similar to this year's Kennedy proposal.

That vote was 211-203, but Ayres was counting on a net addition of 21 Republicans to the House roster and a hardening of southern Democratic opposition to give him a larger edge.

"We will have more than a year

Hundreds Flee E. Baton Rouge Flood Waters

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Hundreds of persons fled their homes Saturday and Saturday night as the swelling Comite River burst its banks and flooded the northeastern section of East Baton Rouge Parish.

Floodwaters backed up in the low areas and cut across several major and minor highways and flooded homes in most of the area.

The Amite River was reported swelling but still in its banks late Saturday.

Floodwaters were expected to crest about 2 a.m. Sunday and recede within 36 to 48 hours. In some areas the waters had reportedly reached a crest before midnight, but backwater was still pushing into the Hurricane Creek area at Lanier Drive.

Sheriff Bryan Clemmons and his flotilla and most of his deputies started evacuation operations about 4 a.m. Saturday and continued working in the flooded areas Saturday night.

Dwyer Road, which acted as a dike for the backwater creating something of a lake along Plank Road, was overflowed late Saturday and reportedly washing out.

Postman Slows For Swim Pool

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)— Neither rain, nor sleet nor snow shall slow the postman on his appointed rounds, but mailman Charles Suzakawa found Saturday that a swimming pool can.

Suzakawa, 54, who can't swim, was delivering a package to an apartment at 1410 Hudson Street. His eyes trained on numbers on the second floor, he inched backwards across the courtyard.

Then, splash! He was struggling in the deep end of the swimming pool. William Kander, 60, a tenant, rescued the postman and policeman Donald Wilkes arrived to give first aid. Suzakawa was taken to Sequoia Hospital for a checkup and released.

Professor Trading Campus For Circus

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)— Most youngsters dream at one time or another of running away to join a circus.

Dr. Charles W. Boas, 35, is making the dream a reality. His decision is somewhat unusual in that Boas is quitting a position as a university professor to become a clown in the circus.

Boas, who received his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Michigan, is married, the father of four children and an assistant professor of geography at Michigan State University.

But he's always been fascinated by circuses and clowning. He has written extensively on the subject and become an authority on the history of the circus.

At Michigan State, he promoted an annual "Spartan Circus" among students, featuring collegiate gymnasts. He started professional clowning at supermarket openings and made other promotional appearances.

Then he started touring summers as a clown with various circuses. Boas said he loved the life and so did his wife and children. But each fall, he would return to the campus to assume the role of a professor.

Boas finally decided to become a career clown.

He has moved his family out of their home into a trailer and Monday will go on the road with the Penny Bros. Circus. He plans to continue writing and search into the history of clowning and circuses.

"It's something I've always wanted to do," Boas said, "and I realized I wouldn't be happy until I tried it.

U.S. Urges Laos Airlift Halt By Reds

Rusk Talks With Soviet Minister For Five Hours

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States demanded Saturday that the Soviet Union stop airlifting war materials to the rebels in Laos lest it ignite war in Southeast Asia.

This was the highlight of a marathon conference between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

ISSUE STATEMENT

The two issued a joint statement at the end of a five-hour meeting voicing hope their discussion would "lead to a better mutual understanding of the positions and attitudes of both governments."

Rusk, informed sources said, told Gromyko that if the Russians would end their meddling in Laos and persuade the Communist-led rebels to work with the central government in hammering out a formula for neutrality and independence, the United States would consider a multi-nation conference favored by the Soviet Union to deal with the situation.

Gromyko, it was reported, promised Rusk he would relay his views to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. He did not appear to have authority to accept or reject Rusk's proposals.

Gromyko was understood to have restated Russia's demand that the United States end its support of the royal Laotian government, which the Communists claim is illegal, and agree to let a multination conference work out a political settlement.

Before such a conference, the United States wants Russia to persuade the rebels to agree on setting up a neutral three-nation commission to work out a truce in the prolonged fighting.

Disarmament also was a major topic of discussion. Since the Kennedy administration has not yet

Babies Get Fatal Diet In Nursery

REGINA, Sask. (AP) — Two babies are dead and six are reported in serious condition after a mix-up in their feeding formula at the Grey Nuns Hospital nursery.

Police Chief A. G. Cookson said one baby died Saturday. The name was not released. Cynthia Jody Beck, 6-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Beck of Regina, died Friday night.

Dr. J. A. Dupont, medical superintendent of the hospital, said the babies became ill after being given a formula which contained boracic acid solution instead of distilled water.

He said an autopsy of the Beck baby showed death was caused by boracic acid poisoning.

About 45 babies are in the hospital's nursery, about half of them on bottle feedings. There was no report as to how many got the boracic acid mixture.

Dr. Dupont said distilled water for the baby formula is kept in the same storeroom as the boracic acid solution. The distilled water, he added, is kept in clear bottles; the boracic acid in brown bottles, and the hospital is investigating how the two became mixed.

Coroner Dr. J. M. LeBoldus ordered an inquest.

Two Storms Strike Over Wide Section

Freezing Rains, Snow, High Wind Spread Damage

By United Press International

Two storm centers combined Saturday to rake a wide section of the nation from the Rockies to the Appalachians with either heavy snow, sleet, freezing rain or thunderstorms.

Up to 7 inches of snow fell over the Rockies, and weathermen warned of additional accumulations before the storm abated. Mountain passes in the Rockies were clogged with snow or glazed by ice.

TRAIN DERAILED

High winds, with gusts up to 60 and 70 miles per hour, swept the snow area, drifting snow and reducing visibility over Wyoming, and causing considerable damage in northern Utah.

The blustery winds were blamed for the derailment of two freight cars of the Union Pacific Railroad which tied up traffic for several hours between Ogden and Salt Lake City. A new frame Baptist Church in Ogden was destroyed by the howling winds, which also blew a large truck off a road near Bountiful. Although no injuries were reported from the winds, numerous trees of the area were bowled over by the powerful gusts.

Up to five inches of snow blanketed Denver, Colorado's mile-high capital city, while Cheyenne, Wyo., reported four. A six-inch snowfall covered Utah's Bryce Canyon area, and Cedar City, Utah, reported seven inches.

As the storm raged during the final weekend of winter, heavy snow warnings were issued for parts of Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico. The U.S. Weather Bureau also warned of snow, sleet and freezing rain for parts of Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin.

The snow-ice mixture stretched

Voters Select New Members Of Legislature

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Voters in East Baton Rouge Parish elected William F. Bernhard and Jack N. Dyer to new seats in the state House of Representatives Saturday.

Iberville Parish voters chose J. E. (Jim) Jumonville to fill a vacancy in the House.

In Jefferson Parish, voters nominated Jules Mollere, a Metairie attorney, as a second House Democrat for the April 11 election and picked Harold Molaison as a councilman at large.

Bernhard is a 39-year-old plumbing contractor and member of the city-parish council. Dyer, 36-year-old attorney, once was a member of the Louisiana State University boxing team. Their opponents in the second primary were Richard C. Cadwallader, 47-year-old attorney and former council member, and Walter R. Travis, 41-year-old insurance executive.

Complete returns from all 79 East Baton Rouge precincts gave, Bernhard 18,361, Dyer 17,291, Cadwallader 16,421, Travis 11,571.

Woman Points Rifle At Bus

SPENCER, Ind. (AP) — A southern Indiana farm woman was held in Owen County jail Saturday, accused of trying to hold up a school bus.

Deputy Sheriff Ross Hamilton said Florence Servies, about 45, explained only that she "didn't like the flashing lights on the bus."

Edwards said he took the gun away from the woman, who then jumped into the bus and tried to drive it away.

Prosecutor George Langwell said he was preparing a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Solons Told Of Air Force Space Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, assured Congress Saturday that the Air Force has no plans to monopolize the U.S. missile program.

White and Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, new chief of air research and development for the Air Force, were summoned before the worried House Science and Space Committee at an unusual Saturday hearing.

FEAR MONOPOLY

The lawmakers wanted to question them about a confidential directive White wrote last April and a March order by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara giving the Air Force nearly all control of military space programs.

To some, the two developments indicated the Air Force was establishing a U.S. missile monopoly.

Committee chairman Overton Brooks, D-La., asked White point blank whether his memorandum indicated the Air Force hoped eventually to take over control of the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

"Absolutely not," White declared.

Schriever admitted to the committee that he was the "culprit in the case." He explained that he wanted to hang on to a certain group of Air Force missile experts assigned to NASA and that White issued his controversial memorandum to overrule him.

Actually, White said, the document was "a sermon" to key Air Force commanders that they had to cooperate with NASA in providing technical personnel to help on space matters.

He said his memorandum pledged full Air Force cooperation with NASA on the issue of technical help. He added that Air Force relations with the civilian space agency were excellent and had been all along despite the incident. The memorandum, he said,

Fair Weather Predicted Today

Old Mr. Sun peaked his beautiful head out from behind the clouds yesterday to the delight of Twin City residents. And the weatherman says he probably will do the same today.

The forecast is for clear to partly cloudy skies with no important temperature changes. The high will probably be between 65 and 75 today.

The low tonight will be in the upper-40's.

Yesterday the mercury rose to a high reading of 67 with the low recorded at 53.

Today's forecast extends through tonight until Monday morning.

CONSERVATIONIST

Biologist Wins Award At Meet

Percy Viosca Jr., a Louisiana biologist for over 40 years, last night was named the state's "Outstanding Conservationist" of 1960 at a banquet in Monroe.

Viosca was named at the 22nd annual convention of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation where Director L. D. Young outlined plans for the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

The convention opened Friday and will close at noon today.

Viosca, recognized nationally and internationally for his scientific work in biology, was selected by the Louisiana Outdoor Writers Association.

NOT PRESENT

Because of illness, he was unable to attend. He is 67.

However, James N. McConnell, chief of the division of oysters, waterbottoms and seafood, accepted the award on behalf of Viosca.

Viosca, who lives in New Orleans, has been with the various state conservation agencies for approximately 35 years. He has written numerous periodicals on ecology and biology.

"The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission is making an effort to restore the untold knowledge of this man who has contributed so much to the ecology and biology of Louisiana," Hanna said.

Earlier in the day the outdoor writers elected Col. W. C. Horn-

Morgan's Widow Is Arrested

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban-born widow of executed American adventurer William A. Morgan has been arrested by Castro authorities, it was reported Saturday night.

Jorge Luis Carro, a lawyer who defended Morgan during the former Toledo, Ohio, paratrooper's conspiracy trial last week, said the 23-year-old mother of two was picked up at Guanabacoa, a small town about 10 miles east of Havana.

Military investigation authorities here said they could not confirm the report.

Olga Morgan was tried with her husband, in absentia, on the general charge of committing a crime against the state. She was convicted and declared a fugitive from justice. No sentence was passed against her.

Morgan was executed by a firing squad last Saturday.

Carro said he would defend the woman if she is brought for trial before a military court.

A former school teacher, she married Morgan after the revolution.

Rayburn Launches Drive To Aid Hero

WASHINGTON (AP) — A campaign to raise $25,000 to pay off the federal income tax debt of Sgt. Alvin C. York, World War I hero, was launched Saturday by House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex.

He gave a personal check for $1,000 to get the fund drive started.

The Texas congressman was born in the Tennessee hills, where York, 73, is now bedridden as an invalid.

York received $150,000 in 1942 for the book and movie rights to his life story. The government said he owed $85,000 in taxes. York said he didn't and fought it in the courts but he lost. He now owes $172,000 which is the original sum plus interest.

Rayburn, whose aide was enlisted by Rep. Joe Evins, D-Tenn., from York's congressional district, said a series of conferences with the Internal Revenue Service and the Justice Department has lead to a compromise offer of $25,000 to pay off the indebtedness.

York won a Medal of Honor for charging a machine-gun nest in France in 1918, killing 25 Germans and capturing 132.

He has been ill since 1942 and partially paralyzed for the last seven years. He received $135 a month veteran's pension, $82 a month for Social Security and $10 a month as a Medal of Honor winner.

Rayburn said contributions should be sent to the Alvin C. York Fund, Washington, D. C., in care of Rep. Evins. Honorary members of the fund-raising committee are Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and actor Gary Cooper, who played York in the movie.

"If it were a manned flight, a man could have come through it satisfactorily," said William H. Bland, assistant chief of the Mercury space task group.

TESTS MECHANISM

The shot at Wallops Island, Va., was to test the escape mechanism for the space capsule under the worst possible conditions. It may be the last test needed before a similar capsule carries a man on a 125-mile-high, 200-mile-long flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla., down the Atlantic range. After that comes an attempt to put a man in orbit around the earth.

The capsule was lofted by a Little Joe rocket, a squat 25-foot booster. It soared to about 40,000 feet, where it detached from the rocket with its escape rockets, designed to save an astronaut's life if something goes wrong in a future launching.

The capsule broke out parachutes and floated down to the Atlantic, landing 14 miles beyond where it was expected because of high winds. The trip took 23 minutes. The capsule was picked up by a Navy tug within an hour.

Bland said the only thing abnormal was that both the capsule's parachutes opened at once.

"We did not achieve all test objectives," he said. "The timing of the parachute opening was not quite right. All parachutes apparently came out at the same time.

"We'll have to study the records and the capsule to determine what happened. This is not significant in itself. The test demonstration of the capsule escape system was at the worst conditions that could ever occur."

The capsule and launching vehicle had three innovations over

Parish Easter Seal Parade Slated Today

The "Easter Seal Parade," will take place today from 2 to 4 p.m.

Volunteer workers for the Ouachita Society for Crippled Children and Adults will call at homes in the Twin Cities, seeking contributions to aid in the local and national fight against crippling diseases and defects.

Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center on Oliver Road will share in the benefits from the campaign.

Patients afflicted by crippling accidents, birth defects, polio, multiple sclerosis, speech disorders and crippling ailments are aided by contributions according to West Monroe campaign chairman Mrs. M. L. DeFreese and Monroe chairman Mrs. Milling Bernstein.

The Ouachita Society for Crippled Children and Adults pays for wheel chairs, special braces and supports, provides transportation to other specialized rehabilitation centers, pays for speech and muscular therapy, buys special eye glasses.

On a national basis, 180 treatment centers, 27 sheltered workshops and 45 itinerant, mobile and home therapy units were aided by 1960 Easter Seal contributions.

Funds provided scholarships for advanced training for specialists, and were awarded to more than 50 research institutions, local officials point out.

Two Storms Strike Over Wide Section

Freezing Rains, Snow, High Wind Spread Damage

By United Press International

Two storm centers combined Saturday to rake a wide section of the nation from the Rockies to the Appalachians with either heavy snow, sleet, freezing rain or thunderstorms.

Up to 7 inches of snow fell over the Rockies, and weathermen warned of additional accumulations before the storm abated. Mountain passes in the Rockies were clogged with snow or glazed by ice.

TRAIN DERAILED

High winds, with gusts up to 60 and 70 miles per hour, swept the snow area, drifting snow and reducing visibility over Wyoming, and causing considerable damage in northern Utah.

The blustery winds were blamed for the derailment of two freight cars of the Union Pacific Railroad which tied up traffic for several hours between Ogden and Salt Lake City. A new frame Baptist Church in Ogden was destroyed by the howling winds, which also blew a large truck off a road near Bountiful. Although no injuries were reported from the winds, numerous trees of the area were bowled over by the powerful gusts.

Up to five inches of snow blanketed Denver, Colorado's mile-high capital city, while Cheyenne, Wyo., reported four. A six-inch snowfall covered Utah's Bryce Canyon area, and Cedar City, Utah, reported seven inches.

As the storm raged during the final weekend of winter, heavy snow warnings were issued for parts of Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico. The U.S. Weather Bureau also warned of snow, sleet and freezing rain for parts of Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin.

The snow-ice mixture stretched

Voters Select New Members Of Legislature

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Voters in East Baton Rouge Parish elected William F. Bernhard and Jack N. Dyer to new seats in the state House of Representatives Saturday.

Iberville Parish voters chose J. E. (Jim) Jumonville to fill a vacancy in the House.

In Jefferson Parish, voters nominated Jules Mollere, a Metairie attorney, as a second House Democrat for the April 11 election and picked Harold Molaison as a councilman at large.

Bernhard is a 39-year-old plumbing contractor and member of the city-parish council. Dyer, 36-year-old attorney, once was a member of the Louisiana State University boxing team. Their opponents in the second primary were Richard C. Cadwallader, 4-7 year-old attorney and former council member, and Walter R. Travis, 41-year-old insurance executive.

Complete returns from all 79 East Baton Rouge precincts gave, Bernhard 18,361, Dyer 17,291, Cadwallader 16,424, Travis 11,571.

In complete returns from all 116 Jefferson Parish precincts, Mol-

Woman Points Rifle At Bus

Deputy Sheriff Ross Hamilton said Florence Servies, about 45, explained only that she "didn't like the flashing lights on the bus."

Edwards said he took the gun away from the woman, who then jumped into the bus and tried to drive it away.

Prosecutor George Languell said he was preparing a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Solons Told Of Air Force Space Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, assured Congress Saturday that the Air Force has no plans to monopolize the U.S. missile program.

White and Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, new chief of air research and development for the Air Force, were summoned before the worried House Science and Space Committee at an unusual Saturday hearing.

FEAR MONOPOLY

The lawmakers wanted to question them about a confidential directive White wrote last April and a March order by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara giving the Air Force nearly all control of military space programs.

To some, the two developments indicated the Air Force was establishing a U.S. missile monopoly.

Committee chairman Overton Brooks, D-La., asked White point blank whether his memorandum indicated the Air Force hoped eventually to take over control of the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

"Absolutely not," White declared.

Schriever admitted to the committee that he was the "culprit in the case." He explained that he wanted to hang on to a certain group of Air Force missile experts assigned to NASA and that White issued his controversial memorandum to overrule him.

Actually, White said, the document was "a sermon" to key Air Force commanders that they had to cooperate with NASA in providing technical personnel to help on space matters.

He said his memorandum pledged full Air Force cooperation with NASA on the issue of technical help. He added that Air Force relations with the civilian space agency were excellent and had been all along despite the incident. The memorandum, he said,

Fair Weather Predicted Today

Old Mr. Sun peaked his beautiful head out from behind the clouds yesterday to the delight of Twin City residents. And the weatherman says he probably will do the same today.

The forecast is for clear to partly cloudy skies with no important temperature changes. The high will probably be between 65 and 75 today.

The low tonight will be in the upper-40's.

Yesterday the mercury rose to a high reading of 67 with the low recorded at 53.

Today's forecast extends through tonight until Monday morning.

CONSERVATIONIST

Biologist Wins Award At Meet

Percy Viosca Jr., a Louisiana biologist for over 40 years, last night was named the state's "Outstanding Conservationist" of 1960 at a banquet in Monroe.

Viosca was named at the 22nd annual convention of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation where Director L. D. Young outlined plans for the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

The convention opened Friday and will close at noon today.

Viosca, recognized nationally and internationally for his scientific work in biology, was selected by the Louisiana Outdoor Writers Association.

NOT PRESENT

Because of illness, he was unable to attend. He is 67.

However, James N. McConnell, chief of the division of oysters, waterbottoms and seafood, accepted the award on behalf of Viosca.

Viosca, who lives in New Orleans, has been with the various state conservation agencies for approximately 35 years. He has written numerous periodicals on ecology and biology.

"The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission is making an effort to restore the untold knowledge of this man who has contributed so much to the ecology and biology of Louisiana," Hanna said.

Earlier in the day, the outdoor writers elected Col. W. C. Horn-

Morgan's Widow Is Arrested

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban-born widow of executed American adventurer William A. Morgan has been arrested by Castro authorities, it was reported Saturday night.

Jorge Luis Carro, a lawyer who defended Morgan during the former Toledo, Ohio, paratrooper's conspiracy trial last week, said the 23-year-old mother of two was picked up at Guanabacoa, a small town about 10 miles east of Havana.

Military investigation authorities here said they could not confirm the report.

Olga Morgan was tried with her husband, in absentia, on the general charge of committing a crime against the state. She was convicted and declared a fugitive from justice. No sentence was passed against her.

Carro said he would defend the woman if she is brought for trial before a military court.

A former school teacher she married Morgan after the revolution.

DONATES $1,000

Rayburn Launches Drive To Aid Hero

WASHINGTON (AP)—A campaign to raise $25,000 to pay off the federal income tax debt of Sgt. Alvin C. York, World War I hero, was launched Saturday by House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex.

He gave a personal check for $1,000 to get the fund drive started.

The Texas congressman was born in the Tennessee hills, where York, 73, is now bedridden as an invalid.

York received $150,000 in 1942 for the book and movie rights to his life story. The government said he owed $85,000 in taxes. York said he didn't and fought it in the courts but he lost. He now owes $172,000 which is the original sum plus interest.

Rayburn, whose aide was enlisted by Rep. Joe Evins, D-Tenn., from York's congressional district, said a series of conferences with the Internal Revenue Service and the Justice Department has lead to a compromise offer of $25,000 to pay off the indebtedness.

York won a Medal of Honor for charging a machine-gun nest in France in 1918, killing 25 Germans and capturing 132.

He has been ill since 1942 and partially paralyzed for the last seven years. He received $135 a month veteran's pension, $32 a month for Social Security and $10 a month as a Medal of Honor winner.

Rayburn said contributions should be sent to the Alvin C. York Fund, Washington, D. C., in care of Rep. Evins. Honorary members of the fund-raising committee are Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and actor Gary Cooper, who played York in the movie.

Gremillion Says New Integration Order Stage Set

plaintiffs in the case.

"The government will undoubtedly take over these cases," Gremillion said, "just as they have done, with court approval, in the Bush case in Orleans Parish," which brought about school integration there.

"The NAACP," he said, "no longer needs attorneys in these cases now that the government is authorized to continue their prosecution."

Gremillion predicted the groundwork was laid for an order to integrate the schools involved next September.

A. P. Tureaud, New Orleans attorney for the NAACP, earlier asked permission to amend the original East Baton Rouge and St. Helena integration suits to seek a ruling that a recently adopted local option school closure law be declared unconstitutional.

Rural St. Helena Parish already has set an April 22 vote on whether to end public education rather than desegregate. Leaders plan to set up a private, segregated school system under state grants-in aid to pupils.

East Baton Rouge school board members are studying a pupil placement plan. Several school communities here in recent weeks have held mass meetings, adopting resolutions for a private school system if schools here are integrated.

formulated its final position on [illegible] and will not do so until next [illegible]. Saturday's talk [illegible] revolved principally around the sort of forum in which [illegible] trol negotiations should be resumed.

Official sources said the discussion also covered the Congo and the resumption in Geneva next Tuesday of negotiations for a possible ban on nuclear weapons tests.

There was no immediate information on the results, if any, of the talks on those subjects.

The two were outwardly in high spirits both before and after the meeting.

Rusk and Gromyko said in the joint statement they hoped the talk would make it easier [illegible] to outstanding cold war problems.

The joint statement said the two "had an open and frank discussion on a variety of subjects of mutual interest."

Official sources said, however, they understood Rusk had warned Gromyko that Soviet meddling in Laos is poisoning the international atmosphere and lessens chances of agreement between Russia and the West on big issues such as disarmament, a nuclear test ban, the Congo and Berlin and Germany.

Officials said they understood Rusk emphasized the deep concern of the United States over the continuing Soviet airlift of arms to the rebels in Laos.

The meeting was the highest level U.S.-Soviet discussion since President Kennedy took office. Next to Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the two are the top foreign policy makers in the two countries.

Rusk escorted Gromyko to the elevator and thanked him "very much for coming down from New York for the meeting." Gromyko, who is attending the United Nations, told newsmen only: "We have agreed on a joint communique."

did not advocate merger of NASA with the military but recognized this as a possibility.

The general also quieted congressional fears that McNamara's order might lead to the Air Force seeking control over the Navy's Polaris submarine missile and the Army's Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

The order, calling for the biggest peacetime shakeup of Air Force structure in history, would consolidate all Air Force space, weapons, communications and warning systems under Schriever's command.

White said he personally saw no reason to combine the military and civilian space efforts.

"The job is plenty big for both of us," he said.

In regard to McNamara's order, White said it gave "enormous responsibility" to the Air Force and that top commanders were called to the Pentagon to discuss it soon after it was issued.

He pledged that the Air Force would give impetus to the space command, Schriever said it was a "very good move."

"It should get the job done better, faster, and more efficiently," he said.

The two measures at issue provide:

Roosevelt — $1.15 minimum wage for presently covered workers four months after the law is signed; $1.25 minimum 24 months later. New coverage for 4.3 million workers in retail establishments grossing $1 million or more a year. Newly covered to reach $1.25 and 40-hour work week in four one-year steps.

Ayres — $1.15 minimum wage in four months; no further increase. New coverage for 1.4 million workers in retail chain firms with five or more stores in two or more states. Minimum for new workers held at $1, no overtime provisions.

Fog was reported in a few areas of the plains where a variety of sleet, drizzle and rain prevailed. The freezing rain and sleet also pelted northwestern North Carolina, but warm ground temperatures prevented accumulation.

Thunderstorms, many with heavy rains and high winds, swept through portions of Alabama, Georgia and Florida during the early morning Saturday, with occasional heavy rain spreading into eastern Tennessee. Birmingham, Ala., reported an inch of rain in six hours.

High winds accompanied the Dixie storms, and gusts up to 60 miles per hour battered the Cartersville, Ga., area.

sey of Baton Rouge as president. Frank Adams, Lake Charles, was elected vice-president and Hurley Campbell, Baton Rouge, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

About 250 persons attended the banquet, a convention highlight at the Virginia Hotel. The election of federation officers will come today.

Young, a weekly newspaper publisher who served four years previously as wildlife director, delivered a lengthy explanation of the commission's program.

He touched on all phases of the commission work, then at the end brought out the need of anti-pollution measures in the Legislature.

"Although three anti-pollution bills drafted by the commission were defeated in the 1960 Legislature, a real need for these measures was implemented," Young stated.

He added that the public is becoming aware of the problems of pollution.

At the opening of his address, Young referred to education as the commission's key to bringing the public around to the objectives of the conservation program.

He also explained that the commission now has a new education program to teach conservation in the classroom. Joe L. Herring, former district biologist here, is directing the program.

"It is through this program," Young said, "that we base our hope for the future of wildlife resources in Louisiana."

The director, speaking on law enforcement, said the commission, with the best agents in the country, faces new problems, in that higher-speed engines are built today.

But he said projects, such as the purchase of about 14,000 acres in Lafourche Swamp, would speed up the state's effort for land acquisition, a program designed for public hunting.

In addition, Young touched on the importance of the commercial fishing industry in Louisiana, pointing out that it was one of the major sources of income the state has.

Over 200 sportsmen have been in attendance at the convention, which the Ouachita Wildlife Unit is hosting. Supervising the convention are Herb Ducote, federation president, and Charles Bosch, federation executive secretary, both of Baton Rouge.

A. S. Tidwell and Jack Rushing, both of Monroe, are co-chairmen of the convention.

A relatively large rectangular "picture window" replaced two small round viewports in the capsule.

It also had a landing bag—a rubberized skirt between the craft and its heat shield—to cushion its landing and act as a sea anchor after it hit the water.

And the vehicle was modified to prevent premature firing of the escape rockets.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said several of the capsule's shingles were dented or missing. These shingles are overlapping pieces of metal which provide a protective covering and more area to absorb the heat of reentry.

The officials said the dents may have been caused by the capsule bumping into the booster or the escape tower as it separated.

The basic structure of the capsule was sound, however, and it did not leak as it floated in the water. The landing bag appeared to work properly too, they said.

The parachutes were supposed to detach upon landing, but did not. For this reason, a helicopter could not get into position to recover the capsule was planned, and the tug picked it up.

Asked what would be the effect on an astronaut if both parachutes opened as they did this time, a NASA spokesman said the only effect would be to give the astronaut a softer landing.

Mollere joined John Schwegmann, supermarket operator and winner in the first primary, in the April general election against Republicans E. K. Hudson and Franklin Jones.

In the councilman's race, complete returns from all 38 precincts gave Molaison 10,827 votes to 7,251 for Robert J. Duplantis. Molaison ran on Mollere's ticket while Duplantis ran with Mmahat.

Dan Hogan, Jefferson Parish president, who backed Schwegmann in the first primary, also endorsed Mollere and Molaison. Mollere fell just short of getting enough votes to win in the first primary.

In Iberville Parish, Jumonville, a former representative, received 3,913 votes to 3,416 for V. Price LeBlanc of St. Gabriel.

Negro Pair Booked On Driving Charge

Monroe police booked two Negroes for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages late Friday and early Saturday.

Booked on the charges were Leroy Wilson, 46 of 1804½ Renaud St. and Charlie Johnson, 58 of 1181½ Shotwell St.

Driving Charge Filed Following Auto Collision

West Monroe police booked a 52-year-old Monroe Negro with reckless driving yesterday after he was involved in a two-car collision on Cypress Street.

Archie Gardner, Negro of 712 Robert St., Monroe, was booked on the charges when he made a left hand turn onto Stella Street in front of a vehicle driven by Henry L. Godwin, 48 of 2504 North Ninth St., West Monroe.

Police reports stated that Godwin was traveling south on Cypress Street when Gardner, going north on Cypress, made a left turn onto Stella Street in front of Godwin causing a collision.

Damage to the cars was estimated at $100 and no one was injured in the accident, which occurred at 7:40 a.m.

Outstanding Teacher Hunt Is Underway

Who is Monroe's most Outstanding Young Teacher? The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee to find this year's winner. Harold Melton has been named committee chairman.

"The purpose of the project," according to Jaycee President Jimmy Terry, "is to spotlight that group of individuals who diligently and sefishlessly play such an important role in molding the future of our children — the teachers."

It is hoped that the project will increase public interest in education and bring deserved recognition for outstanding achievement to some local teacher between the ages of 21 and 35, Terry stated.

Nomination forms have been distributed to the local schools and are being received by Harold Melton, Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Selection of the winner will be made by a panel of judges all over age 35, and the award will be presented at a night banquet on March 30.

Nominees qualifications are: (1) can be either male or female, married or single (2) must be at least 21 years old, but not over 35 by December 31, 1961, (3) must hold a currently valid Louisiana Teacher's certificate, (4) must currently be an elementary or high school (junior or senior) teacher, (5) must teach in a public, private, or parochial school.

Monroe Outstanding Young Teacher will compete in the state finals in Shreveport on April 8.

Melton expressed his appreciation to the many people who have shown so much interest in the project and to local school officials for "their splendid cooperation. We hope that this project will direct public attention to our teachers and the work they are doing with our children."

Guest speaker for the Outstanding Young Teacher banquet will be announced next week.

Dr. Gallagher To Serve On Committee

Dr. Anna Helen Gallagher, director of the Northeast State School of Nursing, has been appointed to serve this year on the Louisiana Committee on Careers in Nursing.

The committee is headed by Miss Mary C. Roth of New Orleans.

Principal functions of the group include distribution of information regarding the nursing profession with a view toward stimulating interest of communities and lay members in the nursing program.

The committee also hopes to raise money for scholarships. This can be achieved to a great extent, Dr. Gallagher said, through the work of an information bureau, which the committee considers an essential factor.

Encouragement of local activities pertaining to nursing as a profession will be one of the information bureau's responsibilities, she pointed out. This includes finding and preparing persons to speak on nursing so that they will be competent to interpret the nursing program.

The bureau will provide material for libraries, counsellors, school nurses, nursing clubs and other organizations.

Through the committee on careers in nursing, leaders hope to coordinate groups with allied professions and provide up-to-date information to public health nurses for wide rural distribution, Dr. Gallagher explained.

The committee is working closely with the Louisiana League for Nursing and the Louisiana State Nurses' Association.

Minden Airman Dies In Crash

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The Army Saturday identified the victim of a light plane crash near here as Lt. James H. Stone, 24, of Rt. 4, Minden, La.

Stone and 1st Lt. Harvey C. Deveney, both stationed with the aviation battalion of the 82nd airborne division, were aboard a single engine L20 Army plane which crashed on takeoff Friday at the Camp Mackall area of this sprawling Army post.

The men were on a routine training flight.

Deveney suffered an injured leg and facial lacerations.

Congo Terror Spread By Band Of Leopardmen

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—A strong U. N. patrol Saturday fanned out into the Kivu province jungle to drive away a band of "leopardmen" terrorizing the countryside with threats to kill all whites as enemies of their pagan religious sect.

The fanatic tribesmen, wearing leopard skins around their heads, have been operating in the area of Kasongo, where Lumumbist troops earlier beat priests and assaulted Belgian nuns.

More abuse of American missionaries was reported Saturday by Elaine Shepard, an American writer who flew out of Kivu to Leopoldville.

Fire Destroys Home; Cause Undetermined

Flames roared their way through a seven-room home in West Monroe last night to reduce it to nothing but smoldering ashes.

No one was inside the Edgar Pailette home located on the Wallace-Dean Road, just behind the Claiborne Elementary School when the blaze started at 8:15 p.m.

The house was completely demolished by the inferno.

Neighbors living nearby told firemen that they heard an explosion just before the fire started, but rumors that it began as a result of a butane tank exploding proved untrue.

Pailette said that he used natural gas. The house is located behind the Claiborne school which is just off U. S. Highway 80. Throngs of curious onlookers gathered to watch the blaze as it licked its way through the frame home that housed Pailette and his three children.

Pailette and his children, one of them a two-week old baby, were staying with his father-in-law and therefore were not home. Pailette's wife died earlier this month in childbirth, sources said.

The call was turned in by neighbors, but by the time the truck arrived the house was already blazing beyond control. Firemen said they were further hampered by lack of water.

They did manage to contain the fire to the house alone, thus saving a garage situated to the rear of the house and a small storage house beside the house.

Pailette said that the house was only partially insured, and nothing was saved in the house. Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

Another house, located at 3110 Renwick St. in Monroe, suffered extensive damage yesterday afternoon when fire broke out in the kitchen.

The four-room home of D. M. Tugler was blazing wildly when Engines Five and Two from the Monroe fire department arrived at the scene at approximately 3:40 p.m. yesterday.

Firemen fought the blaze an hour and 20 minutes before bringing it under control. Engines returned to their stations at 6 p.m. after making sure that the fire was completely under control and other houses out of danger.

Cause of this fire was also undetermined.

Two Are Booked In Disturbance

Two West Monroe men were booked for disturbing the peace yesterday by West Monroe authorities following an alleged fight between the two.

A. J. Whitlock, 36 of 223 Height St. and R. B. Kennedy, 33 of 120 Kansas Lane were booked with disturbing the peace by engaging in a fisticuff encounter with each other.

"The government will undoubtedly take over these cases," Gremillion said, "just as they have done, with court approval, in the Bush case in Orleans Parish," which brought about school integration there.

"The NAACP," he said, "no longer needs attorneys in these cases now that the government is authorized to continue their prosecution."

Gremillion predicted the groundwork was laid for an order to integrate the schools involved next September.

A. P. Tureaud, New Orleans attorney for the NAACP, earlier asked permission to amend the original East Baton Rouge and St. Helena integration suits to seek a ruling that a recently adopted local option school closure law be declared unconstitutional.

Rural St. Helena Parish already has set an April 22 vote on whether to end public education rather than desegregate. Leaders plan to set up a private, segregated school system under state grants in aid to pupils.

East Baton Rouge school board members are studying a pupil placement plan. Several school communities here in recent weeks have held mass meetings, adopting resolutions for a private school system if schools here are integrated.

formulated its final position on this, and will not do so until next summer, Saturday's talks revolved principally around the sort of forum in which arms control negotiations should be resumed.

Official sources said the discussion also covered the Congo and the resumption in Geneva next Tuesday of negotiations for a possible ban on nuclear weapons tests.

There was no immediate information on the results, if any, of the talks on those subjects.

The two were outwardly in high spirits both before and after the meeting.

Rusk an Gromyko said in the joint statement they hoped the talk would make it easier to negotiate outstanding cold war problems.

The joint statement said the two "had an open and frank discussion on a variety of subjects of mutual interest."

Official sources said, however, they understood Rusk had warned Gromyko that Soviet meddling in Laos is poisoning the international atmosphere and lessens chances of agreement between Russia and the West on big issues such as disarmament, a nuclear test ban, the Congo and Berlin and Germany.

Officials said they understood Rusk emphasized the deep concern of the United States over the continuing Soviet airlift of arms to the rebels in Laos.

The meeting was the highest level U.S.-Soviet discussion since President Kennedy took office. Next to Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the two are the top foreign policy makers in the two countries.

Rusk escorted Gromyko to the elevator and thanked him "very much for coming down from New York for the meeting." Gromyko, who is attending the United Nations, told newsmen only: "We have agreed on a joint communique."

Solons Told Of Air Force Space Plans

did not advocate merger of NASA with the military but recognized this as a possibility.

The general also quieted congressional fears that McNamara's order might lead to the Air Force seeking control over the Navy's Polaris submarine missile and the Army's Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

The order, calling for the biggest peacetime shakeup of Air Force structure in history, would consolidate all Air Force space, weapons, communications and warning systems under Schriever's command.

White said he personally saw no reason to combine the military and civilian space efforts.

"The job is plenty big for both of us," he said.

In regard to McNamara's order, White said it gave "enormous responsibility" to the Air Force and that top commanders were called to the Pentagon to discuss it soon after it was issued.

He pledged that the Air Force would give impetus to the space command, Schriever said it was a "very good move."

"It should get the job done better, faster, and more efficiently," he said.

Stage Is Set In Minimum Wage Battle

ago," he told UPI. "We're counting on an almost solid Republican vote and on southern Democrats who are mad about this bill."

The two measures at issue provide:

Roosevelt — $1.15 minimum wage for presently covered workers four months after the law is signed; $1.25 minimum 24 months later. New coverage for 4.3 million workers in retail establishments grossing $1 million or more a year. Newly covered to reach $1.25 and 40-hour work week in four one-year steps.

Ayres—$1.15 minimum wage in four months; no further increase. New coverage for 1.4 million workers in retail chain firms with five or more stores in two or more states. Minimum for new workers held at $1, no overtime provisions.

from the Kansas plains to the southern Great Lakes and Ohio Valley, creating hazardous driving conditions for prep basketball fans at championship tourneys in Illinois and Indiana.

Fog was reported in a few areas of the plains where a variety of sleet, drizzle and rain prevailed. The freezing rain and sleet also pelted northwestern North Carolina, but warm ground temperatures prevented accumulation.

Thunderstorms, many with heavy rains and high winds, swept through portions of Alabama, Georgia and Florida during the early morning Saturday, with occasional heavy rain spreading into eastern Tennessee. Birmingham, Ala., reported an inch of rain in six hours.

High winds accompanied the Dixie storms, and gusts up to 60 miles per hour battered the Cartersville, Ga., area.

sey of Baton Rouge as president. Frank Adams, Lake Charles, was elected vice - president and Hurley Campbell, Baton Rouge, re - elected secretary-treasurer.

About 250 persons attended the banquet, a convention highlight at the Virginia Hotel. The election of federation officers will come today.

Young, a weekly newspaper publisher who served four years previously as wildlife director, delivered a lengthy explanation of the commission's program.

He touched on all phases of the commission work, then at the end brought out the need of anti-pollution measures in the Legislature.

"Although three anti - pollution bills drafted by the commission were defeated in the 1960 Legislature, a real need for these measures was implemented," Young stated.

He added that the public is becoming aware of the problems of pollution.

At the opening of his address, Young referred to education as the commission's key to bringing the public around to the objectives of the conservation program.

He also explained that the commission now has a new education program to teach conservation in the classroom. Joe L. Herring, former district biologist here, is directing the program.

"It is, through this program," Young said, "that we base our hope for the future of wildlife resources in Louisiana."

The director, speaking on law enforcement, said the commission, with the best agents in the country, faces new problems, in that higher - speed engines are built today.

But he said projects, such as the purchase of about 14,000 acres in Lafourche Swamp, would speed up the state's effort for land acquisition, a program designed for public hunting.

In addition, Young touched on the importance of the commercial fishing industry in Louisiana, pointing out that it was one of the major sources of income the state has.

Over 200 sportsmen have been in attendance at the convention, which the Ouachita Wildlife Unit is hosting. Supervising the convention are Herb Ducote, federation president, and Charles Bosch, federation executive secretary, both of Baton Rouge.

A. S. Tidwell and Jack Rushing, both of Monroe, are co-chairmen of the convention.

A relatively large rectangular "picture window" replaced two small round viewports in the capsule.

It also had a landing bag—a rubberized skirt between the craft and its heat shield—to cushion its landing and act as a sea anchor after it hit the water.

And the vehicle was modified to prevent premature firing of the escape rockets.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said several of the capsule's shingles were dented or missing. These shingles are overlapping pieces of metal which provide a protective covering and more area to absorb the heat of re-entry.

The officials said the dents may have been caused by the capsule bumping into the booster or the escape tower as it separated.

The basic structure of the capsule was sound, however, and it did not leak as it floated in the water. The landing bag appeared to work properly too, they said.

The parachutes were supposed to detach upon landing, but did not. For this reason, a helicopter could not get into position to recover the capsule was planned, and the tug picked it up.

Asked what would be the effect on an astronaut if both parachutes opened as they did this time, a NASA spokesman said the only effect would be to give the astronaut a softer landing.

Voters Select New Members Of Legislature

lere polled 25,673 votes to 16,861 for John A. Mmahat, also a Metairie attorney.

Mollere joined John Schwegmann, supermarket operator and winner in the first primary, in the April general election against Republicans E. K. Hudson and Franklin Jones.

In the councilman's race, complete returns from all 38 precincts gave Molaison 10,827 votes to 7,251 for Robert J. Duplantis. Molaison ran on Mollere's ticket while Duplantis ran with Mmahat.

Dan Hogan, Jefferson Parish president, who backed Schwegmann in the first primary, also endorsed Mollere and Molaison. Mollere fell just short of getting enough votes to win in the first primary.

In Iberville Parish, Jumonville, a former representative, received 3,913 votes to 3,416 for V. Price LeBlanc of St. Gabriel.

Negro Pair Booked On Driving Charge

Booked on the charges were Leroy Wilson, 46 of 1804½ Renaud St. and Charlie Johnson, 58 of 118½ Shotwell St.

Dr. Gallagher To Serve On Committee

Dr. Anna Helen Gallagher, director of the Northeast State School of Nursing, has been appointed to serve this year on the Louisiana Committee on Careers in Nursing.

The committee is headed by Miss Mary C. Roth of New Orleans.

Principal functions of the group include distribution of information regarding the nursing profession with a view toward stimulating interest of communities and lay members in the nursing program.

The committee also hopes to raise money for scholarships. This can be achieved to a great extent, Dr. Gallagher said, through the work of an information bureau, which the committee considers an essential factor.

Encouragement of local activities pertaining to nursing as a profession will be one of the information bureau's responsibilities, she pointed out. This includes finding and preparing persons to speak on nursing so that they will be competent to interpret the nursing program.

The bureau will provide material for libraries, counsellors, school nurses, nursing clubs and other organizations.

Through the committee on careers in nursing, leaders hope to coordinate groups with allied professions and provide up-to-date information to public health nurses for wide rural distribution, Dr. Gallagher explained.

The committee is working closely with the Louisiana League for Nursing and the Louisiana State Nurses' Association.

Minden Airman Dies In Crash

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The Army Saturday identified the victim of a light plane crash near here as Lt. James H. Stone, 24, of Rt. 4, Minden, La.

Stone and 1st Lt. Harvey C. Deveney, both stationed with the aviation battalion of the 82nd airborne division, were aboard a single engine L20 Army plane which crashed on takeoff Friday at the Camp Mackall area of this sprawling Army post.

The men were on a routine training flight.

Deveney suffered an injured leg and facial lacerations.

Driving Charge Filed Following Auto Collision

West Monroe police booked a 52-year-old Monroe Negro with reckless driving yesterday after he was involved in a two-car collision on Cypress Street.

Archie Gardner, Negro of 712 Robert St., Monroe, was booked on the charges when he made a left hand turn onto Stella Street in front of a vehicle driven by Henry L. Godwin, 48 of 2504 North Ninth St., West Monroe.

Police reports stated that Godwin was traveling south on Cypress Street when Gardner, going north on Cypress, made a left turn onto Stella Street in front of Godwin causing a collision.

Damage to the cars was estimated at $100 and no one was injured in the accident, which occurred at 7:40 a.m.

Outstanding Teacher Hunt Is Underway

Who is Monroe's most Outstanding Young Teacher? The Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee to find this year's winner. Harold Melton has been named committee chairman.

"The purpose of the project," according to Jaycee President Jimmy Terry, "is to spotlight that group of individuals who diligently and sefishlessly play such an important role in molding the future of our children — the teachers."

It is hoped that the project will increase public interest in education and bring deserved recognition for outstanding achievement to some local teacher between the ages of 21 and 35, Terry stated.

Nomination forms have been distributed to the local schools and are being received by Harold Melton, Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Selection of the winner will be made by a panel of judges all over age 35, and the award will be presented at a night banquet on March 30.

Nominees qualifications are: (1) can be either male or female, married or single (2) must be at least 21 years old, but not over 35 by December 31, 1961, (3) must hold a currently valid Louisiana Teacher's certificate, (4) must currently be an elementary or high school (junior or senior) teacher, (5) must teach in a public, private, or parochial school.

Monroe Outstanding Young Teacher will compete in the state finals in Shreveport on April 8.

Melton expressed his appreciation to the many people who have shown so much interest in the project and to local school officials for "their splendid cooperation. We hope that this project will direct public attention to our teachers and the work they are doing with our children."

Guest speaker for the Outstanding Young Teacher banquet will be announced next week.

Congo Terror Spread By Band Of Leopardmen

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—A strong U. N. patrol Saturday fanned out into the Kivu province jungle to drive away a band of "leopardmen" terrorizing the countryside with threats to kill all whites as enemies of their pagan religious sect.

The fanatic tribesmen, wearing leopard skins around their heads, have been operating in the area of Kasongo, where Lumumbist troops earlier beat priests and assaulted Belgian nuns.

More abuse of American missionaries was reported Saturday by Elaine Shepard, an American writer who flew out of Kivu to Leopoldville.

Fire Destroys Home; Cause Undetermined

Flames roared their way through a seven - room home in West Monroe last night to reduce it to nothing but smoldering ashes.

No one was inside the Edgar Pailette home located on the Wallace-Dean Road, just behind the Claiborne Elementary School when the blaze started at 8:15 p.m.

The house was completely demolished by the inferno.

Neighbors living nearby told firemen that they heard an explosion just before the fire started, but rumors that it began as a result of a butane tank exploding proved untrue.

Pailette said that he used natural gas. The house is located behind the Claiborne school which is just off U. S. Highway 80. Throngs of curious onlookers gathered to watch the blaze as it licked its way through the frame home that housed Pailette and his three children.

Pailette and his children, one of them a two-week old baby, were staying with his father-in-law and therefore were not home. Pailette's wife died earlier this month in childbirth, sources said.

The call was turned in by neighbors, but by the time the truck arrived the house was already blazing beyond control. Firemen said they were further hampered by lack of water.

They did manage to contain the fire to the house alone, thus saving a garage situated to the rear of the house and a small storage house beside the house.

Pailette said that the house was only partially insured, and nothing was saved in the house. Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

Another house, located at 3110 Renwick St. in Monroe, suffered extensive damage yesterday afternoon when fire broke out in the kitchen.

The four - room home of D. M. Tugler was blazing wildly when Engines Five and Two from the Monroe fire department arrived at the scene at approximately 3:40 p.m. yesterday.

Firemen fought the blaze an hour and 20 minutes before bringing it under control. Engines returned to their stations at 6 p.m. after making sure that the fire was completely under control and other houses out of danger.

Cause of this fire was also undetermined.

Two Are Booked In Disturbance

Two West Monroe men were booked for disturbing the peace yesterday by West Monroe authorities following an alleged fight between the two.

A. J. Whitlock, 36 of 223 Height St. and R. B. Kennedy, 33 of 120 Kansas Lane were booked with disturbing the peace by engaging in a fisticuff encounter with each other.

INFLUENCE WITCH DOCTORS

Outside Agitators Blamed For Terrorism In Angola

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Portuguese government charged Saturday that outside agitators prepared witch doctors for a terrorist rampage in Portugal's African territory of Angola by making the natives believe they had become bulletproof.

A communique from the Overseas Ministry hinted that the Soviet Union tried to stall voting on Angola in the U. N. Security Council so that news of this week's incidents could be published and influence the balloting.

The ministry said witch doctors in the Catete region, near Angola's seacoast capital of Luanda, had confessed that agitators helped them.

"They were anointed with oil and given amulets which made them (supposedly) bulletproof," said the communique, adding that life in the rural areas now is returning to normal.

This is the latest in a series of reports from Angola about terrorist outbreaks. The first one came on Thursday, the day after the U. N. Security Council turned down an Asian and African request to investigate conditions in Angola following disturbances reported to have killed as many as 100 people there last month.

"Thus we can understand the maneuver of the Soviet delegate (Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin) in trying to prolong the Security Council session, delaying voting until after the events, which we now know took place, became known," the communique said.

It also charged that Ghana's U. N. delegate "confessed" his country intervened in Angola and promoted terrorism. It said Emmanuel Dadet, U. N. representative of the Congo (Brazzaville), referred on Wednesday to three news items he had received from Angola and that indicated he knew in advance what was going to happen.

"Without doubt these facts lead one to classify the new disorders as having taken place in conspiracy with certain countries against Portugal," the ministry said.

(Reports from U. N. headquarters said Zorin made no attempt to delay voting on the Asian-African request, which the Soviet Union and the United States supported. Before the voting Zorin demanded "urgent action" on Angola. The resolution fell two votes short of the seven necessary for the council to act.

(Gana's delegate, Alex Quaison-Sackey, told the council Angola nationalists approached a conference of independent African states in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, last year, and that led to the adoption of a resolution urging colonial powers not to suppress nationalist movements.

(Dadet did not mention any attacks but said his country's contacts with African nationalists produced reports that one man had his lips pierced "so they could be locked" because he read a nationalist paper printed in the Congo, that a white postmaster ordered a native village burned and its inhabitants shot and that Portugal had set up concentration camps for Negroes in Angola.)

A dispatch from Mario Pirelli, AP resident correspondent in Luanda, said Portuguese troops have been flown northward to Angola's border with the Congo to combat tribal terrorism.

Pirelli reported that wounded white refugees from the area, several hundred miles north of the Catete region, were streaming back to Luanda. His dispatch did not mention anything about "foreigners", who were implicated by dispatches of Portuguese news agencies to Lisbon.

The government communique said isolated farms and administrative posts were attacked on March 15 and men, women and children injured, while following the night terrorists tried to attack the township of Carmona. Loyal native Africans helped repel the attack and some of them were killed it said.

Some places were set on fire and Nambuangongo was evacuated, the communique continued. Quitexe post was reported attacked but terrorists were driven off. Attacks also were reported in Ambriz.

"The attacks were inspired by U.P.A. (Union of the Peoples of Angola) agitators who fired on the military and murdered without discrimination members of the European and native population," the communique added.

In Lisbon, police posted a discreet guard around the U.S. Embassy in case of anti-American demonstrations arising from the U.S. vote on Portugal in the U.N. Security Council.

The newspaper Diario Ilustrado said about 100 students, including Negroes from overseas provinces, gathered in front of the embassy Friday night and shouted anti-American slogans. The police dispersed them almost immediately.

In Oporto, protest pamphlets were distributed urging citizens to demonstrate in front of the American consulate. Police prevented the demonstration.

IN U.N. AFFAIRS

Smaller Nations Expect Big Voice

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The slow and faltering start made by the resumed 15th General Assembly is symptomatic of how unwieldy and divided the 99-nation organization has grown.

Although the assembly has been back in session nearly two weeks, it has failed to start work on any but a few of the 38 items left on the agenda when the delegates recessed last Dec. 21. None of the big items—such as disarmament, the Congo, Tibet and Hungary—have been touched.

The foot-dragging reflects the divisive and paradoxical nature of the world body in which the smallest nation expects as loud a voice as the biggest—regardless of how much money it contributes to operating expenses of the whole. And on every issue there is a variety of viewpoints.

Slightly more than one-third of the world's population controls almost one-half of the assembly's votes, while another third has no representation at all.

One group, speaking for less than 14 per cent of the world, pays more than 56 per cent of the U.N. bills. Another group voting for more than a third of the globe's three billion inhabitants, pays less than 10 per cent.

The groups, alliances and blocs are linked by geography; military treaties, culture, historical background and desires—both political and economic.

The tightness of the knit ranges from the monolithic nine-nation Soviet bloc to the loosely woven, but massive, 46-nation Afro-Asian bloc, which is a unit in name only.

In the forefront of all debates is the Western-Communist rivalry that emerged soon after the United Nations was formed by 51 nations almost 16 years ago.

The hard-core grouping for this Moscow vs. Washington stand is the Soviet bloc, representing 340,824,000 people and paying 19.09 per cent of the U.N. general budget, against the 20-nation Western alliances (NATO, SEATO and CENTO), speaking for 530,533,000 people and paying 59.98 per cent.

In-between is the Afro-Asian bloc, representing 1,025,045,000 people who pay only 9.45 per cent.

The U.N. budget is drawn to a formula that roughly reflects the ability of people to pay. Some nations are richer than others; but the rule at the United Nations is that of a democracy: One delegate, one vote.

Through the United Nations, many poor people have received a franchise. The poor and the weak feel that, once admitted to the United Nations, they stand on the same level as the rich and the strong. They look to the United Nations for help so that they can grow into political and economical maturity.

Most of the Afro-Asian nations are new, having won independence since World War II. The 25 African delegations (South Africa is not included) represent 173,215,000 people but pay only 1.69 per cent of the U.N. budget. They come from some of the poorest and most turbulent countries.

The Latin American bloc, which formerly voted solidly with the West, totals 20 nations with 192,919,000 inhabitants. They pay 4.39 per cent of the U.N. budget. U.N. voting sheets today often show the Latin American vote split. Cuba, for one, is a firm supporter of the Soviet Union.

The 15 West European members represent 206,083,000 people who contribute 15.84 per cent of U.N. costs.

The nine-nation Arab League, representing 75,345,000 and paying 0.85 per cent, usually votes together.

Communist China, with 670 million people, accounts for most of the approximately one billion people without U.N. representation.

Also unrepresented are the three divided countries — Korea, Germany and Viet Nam. Their admittance hinges on a political agreement for reunification.

Work Starts To Modernize Jury Room

A 37-year-old tradition was ended Friday, as workmen began modernization work in the Ouachita Parish Police Jury meeting room.

Since the courthouse was built in 1924, the old style circular railing enclosing the half - moon table has been a landmark in the jury room.

"It took up too much space," was the consensus of jurymen's opinions.

So late in 1960, they authorized the remodeling.

"We're changing it around so we'll have more room for spectators. It will help out the Grand Jury also when it meets there," said M. W. Montgomery, police jury president.

Work will be completed by the end of March.

Irvin Kilpatrick, chairman of the courthouse committee and ward 10 police juror, said that cost will be in the neighborhood of $1300. Approximately $800 will go for four new tables. New platforms will cost about $500, he said.

Jurors will be seated to the right of the main doorway, and will face South Grand Street.

The four formica - topped tables, each 12 feet long, will be placed on platforms, so that each table will seat four jurors, with room left for new jurors who may be added in the future.

Spectators will be located on the other side of the room.

H. H. Land, architect, worked out details for the rearranging, tables are purchased from Capital Store Fixture Co., and the platform will be constructed by parish employees.

Kilpatrick said that prices on tables were received from various sources, and that Capitol's was the lowest.

Decker Asserts Army Consulted

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. George H. Decker, Army chief of staff, said Saturday night "the Army has been given every opportunity to express its views" in the reappraisal of strategy ordered by President Kennedy.

The general, in a speech prepared for the West Point Society, noted that the first draft of the reappraisal report has been sent by the Defense Department to the President.

Republicans Name Voter Study Groups

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican committee studying ways to win more big city voters to the party cause set up five subcommittees Saturday to propose recommendations on how to go about it.

Emphasis will be on developing stronger GOP organizations and recruitment of candidates who can attract campaign contributions.

Nationality and other minority groups, including Negroes, will be a major part of the broad vote-promoting plan.

The committee, headed by Republican State Chairman Ray C. Bliss of Ohio, was created by the party's national committee to try to reverse the 1960 returns which showed President Kennedy carrying 26 of the 40 cities of more than 300,000 population, most of them in strategic swing states.

"Long-range planning is what the Republican party needs at every level," Bliss told a news conference at the end of a two-day meeting of his 14-member group.

"The plan we decide on must be flexible enough to adapt from city to city. Each city might have a different problem. The plan should be helpful to local organizations in cutting down the Democratic majorities in the big city areas. It's a huge field."

The group decided to set up subcommittees to explore in depth party problems in these urban areas:

1. Recruitment of candidates. They will work on ways to get top-flight candidates at all levels. Bliss said good candidates mean bigger campaign contributions.

2. Party organization structure. This group will suggest ideas for developing sound organizations from the ward and precinct level up. Staffing of such organizations with women and minority group representatives will be considered.

3. Communications. The group will plan educational programs, films and other visual aids, and types of party manuals.

4. Nationality, including ethnic and Negro groups. This subcommittee is charged with developing means of attracting more of these voters to the GOP banner.

5. Labor, business and independent organizations. Recruiting of party workers from these groups will be one aim.

Bliss said he hopes the full committee can report by late May or June.

"The sooner we get a plan the sooner we will get candidates and the money raised," Bliss added. "We should be looking for candidates now to run for Congress next year. And it usually takes two or three elections to get a strong organization working where there has been a weak one."

INFLUENCE WITCH DOCTORS

Outside Agitators Blamed For Terrorism In Angola

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Portuguese government charged Saturday that outside agitators prepared witch doctors for a terrorist rampage in Portugal's African territory of Angola by making the natives believe they had become bulletproof.

A communique from the Overseas Ministry hinted that the Soviet Union tried to stall voting on Angola in the U. N. Security Council so that news of this week's incidents could be published and influence the balloting.

The ministry said witch doctors in the Catete region, near Angola's seacoast capital of Luanda, had confessed that agitators helped them.

"They were anointed with oil and given amulets which made them (supposedly) bulletproof," said the communique, adding that life in the rural areas now is returning to normal.

This is the latest in a series of reports from Angola about terrorist outbreaks. The first one came on Thursday, the day after the U. N. Security Council turned down an Asian and African request to investigate conditions in Angola following disturbances reported to have killed as many as 100 people there last month.

"Thus we can understand the maneuver of the Soviet delegate (Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin) in trying to prolong the Security Council session, delaying voting until after the events, which we now know took place, became known," the communique said.

It also charged that Ghana's U. N. delegate "confessed" his country intervened in Angola and promoted terrorism. It said Emmanuel Dadet, U. N. representative of the Congo (Brazzaville), referred on Wednesday to three news items he had received from Angola and that indicated he knew in advance what was going to happen.

"Without doubt these facts lead one to classify the new disorders as having taken place in conspiracy with certain countries against Portugal," the ministry said.

(Reports from U. N. headquarters said Zorin made no attempt to delay voting on the Asian-African request, which the Soviet Union and the United States supported. Before the voting Zorin demanded "urgent action" on Angola. The resolution fell two votes short of the seven necessary for the council to act.

(Gana's delegate, Alex Quaison-Sackey, told the council Angola nationalists approached a conference of independent African states in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, last year, and that led to the adoption of a resolution urging colonial powers not to suppress nationalist movements.

(Dadet did not mention any attacks but said his country's contacts with African nationalists produced reports that one man had his lips pierced "so they could be locked" because he read a nationalist paper printed in the Congo, that a white postmaster ordered a native village burned and its inhabitants shot and that Portugal had set up concentration camps for Negroes in Angola.)

A dispatch from Mario Pirelli, AP resident correspondent in Luanda, said Portuguese troops have been flown northward to Angola's border with the Congo to combat tribal terrorism.

Pirelli reported that wounded white refugees from the area, several hundred miles north of the Catete region, were streaming back to Luanda. His dispatch did not mention anything about "foreigners", who were implicated by dispatches of Portuguese news agencies to Lisbon.

The government communique said isolated farms and administrative posts were attacked on March 15 and men, women and children injured, while following the night terrorists tried to attack the township of Carmona. Loyal native Africans helped repel the attack and some of them were killed it said.

Some places were set on fire and Nambuangongo was evacuated, the communique continued. Quitexe post was reported attacked but terrorists were driven off. Attacks also were reported in Ambriz.

"The attacks were inspired by U.P.A. (Union of the Peoples of Angola) agitators who fired on the military and murdered without discrimination members of the European and native population," the communique added.

In Lisbon, police posted a discreet guard around the U.S. Embassy in case of anti-American demonstrations arising from the U.S. vote on Portugal in the U.N. Security Council.

The newspaper Diario Ilustrado said about 100 students, including Negroes from overseas provinces, gathered in front of the embassy Friday night and shouted anti-American slogans. The police dispersed them almost immediately.

In Oporto, protest pamphlets were distributed urging citizens to demonstrate in front of the American consulate. Police prevented the demonstration.

IN U.N. AFFAIRS

Smaller Nations Expect Big Voice

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The slow and faltering start made by the resumed 15th General Assembly is symptomatic of how unwieldy and divided the 99-nation organization has grown.

Although the assembly has been back in session nearly two weeks, it has failed to start work on any but a few of the 38 items left on the agenda when the delegates recessed last Dec. 21. None of the big items—such as disarmament, the Congo, Tibet and Hungary—have been touched.

The foot-dragging reflects the divisive and paradoxical nature of the world body in which the smallest nation expects as loud a voice as the biggest—regardless of how much money it contributes to operating expenses of the whole. And on every issue there is a variety of viewpoints.

Slightly more than one-third of the world's population controls almost one-half of the assembly's votes, while another third has no representation at all.

One group, speaking for less than 14 per cent of the world, pays more than 56 per cent of the U.N. bills. Another group voting for more than a third of the globe's three billion inhabitants, pays less than 10 per cent.

The groups, alliances and blocs are linked by geography, military treaties, culture, historical background and desires—both political and economic.

The tightness of the knit ranges from the monolithic nine-nation Soviet bloc to the loosely woven, but massive, 46-nation Afro-Asian bloc, which is a unit in name only.

In the forefront of all debates is the Western-Communist rivalry that emerged soon after the United Nations was formed by 51 nations almost 16 years ago.

The hard-core grouping for this Moscow vs. Washington stand is the Soviet bloc, representing 340,824,000 people and paying 19.09 per cent of the U.N. general budget, against the 20-nation Western alliances (NATO, SEATO and CENTO), speaking for 580,533,000 people and paying 59.98 per cent.

In-between is the Afro-Asian bloc, representing 1,025,045,000 people who pay only 9.45 per cent.

The U.N. budget is drawn to a formula that roughly reflects the ability of people to pay. Some nations are richer than others; but the rule at the United Nations is that of a democracy: One delegate, one vote.

Through the United Nations, many poor people have received a franchise. The poor and the weak feel that, once admitted to the United Nations, they stand on the same level as the rich and the strong. They look to the United Nations for help so that they can grow into political and economical maturity.

Most of the Afro-Asian nations are new, having won independence since World War II. The 25 African delegations (South Africa is not included) represent 173,215,000 people but pay only 1.69 per cent of the U.N. budget. They come from some of the poorest and most turbulent countries.

The Latin American bloc, which formerly voted solidly with the West, totals 20 nations with 192,919,000 inhabitants. They pay 4.89 per cent of the U.N. budget. U.N. voting sheets today often show the Latin American vote split. Cuba, for one, is a firm supporter of the Soviet Union.

The 15 West European members represent 206,083,000 people who contribute 15.84 per cent of U.N. costs.

The nine-nation Arab League, representing 75,345,000 and paying 0.85 per cent, usually votes together.

Communist China, with 670 million people, accounts for most of the approximately one billion people without U.N. representation.

Also unrepresented are the three divided countries — Korea, Germany and Viet Nam. Their admittance hinges on a political agreement for reunification.

Work Starts To Modernize Jury Room

A 37-year-old tradition was ended Friday, as workmen began modernization work in the Ouachita Parish Police Jury meeting room.

Since the courthouse was built in 1924, the old style circular railing enclosing the half - moon table has been a landmark in the jury room.

"It took up too much space," was the consensus of jurymen's opinions.

So late in 1960, they authorized the remodeling.

"We're changing it around so we'll have more room for spectators. It will help out the Grand Jury also when it meets there," said M. W. Montgomery, police jury president.

Work will be completed by the end of March.

Irvin Kilpatrick, chairman of the courthouse committee and ward 10 police juror, said that cost will be in the neighborhood of $1300. Approximately $800 will go for four new tables. New platforms will cost about $500, he said.

Jurors will be seated to the right of the main doorway, and will face South Grand Street.

The four formica - topped tables, each 12 feet long, will be placed on platforms, so that each table will seat four jurors, with room left for new jurors who may be added in the future.

Spectators will be located on the other side of the room.

H. H. Land, architect, worked out details for the rearranging, tables are purchased from Capital Store Fixture Co., and the platform will be constructed by parish employees.

Kilpatrick said that prices on tables were received from various sources, and that Capitol's was the lowest.

Decker Asserts Army Consulted

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. George H. Decker, Army chief of staff, said Saturday night "the Army has been given every opportunity to express its views" in the reappraisal of strategy ordered by President Kennedy.

The general, in a speech prepared for the West Point Society, noted that the first draft of the reappraisal report has been sent by the Defense Department to the President.

Republicans Name Voter Study Groups

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican committee studying ways to win more big city voters to the party cause set up five subcommittees Saturday to propose recommendations on how to go about it.

Emphasis will be on developing stronger GOP organizations and recruitment of candidates who can attract campaign contributions.

Nationality and other minority groups, including Negroes, will be a major part of the broad vote-promoting plan.

The committee, headed by Republican State Chairman Ray C. Bliss of Ohio, was created by the party's national committee to try to reverse the 1960 returns which showed President Kennedy carrying 26 of the 40 cities of more than 300,000 population, most of them in strategic swing states.

"Long-range planning is what the Republican party needs at every level," Bliss told a news conference at the end of a two-day meeting of his 14-member group.

"The plan we decide on must be flexible enough to adapt from city to city. Each city might have a different problem. The plan should be helpful to local organizations in cutting down the Democratic majorities in the big city areas. It's a huge field."

The group decided to set up subcommittees to explore in depth party problems in these urban areas:

1. Recruitment of candidates. They will work on ways to get top-flight candidates at all levels. Bliss said good candidates mean bigger campaign contributions.

2. Party organization structure. This group will suggest ideas for developing sound organizations from the ward and precinct level up. Staffing of such organizations with women and minority group representatives will be considered.

3. Communications. The group will plan educational programs, films and other visual aids, and types of party manuals.

4. Nationality, including ethnic and Negro groups. This subcommittee is charged with developing means of attracting more of these voters to the GOP banner.

5. Labor, business and independent organizations. Recruiting of party workers from these groups will be one aim.

Bliss said he hopes the full committee can report by late May or June.

"The sooner we get a plan the sooner we will get candidates and the money raised," Bliss added. "We should be looking for candidates now to run for Congress next year. And it usually takes two or three elections to get a strong organization working where there has been a weak one."

Historic Capitol To Be Reopened

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's magnificent Old Capitol, restored as a monument to history and architecture, will be opened to the public Tuesday.

The three-story stone and brick building, scene of some of the outstanding drama in Mississippi government, has been restored to its original elegance as a historical museum.

The project, which probably will cost almost $2 million after all exhibits and furnishings are completed, was begun under former Gov. J. P. Coleman and completed under Gov. Ross Barnett. Both have been interested in the state's past.

The majestic symmetry and simplicity of the old building's lines have brought it citations as one of the outstanding examples of greek revival architecture in the country.

The restored Old Capitol will feature restoration of the House and Senate chambers and galleries, the governor's office and high court of error and appeals. Period furniture is being installed.

Other sections will serve as a historical museum, with rooms set apart for archaeology and Indians, foreign dominion, territorial exhibits, mementos of the young state, the Confederacy, Jefferson Davis, the literary art and similar subjects.

Portraits in the state hall of fame collection will be shown in various parts of the building.

Among the most striking exhibits are three dioramas, picture-like scenes with special lighting to give a three-dimensional effect.

These include the exhibits showing Desoto discovering the Mississippi River in 1541, the Indian treaty of 1830 opening new lands for white settlers, and union boats running Confederate batteries at Vicksburg on the Mississippi River during the Civil War.

The opening Tuesday is timed so the Museum may be viewed by the thousands of visitors expected in Jackson March 23 for the formal opening of the Civil War Centennial commemoration in the state.

Because all exhibits and furnishings have been completed, the formal dedication of the Old Capitol restoration will be delayed until June 3, the anniversary of the birth of Jefferson Davis, the Mississippian who became president of the confederacy.

The March 23 centennial events will include a pageant on the secession convention which took Mississippi out of the federal union in 1861.

Like many other events famous in Mississippi history, the original secession convention took place in the House chambers of the Old Capitol.

Other events transpiring in the House chamber included passage of the first law in America giving married women property rights in 1839; Andrew Jackson's address to the legislature, 1840; Henry Clay's address and reception, 1844; ceremonies honoring Col. Jefferson Davis and the Mississippi Rifles after the Mexican War, 1847; the constitutional convention of 1868, first in the South after the Civil War; overthrow of the carpetbag government, 1876; last address of Jefferson Davis to the legislature, 1884; establishment of the first state women's college in America, 1884; and the constitutional convention of 1890 which gave the state its present constitution.

The Old Capitol will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. It will be closed on Monday.

The House chambers will be available to groups for civic and patriotic meetings at no charge during regular museum hours. Guided tours will be available to school and similar groups.

New U.S. Space Rocket Engine Recommended

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Development of a solid-fuel rocket engine capable of developing three million pounds of thrust — twice as much as the eight-engine Saturn system — has been proposed by Thiokol Chemical Corp.

Thiokol recommended the development program to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration after an economic feasibility study.

The company recommended a cluster of seven of the proposed engines for the initial stage of a supervehicle for space exploration.

It recommended a cluster of three for the second stage, with upper stages being propelled by liquid engines.

The total average thrust achieved by the initial stage would be approximately 21 million pounds during an extended burning period, Thiokol announced.

Engines ranging in diameter from 10 to 28 feet were studied, but the one recommended would be approximately 14 feet in diameter.

Thiokol estimated that development of the engine would require about three years and that the over-all vehicle would be ready for manned space exploration within five years.

REIGNING AS the Natchez Garden Club's Queen and King for the final weeks of the Natchez Pilgrimage, March 19 through April 2, are Miss Anne Marie Hicks, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. Swink Hicks, and Bernard Eugene Maritz III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sam Moritz, all of Natchez. Miss Hicks and her royal escort appear in the grand finale of the spectacular Confederate Pageant which is presented each Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday throughout the Natchez Pilgrimage period. In keeping with the Centennial observance, this year's Pageant is centered around Jefferson Davis and his bride, Varina Howell. One of the lovely homes shown on the tour of ante bellum houses is "The Briers" where Varina became the bride of the future President of the Confederacy.

Spain Charges Troops Massing Near Frontier

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Spain charged Saturday Moroccan irregular troops are massing on the northern frontier of the Spanish Sahara "with the intention of invading Spanish territory."

A Foreign Ministry said the Moroccans, "pretending to be bands of the former Army of Liberation of Morocco," are concentrated in the Meseid region, 125 miles east of Tarfaya and just 25 miles from the Spanish frontier.

Spain is taking all necessary measures to repel aggression, the spokesman said.

Reliable sources said about 1,000 paratroopers are being airlifted from Getafe military airport, just north of Madrid, to El Aaiun, capital of the Spanish Sahara.

Spain's Canary Islands have been reinforced so heavily in the past three months that they reportedly look like an army camp. Garrisons in the Algeciras region of southern Spain also have been heavily reinforced.

Spain has warned Morocco several times, the last time on March 8, the spokesman said, and also has advised the United Nations and several individual countries, including the United States.

5 PER MINUTE?

Birth Of Suckers Believed Booming

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The postulation by P.T. Barnum that a sucker is born every minute has long been accepted, particularly in places like Las Vegas, as one of the eternal verities.

Lately, however, I have been wondering whether Barnum's theorem is still valid. After all, people have become much more knowledgeable and sophisticated in the past decade or two.

If someone took a new gullibility census, I believe it would show that the sucker birth rate has changed a lot since Barnum's time.

I doubt that suckers are born at a one-a-minute clip any longer. Nowadays, the rate probably is closer to five per minute.

The need for updating Barnum became apparent to me as I was reading a report issued by the Food and Drug Administration on some of its recent cases.

PEOPLE "WISER"

The report tended to support his contention that people have become too wise to fall for the "gold brick" hoax and other tricks of the old fashioned confidence man.

What people do now is pay $3.75 a gallon for sea water in the belief that it will cure serious illnesses and otherwise act as a "fountain of youth."

According to the Food and Drug Administration, an Ohio promoter bottled 93 gallons of ocean water near Belmar, N.J., and offered it for sale as "chemical smorgasbord."

Literature used as promotional material promised that "by taking a little sea water per day we can thus offer our body glands a 'chemical smorgasbord'."

"Figuratively," it said, "the pancreas, liver and spleen, bone marrow, thyroid, adrenals and other organs can march around this chemical smorgasbord helping themselves to whatever they require to produce the manufactured secretions that guard our health."

SCARED OFF

The mere thought of my liver and spleen marching around inside my body would have been enough to deter me from buying any of the stuff.

But the sea water impresario presumably would have done a brisk business had not the food and drug agents stepped in and booked him on a false labeling charge.

The agents likewise cracked down on a vitamin product that was billed as a treatment for arthritis, high blood pressure, goiter and various other ailments. Among other ingredients, it contained alfalfa, water cress, parsley, wheat germ, mint leaves, beets, buckwheat, yeast, prunes, and oyster and egg shells.

Other products seized by the agents included some air filters touted as relieving heart trouble, asthma, hay fever and shortness of breath.

The fact that some people believe such claims does not prove proves that Barnum didn't know that Barnum was right. It only how right he was.

Kennedy Slates Press Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will hold a news conference at 4 p.m. Eastern Standard Time next Wednesday and then skip such conferences for two weeks, the White House said Saturday.

On one of the ensuing Wednesdays, he plans to fly to Palm Beach, Fla., for a week's sojourn over Easter.

On the next Wednesday, he will be consulting back in Washington with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

There will be no live television or radio coverage of Wednesday's session with reporters.

GE Official Serves Term, Resigns Post

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — George E. Burens, one of seven executives of electrical firms who served a jail term in a price-fixing and bid-rigging conspiracy, said Saturday he had resigned his post with the General Electric Co.

He said he would pursue his business career "in other unrelated industries where my capacities and talents can be utilized without the effect of my being in the public eye."

Burens, 55, who lives in suburban Pepper Pike, was released recently after serving 25 days of a 30-day sentence.

He formerly was a vice president of General Electric, but was demoted long before the antitrust case came to trial in U.S. District Court at Philadelphia. He was relieved of his title in December 1959, and assigned to the manufacturing services division in New York.

Burens said his resignation was submitted Thursday and has been accepted by the company. He said his salary as a vice president was "over $100,000 a year before taxes."

He said he decided to resign from GE "because the continuing publicity that would surround my presence at General Electric would not be in the best interests of my family, the General Electric Co. or myself." He has four children—one in college, the others younger.

Burens, former manager of the GE lamp division here, was the second executive of the company to resign this week.

William S. Ginn, 45, who also went to jail in the antitrust case, resigned Thursday. He was vice president and general manager of GE's turbine division at a salary of $135,000 a year.

It recommended a cluster of three for the second stage, with upper stages being propelled by liquid engines.

The total average thrust achieved by the initial stage would be approximately 21 million pounds during an extended burning period, Thiokol announced.

Engines ranging in diameter from 10 to 28 feet were studied, but the one recommended would be approximately 14 feet in diameter.

Thiokol estimated that development of the engine would require about three years and that the over-all vehicle would be ready for manned space exploration within five years.

REIGNING AS the Natchez Garden Club's Queen and King for the final weeks of the Natchez Pilgrimage, March 19 through April 2, are Miss Anne Marie Hicks, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. Swink Hicks, and Bernard Eugene Maritz III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sam Moritz, all of Natchez. Miss Hicks and her royal escort appear in the grand finale of the spectacular Confederate Pageant which is presented each Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday throughout the Natchez Pilgrimage period. In keeping with the Centennial observance, this year's Pageant is centered around Jefferson Davis and his bride, Varina Howell. One of the lovely homes shown on the tour of ante bellum houses is "The Briers" where Varina became the bride of the future President of the Confederacy.

Spain Charges Troops Massing Near Frontier

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Spain charged Saturday Moroccan irregular troops are massing on the northern frontier of the Spanish Sahara "with the intention of invading Spanish territory."

A Foreign Ministry said the Moroccans, "pretending to be bands of the former Army of Liberation (of Morocco)," are concentrated in the Meseid region, 125 miles east of Tarfaya and just 25 miles from the Spanish frontier.

Spain is taking all necessary measures to repel aggression, the spokesman said.

Reliable sources said about 1,000 paratroopers are being airlifted from Getafe military airport, just north of Madrid, to El Aaiun, capital of the Spanish Sahara.

Spain's Canary Islands have been reinforced so heavily in the past three months that they reportedly look like an army camp. Garrisons in the Algeciras region of southern Spain also have been heavily reinforced.

Spain has warned Morocco several times, the last time on March 8, the spokesman said, and also has advised the United Nations and several individual countries, including the United States.

5 PER MINUTE?

Birth Of Suckers Believed Booming

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The postulation by P.T. Barnum that a sucker is born every minute has long been accepted, particularly in places like Las Vegas, as one of the eternal verities.

Lately, however, I have been wondering whether Barnum's theorem is still valid. After all, people have become much more knowledgeable and sophisticated in the past decade or two.

If someone took a new gullibility census, I believe it would show that the sucker birth rate has changed a lot since Barnum's time.

I doubt that suckers are born at a one-a-minute clip any longer. Nowadays, the rate probably is closer to five per minute.

The need for updating Barnum became apparent to me as I was reading a report issued by the Food and Drug Administration on some of its recent cases.

PEOPLE "WISER"

The report tended to support by contention that people have become too wise to fall for the "gold brick" hoax and other tricks of the old fashioned confidence man.

What people do now is pay $3.75 a gallon for sea water in the belief that it will cure serious illnesses and otherwise act as a "fountain of youth."

According to the Food and Drug Administration, an Ohio promoter bottled 93 gallons of ocean water near Belmar, N.J., and offered it for sale as "chemical smorgasbord."

Literature used as promotional material promised that "by taking a little sea water per day we can thus offer our body glands a 'chemical smorgasbord'."

"Figuratively," it said, "the pancreas, liver and spleen, bone marrow, thyroid, adrenals and other organs can march around this chemical smorgasbord helping themselves to whatever they require to produce the manufactured secretions that guard our health."

SCARED OFF

The mere thought of my liver and spleen marching around inside my body would have been enough to deter me from buying any of the stuff.

But the sea water impresario presumably would have done a brisk business had not the food and drug agents stepped in and booked him on a false labeling charge.

The agents likewise cracked down on a vitamin product that was billed as a treatment for arthritis, high blood pressure, goiter and various other ailments. Among other ingredients, it contained alfalfa, water cress, parsley, wheat germ, mint leaves, beets, buckwheat, yeast, prunes, and oyster and egg shells.

Other products seized by the agents included some air filters touted as relieving heart trouble, asthma, hay fever and shortness of breath.

The fact that some people believe such claims does not prove proves that Barnum didn't know that Barnum was right. It only how right he was.

Kennedy Slates Press Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will hold a news conference at 4 p.m. Eastern Standard Time next Wednesday and then skip such conferences for two weeks, the White House said Saturday.

On one of the ensuing Wednesdays, he plans to fly to Palm Beach, Fla., for a week's sojourn over Easter.

On the next Wednesday, he will be consulting back in Washington with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

There will be no live television or radio coverage of Wednesday's session with reporters.

GE Official Serves Term, Resigns Post

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — George E. Burens, one of seven executives of electrical firms who served a jail term in a price-fixing and bid-rigging conspiracy, said Saturday he had resigned his post with the General Electric Co.

He said he would pursue his business career "in other unrelated industries where my capacities and talents can be utilized without the effect of my being in the public eye."

Burens, 55, who lives in suburban Pepper Pike, was released recently after serving 25 days of a 30-day sentence.

He formerly was a vice president of General Electric, but was demoted long before the antitrust case came to trial in U.S. District Court at Philadelphia. He was relieved of his title in December 1959, and assigned to the manufacturing services division in New York.

Burens said his resignation was submitted Thursday and has been accepted by the company. He said his salary as a vice president was "over $100,000 a year before taxes."

He said he decided to resign from GE "because the continuing publicity that would surround my presence at General Electric would not be in the best interests of my family, the General Electric Co. or myself." He has four children—one in college, the others younger.

Burens, former manager of the GE lamp division here, was the second executive of the company to resign this week.

William S. Ginn, 45, who also went to jail in the antitrust case, resigned Thursday. He was vice president and general manager of GE's turbine division at a salary of $135,000 a year.

Congress Asked To Let One-Cent Gas Tax Expire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opponents of President Kennedy's highway program asked Friday that Congress stick to its promise to allow a temporary one cent increase in federal gasoline taxes to expire on June 30.

Representatives of gasoline producers and highway users also told the House Ways & Means Committee that any additional funds needed to finance the highway program should come out of general Treasury funds.

K. B. Rykkenn, representing the American Automobile Association, agreed with committee chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., who said in clarification of the testimony that, "your point is that not enough is being taken out of the general fund."

William G. Walters, chairman of the National Highway Committee of the AAA, urged that the temporary increase in federal gas taxes to four cents a gallon enacted in 1959 be dropped on schedule, and not extended as recommended by the administration.

Burglars Strike In West Monroe

West Monroe police reported two burglaries Saturday which netted parties some $32 in cash and coins from service stations.

Approximately $30 was taken from the cash register of Pauley's Gulf Station at the corner of North Seventh and Natchitoches Streets and $2 taken from vending machines of the Doc's Esso Station located at the same intersection.

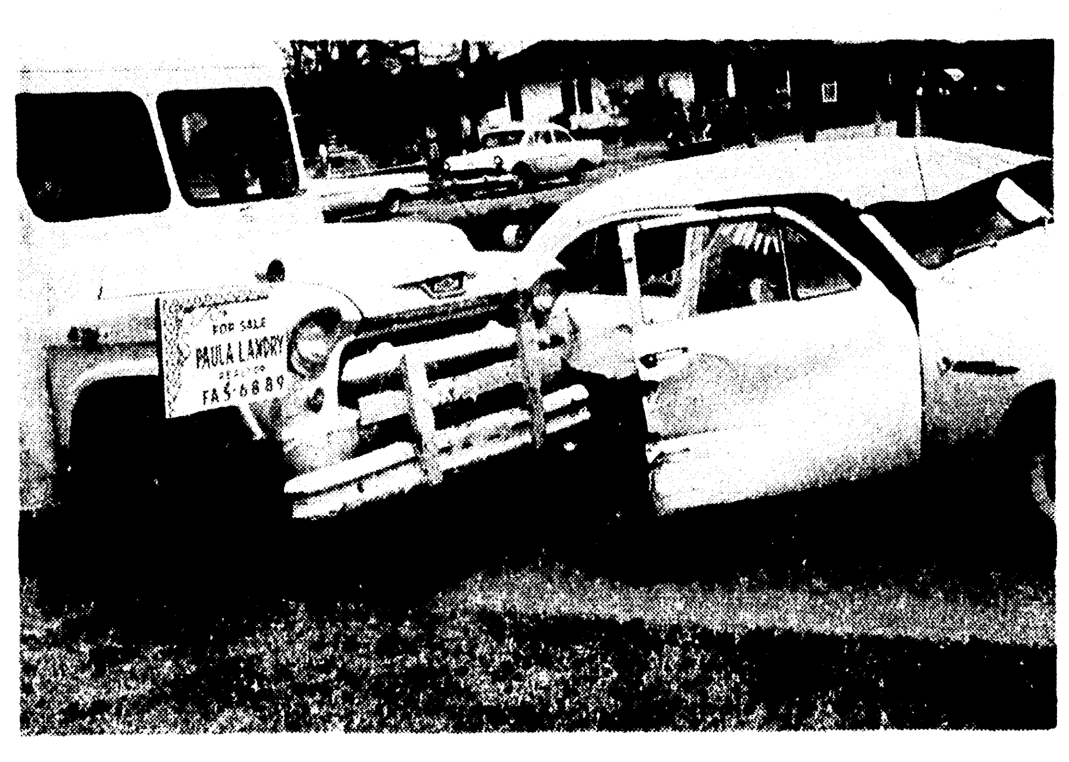
Police said that entrance was gained by breaking the side glass windows of both stations.

Mother, Five Children Perish As Home Burns

SANDY RIDGE, N. C. (UPI) A mother and her five children burned to death Saturday when a flash fire raced through a powder - day old dwelling built during reconstruction days.

The woman's husband made a frantic half-mile dash through the freezing night clad only in his pajamas to summon aid, but it came too late to save the family.

Authorities identified the victims of the tragedy as 36-year-old Mrs. Pauline Hawkins and her children—Gallion, 13; Larry, 9; Teresa, 6; Danny, 3, and Timmy, 2. Officials said the mother apparently died trying to save the children.



DRIVER OF the milk truck in the above picture, Albert R. Hale, 25, of 206 Orange St., was charged with failure to yield right of way when his vehicle struck the car driven by Clayton Williams, 63, Negro of Sterlington in a wreck at 12:21 p.m. Saturday. Williams was traveling south on North Sixth Street when the accident occurred and Hale made a right hand turn onto Sixth from Pine Street, striking the Williams vehicle. No one was injured. Scientist Says Moon Landings Due Next Year

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Rough" landings on the moon can be expected next year as part of this country's 19 year interplanetary exploration, a leading space scientist said Friday.

Dr. Albert R. Hibbs, chief of the space sciences division of California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory, speaking to engineering students and faculty the University of Southern California, said this country will launch two unmanned space craft during the last half of this year.

In addition to landing on the moon, other space vehicles will go to Venus and Mars, the scientists said.

The moon exploration program will start this year with space craft development flights and continue with the "rough" landings next year; the next step will be launch vehicles capable of orbiting the moon and photographing it from a distance of a few hundred miles; finally, "soft" landings on the moon will occur from 1963-65, Dr. Hibbs explained.

ON TINY ATOLL

Army Will Test 'Missile-Killers'

KWAJALEIN ISLAND (AP) — By year's end, this tiny atoll in the South Pacific will be ready for the greatest "turkey shoot" in history.

From here Nike-Zeus "missile-killers," 65-feet tall, will streak into space to try to knock down dummy warheads lofted by Atlas missiles from the California coast 3,500 miles away.

If they succeed, the controversial Nike-Zeus program will be given powerful impetus. The Army contends it is the only positive defense against enemy intercontinental missiles.

Already, $75 million has been spent getting this boomerang-shaped island ready for the target practice. Many bases such as that on Kwajalein may be built.

Critics have said the problems of finding and shooting down a relatively small warhead traveling 15,000 miles an hour just can't be solved.

The Army says it already has solved them and this week showed for the first time the facilities it says will do the job.

Nearing completion after two years of toil are giant radar transmitters and receivers which will spot the incoming warhead. There are four Nike-Zeus launching cells.

Here, in theory, is how the system will work:

Long-range radar detects a suspicious object in the sky. It relays this information to a computer which checks it against known friendly objects and decides whether the object is hostile.

The radar-computer team also can tell, says the Army, whether the incoming object is really a warhead or just a decoy.

If the object turns out to be an enemy warhead, a more precise radar beam locks on and feeds information about its speed and distance back to the computer.

The computer, with micro-second swiftness, calculates the point at which the object can be intercepted and signals for the Zeus to be fired.

With its 450,000-pound thrust booster—largest solid-fuel rocket engine yet developed—the Zeus roars into the sky for the kill. It doesn't have to score a direct hit. Its own nuclear charge will knock out the incoming warhead if exploded within a mile or so.

All this takes place within 20 minutes—to insure that the enemy warhead, which requires only 30 minutes from launch to impact, is stopped before it can reach American targets.

Slayer Held Under Guard In Jail Cell

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP) — Douglas Wayne Thompson, 27, accused of two murders in a week of matching brains and bullets with law enforcement officers, was placed under special guard Saturday in his jail cell.

The Bakersfield, Calif., desperado testified at a coroner's inquest he opened fire on a state trooper when he was stopped in a car Friday because "I knew I was running and a bunch of people were after me."

Thompson described at the inquest how he eluded a posse for a week in the southeast Missouri hills, living on canned food found in abandoned houses and throwing bloodhounds off his trail by wading streams.

The coroner's jury recommended that Thompson be held here for prosecution in the fatal shooting of Raymond Glover, 45, of nearby Clubb, Mo. Trooper Glen E. Davis and Thompson both were slightly wounded as they exchanged shots near Poplar Bluff Friday.

Glover, a stranger to Thompson who accepted the Californian's offer of $5 for a ride here, got into the line of fire and was fatally wounded by Thompson. The gunman fled to a farm house in the trooper's car but surrendered when it was surrounded.

"When I saw the trooper stop me, I wanted to disarm him," Thompson said at the inquest. "I pulled my gun, and he hotfooted it around the car. I got hit in the nose by a shot that went through the car. I was shooting at the trooper. I meant to shoot him but didn't want to kill him. I didn't intend to shoot Glover."

At the farm house, Thompson said, "I found I did not have the courage to shoot myself, and I decided to surrender."

The manhunt for Thompson began a week ago Friday night when an auxiliary policeman was killed and another policeman was seriously wounded in a gun battle at Cape Girardeau with Thompson and a partner. The partner, Sammy A. Tucker, 26, of Fresno, Calif., was captured the next day in a wooded area near Grassy, Mo., north of here. Both Thompson and Tucker have been charged with first degree murder in the Cape Girardeau slaying.

The pair and Calvin W. Johnson, 22, escaped from jail at San Luis Obispo, Calif., Feb. 27. Johnson was captured near Cape Girardeau a few hours after Tucker. He was held on a federal fugitive warrant, but officers said he was not involved in the shootings.

Negro Singer Shot By Woman Leaves Hospital

"I have no malice," Wilson told newsmen as he was assisted to a car by his wife.

Of his assailant, he went on to say: "It was an accident. I forgive her."

Wilson was shot twice by Juanita Jones, 28, also a Negro. She told police she was a devoted fan of Wilson's but was "all mixed up."

Authorities lodged a felonious assault count against Miss Jones. She is free in $2,500 bail pending a hearing April 28.

If they succeed, the controversial Nike-Zeus program will be given powerful impetus. The Army contends it is the only positive defense against enemy intercontinental missiles.

Already, $75 million has been spent getting this boomerang-shaped island ready for the target practice. Many bases such as that on Kwajalein may be built.

Critics have said the problems of finding and shooting down a relatively small warhead traveling 15,000 miles an hour just can't be solved.

The Army says it already has solved them and this week showed for the first time the facilities it says will do the job.

Nearing completion after two years of toil are giant radar transmitters and receivers which will spot the incoming warhead. There are four Nike-Zeus launching cells.

Here, in theory, is how the system will work:

Long-range radar detects a suspicious object in the sky. It relays this information to a computer which checks it against known friendly objects and decides whether the object is hostile.

The radar-computer team also can tell, says the Army, whether the incoming object is really a warhead or just a decoy.

If the object turns out to be an enemy warhead, a more precise radar beam locks on and feeds information about its speed and distance back to the computer.

The computer, with micro-second swiftness, calculates the point at which the object can be intercepted and signals for the Zeus to be fired.

With its 450,000-pound thrust booster—largest solid-fuel rocket engine yet developed—the Zeus roars into the sky for the kill. It doesn't have to score a direct hit. Its own nuclear charge will knock out the incoming warhead if exploded within a mile or so.

All this takes place within 20 minutes—to insure that the enemy warhead, which requires only 30 minutes from launch to impact, is stopped before it can reach American targets.

Slayer Held Under Guard In Jail Cell

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP)—Douglas Wayne Thompson, 27, accused of two murders in a week of matching brains and bullets with law enforcement officers, was placed under special guard Saturday in his jail cell.

The Bakersfield, Calif., desperado testified at a coroner's inquest he opened fire on a state trooper when he was stopped in a car Friday because "I knew I was running and a bunch of people were after me."

Thompson described at the inquest how he eluded a posse for a week in the southeast Missouri hills, living on canned food found in abandoned houses and throwing bloodhounds off his trail by wading streams.

The coroner's jury recommended that Thompson be held here for prosecution in the fatal shooting of Raymond Glover, 45, of nearby Clubb, Mo. Trooper Glen E. Davis and Thompson both were slightly wounded as they exchanged shots near Poplar Bluff Friday.

Glover, a stranger to Thompson who accepted the Californian's offer of $5 for a ride here, got into the line of fire and was fatally wounded by Thompson. The gunman fled to a farm house in the trooper's car but surrendered when it was surrounded.

"When I saw the trooper stop me, I wanted to disarm him," Thompson said at the inquest. "I pulled my gun, and he hotfooted it around the car. I got hit in the nose by a shot that went through the car. I was shooting at the trooper. I meant to shoot him but didn't want to kill him. I didn't intend to shoot Glover."

At the farm house, Thompson said, "I found I did not have the courage to shoot myself, and I decided to surrender."

The manhunt for Thompson began a week ago Friday night when an auxiliary policeman was killed and another policeman was seriously wounded in a gun battle at Cape Girardeau with Thompson and a partner. The partner, Sammy A. Tucker, 26, of Fresno, Calif., was captured the next day in a wooded area near Grassy, Mo., north of here. Both Thompson and Tucker have been charged with first degree murder in the Cape Girardeau slaying.

The pair and Calvin W. Johnson, 22, escaped from jail at San Luis Obispo, Calif., Feb. 27. Johnson was captured near Cape Girardeau a few hours after Tucker. He was held on a federal fugitive warrant, but officers said he was not involved in the shootings.

Negro Singer Shot By Woman Leaves Hospital

"I have no malice," Wilson told newsmen as he was assisted to a car by his wife.

Of his assailant, he went on to say: "It was an accident. I forgive her."

Wilson was shot twice by Juanite Jones, 28, also a Negro. She told police she was a devoted fan of Wilson's but was "all mixed up."

Authorities lodged a felonious assault count against Miss Jones. She is free in $2,500 bail pending a hearing April 28.

Three-Year Search Is Believed Ended

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Indications were strong Saturday that a three-year search for an American World War II fighter pilot shot down in Africa by a German may have ended.

Maj. Norman L. Widen, of the 29th Air Division at Malmstrom Air Force Base, Mont., said he may be the pilot who was shot down in 1942 over Tunis by a German fighter ace, Staff Sgt. Anton Hafner, who later willed certain personal belongings to his victim.

An Air Force officer here, who declined to be identified but who had helped piece together the strands of information, said Saturday night he thought Widen could very well be the man who was shot down by Hafner.

"I'm really pleased about this," he said. "It sounds very likely that finally we may have the right man."

The German ace's brother, Alfons, 46, now a master sergeant in West Germany's air force, initiated the search for the missing American in 1958.

Alfons Hafner could not be reached for comment Saturday.

In November, 1942, Anton Hafner, 22, already credited with about 15 kills, was assigned to North Africa, his brother said earlier.

The P38 pilot — presumably Widen bailed out. Hafner circled the parachuting pilot, then landed nearby.

The American asked for a cigarette and then asked to be taken to his crashed plane so that he might pick up a souvenir, Hafner recounted.

At the wreck, the American reportedly removed his pilot's wings from his jacket and gave them to Hafner in addition to the plane tag from the P38 which gives the aircraft serial number and other identifying factors.

According to Alfons Hafner, the two airmen became friendly in the short moments after the fight and before the American's internment. The U. S. pilot reportedly invited the German to visit him in Philadelphia after the war, and Hafner invited the American to Germany.

Some time later, the German ace, a first lieutenant then, told his brother that if he should die in battle, Alfons should try to find the American pilot he had shot down over Tunis. Lt. Hafner wanted the American to have his side arms and other cherished personal possessions.

Oystermen Ired Over 'Rustling' Raids By Boats

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— Louisiana oystermen, hopping mad over oyster rustling in Lake Eloi that led to seizure of nine Biloxi, Miss., boats, plan a meeting Monday to determine what they can do about the situation.

The St. Bernard Parish sheriff's office Saturday corrected an earlier report that Louisiana wild life and fisheries agents had seized 10 Mississippi boats.

A spokesman said only nine had been seized and one, the only one nabbed Friday, had been released without official action.

Agents arrested the crews of eight boats Thursday and booked them with illegal gathering of oysters.

The outraged Louisiana oystermen estimated damage to state-leased beds totalled between [illegible] and $50,000. One of them, Norman Hendrick, claimed as many as 30 boats had been raiding beds in Lake Eloi in the past three weeks.

The St. Bernard district attorney reported 29 crew members from the seized boats had been charged. Some have been released on bond.

MRS. BETTY PRAZAK of Aurora, Denver suburb, testified at an inquest she engaged in a flirtation with C. Joe DeMersseman, 43, now being held for investigation after his wife was found strangled. Mrs. Dorothy DeMersseman's body was found Saturday. She had disappeared Oct. 29. (AP Wirephoto)

Sen. Humphrey Says Check Due On Economic Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Saturday Congress is going to take a look at possible duplication of economic aid activities under President Kennedy's Latin-American program.

Humphrey, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, said he is "anything but satisfied" that four-fifths of the $500-million program will be administered by the Inter-American Development Bank.

"I have some concern about placing most of the emphasis in the effort to 'complete the revolution of the Americas' in the hands of a multilaterally operated bank," Humphrey said in an interview.

Specifically, the senator said, he fears that Robert Cutler, the U. S. representative on the development bank board, is "an economic conservative who may try to apply traditional banking principles" of this program.

"I don't think the kind of program President Kennedy has in mind will be carried out successfully by sticking to traditional banking processes," Humphrey said.

Cutler, a Boston banker who served as former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's national security adviser for five years, is serving a three-year term on the bank's seven-member board. He was appointed to the post by Eisenhower.

BRITISH SLATE BLASTS

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—The British Atomic Energy Authority announced Saturday it soon will set off a series of underground blasts in Scotland to help develop methods of detecting hidden nuclear weapons tests. The blasts, involving only conventional explosives, will begin Friday and continue for a month while seismic listening posts in Scotland, England and Wales try to record the resultant earth tremors.

Wreckers Pull Down Debris To Aid Search

CHICAGO (AP)—Wreckers Saturday pulled down an overhanging portion of a collapsed building that menaced their search of rubble where one man had been pinned 18 hours.

The search for the body of Robert Walker, 31, Negro, was slowed by fear that the overhanging portion of the third floor might break away and bury the searchers. The body of Alfred Mack, 57, was recovered Friday.

Walker's brother-in-law, William McCoy, 26, was rescued Friday from the debris where he had been trapped for 18 hours. The building at 1839-47 Blue Island Ave., on the Southwest Side, collapsed Thursday while wreckers were demolishing it.

THESE LITTLE PIGGIES WILL GO TO MARKET

. . . At A Lower Cost To You— Thanks To Rural Electricity

This heat lamp will save an average of two pigs out of every litter, meaning more profits for hard-pressed farmers and a break for you at the meat counter.

More and more, farmers are depending upon electricity for volume production to offset declining market prices and ever-rising production costs. Adequate power at reasonable rates is absolutely indispensable to the nation's food-basket—just as rural electrification is essential to Town and Country progress.

Until recent years, scenes like this would have been most uncommon in rural Louisiana. Only 1.7% of the farms and rural homes had electricity. Rural folks had to organize member-owned electric co-operatives to provide themselves with electricity. Today, these private enterprises provide 98% area coverage . . . an immeasurable boost to the economy of Louisiana, town and country.

Your rural neighbors again need your understanding and help to insure adequate, low-cost wholesale power and the territorial integrity of their electric co-op systems in the rural areas nobody else would serve . . . by wise and fair legislation if necessary.

It is still a basic and simple fact: Only non-profit electric co-ops can serve ALL rural people at rates ALL can afford.

U.S. Marines Training For Guerrilla War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Marine Corps, somewhat overshadowed in recent years, seems about to gain new importance with growing emphasis on U. S. capability against Communist guerrillas in the vulnerable areas of the world.

If, as reported likely, the Kennedy administration asks Congress to raise Marine strength by 25,000 men—to 200,000—corps officials probably would use these reinforcements to fill out their three divisions and other units.

As of now, they say they plan no new type units because they believe their present concept — built around highly mobile four-man teams and small-group operations—is tailored to antiguerrilla work.

However, it was learned there has been a recent increase in hours of instruction at Marine officer schools in this type of fighting.

The Marines began developing antiterrorist techniques in the "banana wars" that started in 1912 and continued off and on until about 1930. These were small-scale actions in Haiti, Nicaragua and the Dominican Republic.

Lessons learned there, officers said, were honed in raid-type operations against the Japanese on heavily jungled islands of the Pacific during World War II and against the Communists in Korea.

More recently, U. S. Marine Corps officers have been attached as observers to Belgian units in what was then the Belgian Congo, and to Gurkha forces which hunted down Communist guerrillas in northern Malaya.

Just last November, a 6,000-man brigade of the 3rd Marine Divison — adapting methods learned from their observers in Malaya—staged a drill in rugged northern Okinawa on the problem of eliminating guerrilla forces.

Unlike the Army's small guerrilla-type force, the Marines do not send out people to teach the military of other nations how to deal with terrorists undermining their governments.

The Marines' mission is to be ready to strike at irregulars, as well as organized enemy formations, if the United States itself should become involved in war.

N.Y. Governor Gives Daughter Away As Bride

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller gave away his youngest daughter Saturday.

The Rev. Dr. Robert J. McCracken, pastor of the interdenominational Riverside church, and the Rev. Richard E. Hanson, of the United Church of Pocantico Hills, officiaetd at the ceremony.

Strike Threat Is Lifted At Atomic Plant

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — A strike threat at the Hanford atomic works, the nation's prime source of plutonium, was lifted early Saturday when agreement was reached on a new contract with 19 unions.

The settlement, subject to ratification by the 3,500 workers involved, ended a 7½-month deadlock between the General Electric Co. and the Hanford Atomic Metal Trades Council, representing the unions.

President Kennedy expressed his gratification in Washington over the peaceful ending to the dispute at the vital atomic installation. His personal plea to extend a strike deadline to March 31 had averted a walkout at midnight last Monday.

The new three-year pact provides a three per cent wage increase retroactive to last Oct. 3, another three per cent raise April 2, 1962, an eighth paid holiday and a fourth week of vacation for 25 years' service, effective this year, and other fringe benefits.

Average wage scales will go up from $3.11 to $3.20 an hour with the first increase.

Atomic council officials said the contract will be voted upon by the various production and craft unions as soon as possible. They predicted it will be ratified by a large margin.

About 4,500 other General Electric employes at the 600-square-mile atomic works in south-central Washington will not be affected. Most are engineers, technicians and office workers. General Electric operates the Hanford plant for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Kennedy thanked all parties involved in bringing about the settlement, including the U. S. Conciliation and Mediation Service which sat in on final negotiations this week.

The Atomic Energy Management-Labor Relations Panel, set up by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, also intervened twice in the dispute. The new contract closely followed its recommendations.

LONG ENGAGEMENT

GOSPORT, England (UPI) — Phil Edwards and his sweetheart Gertrude Horn were married Saturday after a 32-year engagement.

Edwards, 61, had postponed the marriage at the request of his mother, now dead.

"What a wonderful day," said the 77-year-old bride. "I am thrilled to think I am now a housewife."

U.S. Marines Training For Guerrilla War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Marine Corps, somewhat overshadowed in recent years, seems about to gain new importance with growing emphasis on U. S. capability against Communist guerrillas in the vulnerable areas of the world.

If, as reported likely, the Kennedy administration asks Congress to raise Marine strength by 25,000 men—to 200,000—corps officials probably would use these reinforcements to fill out their three divisions and other units.

As of now, they say they plan no new type units because they believe their present concept — built around highly mobile four-man teams and small-group operations—is tailored to antiguerrilla work.

However, it was learned there has been a recent increase in hours of instruction at Marine officer schools in this type of fighting.

The Marines began developing antiterrorist techniques in the "banana wars" that started in 1912 and continued off and on until about 1930. These were small-scale actions in Haiti, Nicaragua and the Dominican Republic.

Lessons learned there, officers said, were honed in raid-type operations against the Japanese on heavily jungled islands of the Pacific during World War II and against the Communists in Korea.

More recently, U. S. Marine Corps officers have been attached as observers to Belgian units in what was then the Belgian Congo, and to Gurkha forces which hunted down Communist guerrillas in northern Malaya.

Just last November, a 6,000-man brigade of the 3rd Marine Divison — adapting methods learned from their observers in Malaya—staged a drill in rugged northern Okinawa on the problem of eliminating guerrilla forces.

Unlike the Army's small guerrilla-type force, the Marines do not send out people to teach the military of other nations how to deal with terrorists undermining their governments.

The Marines' mission is to be ready to strike at irregulars, as well as organized enemy formations, if the United States itself should become involved in war.

Soviet Union May Abandon Censorship

LONDON (AP)—Western diplomats reported Saturday the Soviet Union is expected to abandon direct censorship of stories written by foreign correspondents beginning Monday.

Such a step would end 21 years of Soviet interference with the free transmission of news from the U.S.S.R.

Information from Moscow suggested that correspondents will no longer have to submit their work to anonymous censors in the central telegraph office.

But in place of direct censorship there is likely to be a form of voluntary censorship, meaning correspondents will have to decide before sending stories whether they might offend the regime. This procedure already operates in other Communist countries, such as Poland. Correspondents there have the freedom to pick up a telephone and contact their offices in the West without going through an official censor. But their words are studied by officials and they may be called to account later.

The reported plan to lift censorship follows a number of stories in the Soviet press complaining about restrictions on Soviet correspondents in the United States.

These involved limitations on the movement of correspondents applied in retaliation for similar restrictions on U. S. newsmen in Moscow and charges of spying and rejection by agents of the FBI.

The Soviets could use their relaxation of censorship as a bargaining lever to reduce restrictions on their newsmen in the United States, while retaining the same limitations on U. S. newsmen in the Soviet capital.

Direct censorship has been removed for occasional periods, such as when British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and U. S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon visited the Soviet Union in 1959.

Red Chief Hurls Vatican Charge

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's Communist chief, Waldyslaw Gomulka, Saturday accused the Vatican of seeking "the persecution and martyrdom" of the Roman Catholic Church in Poland.

In a speech opening the Polish general election campaign, Gomulka said the Holy See in Rome is carrying out its fight against communism "by means of, and at the cost of, the Catholic Church hierarchy in Poland."

Gomulka, first secretary of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party, acknowledged church-state relations "have not been as we would wish them to be."

"The main source of the various differences emanates from the fact that the leaders of the church, as citizens of the Polish state, remain physically in our country, but their souls belong to the Vatican," he said.

SCIENTIST ASSERTS

Returning Rockets May Create Hazard

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Power plants of homeward-bound nuclear rockets may have to be destroyed in space lest they create a radiation hazard, however limited, in impacting the earth, an Atomic Energy Commission scientist said Saturday.

Dr. Wright H. Langham said any such impact might endanger any people in the particular area nearby, and even create dangerous international political incidents.

At the same time he predicted that all major radiation safety problems concerning nuclear rockets will be adequately solved by the time such rockets are ready for unmanned or manned flight.

And, declared Langham, of the AEC's Los Alamos, New Mexico, scientific laboratory, the United States appears to have a slight lead over the Soviet Union in developing such rockets, which he declared may offer man's best bet for exploring the moon and the planets.

But, in listing still-unsolved radiation problems, he said one of the toughest involves nuclear reactors that would be returning to earth from orbit, still containing dangerous radioactive materials.

He told a seminar for science writers sponsored by the American Cancer Society: "Since reentry and impact would be uncontrolled, the reactor might fall anywhere in the world, thereby creating a potential hazard to the public domain as well as a potential international incident of considerable magnitude."

Among possibilities for solving it, he said, are these:

1. Blowing up the reactor while it's still far from earth—but first separating it from any manned spacecraft it was propelling.

2. Causing the reactor to "boil off" all its remaining fission products and leave them floating in space.

3. Leaving the reactor intact, but devising some means of controlling its re-entry into the atmosphere so it would impact in an isolated, uninhabited area.

He said the power plants of nuclear rockets could also present hazards by going haywire on the launching pad, or soon after lift-off. But he declared that in such cases, the hazard would largely be restricted to the launching area.

However, he said that even in such cases there might be fallout danger to populated areas closest to launching sites, so it would be a good idea to launch such rockets from very isolated seaside areas, or from islands at sea.

What about the fallout contamination if nuclear power plants were purposely destroyed high in the earth's atmosphere or in outer space?

"Insignificant compared to that created by nuclear weapons tests," said Dr. Langham, adding that the potential hazard from fallout from such tests is itself very small.

He said a conceivable nuclear propulsion reactor capable of five million pounds thrust—more than five times as powerful as the strongest chemical rocket now possessed by the Soviets—would have an energy output equal only to a seven-kiloton nuclear weapon. That would be only about one-third the energy of the 20-kiloton bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

The first nuclear rockets to fly, he said, conceivably will have much more moderate thrust—about 50,000 pounds. And, he said, you could blow up 10,000 such reactors in the atmosphere or in space every year without significantly increasing worldwide fallout.

Massive Airlift By Nationalists In Full Swing

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—A massive human airlift intended to ease tension in Southeast Asia was in full swing Sunday, ferrying Nationalist Chinese from the perimeter of Red China to this island.

The Nationalists cloaked the airlift in secrecy, declining to confirm published reports that the first of a fleet of C46 and C119 transports had ferried men, women and children from Thailand to central Formosa.

It has been reported that as many as 5,000 Chinese will be evacuated from the Thailand-Burma-Laos border area. Those three countries claim the Chinese are remnants of Nationalist armies defeated 12 years ago by the Communists. The Nationalists say they are recent escapees from Red China.

U.S. MISSILE DEFENSE

Nuclear Testing Ban Is Handicap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continuation of the ban on testing nuclear weapons could handicap the U.S. effort to develop a weapon for use against an enemy intercontinental ballistic missile attack.

The possibility is given added significance by the resumption next Tuesday of the Geneva conference on a treaty to ban nuclear weapon tests.

In October 1958, the United States announced that as a contribution to the effort to control the use of nuclear weapons it would impose a voluntary moratorium on tests. It has abided by that policy since.

There has been suspicion but no proof that the Soviet Union has ignored, clandestinely, her similarly expressed policy.

John A. McCone, as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission in October 1960, said that "I can surmise that they (the Soviets) are proceeding (with tests) in the absence of any proof that they are not."

Scheduled to start late this year or in 1962 is a series of tests of the Army's Nike Zeus antimissile missile against actual targets. The targets will be Atlas ICBM's, launched by the Air Force from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., and to be intercepted by Zeus missiles launched from Kwajelein Island, in the Marshall Islands group, about 4,800 miles away.

Primary purpose of these tests will be to try out the mechanical features of the antimissile system to see whether a Zeus can, as the Army expects, come close enough to an ICBM traveling in high trajectory at speeds up to 18,000 miles per hour.

However, such tests alone cannot demonstrate conclusively whether the Zeus can render impotent the thermonuclear load in the warhead of an ICBM in flight.

Presumably, only the use of a Zeus with its own atomic load for radiating a neutralizing burst and an ICBM with an actual thermonuclear warhead could prove that conclusively. Otherwise, everything beyond the test of interception capability would be based only on computation and prediction.

The situation which now seems to confront development of the defensive system already has had impact on improvement of the offensive weapons systems.

Since 1958, U. S. nuclear weaponeers have made refinements and improvements in strategic and tactical weapons without ever really learning, by tests, the value of the improvements.

The United States has improved the carriers of nuclear weapons, the planes, missiles and tactical arms. The range of an ICBM has been extended to 9,000 miles, with acceptable accuracy.

But to this day, this country has never tried, by test, a nuclear explosive in the warhead of a long-range missile flown to target. Scores of test firings of warhead casings, with instruments aboard, seem to indicate that neither radiation in space nor the violent heat created as the warhead plunges back through the atmosphere should affect the thermonuclear charge. On the other hand, it hasn't been demonstrated by test.

The impact of the test moratorium has been heaviest on the missile program. The effort there has been to scale down in both bulk and weight the dimensions of the nuclear load, while at the same time retaining or increasing its explosive yield.

This has made possible the packing of atomic explosive into vehicles of virtually bazooka size. At the other end of the scale, it has produced warheads of several megaton (several million tons explosive force) for ICBM's. But the U. S. designers have yet to try out their missile-delivered explosives.

Development and refinement of nuclear bombs has been easier. For one thing, a substantial number of nuclear weapons, including hydrogen bombs, were test dropped and exploded from aircraft before the ban suspended testing.

Moreover, the premium for compactness is not so high for plane-born weapons. A B52 can tote several bombs with yields of 10 megatons.

Tax Exemptions Approved By Industry Board

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The State Board of Commerce and Industry Thursday approved 10-year property tax exemptions on $18,533,072 in new industrial facilities.

The largest plant receiving approval of a tax application under the program to encourage industry was Dow Chemical Co.'s $5,650,000 polyolefin facility at Plaquemine.

The Dow facility will employ 60 permanent workers and 150 construction workers.

Twenty-four applications were approved. They are expected to create 1,125 construction jobs and 345 permanent jobs.

The approved applicants, amount of application and location, included:

Cabot Corp., $541,034, Franklin.

International Paper Co., $260,100, Bastrop.

Universal Oil Products Co., $37,900, Shreveport.

Sunday School Competition Is Set By Groups

Two groups at the First United Pentecostal Church on South 2nd St., Monroe, are in competition to see which one can get the largest turnout for Sunday school on Easter.

The groups are known as Town and Country. Members of the groups are asking friends and acquaintances to come to church on that day. Mrs. Thelma Platt, chairman of one of the groups said that persons who do not have transportation are being offered rides.

Soviet Union May Abandon Censorship

LONDON (AP)—Western diplomats reported Saturday the Soviet Union is expected to abandon direct censorship of stories written by foreign correspondents beginning Monday.

Such a step would end 21 years of Soviet interference with the free transmission of news from the U.S.S.R.

Information from Moscow suggested that correspondents will no longer have to submit their work to anonymous censors in the central telegraph office.

But in place of direct censorship there is likely to be a form of voluntary censorship, meaning correspondents will have to decide before sending stories whether they might offend the regime. This procedure already operates in other Communist countries, such as Poland. Correspondents there have the freedom to pick up a telephone and contact their offices in the West without going through an official censor. But their words are studied by officials and they may be called to account later.

The reported plans to lift censorship follow a number of stories in the Soviet press complaining about restrictions on Soviet correspondents in the United States.

These involved limitations on the movement of correspondents—applied in retaliation for similar restrictions on U. S. newsmen in Moscow—and charges of search and inspection by agents of the FBI.

The Soviets could use their relaxation of censorship as a bargaining lever to reduce restrictions on their newsmen in the United States, while retaining the same limitations on U. S. newsmen in the Soviet capital.

Direct censorship has been removed for occasional periods, such as when British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and U. S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon visited the Soviet Union in 1959.

Red Chief Hurls Vatican Charge

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's Communist chief, Waldyslaw Gomulka, Saturday accused the Vatican of seeking "the persecution and martyrdom" of the Roman Catholic Church in Poland.

In a speech opening the Polish general election campaign, Gomulka said the Holy See in Rome is carrying out its fight against communism "by means of, and at the cost of, the Catholic Church hierarchy in Poland."

Gomulka, first secretary of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party, acknowledged church-state relations "have not been as we would wish them to be."

"The main source of the various differences emanates from the fact that the leaders of the church, as citizens of the Polish state, remain physically in our country, but their souls belong to the Vatican," he said.

SCIENTIST ASSERTS

Returning Rockets May Create Hazard

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Power plants of homeward-bound nuclear rockets may have to be destroyed in space lest they create a radiation hazard, however limited, in impacting the earth, an Atomic Energy Commission scientist said Saturday.

Dr. Wright H. Langham said any such impact might endanger any people in the particular area nearby, and even create dangerous international political incidents.

At the same time he predicted that all major radiation safety problems concerning nuclear rockets will be adequately solved by the time such rockets are ready for unmanned or manned flight.

And, declared Langham, of the AEC's Los Alamos, New Mexico, scientific laboratory, the United States appears to have a slight lead over the Soviet Union in developing such rockets, which he declared may offer man's best bet for exploring the moon and the planets.

But, in listing still-unsolved radiation problems, he said one of the toughest involves nuclear reactors that would be returning to earth from orbit, still containing dangerous radioactive materials.

He told a seminar for science writers sponsored by the American Cancer Society: "Since reentry and impact would be uncontrolled, the reactor might fall anywhere in the world, thereby creating a potential hazard to the public domain as well as a potential international incident of considerable magnitude."

Among possibilities for solving it, he said, are these:

1. Blowing up the reactor while it's still far from earth—but first separating it from any manned spacecraft it was propelling.

2. Causing the reactor to "boil off" all its remaining fission products and leave them floating in space.

3. Leaving the reactor intact, but devising some means of controlling its re-entry into the atmosphere so it would impact in an isolated, uninhabited area.

He said the power plants of nuclear rockets could also present hazards by going haywire on the launching pad, or soon after lift-off. But he declared that in such cases, the hazard would largely be restricted to the launching area.

However, he said that even in such cases there might be fallout danger to populated areas closest to launching sites—so it would be a good idea to launch such rockets from very isolated seaside areas, or from islands at sea.

What about the fallout contamination if nuclear power plants were purposely destroyed high in the earth's atmosphere or in outer space?

"Insignificant compared to that created by nuclear weapons tests," said Dr. Langham, adding that the potential hazard from fallout from such tests is itself very small.

He said a conceivable nuclear propulsion reactor capable of five million pounds thrust—more than five times as powerful as the strongest chemical rocket now possessed by the Soviets— would have an energy output equal only to a seven-kiloton nuclear weapon. That would be only about one-third the energy of the 20-kiloton bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

The first nuclear rockets to fly, he said, conceivably will have much more moderate thrust—about 50,000 pounds. And, he said, you could blow up 10,000 such reactors in the atmosphere or in space every year without significantly increasing worldwide fallout.

Massive Airlift By Nationalists In Full Swing

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—A massive human airlift intended to ease tension in Southeast Asia was in full swing Sunday, ferrying Nationalist Chinese from the perimeter of Red China to this island.

The Nationalists cloaked the airlift in secrecy, declining to confirm published reports that the first of a fleet of C46 and C119 transports had ferried men, women and children from Thailand to central Formosa.

It has been reported that as many as 5,000 Chinese will be evacuated from the Thailand-Burma-Laos border area. Those three countries claim the Chinese are remnants of Nationalist armies defeated 12 years ago by the Communists. The Nationalists say they are recent escapees from Red China.

U.S. MISSILE DEFENSE

Nuclear Testing Ban Is Handicap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continuation of the ban on testing nuclear weapons could handicap the U.S. effort to develop a weapon for use against an enemy intercontinental ballistic missile attack.

The possibility is given added significance by the resumption next Tuesday of the Geneva conference on a treaty to ban nuclear weapon tests.

In October 1958, the United States announced that as a contribution to the effort to control the use of nuclear weapons it would impose a voluntary moratorium on tests. It has abided by that policy since.

There has been suspicion but no proof that the Soviet Union has ignored, clandestinely, her similarly expressed policy.

John A. McCone, as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission in October 1960, said that "I can surmise that they (the Soviets) are proceeding (with tests) in the absence of any proof that they are not."

Scheduled to start late this year or in 1962 is a series of tests of the Army's Nike Zeus antimissile missile against actual targets. The targets will be Atlas ICBM's, launched by the Air Force from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., and to be intercepted by Zeus missiles launched from Kwajelein Island, in the Marshall Islands group, about 4,800 miles away.

Primary purpose of these tests will be to try out the mechanical features of the antimissile system—to see whether a Zeus can, as the Army expects, come close enough to an ICBM traveling in high trajectory at speeds up to 18,000 miles per hour.

However, such tests alone cannot demonstrate conclusively whether the Zeus can render impotent the thermonuclear load in the warhead of an ICBM in flight.

Presumably, only the use of a Zeus with its own atomic load for radiating a neutralizing burst and an ICBM with an actual thermonuclear warhead could prove that conclusively. Otherwise, everything beyond the test of interception capability would be based only on computation and prediction.

The situation which now seems to confront development of the defensive system already has had impact on improvement of the offensive weapons systems.

Since 1958, U. S. nuclear weaponeers have made refinements and improvements in strategic and tactical weapons without ever really learning, by tests, the value of the improvements.

The United States has improved the carriers of nuclear weapons, the planes, missiles and tactical arms. The range of an ICBM has been extended to 9,000 miles, with acceptable accuracy.

But to this day, this country has never tried, by test, a nuclear explosive in the warhead of a long-range missile flown to target. Scores of test firings of warhead casings, with instruments aboard, seem to indicate that neither radiation in space nor the violent heat created as the warhead plunges back through the atmosphere should affect the thermonuclear charge. On the other hand, it hasn't been demonstrated by test.

The impact of the test moratorium has been heaviest on the missile program. The effort there has been to scale down in both bulk and weight the dimensions of the nuclear load, while at the same time retaining or increasing its explosive yield.

This has made possible the packing of atomic explosive into vehicles of virtually bazooka size. At the other end of the scale, it has produced warheads of several megation (several million tons explosive force) for ICBM's. But the U. S. designers have yet to try out their missile-delivered explosives.

Development and refinement of nuclear bombs has been easier. For one thing, a substantial number of nuclear weapons, including hydrogen bombs, were test dropped and exploded from aircraft before the ban suspended testing.

Moreover, the premier for compactness is not so high for plane-born weapons. A B52 can tote several bombs with yields of 10 megatons.

Tax Exemptions Approved By Industry Board

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The State Board of Commerce and Industry Thursday approved 10-year property tax exemptions on $18,533,072 in new industrial facilities.

The largest plant receiving approval of a tax application under the program to encourage industry was Dow Chemical Co.'s $5,650,000 polyolefin facility at Plaquemine.

The Dow facility will employ 60 permanent workers and 150 construction workers.

Twenty-four applications were approved. They are expected to create 1,126 construction jobs and 345 permanent jobs.

The approved applicants, amount of application and location, included:

Cabot Corp., $541,034, Franklin.

International Paper Co., $260,100, Bastrop.

Lone Star Cement Corp., $31,000, Lake Charles.

Universal Oil Products Co., $37,000, Shreveport.

DESPITE CONTROVERSY

Historic Attack On Fort Sumter To Be Re-Enacted

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — If Confederate Gen. Pierre Beauregard were alive today he would feel thoroughly at home amid the political furor over the second attack on Ft. Sumter.

And if Union Maj. Robert Anderson were still holding out in the mid-harbor fortress he would probably interpret the angry protests of the New Jersey Legislature as a sign that reinforcements were on the way.

The bitter feeling surrounding the re-enactment is remarkably similar to sentiments leading to the cannonade that launched the Civil War 100 years ago.

New Jersey representatives—including a Negro woman—will boycott sessions of the National Civil War Centennial Commission during the ceremonies April 12 because of segregated hotel accommodations.

"It would be a mockery of our history and our heritage; we fought the Civil War over a great moral issue—that persons irrespective of color should be treated equally and be accorded equal rights," spokesmen for the northern state said.

But the protest to the national commission, President Kennedy and all other states apparently is having little effect on plans to commemorate the historic artillery duel.

Spectators will watch the mock battle from the waterfront, like the crowds that lines housetops, balconies and wharves in 1861 to watch Beauregard's cannons touch off the first flames of war.

No one was killed on either side that spring day a century ago, but more than half a million fighting men went to their graves within the next four years.

The sporting throng of South Carolinians who watched the war's first exchange of shots cheered as loudly for the federal cannoneers as for their own gunners.

Wild applause arose from the waterfront when several Yankee soldiers braved exploding shells to replace a shattered flagstaff that had sent old glory crashing to Ft. Sumter's parapets.

It was an unpleasant duty for Perre Gustave Toutant Beauregard, 42-year-old Louisiana creole with the bearing of a French aristocrat, to direct the assault on his former West Point professor.

Both Beauregard and Anderson had believed the Ft. Sumter issue could be settled without gunfire.

Anderson, hand-picked to show the flag, firmly but tactfully, wrote vainly for reinforcement. "Nothing will be better calculated to prevent bloodshed," he said.

But compromise did not shut the temper of the South Carolinians Beauregard commanded. The eighth colony to join the United States and the first to secede over the slavery issue, South Carolina was an early champion of states' rights and had almost quit the union 30 years earlier over a national tariff act.

The Confederates might have occupied the fort peacefully in another three days—Anderson offered to withdraw at noon, April 15, if no aid reached him.

But once Beauregard's cannons opened fire before dawn on April 12, there was no turning back.

Anderson surrendered 4 hours later and, in one of those episodes to brighten the somber four-year conflict, was allowed to march out with flags flying and drums beating.

"Old Bory," as Beauregard's soldiers affectionately called him, was an immediate hero with the South; he was mobbed worshipfully wherever he went.

Back in Charleston to command coastal defenses, the Frenchman endured 567 days of siege in which millions of pounds of shot and shell were hurled at Ft. Sumter while its defenders rebuilt it time and again. Centennial medals are now being struck from some of the shell fragments.

With the approach of Sherman, sweeping up the Atlantic coast after laying waste to Georgia, Charleston was abandoned, and only a handful of civilians remained to watch the federal warships sail unchallenged past the rubble of Ft. Sumter.

When Yankee skirmishes entered the city, there was not even a church bell to ring a warning—they had all long since been melted down for Beauregard's hungry cannons.

All that remained to bring the war full circle was the return of Anderson, how a major general, to hoist the stars and stripes over Ft. Sumter again.

This he did on April 14, 1865—four years to the day he had lowered it to the cheers of Confederate thousands.

Nuclear Test Ban Talks To Be Resumed

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The three-power nuclear test ban talks resume Tuesday with the United States and Britain prepared to offer the Soviet Union a new approach to the critical control problem.

This represents one of two new elements in these marathon negotiations. The other is the fact that President Kennedy now is the man directing America's attempt to break the deadlock.

The new president—in cooperation with the British—worked out a fresh approach to the troublesome enforcement problem. It is based on recognition that a completely cheat-proof inspection and control system probably never can be achieved.

American and British diplomats and scientists are still engaged in last-minute studies of the work done by the three powers in this Swiss city in two years of negotiating. The negotiations have been in recess since December.

New Western approaches have been devised which American and British teams think will provide an acid test of the Soviets' sincerity. Details—being kept secret for tactical reasons—are not so important as the change in the underlying philosophy of the Western approach.

Originally, the American and British negotiators struggled to get a completely unbeatable control system. Now they are willing to accept a treaty giving reasonable safeguards against cheating but which recognizes, by implication, that the ideal inspection system probably never can be achieved.

Western informants say the more the problem of detecting underground explosions is studied, the more it becomes apparent that some element of trust will have to be built into the treaty. But the Americans and British are insisting the control system must be related to scientific fact and not be arrived at merely on the basis of a political deal with the Soviets.

Up to now, agreement has been reached on 17 articles, a preamble and an annex to a draft treaty. All the least controversial problems have been solved. But the big basic control problem still remains. It involves opening the Soviet Union and the Communist world to international inspection —an idea the Kremlin thus far has refused to accept with any fervor.

TIDEWATER ROUTE

11 Dredges Plowing Shortcut To Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Dredges plowing a shortcut to the Gulf of Mexico Saturday cut away the last land separating the straightaway channel from open water.

Eleven dredges working on the $105 million Mississippi River-Gulf Outlet have now cleared 42 miles from New Orleans south to Breton Sound.

The channel, 15 per cent completed, will extend another 34 miles through the Sound's shallow waters into the Gulf of Mexico when finished about 1967.

It will provide a tidewater route for ocean-going ships who now have to steam up 110 winding miles of Mississippi River to reach New Orleans.

The breakthrough completed the project's access channel, 18 feet deep by 140 feet wide. It is the first of three stages of channel excavation.

The second stage is enlarging the access channel to an interim channel, 36 feet in depth and 250 feet in width, which will permit limited use by major vessels. It is scheduled to be ready in late summer or early fall of 1962.

The third and final stage will be the widening of the interim channel to the full project route of 36 feet deep by 500 feet wide.

The U.S. Army Engineers, who are working on the project, said the completed channel will reduce navigation hazards in the Mississippi River passes and save in terminal handling charges in waterfront property.

Col. George M. Cookson of the Army Engineers was present along with port and state representatives for ceremonies as dredges ate through to Breton Sound.

The act authorizing construction was approved in 1956. To date, Congress has appropriated $18.6 million.

DESPITE CONTROVERSY

Historic Attack On Fort Sumter To Be Re-Enacted

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — If Confederate Gen. Pierre Beauregard were alive today he would feel thoroughly at home amid the political furor over the second attack on Ft. Sumter.

And if Union Maj. Robert Anderson were still holding out in the mid-harbor fortress he would probably interpret the angry protests of the New Jersey Legislature as a sign that reinforcements were on the way.

The bitter feeling surrounding the re-enactment is remarkably similar to sentiments leading to the cannonade that launched the Civil War 100 years ago.

New Jersey representatives—including a Negro woman—will boycott sessions of the National Civil War Centennial Commission during the ceremonies April 12 because of segregated hotel accommodations.

"It would be a mockery of our history and our heritage; we fought the Civil War over a great moral issue—that persons irrespective of color should be treated equally and be accorded equal rights," spokesmen for the northern state said.

But the protest to the national commission, President Kennedy and all other states apparently is having little effect on plans to commemorate the historic artillery duel.

Spectators will watch the mock battle from the waterfront, like the crowds that lines housetops, balconies and wharves in 1861 to watch Beauregard's cannons touch off the first flames of war.

No one was killed on either side that spring day a century ago, but more than half a million fighting men went to their graves within the next four years.

The sporting throng of South Carolinians who watched the war's first exchange of shots cheered as loudly for the federal cannoneers as for their own gunners.

Wild applause arose from the waterfront when several Yankee soldiers braved exploding shells to replace a shattered flagstaff that had sent old glory crashing to Ft. Sumter's parapets.

It was an unpleasant duty for Perre Gustave Toutant Beauregard, 42-year-old Louisiana creole with the bearing of a French aristocrat, to direct the assault on his former West Point professor.

Both Beauregard and Anderson had believed the Ft. Sumter issue could be settled without gunfire.

Anderson, hand-picked to show the flag, firmly but tactfully, wrote vainly for reinforcement. "Nothing will be better calculated to prevent bloodshed," he said.

But compromise did not shut the temper of the South Carolinians Beauregard commanded. The eighth colony to join the United States and the first to secede over the slavery issue, South Carolina was an early champion of states' rights and had almost quit the union 30 years earlier over a national tariff act.

The Confederates might have occupied the fort peacefully in another three days—Anderson offered to withdraw at noon, April 15, if no aid reached him.

But once Beauregard's cannons opened fire before dawn on April 12, there was no turning back.

Anderson surrendered 4 hours later and, in one of those episodes to brighten the somber four-year conflict, was allowed to march out with flags flying and drums beating.

"Old Bory," as Beauregard's soldiers affectionately called him, was an immediate hero with the South; he was mobbed worshipfully wherever he went.

Back in Charleston to command coastal defenses, the Frenchman endured 567 days of siege in which millions of pounds of shot and shell were hurled at Ft. Sumter while its defenders rebuilt it time and again. Centennial medals are now being struck from some of the shell fragments.

With the approach of Sherman, sweeping up the Atlantic coast after laying waste to Georgia, Charleston was abandoned, and only a handful of civilians remained to watch the federal warships sail unchallenged past the rubble of Ft. Sumter.

When Yankee skirmishes entered the city, there was not even a church bell to ring a warning—they had all long since been melted down for Beauregard's hungry cannons.

All that remained to bring the war full circle was the return of Anderson, how a major general, to hoist the stars and stripes over Ft. Sumter again.

This he did on April 14, 1865—four years to the day he had lowered it to the cheers of Confederate thousands.

Nuclear Test Ban Talks To Be Resumed

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The three-power nuclear test ban talks resume Tuesday with the United States and Britain prepared to offer the Soviet Union a new approach to the critical control problem.

This represents one of two new elements in these marathon negotiations. The other is the fact that President Kennedy now is the man directing America's attempt to break the deadlock.

The new president—in cooperation with the British—worked out a fresh approach to the troublesome enforcement problem. It is based on recognition that a completely cheat-proof inspection and control system probably never can be achieved.

American and British diplomats and scientists are still engaged in last-minute studies of the work done by the three powers in this Swiss city in two years of negotiating. The negotiations have been in recess since December.

New Western approaches have been devised which American and British teams think will provide an acid test of the Soviets' sincerity. Details—being kept secret for tactical reasons—are not so important as the change in the underlying philosophy of the Western approach.

Originally, the American and British negotiators struggled to get a completely unbeatable control system. Now they are willing to accept a treaty giving reasonable safeguards against cheating but which recognizes, by implication, that the ideal inspection system probably never can be achieved.

Western informants say the more the problem of detecting underground explosions is studied, the more it becomes apparent that some element of trust will have to be built into the treaty. But the Americans and British are insisting the control system must be related to scientific fact and not be arrived at merely on the basis of a political deal with the Soviets.

Up to now, agreement has been reached on 17 articles, a preamble and an annex to a draft treaty. All the least controversial problems have been solved. But the big basic control problem still remains. It involves opening the Soviet Union and the Communist world to international inspection —an idea the Kremlin thus far has refused to accept with any fervor.

TIDEWATER ROUTE

11 Dredges Plowing Shortcut To Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Dredges plowing a shortcut to the Gulf of Mexico Saturday cut away the last land separating the straightaway channel from open water.

Eleven dredges working on the $105 million Mississippi River-Gulf Outlet have now cleared 42 miles from New Orleans south to Breton Sound.

The channel, 15 per cent completed, will extend another 34 miles through the Sound's shallow waters into the Gulf of Mexico when finished about 1967.

It will provide a tidewater route for ocean-going ships who now have to steam up 110 winding miles of Mississippi River to reach New Orleans.

The breakthrough completed the project's access channel, 18 feet deep by 140 feet wide. It is the first of three stages of channel excavation.

The second stage is enlarging the access channel to an interim channel, 36 feet in depth and 250 feet in width, which will permit limited use by major vessels. It is scheduled to be ready in late summer or early fall of 1962.

The third and final stage will be the widening of the interim channel to the full project route of 36 feet deep by 500 feet wide.

The U.S. Army Engineers, who are working on the project, said the completed channel will reduce navigation hazards in the Mississippi River passes and save in terminal handling charges in waterfront property.

Col. George M. Cookson of the Army Engineers was present along with port and state representatives for ceremonies as dredges ate through to Breton Sound.

The act authorizing construction was approved in 1956. To date, Congress has appropriated $18.6 million.

OUACHITA PARISH

Hanna To Head Cancer Crusade

Sam Hanna, political reporter and outdoor writer for the Monroe News - Star and Morning World, has accepted the Ouachita Parish Chairmanship of the 1961 Cancer Crusade, according to Dr. N. R. Spencer, president of the Ouachita Parish Cancer Society.

Hanna was chairman of the business section of the campaign last year.

Other leaders who will head up various sectors of the campaign this year are: Mrs. Fred Beckett, Monroe residential chairman; Wayne Woods and Mike Tarver, co-chairmen of the Monroe business division; Mrs. Wayne (Pat) Tanner, West Monroe residential chairman, and Harvey McDonald, chairman of the West Monroe business division, who will be assisted by Sonny Martin, co-chairman.

In announcing this year's slate of campaign leaders, Dr. Spencer extended his appreciation for the "generous acceptance of such an outstanding group. I am certain they will lead us to a successful conclusion of this year's drive in April."

April has been set aside as "Cancer Crusade Month." All divisions of the campaign will swing into action in an "all-out effort to wrap up the drive during that month," according to Campaign Chairman Hanna.

Hanna said that "considerable groundwork has already been completed and I take this opportunity to urge all persons who receive a solicitation to respond promptly in order that we may finish the drive without having it drag out.

"I feel that we have an excellent organization of campaign division leaders who are enthusiastic and hopeful of successfully completing the drive in April. We are looking forward to one of the most successful campaigns in the history of the cancer fight in Ouachita parish," Hanna said.

"For the benefit of some who may not know how the Cancer Society uses funds collected in these drives," Hanna said, "I would like to give a brief breakdown.

"Of the total amount spent in fiscal 1959-60, 15 per cent went for public and professional education on cancer, 15 per cent for research, 11.5 for service, 7 per cent administration, 6.5 per cent campaign and 40 per cent went to the national research effort to conquer the cancer malady," Hanna said.

Hanna explained that all cancer patients in Ouachita parish received direct aid during the year through the efforts of the Society.

"These patients were recipients, through the Society, of narcotics, transportation to and from hospitals for treatment, bandages and dressings, gowns, sheets, towels, sick room supplies, beds etc.

"I don't think there is any question about the need for an effort to find a cure for cancer and until we find an adequate remedy we must make provision for the best treatment possible for those of our citizens who become stricken," according to Hanna.

"It is unfortunate," Hanna said, "that we have not already conquered cancer. Its occurrence seems to be more and more prevalent despite the fact that doctors are becoming more and more knowledgeable on the subject. But until an adequate cure is discovered we must not let up," Hanna declared.

Emissaries To Meet On Peace Talks

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — French and Algerian rebel emissaries are expected to meet secretly Wednesday in Switzerland to set the date for formal negotiations to end the [illegible] Algerian rebellion, informants reported Saturday.

In the French view, the forthcoming talks will look to a peace of "neither victor nor vanquished," guaranteeing the people of Algeria political self-determination in line with President Charles de Gaulle's policy for the war weary area.

It now is assumed in nearly all quarters that self-determination eventually means independence for Algeria under the leadership of the rebel National Liberation Front (FLN).

However, doubt still surrounds the future of such problems as guarantees for the future of the European minority of Algeria, the status of the oil-rich Sahara and the future of French military bases.

Well-informed sources said Georges Pompidou, former member of De Gaulle's personal staff, and Ahmed Boumendjel, chief of the political section of the Algerian Information Ministry, will open talks in Switzerland Wednesday to decide the place and organization of the negotiation. This covers such housekeeping matters as where, when, and how the two sides will meet, who will represent them and what arrangements will be made for the press.

In secret contacts during the past month, the two sides agreed that while the negotiations will take place on French soil, the rebel delegation will reside on neutral ground where each man, for example, its spokesman will be able to give the rebel version of the talks to newsmen.

Word Saturday night from reliable informants was that the fashionable spa of Evian-les-Bains has been chosen as the site for the meeting. It is on Lake Geneva just across from Switzerland. The Algerians probably will keep a Swiss headquarters in Geneva, Lausanne or Montreux.

As for the composition of the delegations, the French side would most likely be headed by Louis Joxe, De Gaulle's minister for Algerian affairs, and the rebel side by Belkacem Krim, one of the leaders of the revolt who now holds the rebel foreign affairs portfolio as well as the rank of deputy premier. Krim is widely regarded as the strong man within the rebel organization under Premier Ferhat Abbas.

'Singspiration' Will Be Held At Central Church

A big "Singspiration Rally" has been scheduled by the Christ Ambassadors of the Monroe-Ruston divisions of the Assemblies of God. It will be held at the Central Assembly of God Church, Hall and Calypso streets, Monroe.

There will be congregational singing as well as trio and quartet numbers from the various churches in the two divisions.

Officials said that in the past the quarterly rallies have drawn more than 750 persons, and prospects are for a large turnout at the coming event. The program is open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

Disarmament Negotiations May Resume

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson indicated Saturday this country and the Soviet Union are approaching agreement on a date for resumption of disarmament negotiations.

Stevenson told reporters, after a meeting with President Kennedy and top diplomatic officials, that he hopes to make some progress on other aspects of disarmament in this week.

The question of the date, Stevenson said, is "one of the aspects of the discussions that we are closer on than some of the other."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk also attended the two-hour White House meeting.

The conversations, Stevenson said, ranged over some of the problems that are pending in the United Nations. They did not relate specifically to the rising crisis in Laos, Stevenson said but added that he expected that more might be said about that subject later.

Stevenson was asked whether he had noted "any lack of cordiality" in the United Nations since this country supported a resolution — that was defeated — calling for a U.N. inquiry into racial disorder in Angola, a Portuguese colony in Africa. He was asked too whether this country's stand on that issue meant the United States policy would be always "to vote against colonialism."

Stevenson said U.S. policy would be developed and declared case by case, and as for any lack of cordiality toward the United States, he said, "quite the contrary."

Three To Brave Congo's Terror

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — An American Protestant missionary couple menaced by Lumumbist Congolese and an American missionary woman who was raped by four Congolese soldiers have decided to go back to their bush country posts, it was disclosed Friday.

In Washington, the State Department demanded U.N. protection for all American missionaries in the Congo and urged them to leave "unsettled areas" of the Congo.

Violence Friday was reported in Kasai Province, where dispatches said "several chiefs," presumably tribesmen had been executed by the "South Kasai mining state," which claims independence. Some reports said 20 men were put to death.

Solon Says School Plan Critic Wrong

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A segregation strategist said Saturday labor leader Victor Bussie apparently is trying to confuse the issue of Louisiana's local option public schools.

Sen. E. W. Gravolet Jr., Pointe-a-La-Hache, said in an interview Bussie assumed "the purpose of a constitutional convention would be to abolish public schools."

He and other segregation and administration leaders have called for a limited constitutional convention this summer as a next step in the state's fight against desegregation of public schools.

Bussie warned against closing public schools in a talk to 250 businessmen and industrialists here. He called for "this turmoil to desist, and for the state to stop and consider what we are doing." This drew heaviest applause at the conference sponsored by the Public Affairs Research Council.

The labor leader claimed turbulent conditions would hurt Louisiana's chances to attract new industry and damage the state's ability to hold industry already here.

"We are not trying to abolish public education," Gravolet said. "Nothing is further from the truth. He is using another catchword to try to deceive the people, in my opinion."

Gravolet said a convention is "absolutely necessary in order to undedicate the funds which now must go to public schools and provide a workable grant in aid system.

"A further need would be to allow a referendum parish by parish when they are faced with a mandatory court order so the people can decide for themselves whether they want to continue public education or not.

"The real alternative," he said, "is not to abolish public education, but to give education back to the people — give the right to choose to each parish."

Gravolet said under the 1954 decision of the U.S. Supreme Court "public education is doomed in certain parishes of this state, because the people will never agree to send their children to a forced integrated school.

"Consequently," he said, "it is up to the officials of this state to provide grants in aid to educate the children of these parishes."

Gravolet said, unlike other southern states, Louisiana puts up the bulk of money to operate public schools. In other states, he said, most funds are put up at the parish level, enabling local option plans such as that of Georgia.

The Louisiana Legislature, he said, now has to make up its mind how it is going to appropriate funds for education to the various parishes under the plan it has launched.

Rep. John Garrett, Claiborne Parish, Chairman of the Segregation Committee, said he and other strategists in the school integration fight will decide Monday "if and when" they will meet again to work on plans for the constitutional convention and whether another special legislature should be called.

THROUGH MONDAY

Woodmen Holding State Convention

J. R. SIMS

About 350 delegates and officers, representing more than 30,000 Louisiana members of Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, are attending the Society's Head Camp (state) convention through Monday in the Francis Hotel.

Speakers will include Woodmen President J. R. Sims and Treasurer W. H. Martin, both of Omaha, Nebr.; R. N. Dossmann, San Antonio, Tex., member of the Woodmen board of directors; Farrar Newberry, Sr., Arkadelphia, Ark., former Woodmen president; Louisiana Insurance Commissioner Rufus D. Hayes, Baton Rouge; State Senator Jamar W. Adcock, Monroe; Public Service Commissioner John McKeithen, Columbia, La.; Commissioner of Finance and Utilities H. W. McSherry, Monroe; and Chief of Police James C. Kelly.

Registration started at 1 p.m. Saturday. At 7:30 there was a banquet for delegates and their wives followed by a dance. Banquet speakers were scheduled as Commissioner McKeithen and Senator Adcock.

Sunday registration is from 7 to 8:45 a.m. with the convention being opened officially at 9 a.m. by Woodmen State Manager H. D. Stricklin, Monroe. Monroe City Commissioner H. W. McSherry will deliver the welcoming address and Chief of Police J. C. Kelly Jr., will respond, before Insurance Commissioner Hayes addresses the convention.

A convention feature will be the presentations of two $100 checks, one to the Northeast Louisiana Baptist Children's Home and another to the Cerebral Palsy Center. A representative of each will be present to accept the gift.

At 7:30 p.m. Sunday the degree staff of Urania, Camp 306 will exemplify the Protection Degree for a large class of candidates.

Monday morning, March 20, there will be a special breakfast for the lady delegates with Mrs. Babs Jolissant, director of Patricia Stevens Charm School, entertaining.

In business sessions, President Sims will deliver his report on the Society's activities and progress during the past two years. Delegates will report on the many fraternal and civic projects performed by the local Camps and Courts in Louisiana.

The convention will elect and install new Head Camp officers as well as delegates to the Woodmen national convention in Los Angeles, July 31 to August 4.

A highlight of the convention will be competition of camps and courts in an "Operation Scrapbook" contest with first prize of $250, second prize of $100 and third prize of $50.

Object of the scrapbook is to informally tell the story of the many fraternal, social and civic activities of the Camp or Court during the period from July 1, 1959 to March 1, 1961.

The winning scrapbook of this Head Camp will be entered in a national competition. The winning Camp or Court in the national contest will be allowed to select one lay member to receive an all-expense trip to the 1961 Woodmen national convention in Los Angeles. The Camp or Court will receive an additional $100 prize and the local field representative to whose territory the unit is assigned will receive a prize of $50.

Judges of the scrapbooks will be Paul Tate, Mamou, chairman; Russell Tullos, Winnfield, and Austin Guilbeau, Carencro.

L. A. Richard, Alexandria, south Louisiana state manager, assisted Stricklin, north Louisiana state manager, with convention arrangements.

Other Head Camp officers who will take part in the program are Tate, as junior past head consul; Henry B. Toups, Houma, adviser; Rae Ferguson, Baton Rouge, banker; George N. Hebert, Maurice, clerk; Paul Menard, Jr., Crowley, escort; R. L. Vidrine, 1308 S. 3rd St., Monroe, watchman, and S. W. Francis, Bogalusa, sentry.

Head Camp trustees are W. A. Keller, Bunkie; G. C. McCarty, Winnfield; Louis P. Naquin, Thibodaux; Arvid A. McClelland, Elton, and Earl G. Hollier, Breaux Bridge.

National representatives are Joseph D. Gary, Lafayette; Francis W. Haymark, Lake Charles; W. P. Braud, Baton Rouge; D. S. Norris, Bastrop, and Menard Brouillette, Alexandria. Alternate representatives are W. F. Delcambre, New Iberia; F. P. Bourg, Raceland; Percy R. Cannon, Hammond; Mitchell Moreau, Natchitoches, and J. B. Foret, Ville Platte.

Peel Trial Will Resume On Monday

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Floyd Holzapfel's tape-recorded tale of the Chillingworth murders has ended; and the trial of Joseph A. Peel Jr., alleged mastermind of the slayings, is scheduled to resume Monday.

Whether defense attorney Carlton Welch gained new ammunition from the tape should be disclosed soon after he faces the jury again.

In pleading for access to the recordings, he told Circuit Judge D. C. Smith he hoped to find evidence he could use in an attempt to impeach the testimony of Holzapfel, P. O. (Jim) Wilber, and James Yenzer.

Holzapfel, who has confessed that he killed Circuit Judge C. E. Chillingworth and his wife, Marjorie, by drowning them in the Atlantic Ocean June 15, 1955, has testified that he did it on Peel's orders.

He was in partnership with Peel in gambling and liquor rackets when Peel was city judge of West Palm Beach, Holzapfel said and Judge Chillingworth was slain because he was belived to have evidence to expose the operations.

Wilber, a bondsman, said he was retained by Peel to bail out bolita (numbers) pushers who were picked up by police. And Wilber said Peel had told him he "did the job on the judge because it was either that S.O.B. or himself."

Wilber was still on the stand when Welch moved for access to the tape, a closely guarded possession of the state.

Hidden officers made the recording last fall when Wilber and Yenzer got Holzapfel drunk in a motel room and induced him to tell them over a four-day period about the Chillingworth murders. The tape led to Holzapfel's arrest, his confession, and the apprehension of Peel.

Over vigorous state objections, Judge Smith agreed to play the tape in the privacy of his chambers and to admit any parts of it which might be material to the Chillingworth case.

First Woman Mayor Mourned

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Mrs. Suzanna Madora Salter, 101, first woman mayor in the United States, died here Friday.

Mrs. Salter, an official of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, became the nation's first woman mayor in 1887 because of a prank. Her name was placed on a slate of candidates at Argonia by a group of "wets". The prank backfired when Mrs. Salter received two - thirds of the votes cast.

New Political Bid Not Planned By Brooks Hays

MEMPHIS (AP)—Former Congressman Brooks Hays, now an assistant secretary of state, said Friday he has no plans to reenter the Arkansas political arena.

Hays served eight years in the House before his defeat by segregationist forces three years ago. In his new post, he handles the department's congressional relations.

Hays came here to lecture at a girls private school. His subject: The South. The talk was scheduled before his recent appointment as assistant secretary of state "because I am a student of southern problems."

"We have a sturdy human stock and a culture drawn from many sources," he said. 'In fact, the South has everything except enough money. We suffer from the agricultural problems of the past.

"We need a better balance between agriculture and industry but I am an optomist and I remember that the southern income once was so depressing that one was reluctant to encourage young people to stay."

"I am hopeful of the South's position in the world," Hays added. "The nation needs what the South has to give in a cultural and intellectual way."

In Club Project

Mosquitoes Lose

It was a fateful day for the mosquito hordes in Lakeshore and some adjacent areas, when the Lions Club was organized there in the spring of 1959.

To get money for financing its benevolent projects, officers of the Lakeshore Lions Club decided to perform a service instead of just taking up donations.

R. B. Martin, then president of the organization, came up with the mosquito control idea, and the membership, and residents of the area went for it in a big way.

Before the project was launched, said Walter Pierron Jr., current president of the organization, "The mosquitoes were mighty rough."

EFFECTIVE

After it got under way, he said, "It does a real good job. People can use patios and outdoor barbeque pits where mosquitoes made it uncomfortable before."

The control is effected through use of a mobile spraying unit mounted on a tractor, and a small portable unit for more inaccessible places.

"The spray is a mixture of DDT and pyrethrins recommended by the Public Health Department," said Pierron, "and Paul Scheppf, entomologist with the Northern Regional Office of the State Department of Public Health has been complimentary of the program."

Spraying is done every third night during the mosquito season, ranging from around May 15 until Sept. 15, Pierron said.

MIXTURE

A 55- gallon drum of the chemicals mixed with diesel oil, which serves as a fogging agent is sprayed during an evening. The drum of insecticide costs $52. This cost doesn't include other incidentals such as gas, oil and repair for the tractor used to haul the equipment.

During a normal season, spraying will be carried on 40 nights. However, the first year of the program, work was launched late in the season, and the number of applications was considerably less.

Last year about a two square mile area along Bayou DeSiard, where about 700 families reside, was treated.

For the past two years Lakeshore and Bayou Shores areas were sprayed. In addition to these last year, Selman Drive area was included. In the coming season the lineup will include Lakeshore, Bayou Oaks, and Bayou Shores.

The spraying operations take place between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. The first year, equipment was mounted on a jeep. Last year Carl Davis let the Lions use his tractor. For the coming season the club is planning purchase of a tractor.

FOGGING UNIT

A fogging unit, priced at $1,400, was purchased the first year of the program for the mobile unit. Last season a $300 hand unit was acquired for use along the bayou behind homes that can not be reached by tractor. It is carried by a man.

In the past, so many different persons manned the equipment that its maintenance became a problem, said Pierron. This year arrangements will be made for two persons to handle the equipment.

"It shoots fuel out of a 55 gallon drum onto a red hot cast iron pipe and vaporizes."

He said the cost per person in the area served per spraying amounted to only a few cents.

The head of the club explained, "This is the sole means of support for all projects of the club. We are providing a service instead of asking for donations. Our equipment was paid for the first year."

Lakeshore Lions Club projects and aims include building a community center on Lakeshore Elementary School grounds, picnic grounds, a Little League baseball diamond, sponsoring a Boy Scout troop, help for needy families at Christmas time, support for the Lions League for Crippled Children which supports a camp for blind children, purchase of eye glasses for underprivileged children in school.

Dr. Dooley's Philosophy Of Service Lives On

EDITOR'S NOTE — One of the last articles Dr. Thomas A. Dooley wrote before his death in January also contains one of the best and most moving expositions of his philosophy of service. In the form of a letter from Laos, it was written for Think magazine and is reprinted by permission of International Business Machine Corp. Following is a condensation of Dr. Dooley's "letter to a young doctor."

By DR. THOMAS A. DOOLEY (Distributed by The Associated Press)

Village of Muong Sing
Kingdom of Laos

Dear Bart,

It is far past midnight. I am sitting at the table in my house at Muong Sing, high in the foothills of the Himalayas in northern Laos. The kerosene pressure lamps overhead are hissing at me, and the wind is lashing down my valley. It whips the palm and frangipani. All the earth on this sad cut of the world seems flooded in the monsoon rains. This is the season of the crashing violence of the tropical storm. The crickets, frogs and wilder jungle animals scream and scream. The high Lao night land is not calm.

But I feel very calm in writing to you. I feel as through I have just met you outside of the medical school auditorium. May I thrust my hand out and say, "Congratulations, Bart, Congratulations on your graduation from medical school. Congratulations on being a doctor."

YEAR AHEAD

Bart, you've a year's internship ahead of you. And after that, the choice of a residency for specialty training or private practice. I know you have been plagued with some indecision, "shall I be a specialist with years and years of more training or shall I go into private practice now?"

I am going to presume that you will choose the life of a general practitioner. There is a place in the world for specialists, but this battered, beaten world of ours needs a few more country doctors in even a few more countries and villages, too.

As a general practitioner, where will you practice? There is a need for you every place. But the world is all lopsided in its distribution of doctors. Almost all corners of America have available doctors. With veterans' benefits, Social Security, labor union programs, industrial group health plans, and all the others, there is hardly a citizen who cannot find medical attention if he is willing to make some little effort.

NO HELP

I live in Laos. This valley, prior to our Medico hospital, had nothing but black magic, necromancy, witchcraft, clay images, sorcery and betel juice. The villagers wallowed in monkey's blood, cobwebs, tigers' teeth and incantations. They never had hope, much less help. Today, the people of Muong Sing have good medicine, compassionate help, training and a fine little 25-bed hospital. Twentieth century.

You know the world's statistics. The Congo, 13 million people and not one native doctor. South Viet Nam, 11 million people, about 180 doctors. Cambodia, five million people, seven doctors. Laos, three million people, one Lao doctor. Other nations' statistics are equally staggering.

Though this is sometimes called "the age of the shrug," I do not believe you would say, as some do, "so what, it's not my problem." You know, Bart, you and I are the heirs of all ages. We have the great legacies of music, art, literature and our own medicine. We have been born and raised in freedom. We have justice, law and equality.

But we have overlooked the uglier side of our inheritance. We have also the legacy of hatred, bred by careless men before us. We have the legacy of abuse, degradation, and the inhumanity of men blinded by prejudice, ignorance and personal spleen. To people like you and me, richer in educational opportunities than many, this special legacy, and a challenge. To accept the ugly as well as the beautiful and to answer this challenge is a privilege and a responsibility. Accept it without fear.

INVEST

Bart, I personally believe that the unique aspect of this challenge to young doctors demands that we invest some of our lives in the practice of medicine in foreign fields. I say "some," not a lifetime. This is not expected of us. But we can give a year or two. It can be part of the maturation of a man, the metamorphasis of a doctor.

You went through college, medical school, clerkship; internship lies ahead, maybe residency, and then come to the developing nations of the world for a while. Bring your gadgets, and the armamentarium of drugs, to be sure but most of all bring your human spirit. Bring your youthful enthusiasm, your drive, your energy, your dedication to help the sick. Bring your wonderful spontaneity, your belief in the good and the right.

Bring along a sense of humor, don't forget it; you'll certainly need it when the roof leaks, the patients eat all the pills the first dosage, and the witch doctors put cow dung over your sterile compresses. Bring also a few cents' worth of the spirit of adventure that our founding fathers possessed. Spend some time in valleys like Muong Sing. Invest some of your life to answer personally the challenge of today, your legacy, your heritage.

MORE DIFFICULT

It is more difficult for the other professions to enter and work in a foreign country. Citizens and governments are suspicious as they are even a bit suspicious of the doctor. (There are some who are not yet convinced that I am not an agent of the FBI or a Jesuit-in-disguise.) But your M. D. diploma does open many doors.

You will be allowed to come to these underdeveloped areas and build your small hospital. You can cure sometimes, relieve often, and comfort always. Splash some of the warmth and goodness of your human spirit on people who heretofore knew little of this element in the Western man. My villagers' lives were just one great groan of agony before the Medico hospital was built. They knew only Western men bent on colonizing them, and perhaps exploiting what little they had.

You are probably thinking, "Tom, hate to sound this way, but what's in it for me? We are all a little selfish, you know." Right you are, Bart. Perhaps we should be a bit wary of the man who is completely unselfish. There is a great deal "in it" for you. By investing a portion of your life for work here, by depositing a year or two of your time you will take back with you into private practice a great sense of accomplishment, coupled with a vast human experience.

Your accomplishment will be beyond the narrow confines of continent and custom. Your accomplishments will be on a wider scope; along the broad horizons of peace for the whole world. You will always know that you have given a fragment of your life for the good of many.

MEN YEARN

All men yearn to lose themselves in something greater than themselves. You will have done this, and will have helped to achieve that unquenchable promise that someday all men of all races will learn to live together in peace. I do not believe this fulfillment is achievable in private practice.

You've always been a bit of a cynic. I imagine you are quietly snarling, "okay, Tom, you've made your point, but to give up a year or two for a spiritual thing called 'fulfillment,' don't know 'bout that."

I can only remind you that the history of mankind constantly repeats the exclamation that the only way man can achieve his own happiness is to strive for the happiness of others. And you reply, "ugh, Dooley's murky mysticism again." History also proves, Bart, that men rarely learn from the teachings of history, but must learn for themselves. Come to Asia. Learn.

There are programs in the world with which you could work. Programs like the World Health Organization, our own Medico, and others. These will pay you enough to keep you out of debt (though perhaps not much more). They will handle the mechanics of medical procurement and supply. Medico, you know, from a kernel of an idea in 1958, now has 17 hospitals, clinics and programs in 12 different nations. Dozens and dozens of doctors like you. Free next year, Bart?

DEMANDS

Today demands a deeper emphasis on the brotherhood of man. All professions must seek ways to do this. For the doctor it is not a difficult thing. It is in the root of the tree of a doctor to understand and believe in brotherhood. This concept was not so important in the times of our fathers. It is now. The brotherhood of man exists as definitely as does the fatherhood of God. And we must not forget it.

The world is made up of persons. Internationality is only a conglomeration of individuals. All individuals yearn for something human. This flings a special challenge to you as there is no more intimate person-to-person relationship than that of the doctor and his patient. Bring the talents of your degree, and the spirituality of your heart, to distant valleys like mine. And take back with you a rich, rich reward.

Dedicate some of your life to others. Your dedication will not be a sacrifice. It will be an exhilerating experience because it is intense effort applied towards a meaningful end.

So along with my congratulations on your graduation I send my wish that you will utilize yourself as a force of unity in the fragile peace of today. And that you will know the happiness that comes of serving others who have nothing.

Sincere best wishes always,
Tom

New Interests Developed Despite Illness

Hobby Dispells Gloom

By HAROLD CASE
Correspondent

FERRIDAY — What does an active 11-year-old boy do to pass the time during a six-week siege of illness? If he's like Gary Fowler, he'll develop a hobby which will bring pleasure long after leaving the hospital.

Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Fowler of Greenacres, Ferriday, developed an interesting hobby when he was hospitalized recently.

The Ferriday youth's hobby is building models of many things. Some of these include a dinosaur he presented to brothers David, 9, and Wayne, 5. Others he gave to the hospital where he was a patient for six weeks, started his model building hobby.

While in the hospital, word got around that he enjoyed such an activity and most of the approximately 30 models he has built were from materials provided by friends. Included in the collection are airplanes, cars, helicopters, tanks, birds, the dinosaur and a squirrel.

The objects come in small, individual pieces. Gary assembles and glues the assortments and has painted some of them.

He also likes art work and hopes to enter some of his drawings in local shows.

His father is a technical department operator, and on Shift A, which at the end of February at the paper mill in Natchez, had 3,111 days without a lost-time injury — and so he knows the importance of safety.

The A Shift workers at the rayon pulp dissolving plant presented young Fowler with a .22 calibre rifle when he left the hospital. His father's co-workers, however, advised him to use it with the same safety and care they had exercised in safe working habits.

"Why is safety important to me?" Fowler asked his son and others who were watching the boy building models. "Well, I'll tell you. The practice of safety in everything we do will keep us in shape for all walks of life and everytime we get a good no-lost time streak going, we're reminded of a familiar safety sign we saw every day as a youth. 'If I don't get hurt today, no one will get hurt tomorrow.'"

Nuclear Reactors Sometimes Unruly

ARCO, Idaho (AP)—The nuclear age is a dangerous age and an uneasy mankind hopes is safely stoppered in a jar.

But sometimes the stopper slips.

It did last Jan. 3 when a nuclear reactor at the national reactor testing station near here exploded. In its fury the device killed three attendants, probably instantaneously.

But more than two months later the silent hulk of the reactor still lies out on the desert like a wounded tiger, more dead than alive but with the power still to maim.

As nuclear reactors will become increasingly used as a power source, the blast raises public fears as to their safety, fears that are unwarranted, say Atomic Energy Commission experts here.

Silent, invisible rays of radiation have kept at bay experts who would determine what happened. In the dry understatement of atomic age jargon, the reactor probably went on a momentary, uncontrolled nuclear excursion. Probably there was a mechanical malfunction of the rods that tame the atomic fury inside the reactor. But it will be weeks or months before radiation subsides sufficiently to allow men to stay long enough inside the reactor's silo to make certain.

Even retrieving the bodies of the three dead men took the precise timing of a trapeze act.

The Atomic Energy Commission rules that no one may be exposed to more than 12 Roentgens a year of radiation. First men on the scene after the explosion measured radiation of 1,000 Roentgens an hour.

Like nervous hunters, men moved cameras, Geiger counters, TV cameras as close to the reactor as they dared. A plane sped low over the site to determine what radiation drift there was, if any.

Finally it was determined men could safely enter the silo but could stay no more than a minute each. Wearing protective suits, a first relay dashed into the silo to find a body. A second rushed in and laid it on a stretcher, a third carried it out.

The victims were Army Spec. 4 Richard McKinley, 22, Kenton, Ohio; Spec. 5 John Byrnes, 27, Utica, N.Y., and Navy Chief Electrician Richard Legg, 26, of Roscommon, Mich.

Their funerals were normal but for one detail. They were buried in lead-lined coffins.

No. 1 was a water cooled reactor. The nuclear fuel of refined uranium was located in a water filled tank.

Rare Coins Center Of Area Collection

By OTIS HASSELL
Correspondent

WINNSBORO — J. R. Kiper Sr., Winnsboro businessman, has one of the most interesting, and probably the most valuable coin collection in this area.

In his collection are 116 United States coins, and over 200 foreign coins from many countries.

Among the items are a $10 gold piece, $5 gold piece, three $2.50 gold pieces, a 1799 silver dollar with an alligator tooth fastened on by a chain through a hole in the coin, old time large size penny, Flying Eagle penny, a 3-cent coin and two half-dimes. He also has a large size "saddle blanket" dollar bill.

LONG TIME

This amazing collection represents a lifetime of gathering old and odd coins. Kiper first began this hobby when he was 10 years old and was working in his father's grocery store on Saturdays and before and after school.

However, the most interesting item, the 1799 silver dollar with the alligator tooth, was used by Kiper as a teething ring when he was a baby. It had been handed down in his family for generations.

Kiper is still in the grocery business in Winnsboro and continues to add a coin or bill to his collection every once in a while. Some of the money has been bought from other persons and some has been found in the change coming into the store. He said he almost got a 25-cent greenback once and offered the man who owned it $10, but he refused to sell at any price.

OLDEST

The oldest gold coin was minted in 1849 and the newest in 1914.

His collection of U. S. money includes one 1844 dime which is said to be worth $4,000, several other dimes from 1832 up; half-dimes from 1837; big pennies minted in the 1820's; half dollars from 1837 which include Stone Mountain half-dollar (1925), Columbian Exposition (1893), Booker T. Washington Memorial (1946), Booker T. Washington and George W. Carver Memorial (1954); Silver dollars from 1799; 1857 Flying Eagle penny; 1858 Flying Eagle penny; 2-cent coins from 1864; 1865 3-cent silver coin; quarters from 1841; complete series of Indian head pennies; and large size dollar bills from series of 1891 and 1923.

We have the great legacies of music, art, literature and our own medicine. We have been born and raised in freedom. We have justice, law and equality.

But we have overlooked the uglier side of our inheritance. We have also the legacy of hatred, bred by careless men before us. We have the legacy of abuse, degradation, and the inhumanity of men blinded by prejudice, ignorance and personal spleen. To people like you and me, richer in educational opportunities than many, this special legacy, and a challenge. To accept the ugly as well as the beautiful and to answer this challenge is a privilege and a responsibility. Accept it without fear.

INVEST

Bart, I personally believe that the unique aspect of this challenge to young doctors demands that we invest some of our lives in the practice of medicine in foreign fields. I say "some," not a lifetime. This is not expected of us. But we can give a year or two. It can be part of the maturation of a man, the metamorphasis of a doctor.

You went through college, medical school, clerkship; internship lies ahead, maybe residency, and then come to the developing nations of the world for a while. Bring your gadgets, and the armamentarium of drugs, to be sure but most of all bring your human spirit. Bring your youthful enthusiasm, your drive, your energy, your dedication to help the sick. Bring your wonderful spontaneity, your belief in the good and the right.

Bring along a sense of humor, don't forget it; you'll certainly need it when the roof leaks, the patients eat all the pills the first dosage, and the witch doctors put cow dung over your sterile compresses. Bring also a few cents' worth of the spirit of adventure that our founding fathers possessed. Spend some time in valleys like Muong Sing. Invest some of your life to answer personally the challenge of today, your legacy, your heritage.

MORE DIFFICULT

It is more difficult for the other professions to enter and work in a foreign country. Citizens and governments are suspicious as they are even a bit suspicious of the doctor. (There are some who are not yet convinced that I am not an agent of the FBI or a Jesuit-in-disguise.) But your M. D. diploma does open many doors.

You will be allowed to come to these underdeveloped areas and build your small hospital. You can cure sometimes, relieve often, and comfort always. Splash some of the warmth and goodness of your human spirit on people who heretofore knew little of this element in the Western man. My villagers' lives were just one great groan of agony before the Medico hospital was built. They knew only Western men bent on colonizing them, and perhaps exploiting what little they had.

You are probably thinking, "Tom, hate to sound this way, but what's in it for me? We are all a little selfish, you know." Right you are, Bart. Perhaps we should be a bit wary of the man who is completely unselfish. There is a great deal "in it" for you. By investing a portion of your life for work here, by depositing a year or two of your time you will take back with you into private practice a great sense of accomplishment, coupled with a vast human experience.

Your accomplishment will be beyond the narrow confines of continent and custom. Your accomplishments will be on a wider scope; along the broad horizons of peace for the whole world. You will always know that you have given a fragment of your life for the good of many.

MEN YEARN

All men yearn to lose themselves in something greater than themselves. You will have done this, and will have helped to achieve that unquenchable promise that someday all men of all races will learn to live together in peace. I do not believe this fulfillment is achievable in private practice.

You've always been a bit of a cynic. I imagine you are quietly snarling, "okay, Tom, you've made your point, but to give up a year or two for a spiritual thing called 'fulfillment,' don't know 'bout that."

I can only remind you that the history of mankind constantly repeats the exclamation that the only way man can achieve his own happiness is to strive for the happiness of others. And you reply, "ugh, Dooley's murky mysticism again." History also proves, Bart, that men rarely learn from the teachings of history, but must learn for themselves. Come to Asia. Learn.

There are programs in the world with which you could work. Programs like the World Health Organization, our own Medico, and others. These will pay you enough to keep you out of debt (though perhaps not much more). They will handle the mechanics of medical procurement and supply. Medico, you know, from a kernel of an idea in 1958, now has 17 hospitals, clinics and programs in 12 different nations. Dozens and dozens of doctors like you. Free next year, Bart?

DEMANDS

Today demands a deeper emphasis on the brotherhood of man. All professions must seek ways to do this. For the doctor it is not a difficult thing. It is in the root of the tree of a doctor to understand and believe in brotherhood. This concept was not so important in the times of our fathers. It is now. The brotherhood of man exists as definitely as does the fatherhood of God. And we must not forget it.

The world is made up of persons. Internationality is only a conglomeration of individuals. All individuals yearn for something human. This flings a special challenge to you as there is no more intimate person-to-person relationship than that of the doctor and his patient. Bring the talents of your degree, and the spirituality of your heart, to distant valleys like mine. And take back with you a rich, rich reward.

Dedicate some of your life to others. Your dedication will not be a sacrifice. It will be an exhilerating experience because it is intense effort applied towards a meaningful end.

So along with my congratulations on your graduation I send my wish that you will utilize yourself as a force of unity in the fragile peace of today. And that you will know the happiness that comes of serving others who have nothing.

Sincere best wishes always,
Tom

New Interests Developed Despite Illness

Hobby Dispells Gloom

By HAROLD CASE
Correspondent

FERRIDAY —What does an active 11 - year - old boy do to pass the time during a six-week siege of illness? If he's like Gary Fowler, he'll develop a hobby which will bring pleasure long after leaving the hospital.

Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Fowler of Greenacres, Ferriday, developed an interesting hobby when he was hospitalized recently.

The Ferriday youth's hobby is building models of many things. Some of these include a dinosaur he presented to brothers David, 9, and Wayne, 5. Others he gave to the hospital where he was a patient for six weeks, started his model building hobby.

While in the hospital, word got around that he enjoyed such an activity and most of the approximately 50 models he has built were from materials provided by friends. Included in the collection are airplanes, cars, helicopters, tanks, birds, the dinosaur and a squirrel.

The objects come in small, individual pieces. Gary assembles and glues the assortments and has painted some of them.

He also likes art work and hopes to enter some of his drawings in local shows.

His father is a technical department operator, and on Shift A, which at the end of February at the paper mill in Natchez, had 3,411 days without a lost - time injury - and so he knows the importance of safety.

The A Shift workers at the rayon pulp dissolving plant presented young Fowler with a .22 calibre rifle when he left the hospital. His father's co - workers, however, advised him to use it with the same safety and care they had exercised in safe working habits.

"Why is safety important to me?" Fowler asked his son and others who were watching the boy building models. "Well, I'll tell you. The practice of safety in everything we do will keep us in shape for all walks of life and everytime we get a good no - lost time streak going, we're reminded of a familiar safety sign we saw every day as a youth: 'If I don't get hurt today, no one will get hurt tomorrow.'"

Nuclear Reactors Sometimes Unruly

ARCO, Idaho (AP)—The nuclear age is a dangerous age and an uneasy mankind hopes is safely stoppered in a jar.

But sometimes the stopper slips.

It did last Jan. 3 when a nuclear reactor at the national reactor testing station near here exploded. In its fury the device killed three attendants, probably instantaneously.

But more than two months later the silent hulk of the reactor still lies out on the desert like a wounded tiger, more dead than alive but with the power still to maim.

As nuclear reactors will become increasingly used as a power source, the blast raises public fears as to their safety, fears that are unwarranted, say Atomic Energy Commission experts here.

Silent, invisible rays of radiation have kept at bay experts who would determine what happened. In the dry understatement of atomic age jargon, the reactor probably went on a momentary, uncontrolled nuclear excursion. Probably there was a mechanical malfunction of the rods that tame the atomic fury inside the reactor. But it will be weeks or months before radiation subsides sufficiently to allow men to stay long enough inside the reactor's silo to make certain.

Even retrieving the bodies of the three dead men took the precise timing of a trapeze act.

The Atomic Energy Commission rules that no one may be exposed to more than 12 Roentgens a year of radiation. First men on the scene after the explosion measured radiation of 1,000 Roentgens an hour.

Like nervous hunters, men moved cameras, Geiger counters, TV cameras as close to the reactor as they dared. A plane sped low over the site to determine what radiation drift there was, if any.

Finally it was determined men could safely enter the silo but could stay no more than a minute each. Wearing protective suits, a first relay dashed into the silo to find a body. A second rushed in and laid it on a stretcher, a third carried it out.

The victims were Army Spec. 4 Richard McKinley, 22, Kenton, Ohio; Spec. 5 John Byrnes, 27, Utica, N.Y., and Navy Chief Electrician Richard Legg, 26, of Roscommon, Mich.

Their funerals were normal but for one detail. They were buried in lead-lined coffins.

No. 1 was a water cooled reactor. The nuclear fuel of refined uranium was located in a water-filled tank.

Rare Coins Center Of Area Collection

By OTIS HASSELL
Correspondent

WINNSBORO — J. R. Kiper Sr., Winnsboro businessman, has one of the most interesting, and probably the most valuable coin collection in this area.

In his collection are 116 United States coins, and over 200 foreign coins from many countries.

Among the items are a $10 gold piece, $5 gold piece, three $2.50 gold pieces, a 1799 silver dollar with an alligator tooth fastened on by a chain through a hole in the coin, old time large size penny, Flying Eagle penny, a 2-cent coin and two half-dimes. He also has a large size "saddle blanket" dollar bill.

LONG TIME

This amazing collection represents a lifetime of gathering old and odd coins. Kiper first began this hobby when he was 10 years old and was working in his father's grocery store on Saturdays and before and after school.

However, the most interesting item, the 1799 silver dollar with the alligator tooth, was used by Kiper as a teething ring when he was a baby. It had been handed down in his family for generations.

Kiper is still in the grocery business in Winnsboro and continues to add a coin or bill to his collection every once in a while. Some of the money has been bought from other persons and some has been found in the change coming into the store. He said he almost got a 25-cent greenback once and offered the man who owned it $10, but he refused to sell at any price.

OLDEST

The oldest gold coin was minted in 1849 and the newest in 1914.

His collection of U. S. money includes one 1844 dime which is said to be worth $4,000, several other dimes from 1832 up; half-dimes from 1837; big pennies minted in the 1820's; half dollars from 1837 which include Stone Mountain half-dollar (1925), Columbian Exposition (1893), Booker T. Washington Memorial (1946), Booker T. Washington and George W. Carver Memorial (1954); Silver dollars from 1799; 1857 Flying Eagle penny; 1858 Flying Eagle penny; 2-cent coins from 1864; 1865 3-cent silver coin; quarters from 1841; complete series of Indian head pennies; and large size dollar bills from series of 1891 and 1923.

Decay By Socialism

Nations, like people, appear to grow old and lose their virility, and history seems to indicate that this happens when those nations abandon free enterprise and turn to socialism. They are the stifled by rigid controls and lack of initiative.

A weekly newspaper in Tennessee recently reminded its readers of what happened in the fall of the Roman empire, once one of the greatest powers the world has ever known. It said:

"Nothing can compensate for the lack of self-determination. Although, during the first century and a half of imperial Roman rule a flourishing local patriotism in some degree filled the place of the wider sentiment, this gradually sank into decay and became a pretext under cover of which the lower classes in the several communities took toll of the wealthier [illegible] citizens in the shape of [illegible] works, largesse, amusements, etc., until the resources of the [illegible] ran dry. The communities themselves in many cases became insolvent . . . the organs of civic life became atrophied, political interest died and the whole burden of administration, as well as that of defense, fell upon the shoulders of the bureaucracy, which proved unequal to the task. The gigantic bureaucracy of the fourth century proved, in spite of its [illegible] services, an intolerable weight upon the energies of the empire. Let us remember, history has a habit of repeating itself."

What we need to guard against now is the danger that this sort of history will repeat itself all too soon in the United States.

President Kennedy wants more big government and more taxes in time of recession and inflation. He is promoting federal aid for education, federal aid for distressed areas, higher minimum wages, longer unemployment compensation, medical care for the aged, federal aid for community health projects, federal aid for redevelopment of cities, federal aid for the Congo and many other things aimed at more federal control not over our economy but over the activities of business and industry and over the lives of every citizen in this country.

In one breath the president issues a noble appeal for Americans to rally to the help of their country and in another he questions whether the United States system of free enterprise can survive. He confirms his lack of faith in private enterprise by calling for huge federal programs and crushing regulation.

He has circulated a "news letter" defending the Louisiana congressmen who voted to pack the house rules committee to assure easier sailing for further wild spending programs.

Senator Long never showed much of the initiative of his famed forebearer but he is a weak carbon copy of him in the matter of seeking to establish socialism for a nation which has prospered under individual freedom.

"New frontier" to people like President Kennedy and Senator Long too often means more government subsidy, government dole, government give-away.

The United States faces two dangers, either one of which could write its finis as a great nation. One is that we might be overrun by communist hordes from abroad. Other is that we might be engulfed by the decay of socialism. It is difficult to tell which of these dangers is greatest.

Economic Independence

In trade among free nations, there has never been any substitute for competition. But in a quiet, diplomatic manner, the Democratic administration is supporting United States membership in [illegible] 18-member Economic Cooperation and Development group.

The nations in the Organization for European Economic Cooperation and Development will work for closer economic interdependence and free markets.

When hearings were held last month in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the sessions were closed so that little has been mentioned in the press.

But agreement for the United States and Canada to participate in the organization would result in a treaty with the other nations involved. Since "all treaties shall become the law of the land," according to the constitution, then important aspects of quotas, tariffs and imports duties would shift away from Congress.

United States membership in the OECD was vigorously opposed on the floor of the House by Georgia Representative James C. Davis. He said the "articles governing its aims and powers would shift important aspects of authority over the tariff and quotas and other methods of regulating our foreign commerce out of the hands of Congress." These powers would shift, Davis said, to the Executive branch and more particularly to the State Department.

The aims of the organization sound noble enough. The idea seems to be the "achievement of the highest sustainable economic growth and employment and to contribute to the expansion of world trade on a multi-lateral, non-discriminatory basis."

Those who support these measures and would like to see them written into a treaty argue that we must expand in harmony with our allies and that we must gear our industrial pitch to that of other nations. But competition would be ruled out.

Such a move would not only force a reduction in the American standard of living. It would affect all trade and markets the United States is now engaged in through treaty power. And the board running the entire show would sit in Geneva or some other foreign seat of power.

The charter of the OECD provides that other members may be brought in so that ultimately more than 50 members may join in the activities of the international trade body.

Each would water down American leadership in agricultural or industrial exports. If the various committees yet to appraise the proposed treaty allow it to pass, Congress may lose its voice in the United States role in foreign commerce.

And decisions having far-reaching effects on our industries, workers and farmers may be made outside the country at some remote organizational headquarters.

Ohio State University says a short pole, a line with or without a bobber and a hook baited with minnows or redworms is all the equipment needed for fishing through ice.

Department of Agriculture tests show that hens getting too much light at too young an age come into production late and are inferior in body and feather development.

Spaniards began to settle Venezuela and develop its agricultural resources in the 16th Century.

Keeping Great Wilderness

Group In Congress Zealously Seeks To Maintain Remaining Vestiges Of Original Frontier

While President Kennedy and his modern Davy Crocketts are tackling such heady new frontiers as outer space, an equally zealous group in Congress, with strong administration support, is waging an all - out fight to preserve the remaining vestiges of the original frontier that confronted the early settlers of this country -- the vast untamed wilderness.

Deeply concerned over the creeping civilization that is invading the remaining stands of forest primeval scattered through the country, 14 Senators and 7 House members are sponsoring legislation to halt this trend and preserve these wooded outposts for their native inhabitants — the bears, the birds and other wildlife.

What they propose is the establishment of a National Wilderness Preservation System" to secure for the American people of present and future generations the benefits of an enduring resource of wilderness."

A similar objective was written into the Act of 1916 setting up the National Park Service. Park Service officials were charged with the responsibility of [illegible] scenery and wildlife [illegible] vast domain "and to provide for the enjoyment of the same in such manner and by such means as will leave them unimpaired for the enjoyment of future generations."

But the present generation has an entirely different concept of "enjoyment" than that of the drafters of the 1916 act — at least as far as revealing in the wide open spaces is concerned. Today's nature enthusiasts like to have their creature comforts. While park visitors in the first quarter of the century were for the most part content to sleep out under the stars, with only a bright camp fire to frighten away lurking wild animals, the modern tourist generally prefers the security of a well constructed lodge, hotel or air conditioned motor court equipped with indoor plumbing and all the other comforts of home.

Also, fast, modern transportation has made a mockery of distance and brought the once isolated park areas within easy reach of all. During the past year park visitors reached the astronomical figure of over 72 million as compared with the 358,000 persons who explored the 41 national park areas in 1916, the year the Park system was established. National Parks, parkways, battlefields and other areas within the national system now total 183.

To accomodate the ever increasing hordes of visitors, the park service has either constructed, or allowed concessionaires to build, bigger and better hotels, restaurants, curio and gift shops, and other tourist attractions within the park lands, and in some areas has even provided boat - docks for those who bring along their outboard motors.

None of these so-called improvements has "impaired" the various park areas for the "enjoyment" of this and future generations. As to whether the letter of the law has been followed as far as preservation of the natural scenery and wildlife is concerned is at least debatable.

Sponsors of the Wildlife Preservation System would bar further development of tourist accomodations on those portions of the National Park system that are still more or less in their native state. Construction on wilderness areas would be restricted to necessary facilities for maintenance and administration.

Another concern of the wilderness advocates is exploitation of the National Forests through leasing of mineral and timber rights, as well as grazing rights. However, some prospecting for minerals, including oil and gas, would be permitted, and also establishment of water - conservation projects if determined to be in the public interest. Some grazing also would be allowed to continue under new and tighter restrictions.

A bill introduced by Senator Clinton P. Anderson (D-N. Mex.) co - sponsored by 13 other Senators, would incorporate in the proposed wilderness system much of the land in the National Forests, now embracing some 181 million acres; each park, battleground or other area in the National Park system containing an area of 5,000 or more acres through which no roads have yet been built; and portions of wildlife refuges under federal supervision.

The bill also would authorize the federal government to acquire additional land to expand the wilderness areas and would encourage private citizens to donate land and money to the Wilderness System by permitting such gifts to be deducted from federal income taxes.

On the opposite side of the Capitol, similar bills have been introduced by seven House members.

Verse Is Valiant

Gallant Knight Is Looking For Girl Who Wants To Be Saved

WASHINGTON, D.C. — There was this fugitive manuscript of verse, author unknown, and it claimed the attention of C. L. Closelooker, the research man. Literary detection was a new business for Mr. Closelooker. Any idea who wrote the poem?

"In taking a close look at the content," said Closelooker, "I am compelled to deduce that this poem is an allegory — a parable, so to speak. Also, considering that we have an author in the White House, and a country that doesn't need as much saving as he said it did . . . but first, let us take a close look at the poem."

I used to think—"When I grow up
I'll be a gallant knight
And ride a horse—and always force
The wicked to do right."

I thought: "As soon as I grow up,
I'll save from every scrape
The lovely girls — that lustful churls
Pursue to wrong and rape."

And so I bought myself a horse
And made myself a lance
And went about — to ferret out
Adventure and Romance.

But now my lance is warped and bent —
My horse is bowed and starved —
And old and weak — I bravely seek
The girl who would be saved.

Had Mr. Closelooker called it an allegory — with a hidden meaning?

"At this preliminary point of my research, I wouldn't want to make final judgments," said Closelooker with caution. "But the president is 50-some days older than when he took office, and it can't be said that he's found any of those crises he was campaigning about last autumn. In his most recent press conference, he was asked if he and Defense Secretary McNamara had discovered a missile gap yet. The president had to admit that he and the secretary were still looking."

Yes, that was a horrible state of unpreparedness which the youngest pesident - to - be had us in last November.

"Going back to the poem," said Closelooker, who always keeps his eye on the subject, "we find a young man going forth to set things right in a world where things are mostly wrong. But what's he going to do when somebody like Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Treasury, comes along and says the so - called recession will be over next month?"

For a fellow all dressed up in armor, with a new horse and homemade lance, this would be pretty discouraging, all right. Without a missile gap, without a depression, how the deuce is he going to save the nation?

"What's more," said Closelooker in his remorseless research manner, "this same celebrated author had set out to save the Constitution from the Catholic Church. He wasn't going to permit Congress to give any funds to parochial schools, and you might think he could count on the help of Congressman John McCormack, Democratic leader of the House."

Yes, that was a rough blow when McCormack publicly split with the president. It clearly left the president trying to save the Constitution which the leader didn't think was in any danger. Not long before all this took place another cabinet member, Freeman of agriculture, told some of us that people in America are the best fed on earth, work fewer hours a week for their food than any other people, and have an agriculture which is a glittering success story in productivity.

Views Of Our Readers

Workman Protection

To the Editor:

I do not make a practice of writing letters to the editor, but after reading your editorial "Workmen's Compensation" dated March 16, 1961, it appears to me that someone with a different view than yours should not remain silent when he believes that a newspaper is printing misinformation.

You seem to believe that just because Louisiana Workmen's Compensation Law is different from the law of 45 other states that it is wrong. If this be so, then we must be wrong in some of our other laws which are different from other states. I know you will agree that just being different does not necessarily mean that we are wrong.

Your editorial states that we need a new Workmen's Compensation Law in Louisiana and you have advocated the establishment of an Industrial Accident Board which you think will decrease Louisiana workmen's compensation insurance rates. I do not know what experience the writer of your editorial has had with the Workmen's Compensation Law, but for more than a decade I have been specializing in the handling of workmen's compensation cases under the Louisiana law, as well as having had experience with a number of out-of-state Industrial Accident Commissions and, therefore, feel that my experience in this field might qualify me a little bit more to speak on this subject than the writer of your editorial.

First of all, I resent highly your statement that "much of the blame for improper functioning of the law is charged by opponents to court rulings which they say are unfair and unjustified." In other words, "opponents" of our law think that people like Judge Jesse Heard, Judge David Garrett, and the other district judges deliberately give rulings which are unfair and unjustified. You should be ashamed of yourself for even printing such an unjustified attack upon our courts. These judges work full time and they are more dedicated to the proper handling of cases coming before them than would be a three-man Industrial Accident Board composed of political appointees receiving their appointments because of their political connections.

In the first place, three men could not possibly do the work presently being done by almost 100 judges in Louisiana. Of course, this would result in just what the advocates of the Industrial Accident Board want — delay in the processing of a claim so that they can "starve" an injured workman into submitting to a nominal settlement of his claim. I wish that you, like I have, could have had some experience with Industrial Accident Boards wherein you were trying to assist an injured workman in securing benefits to which he was obviously entitled. Space would not permit me to detail these experiences, but I can assure you that the unbelievable delays in hearing these cases would be enough alone to convince you that an Industrial Accident Board would not result in the prompt handling of claims or improved benefits for legitimate claims. Perhaps the benefits would be more uniform, but the uniformity would be in favor of the insurance company and not the injured workman.

You have stated that under the present laws hearings of contested cases by courts are frequently long, drawn out and usually at a heavy expense to the employee. Nothing could be further from the truth. As a matter of fact, compensation cases have a priority in our courts and can be set for trial 15 days after service of a petition.

You are correct in stating that some disability benefits under the present law are inadequate, but you sure don't have to have an Industrial Accident Board in order to change this inequity.

In the final analysis, it would seem that you are of the opinion that our duly elected judges who are trained in the law are incapable of handling cases which should be decided according to law. Common sense should tell you that a man who is a lawyer and a judge would be better qualified to decide a legal matter than a politician.

Secondly, you assume that the workmen's compensation insurance rates are high because of the amount of money paid out to injured workmen. You are either naive or you are throwing up a smoke screen. There are many factors which would affect the insurance rates and, just to mention a few, you might consider improper management in the insurance company, improper underwriting, improper claim handling, or a multitude of other factors which I could point out if I had the space.

You also assume that the Rating Commission in Louisiana could not have a cheaper rate for compensation insurance. As a matter of fact, some of the examples you give about the differential in rates with other states are misleading. I am surprised at the high rates in Waskom, Texas, in view of the fact that in Texas an injured workman can go bankrupt by the time his case is concluded.

In conclusion, let me say this: I sincerely believe that it would work an undue hardship on an injured workman in Louisiana if we had an Industrial Accident Commission and I believe that if there are any inequities in the law the proper way to correct them is by amendment to the Compensation Act. If you are really fair - minded I would like to see you run another editorial listing a number of cases where the insurance company paid less than the law stated that they should and also tell the public what small weekly benefits injured workmen are entitled to and what short period of time "total disability" covers.

I think that in this whole question the main interest should be in seeing that an injured workman is protected and it is my opinion that an Industrial Accident Board would not have this in mind — particularly if the third (or public) member happened to be in some way connected with the insurance industry.

Patriotism At $100

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

A short time ago you presented an editorial on "Operation Abolition" — a film which presented a view of the riots in San Francisco when the House Un-American Activities Committee held a hearing. I wonder if you or anyone else would care to comment on the following article from the March 13 NEW REPUBLIC (a highly respected weekly which may be found in the local library):

Patriotism at $100

Sixty - three of 64 students arrested in the House Un-American Activities riot in San Francisco May 13 were dismissed; one, Robert Meisenbach, 22, stands trial this week. The HUAC probably can start a riot any time it wants from now on as it did before. Episcopalian, Quaker, Unitarian, Jewish pastors urged it to stay away, as did labor councils and student groups. It came, sending in to investigate subversion Rep. Edwin Willis (D., La.) who himself preaches defiance of the US Supreme Court on integration.

The HUAC and Communists work together, they are what biologists call symbiotic. When students rioted both HUAC and Reds cashed in on the publicity. The HUAC subpoenaed motion picture riot films from local stations without pay, turned them over free to a small local Washington studio which pasted them up, often with sequences, reversed, into a committee — sponsored show, "Operation Abolition."

With inflammatory commentary by committee chairman Francis Walter, D., Pa., and committee analyst Fulton Lewis, III, son of the announcer, the local studio vends the product at $100 a print.

Why has the national board of the Council of Churches just warned against this film? Because it is admittedly inaccurate and distorted. When charged with this in a taped debate, committee investigator William Wheeler frankly agreed. "All right, we've admitted that," he said impatiently. "Let's go on to another subject."

The HUAC has so far subpoenaed only six out of 40 alleged communists whose names it released in the deep bay area. It stirred one demented mind so deeply against the reds that this student senselessly murdered a fellow student and blew off part of the jaw of a professor. He was declared legally insane last week.

R. C. WHITE, JR.

Washington Vote

To the Editor:

An American citizen, resident of Washington, D. C., I was transient today in your city and read the feature editorial against votes for people in Washington. I protest!

All Americans can vote except three categories: Idiots, criminals, residents of the District of Columbia. I'm in the third group.

Your editorial argues against votes for white people in D.C. (of which I'm one) because a majority of residents of D.C. are colored.

If this be a proper argument, then you have to take away the votes of white people wherever the colored population is in excess of the whites. That would be a lot of places in southern states, even in Louisiana.

Of course, maybe you're opposed to allowing people to vote. If so, your editorial position could be sustained. But I want people to vote, and I want to vote!

Thank you.

Peace Corps Unneeded

To The Editor:

President Kennedy has announced the formation of his "Peace Corps" and has asked Congress for legislation to organize the Corps on a permanent basis under the supervision of the State Department.

For the task at hand, we need the "Peace Corps" as a dog needs fleas. To stop losing the Cold War and to start winning it we need a plan of action such as "People to People" Mass Exchange of Youth Plan (MEP) and not the Kremlin sponsored "Cultural Exchanges" and now, not the Kennedy sponsored babes-in-the-woods "Peace Corps."

Decay By Socialism

Nations, like people, appear to grow old and lose their virility, and history seems to indicate that this happens when those nations abandon free enterprise and turn to socialism. They are the stifled by rigid controls and lack of initiative.

A weekly newspaper in Tennessee recently reminded its readers of what happened in the fall of the Roman empire, once one of the greatest powers the world has ever known. It said:

"Nothing can compensate for the lack of self-determination. Although, during the first century and a half of imperial Roman rule a flourishing local patriotism in some degree filled the place of the wider sentiment, this gradually sank into decay and became a pretext under cover of which the lower classes in the several communities took toll of the wealthier fellow citizens in the shape of public works, largesses, amusements, etc., until the resources of the rich ran dry, the communities themselves in many cases became insolvent . . . the organs of civic life became atrophied, political interest died and the whole burden of administration, as well as that of defense, fell upon the shoulders of the bureaucracy, which proved unequal to the task. The gigantic bureaucracy of the fourth century proved, in spite of its undoubted services, an intolerable weight upon the energies of the empire. Let us remember, history has a habit of repeating itself."

What we need to guard against now is the danger that this sort of history will repeat itself all too soon in the United States.

President Kennedy wants more big government and more taxes in time of recession and inflation. He is promoting federal aid for education, federal aid for distressed areas, higher minimum wages, longer unemployment compensation, medical care for the aged, federal aid for community health projects, federal aid for redevelopment of cities, federal aid for the Congo and many other things aimed at more federal control not over our economy but over the activities of business and industry and over the lives of every citizen in this country.

In one breath the president issues a noble appeal for Americans to rally to the help of their country and in another he questions whether the United States system of free enterprise can survive. He confirms his lack of faith in private enterprise by calling for huge federal programs and crushing regulation.

The affinity of Senator Russell Long of Louisiana for the welfare state is well known.

He has circulated a "news letter" defending the Louisiana congressmen who voted to pack the house rules committee to assure easier sailing for further wild spending programs.

Senator Long never showed much of the initiative of his famed forebearer but he is a weak carbon copy of him in the matter of seeking to establish socialism for a nation which has prospered under individual freedom.

"New industry" to people like President Kennedy and Senator Long too often means more government subsidy, government dole, government give-away.

The United States faces two dangers, either one of which could write its finis as a great nation. One is that we might be overrun by communist hordes from abroad. Other is that we might be engulfed by the decay of socialism. It is difficult to tell which of these dangers is greatest.

Economic Independence

In trade among free nations, there has never been any substitute for competition. But in a quiet, diplomatic manner, the Democratic administration is supporting United States membership in an 18-member Economic Cooperation and Development group.

The nations in the Organization for European Economic Cooperation and Development will work for closer economic interpendence, not for free markets.

When hearings were held last month in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the sessions were closed so that little has been mentioned in the press.

But agreement for the United States and Canada to participate in the organization would result in a treaty with the other nations involved. Since "all treaties shall become the law of the land," according to the constitution, then important aspects of quotas, tariffs and imports duties would shift away from Congress.

United States membership in the OECD was vigorously opposed on the floor of the House by Georgia Representative James C. Davis. He said the "articles governing its aims and powers would shift important aspects of authority over the tariff and quotas and other methods of regulating our foreign commerce out of the hands of Congress." These powers would shift, Davis said, to the Executive branch and more particularly to the State Department.

The aims of the organization sound noble enough. The idea seems to be the "achievement of the highest sustainable economic growth and employment and to contribute to the expansion of world trade on a multi-lateral, non-discriminatory basis."

Those who support these measures and would like to see them written into a treaty argue that we must expand in harmony with our allies and that we must gear our industrial pitch to that of other nations. But competition would be ruled out.

Such a move would not only force a reduction in the American standard of living. It would affect all trade and markets the United States is now engaged in through treaty power. And the board running the entire show would sit in Geneva or some other foreign seat of power.'

The charter of the OECD provides that other members may be brought in so that ultimately more than 50 members may join in the activities of the international trade body.

Each would water down American leadership in agricultural or industrial exports. If the various committees yet to appraise the proposed treaty allow it to pass, Congress may lose its voice in the United States role in foreign commerce.

And decisions having far-reaching effects on our industries, workers and farmers may be made outside the country at some remote organizational headquarters.

Ohio State University says a short pole, a line with or without a bobber and a hook baited with minnows or redworms is all the equipment needed for fishing through ice.

Department of Agriculture tests show that hens getting too much light at too young an age come into production late and are inferior in body and feather development.

Spaniards began to settle Venezuela and develop its agricultural resources in the 16th Century.

Keeping Great Wilderness

Group In Congress Zealously Seeks To Maintain Remaining Vestiges Of Original Frontier

While President Kennedy and his modern Davy Crocketts are tackling such heady new frontiers as outer space, an equally zealous group in Congress, with strong administration support, is waging an all - out fight to preserve the remaining vestiges of the original frontier that confronted the early settlers of this country— the vast, untamed wilderness.

Deeply concerned over the creeping civilization that is invading the remaining stands of forest primeval scattered through the country, 14 Senators and 7 House members are sponsoring legislation to halt this trend and preserve these wooded outposts for their native inhabitants — the bears, the birds and other wildlife.

What they propose is the establishment of a National Wilderness Preservation System" to secure for the American people of present and future generations the benefits of an enduring resource of wildnerness."

A similar objective was written into the Act of 1916 setting up the National Park Service. Park Service officials were charged with the responsibility of preserving the scenery and wildlife within that vast domain "and to provide for the enjoyment of the same in such manner and by such means as will leave them unimpaired for the enjoyment of future generations."

But the present generation has an entirely different concept of "enjoyment" than that of the drafters of the 1916 act — at least as far as revealing in the wide open spaces is concerned. Today's nature enthusiasts like to have their creature comforts. While park visitors in the first quarter of the century were for the most part content to sleep out under the stars, with only a bright camp fire to frighten away lurking wild animals, the modern tourist generally prefers the security of a wall constructed lodge, hotel or air conditioned motor court equipped with indoor plumbing and all the other comforts of home.

Also, fast, modern transportation has made a mockery of distance and brought the once isolated park areas within easy reach of all. During the past year park visitors reached the astronomical figure of over 72 million as compared with the 358,000 persons who explored the 41 national park areas in 1916, the year the Park System was established. National Parks, parkways, battlefields and other areas within the national system now total 183.

To accomodate the ever increasing hordes of visitors, the park service has either constructed, or allowed concessionaires to build, bigger and better hotels, restaurants, curio and gift shops, and other tourist attractions within the park lands, and in some areas has even provided boat - docks for those who bring along their outboard motors.

None of these so -called improvements has "impaired" the various park areas for the "enjoyment" of this and future generations. As to whether the letter of the law has been followed as far as preservation of the natural scenery and wildlife is concerned is at least debatable.

Sponsors of the Wildlife Preservation System would bar further development of tourist accomodations on those portions of the National Park system that are still more or less in their native state. Construction on wilderness areas would be restricted to necessary facilities for maintenance and administration.

Another concern of the wilderness advocates is exploitation of the National Forests through leasing of mineral and timber rights, as well as grazing rights. However, some prospecting for minerals, including oil and gas, would be permitted, and also establishment of water - conservation projects if determined to be in the public interest. Some grazing also would be allowed to continue under new and tighter restrictions.

A bill introduced by Senator Clinton P. Anderson (D-N. Mex.) co - sponsored by 13 other Senators, would incorporate in the proposed wilderness system much of the land in the National Forests, now embracing some 181 million acres; each park, battleground or other area in the National Park System containing an area of 5,000 or more acres through which no roads have yet been built; and portions of wildlife refuges under federal supervision.

The bill also would authorize the federal government to acquire additional land to expand the wilderness areas and would encourage private citizens to donate land and money to the Wilderness System by permitting such gifts to be deducted from federal income taxes.

On the opposite side of the Capitol, similar bills have been introduced by seven House members.

Verse Is Valiant

Gallant Knight Is Looking For Girl Who Wants To Be Saved

WASHINGTON, D.C. — There was this fugitive manuscript of verse, author unknown, and it claimed the attention of C. L. Closelooker, the research man. Literary detection was a new business for Mr. Closelooker. Any idea who wrote the poem?

"In taking a close look at the content," said Closelooker, "I am compelled to deduce that this poem is an allegory — a parable, so to speak. Also, considering that we have an author in the White House, and a country that doesn't need as much saving as he said it did . . . but first, let us take a close look at the poem."

I used to think—"When I grow up
I'll be a gallant knight
And ride a horse—and always force
The wicked to do right."

I thought: "As soon as I grow up,
I'll save from every scrape
The lovely girls — that lustful churls
Pursue to wrong and rape."

And so I bought myself a horse
And made myself a lance
And went about — to ferret out
Adventure and Romance.

But now my lance is warped and bent —
My horse is bowed and staved—
And old and weak — I bravely seek
The girl who would be saved.

Had Mr. Closelooker called it an allegory —with a hidden meaning?

"At this preliminary point of my research, I wouldn't want to make final judgments," said Closelooker with caution. "But the president is 50-some days older than when he took office, and it can't be said that he's found any of those crises he was campaigning about last autumn. In his most recent press conference, he was asked if he and Defense Secretary McNamara had discovered a missile gap yet. The president had to admit that he and the secretary were still looking."

Yes, that was a horrible state of unpreparedness which the youngest pesident - to - be had us in last November.

"Going back to the poem," said Closelooker, who always keeps his eye on the subject, "we find a young man going forth to set things right in a world where things are mostly wrong. But what's he going to do when somebody like Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Treasury, comes along and says the so - called recession will be over next month?"

For a fellow all dressed up in armor, with a new horse and homemade lance, this would be pretty discouraging, all right. Without a missile gap, without a depression, how the deuce is he going to save the nation?

"What's more," said Closelooker in his remorseless research manner, "this same celebrated author had set out to save the Constitution from the Catholic Church. He wasn't going to permit Congress to give any funds to parochial schools, and you might think he could count on the help of Congressman John McCormack, Democratic leader of the House."

Yes, that was a rough blow when McCormack publicly split with the president. It clearly left the president trying to save the Constitution which the leader didn't think was in any danger. Not long before all this took place another cabinet member, Freeman of agriculture, told some of us that people in America are the best fed on earth, work fewer hours a week for their food than any other people, and have an agriculture which is a glittering success story in its productivity.

Workman Protection

To the Editor:

I do not make a practice of writing letters to the editor, but after reading your editorial "Workmen's Compensation" dated March 16, 1961, it appears to me that someone with a different view than yours should not remain silent when he believes that a newspaper is printing misinformation.

You seem to believe that just because Louisiana Workmen's Compensation Law is different from the law of 45 other states that it is wrong. If this be so, then we must be wrong in some of our other laws which are different from other states. I know you will agree that just being different does not necessarily mean that we are wrong.

Your editorial states that we need a new Workmen's Compensation Law in Louisiana and you have advocated the establishment of an Industrial Accident Board which you think will decrease Louisiana workmen's compensation insurance rates. I do not know what experience the writer of your editorial has had with the Workmen's Compensation Law, but for more than a decade I have been specializing in the handling of workmen's compensation cases under the Louisiana law, as well as having had experience with a number of out-of-state Industrial Accident Commissions and, therefore, feel that my experience in this field might qualify me a little bit more to speak on this subject than the writer of your editorial.

First of all, I resent highly your statement that "much of the blame for improper functioning of the law is charged by opponents to court rulings which they say are unfair and unjustified." In other words, "opponents" of our law think that people like Judge Jesse Heard, Judge David Garrett, and the other district judges deliberately give rulings which are unfair and unjustified. You should be ashamed of yourself for even printing such an unjustified attack upon our courts. These judges work full time, and they are more dedicated to the proper handling of cases coming before them than would be a three-man Industrial Accident Board composed of political appointees receiving their appointments because of their political connections.

In the first place, three men could not possibly do the work presently being done by almost 100 judges in Louisiana. Of course, this would result in just what the advocates of the Industrial Accident Board want — delay in the processing of a claim so that they can "starve" an injured workman into submitting to a nominal settlement of his claim. I wish that you, like I have, could have had some experience with Industrial Accident Boards wherein you were trying to assist an injured workman in securing benefits to which he was obviously entitled. Space would not permit me to detail these experiences, but I can assure you that the unbelievable delays in hearing these cases would be enough alone to convince you that an Industrial Accident Board would not result in the prompt handling of claims or improved benefits for legitimate claims. Perhaps the benefits would be more uniform, but the uniformity would be in favor of the insurance company and not the injured workman.

You have stated that under the present laws hearings of contested cases by courts are frequently long, drawn out and usually at a heavy expense to the employee. Nothing could be further from the truth. As a matter of fact, compensation cases have a priority in our courts and can be set for trial 15 days after service of a petition.

You are correct in stating that some disability benefits under the present law are inadequate, but you sure don't have to have an Industrial Accident Board in order to change this inequity.

In the final analysis, it would seem that you are of the opinion that our duly elected judges who are trained in the law are incapable of handling cases which should be decided according to law. Common sense should tell you that a man who is a lawyer and a judge would be better qualified to decide a legal matter than a politician.

Secondly, you assume that the workmen's compensation insurance rates are high because of the amount of money paid out to injured workmen. You are either naive or you are throwing up a smoke screen. There are many factors which would affect the insurance rates and, just to mention a few, you might consider improper management in the insurance company, improper underwriting, improper claim handling, or a multitude of other factors which I could point out if I had the space.

You also assume that the Rating Commission in Louisiana could not have a cheaper rate for compensation insurance. As a matter of fact, some of the examples you give about the differential in rates with other states are misleading. I am surprised at the high rates in Waskom, Texas, in view of the fact that in Texas an injured workman can go bankrupt by the time his case is concluded.

In conclusion, let me say this: I sincerely believe that it would work an undue hardship on an injured workman in Louisiana if we had an Industrial Accident Commission and I believe that if there are any inequities in the law the proper way to correct them is by amendment to the Compensation Act. If you are really fair - minded I would like to see you run another editorial listing a number of cases where the insurance company paid less than the law stated that they should and also tell the public what small weekly benefits injured workmen are entitled to and what short period of time "total disability" covers.

I think that in this whole question the main interest should be in seeing that an injured workman is protected and it is my opinion that an Industrial Accident Board would not have this in mind — particularly if the third (or public) member happened to be in some way connected with the insurance industry.

Patriotism At $100

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

A short time ago you presented an editorial on "Operation Abolition" — a film which presented a view of the riots in San Francisco when the House Un-American Activities Committee held a hearing. I wonder if you or anyone else would care to comment on the following article from the March 13 NEW REPUBLIC (a highly respected weekly which may be found in the local library):

Patriotism at $100

Sixty - three of 64 students arrested in the House Un-American Activities riot in San Francisco May 13 were dismissed; one, Robert Meisenbach, 22, stands trial this week. The HUAC probably can start a riot any time it wants from now on as it did before. Episcopalian, Quaker, Unitarian, Jewish pastors urged it to stay away, as did labor councils and student groups. It came, sending in to investigate subversion Rep. Edwin Willis (D., La.) who himself preaches defiance of the US Supreme Court on integration.

The HUAC and Communists work together, they are what biologists call symbiotic. When students rioted both HUAC and Reds cashed in on the publicity. The HUAC subpoenaed motion picture riot films from local stations without pay, turned them over free to a small local Washington studio which pasted them up, often with sequences, reversed, into a committee — sponsored show, "Operation Abolition."

With inflammatory commentary by committee chairman Francis Walter, D., Pa., and committee analyst Fulton Lewis, III, son of the announcer, the local studio vends the product at $100 a print.

Why has the national board of the Council of Churches just warned against this film? Because it is admittedly inaccurate and distorted. When charged with this in a taped debate, committee investigator William Wheeler frankly agreed. "All right, we've admitted that," he said impatiently. "Let's go on to another subject."

The HUAC has so far subpoenaed only six out of 40 alleged communists whose names it released in the deep bay area. It stirred one demented mind so deeply against the reds that the student senselessly murdered a fellow student and blew off part of the jaw of a professor. He was declared legally insane last week.

Washington Vote

To the Editor:

An American citizen, resident of Washington, D. C., I was transient today in your city and read the feature editorial against votes for people in Washington. I protest!

All Americans can vote except three categories: Idiots, criminals, residents of the District of Columbia. I'm in the third group.

Your editorial argues against votes for white people in D.C. (of which I'm one) because a majority of residents of D.C. are colored.

If this be a proper argument, then you have to take away the votes of white people wherever the colored population is in excess of the whites. That would be a lot of places in southern states, even in Louisiana.

Of course, maybe you're opposed to allowing people to vote. If so, your editorial position could be sustained. But I want people to vote, and I want to vote!

Thank you.

Foreign Aid Has Cost You $421 In 15 Years

Editor's Note — Suppose some one came up to you and asked you and every member of your family to give $421 each to somebody you never met? Well, that's just what you and yours have chipped in over the last 15 years for our foreign aid program. Here's where all your money went.

By BEM PRICE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Since the end of World War II, the United States has spent the fantastic sum of $85.8 billion to aid allies, friends and former foes.

Of the total, $60.4 billion has gone for economic aid, $25.4 billion for military assistance.

This money has gone to build dams, feed the hungry, purchase plows and seed, rebuild factories construct roads, water deserts, shore up bankrupt governments, and arm allies.

But no well is inexhaustible. There are indications that the United States can no longer bear the burden of assistance to the free nations of the world alone—and doesn't intend to.

KENNEDY

In his State of the Union address, President Kennedy said "I intend to ask Congress for authority to establish a new and more effective program for assisting the economic, education and social development of other nations and continents. That program must stimulate and take more effectively into account the contributions of our allies."

Kennedy proposed in general the creation of a central fund agency to which "each nation will contribute in proportion to its ability to pay."

Then the President added, "While we are prepared to assume our full share of these huge burdens, we can not and must not be expected to bear them alone."

The winds of change were sweeping across the world even before Kennedy assumed office. Former President Eisenhower warned last Oct. 17 that the United States should not be expected to share the burden of aid indefinitely.

"Every nation of the free world," said Eisenhower, "must cooperate in a program of mutual aid if the Communist tide is to be stemmed. Our resources are not unlimited. It becomes urgent that every nation of the free world does all it can to advance itself and bear its own appropriate responsibility to all the other (free world) nations. No nation is so rich or strong that it can stand alone. No nation is so poor that it cannot make a vital contribution."

At the moment the United States is losing money at the rate of $3.8 billion a year; that is, the country is spending that much more abroad than it earns from foreign sources.

The net result has been a loss of gold used to support the value of the dollar. If the gold drain continues unchecked the loss could undermine the U. S. economy and its position in the world.

Since most of the loss is attributable to the U. S. foreign aid program and maintenance of military commitments overseas, some readjustment is obviously in order.

FUTURE HOLDS

Whatever the future holds the fact remains that for the past 14 years the United States has given of its treasure to more than 70 nations for the single-minded purpose of keeping free men free.

Whether this huge sum, equal to a tax load of about $421 for every living citizen, has been spent wisely is a matter of debate.

Critics of the "give-away program" as they call it have interpreted it as a futile effort to buy the friendship and allegiance of men and nations.

Through every congressional debate on the wisdom of foreign aid since the beginning, however, there has been one prevailing thread, although at times the thread has been obscured in a morass of words about meeting the Communist challenge.

It is this: No man, no nation will willingly surrender that spiritual freedom which distinguishes at least some of the nations of the Western world from those dictator - dominated nations which practice thought control.

The United States has recognized that hungry nations are sick nations, prone to heed Communist promises, however false, of full dinner pails and an orderly life.

The basic assumption on the part of the United States has been that free, prosperous and healthy nations are natural allies.

From this assumption has stemmed the parallel belief that the United States and these natural allies together can ultimately fashion a world that is peaceful, prosperous and free.

EVER SET

No nation ever set itself to such a task before. Whatever the end result it will have to be recorded that the United States at least thought of it as a moral obligation to mankind and tried to do something about it.

Much has been made of the fact that the foreign aid program is a way of meeting the Communist challenge, and the Communist promises.

It could be the other way around. It could be that the United States has forced the Communists to contribute part of their resources to the general improvement of mankind; to make good on at least some of their promises.

Whether this is true or not, the fact remains that the Communists, chiefly the Soviets, have a foreign aid program and a military aid program. In the past six years the Soviets have spent over $1 billion on military aid and somewhere around $4.6 billion on economic assistance.

While there have been attacks by critics on U. S. motivations as naive and impossible of fulfillment, the chief criticisms have been directed against ineptitude and even stupidity in the spending of this $85.8 billions.

Among the broad charges levied by critics against the foreign aid program are these:

1. The United States gave economic and military aid to dictators who then used this aid to suppress their own people in the name of anti-communism.

2. The U. S. aid was used by allies and former foes to rebuild and modernize their industrial complexes in such a way that they are now this nation's chief competitors and this competition is injurious to U. S. labor and industry.

3. Corrupt officials used U. S. funds to enrich themselves and their cronies, leaving little for the people.

4. The United States underwrote for all practical purposes the French wars in Indo-China and Algeria.

Undoubtedly there are some truths in all these charges, but they do not affect the United States' basic motivation.

The United States has been lavish in its aid to former enemies and to dictators.

Germany has received over $4 billion in economic aid and $926 million for the creation of an armed force. Italy has been granted $3.4 billion in economic aid and $2 billion in military assistance.

Japan has received $2.5 billion in economic aid and $767 million in military assistance. Austria, now demilitarized, has been given $1.2 billion in economic aid.

The dictators of the Western world have not fared badly either. Spain has received $1 billion in economic aid and $410 million for her military. Portugal has received $68.6 million in economic assistance and over five times that much in military aid.

Cuba was given $41 million in economic assistance, $11 million worth of arms. While the Dominican Republic got only $2.7 million in economic aid, she received $6.3 in military aid.

BILLIONS

Formosa received $1.8 billion in economic aid and $1.9 billion in arms and money to maintain her 500,000 man armed force.

Saudi Arabia was granted $11 million in economic aid. Pakistan got $1.2 billion.

Both Saudi Arabia and Pakistan have received substantial military aid, but just how much is classified as secret. Presumably the United States does not want to offend the Saudi Arabians' enemy, Israel, while mention of arms aid to Pakistan would be offensive to India.

There have been repeated reports of corruption among officials in Korea, Laos and Viet Nam.

France has received $5.1 billion in economic aid, $4.2 billion in military aid. This is just about what France spent on the wars in Indo-China and Algeria.

And so it goes. The United States has even given money to Communist nations. Poland and Yugoslavia together have received $2 billion in economic aid. Yugoslavia also received $700 million in military assistance.

This is the way the aid breaks down: The European nations have received $41.4 billion; Far Eastern nations, $13 billion; the Near Eastern and South Asia nations, $12.3 billion; the nations of Latin America, $4.1 billion; the African nations, $800 million. All of these sums have been rounded off.

The world has never seen such an outpouring of treasure in times of theoretical peace. Unless the free world nations join the United States in a future effort, the world may never see the like again.

COOLEY DEED

To the Editor:

The Ouachita Parish Police Jury, in a session reported in the August 23, 1935 edition of the Monroe News-Star, passed a resolution to approve acceptance of "a clear deed to 25 acres of land at Pine Top," then the name of the propery later identified as G. B. Cooley Sanitorium.

This is apparently the deed that local public officials now claim they cannot find at the court house.

It appears certain the Police Jury records will show also that the parish accepted title to the property at that time. The headline on the newspaper story reporting the police jury action in August 1935 says "Property Deed is transferred to Police Jury."

Members of the Board of Trustees of the G. B. Cooley Sanitorium have indicated that they feel the property should be disposed of according to the wishes of G. B. Cooley heirs who reportedly desire to have the property converted into an old folks home under the auspices of the Episcopal Church. It was reported that several persons have called members of the board and protested, and urged their friends to do the same.

However, several private citizens have expressed a desire to have the property revert unquestionably to parish ownership and be used for one of several other purposes that have been proposed.

An effort was made by the Ouachita Parish Police Jury in a session March 8 to prod public officials into interceding before the property could be transferred to sectarian interests. A resolution was passed at that time stating the intention of the Police Jury to challenge disposition of the property to any group except Ouachita parish.

The district attorney was prevailed upon at that time to take early steps to reach a legal conclusion.

Meanwhile, members of the sanitorium's Board of Trustees have repeatedly said that the matter was being studied by five lawyers and that an announcement would be made "very soon."

It was not known whether or not newspaper reports were backed up by the actual existance of records but in a 1944 report by the late Capt. G. B. Cooley, published in the News-Star, reads as follows:

"In 1923, I (Capt. Cooley) was elected president of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health Association. The national organization was only beginning its work. I thought the job was only honorary. But as years passed they put the job back on my shoulders year after year.

"Then I began to study the situation. I was surprised to find no place in Louisiana where indigents suffering from T-B were cared for. It seemed to me that what we most needed was a sanatorium where active cases could be hospitalized or isolated.

"So in 1926 we bought the 25 acres known as 'Pine Top.' Money obtained from the sale of Christmas seals bought the land and the board members approved the erection of a sanatorium on the property. But we had no funds. So we just plodded along with our educational programs. We pointed out how Louisiana and this parish were in need for more beds for the tubercular patients. Programs in clubs and schools emphasized this need.

"For 10 years we figured how to get a building for 'Pine Top.' Uncle Sam's alphabet hove in sight. We tried the RFC but that cash had to be paid back; next PWA was tried. We were not a public body so that failed. Next came FERA and ERA but still we were debarred. But the WPA came to our aid. Our project for a sanatorium was approved but in order to comply with conditions we had to form the Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis Association and deed the property to the public to be used exclusively for tubercular work, managed by several governors, appointed for life without remuneration. Politics of any nature was not to be tolerated by any board member.

"The first project called for $76,302 and sponsor contribution required by the government was $10,000. The parish police jury was asked to produce this sum but quickly declined saying they did not have the money. It was then that I told them I'd give a certified check personally for this sum and let them be regarded as the sponsor. And this was done. The project was approved and the first spade of dirt was turned by myself November 7, 1935. On March 11, 1936, the police jury passed a resolution asking the government to name the institution the G. B. Cooley Sanatorium.

"But it seemed that we were to have more troubles. More materials, more labor than previously anticipated were required. We got up another project and sent to Washington asking for additional funds. After delays a second sponsor's contribution was asked for and again I made this with payment required on a $10,303 project. The police jury was again named sponsor.

"It was a proud day June 18, 1938 when the buildings then virtually complete, were dedicated with WPA, state, parish and state department of health officials, parish and Fifth District Medical Society taken part. Fully 2,000 people attended.

"Right at this time we were busy getting a bill ready to put before the state legislature in 1938, permitting parishes to levy from one to two mill tax on all property for the erection, equipping and operation of tuberculosis sanatoriums. The bill became a law in due time. The next step was to get the parish police jury to call an election when property owners could vote on the tax. Before this could be done, the bill required the signature of 250 registered qualified voters and this petition was presented to the police jury January 11, 1939 and election date was set for February 21, 1939. The tax, with Claude Harrison election chairman, passed by a large majority.

"Dr. R. H. Frost was secured as house physician and equipment was purchased. However, most of the equipment of the white building had already been furnished by various clubs, civic organizations, churches and individuals.

"The sanatorium opened for patients October 30, 1939 and this was a day long to be remembered as it represented the culmination of much work on the part of many people in an effort to aid suffering people of Ouachita parish who had no other place to turn for aid."

The disposition of property should be cleared up as soon as possible. It has been closed one year already, during which no public good has been derived from the property. It would be a shame for this continued loss of usage to be inflicted upon the public

Average Salary

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average starting salary for the 1961 college grad will be about $470 a month, according to Sales Management magazine.

Engineers will draw a top average starting salary of $520 while the average graduate going into a sales department will draw $451 a month, the publication said.

Agony, Ecstasy Michaelangelo's

THE AGONY AND THE ECSTACY. By Irving Stone. Doubleday. $5.95.

Michelangelo was an ugly little man with a broken nose, whose long life was filled with harsh struggles. Yet from his agony came the ecstasy of beauty.

Mention his name and everyone thinks of the Sistine Chapel and St. Peter's. There was so much more. Everyone calls him the universal man because he was a sculptor, painter, architect, engineer, and writer of sonnets. But after reading his huge book you have the feeling Stone was right in emphasizing Michelangelo's consuming desire to carve marble. That fact has been documented before, but here you have a pulsating exposition of it.

As everyone knows, the state for this narrative is the great, lusty period known as the Renaissance, when humanism was born. This being a tremendous stage, you would expect many of the characters to be dimmed down to midget size, but not so in this book. Scores of actors in this drama have the sharp reality of living flesh, beginning with Lorenzo the Magnificent, Ghirlandaio and Bertoldo, right down through Savonarola, the Popes with whom Michelangelo was always fighting and the rival architects who gave him trouble at St. Peter's.

This is a "biographical novel." Some people are squeamish about authors who build fiction on a base of biography, and the art scholars will dilate their nostrils. In tackling such a grandiose subject, Stone has dared and achieved a much greater project than he did in 1934 with Van Gogh in "Lust for Life."

Having lived for several years in Italy, and having compiled stacks of bibliographies and research, he has protected himself from hecklers. And the late Bernard Berenson is quoted as saying that Stone "comes closer to the true spirit of Michelangelo than any other writer before him."

Fiction may be fable, but the question is whether you can sense that the author has maintained the integrity of the character. This reader votes for the portrayal of a living, thinking, emotional, creative man, and against the dusty bones hauled up by the pedants.

Dos Passos Changes To 'Ex-Radical'

MIDCENTURY. By John Dos Passos. Houghton Mifflin. $5.95.

For many years John Dos Passos has been a noted innovator in prose, and he also used to be something of a political radical. "Midcentury," his latest novel, continues a measure of technical experimentation but the temper now is strongly conservative.

It is a curiously constructed, intermittently powerful and consistently angry book with straight fiction and current history, as the author sees it, in precarious co-existence.

Dos Passos concentrates on labor corruption as his central theme until at length an entire social order seems refracted in that unlovely prism. A kind of American inferno emerges, peoples by union racketeers, shysters, assassins and conspirators

INFERNO

The older, medieval Inferno stood redeemed by an over-arching beatific vision. Here the appalled voyager finds only occasional glimpses back to values lost, to a promised land denuded of its promise of freedom. (Somewhat oddly, film mogul Sam Goldwyn is invoked among the venerables of the earlier dispensation.)

There is a richly developed demonology, presided over by Marx and Freud and including a cluster of contemporary or near-contemporary politicians, labor leaders, and even a movie hero, flayed posthumously as the idol-symbol of the mixed-up teenager cult.

Profiles of such personages as Eleanor Roosevelt, Walter Reuther, Jimmy Hoffa, John L. Lewis, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry Truman and Harry Bridges provide a kind of backdrop to the narrative proceeding. Often the portraits and incisive and amusing, occasionally tedious, always controversial. They seem like billboards along a highway — part of the scenery, sure enough, but extraneous all the same, and they impose certain strains on the fabric of illusion by which fiction creates its most moving effects.

Despite this, the novel comes abundantly to life in its episodic fictional parts. Three main characters are involved, though they bear no relationship to one another:

Blackie Bowman, old - time Wobblie, seaman, hobo and labor organizer whose life unreels in flashbacks on a garrulous sick-bed in a veterans hospital, and whose stubborn independence of mind and high animal spirits make him an appealing person; Terry Bryant, a decent young veteran and minor union official broken by labor racketeers and later, while driving a cab for a new company fighting a tainted monoply, killed by them; and Jasper Milliron, an incipient captain of industry squeezed out of his job by executive suite intrigue.

SURVIVES

Milliron alone survives handsomely, in plush semi-retirement with the TV star he has wooed and married. Yet each of the heroes is in a sense defeated by a society out of tune with his simple virtues. And as the book closes, Milliron's stepson is off on a stolen credit card spree while his son-in-law, owner of the cab company Bryant drove for, is teetering on the verge of dishonorable compromise with the gang he opposed.

"Man drowns in his own scum," says Dos Passos in a poetic epilogue, and the proceding would seem plain evidence. How far this saveage canvas represents the full realities of mid-century America each reader will decide for himself.

To a large extent, his judgment will depend on his political orientation, a non - literary consideration which all polemical literature invites.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The people of Ouachita Parish are excellent readers and read book reviews which appear in the national periodicals. We have requests for many of our new books before they reach the shelves. Although we add approximately 500 books per month, it is sometimes hard to keep up with the requests. This week we have several new titles of fiction, which are certain to be popular. Miki Waltari, author of the Egyptian, has written a new book called "The Secret of the Kingdom." This is a moving and significant book with a setting in Judea at the time of Christ. The Lenten season is a good time to read this book. The library has nine copies of this title, so everyone should be able to get a copy. Another book of fiction, which will have great appeal is "Rizpah" by Charles E. Israel. This story is drawn from the book of Samuel in the Old Testament and relates the story of the Hebrews at the time when Saul ruled the kingdom. Mr. Israel, in addition to being a skillful novelist is a Biblical scholar and he ha produced an excellent work.

An excellent novel, dealing wi the scientific world of today "Meeting at Far Meridian" b Wilson. RUNNING THE SCALES

Jazz Orchestra Has Busy Season

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

Highlighting the week on the local scene was the student review, "Redskins on Parade."

A yearly feature of the school since the days when it was called "Northeast Center," the show reflected the growing campus spirit which has been in evidence since the construction of a number of dormitories. There is a measure of school spirit among all who attend colleges, but this grows much stronger when there is a large student body living on the campus

JAZZ ENSEMBLE

One of the prominent components of "Redskins," the Northeast Jazz Ensemble, will be in the pit for the nine - day run of "Dam Yankees," the musical comedy which will open the new Little Theatre on Lamy Lane during early April

Del Sawyer, professor of music at Northeast, not only leads this size - footed musical aggregation but drafts many of its arrangements as well. All told it is a highly skilled group which should add plenty of sparkle to the giant step forward in the area's theatrical undertakings.

Though it would be fitting to say "Dam Yankees" is based on a Confederate soldier's appraisal of his worthy opponents, this is not the case. It is in fact a refrence to a well-known professional baseball team which has the bad habit of winning most of its games.

Now some playwright figured this would blend nicely with the classic of stage and opera, "Faust," where the devil puts zip into a tired, old professor. The result brought about a successful Broadway musical show

ABOUT TIME

It was bound to happen sooner or later and Metropolitan Opera star, Rise Stevens, was ideally suited to start a program in audience discipline.

In a small city in a centrally located state, the mezzo - soprano broke into her aria, slapped a gloved hand against the piano and snapped:

"I'm sorry, ladies and gentlemen, but there are two girls in the audience who have been giggling during the entire thing. They are driving me out of my mind." driving me out of my mind."

Rise Stevens, who appeared in Monroe five or six years ago, impressed some listeners with a reserved manner which may have seemed distant. But no one denies she has a great talent and has every right to expect attention when she performs.

So do several hundred other touring artists. Unlike the images on a picture tube — which have come to spell "entertainment" to so many persons — the live performer is affected by distracting sounds and motions.

As fiery French composer Hector Berlioz put it, "Would the performers on the stage please keep quiet so I can hear what the people in the audience are talking about."

Maybe this piece of reverse psychology will help Miss Stevens in her future [illegible]

FOLK FRONT

Tunesmith L. Wolfe Gilbert, named the "dean of American composers" by Congress, says there is no such thing as real American folk music. As he puts it, we are a medley of people.

Gilbert, who wrote such hits as "Ramona," and "Waitin' for the Robert E. Lee," made the keen observation that the United States does produce regional products instead of a national folklore.

It's high time the country at large took heed and broke with the idea that Tin Pan Alley, New York, turns out products which represent what the whole country wants to hear.

Today and next Sunday mark the final pair of recitals at Grace Episcopal Church by organist, Jerry E. McSpadden. The lenten programs, beginning at 5 p.m., feature compositions of Buxtehude, Sweelinck, Bach, Langlais and Franck.

Foreign Aid Has Cost You $421 In 15 Years

Editor's Note — Suppose some one came up to you and asked you and every member of your family to give $421 each to somebody you never met? Well, that's just what you and yours have chipped in over the last 15 years for our foreign aid program. Here's where all your money went.

By BEM PRICE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Since the end of World War II, the United States has spent the fantastic sum of $85.8 billion to aid allies, friends and former foes.

Of the total, $60.4 billion has gone for economic aid, $25.4 billion for military assistance.

This money has gone to build dams, feed the hungry, purchase plows and seed, rebuild factories construct roads, water deserts, shore up bankrupt governments, and arm allies.

But no well is inexhaustible. There are indications that the United States can no longer bear the burden of assistance to the free nations of the world alone—and doesn't intend to.

KENNEDY

In his State of the Union address, President Kennedy said "I intend to ask Congress for authority to establish a new and more effective program for assisting the economic, education and social development of other nations and continents. That program must stimulate and take more effectively into account the contributions of our allies."

Kennedy proposed in general the creation of a central fund agency to which "each nation will contribute in proportion to its ability to pay."

Then the President added, "While we are prepared to assume our full share of these huge burdens, we can not and must not be expected to bear them alone."

The winds of change were sweeping across the world even before Kennedy assumed office. Former President Eisenhower warned last Oct. 17 that the United States should not be expected to share the burden of aid indefinitely.

"Every nation of the free world," said Eisenhower, "must cooperate in a program of mutual aid if the Communist tide is to be stemmed. Our resources are not unlimited. It becomes urgent that every nation of the free world does all it can to advance itself and bear its own appropriate responsibility to all the other (free world) nations. No nation is so rich or strong that it can stand alone. No nation is so poor that it cannot make a vital contribution."

At the moment the United States is losing money at the rate of $3.8 billion a year; that is, the country is spending that much more abroad than it earns from foreign sources.

The net result has been a loss of gold used to support the value of the dollar. If the gold drain continues unchecked the loss could undermine the U. S. economy and its position in the world.

Since most of the loss is attributable to the U. S. foreign aid program and maintenance of military commitments overseas, some readjustment is obviously in order.

FUTURE HOLDS

Whatever the future holds the fact remains that for the past 14 years the United States has given of its treasure to more than 70 nations for the single-minded purpose of keeping free men free.

Whether this huge sum, equal to a tax load of about $421 for every living citizen, has been spent wisely is a matter of debate.

Critics of the "give-away program" as they call it have interpreted it as a futile effort to buy the friendship and allegiance of men and nations.

Through every congressional debate on the wisdom of foreign aid since the beginning, however, there has been one prevailing thread, although at times the thread has been obscured in a morass of words about meeting the Communist challenge.

It is this: No man, no nation will willingly surrender that spiritual freedom which distinguishes at least some of the nations of the Western world from those dictator - dominated nations which practice thought control.

The United States has recognized that hungry nations are sick nations, prone to heed Communist promises, however false, of full dinner pails and an orderly life.

The basic assumption on the part of the United States has been that free, prosperous and healthy nations are natural allies.

From this assumption has stemmed the parallel belief that the United States and these natural allies together can ultimately fashion a world that is peaceful, prosperous and free.

EVER SET

No nation ever set itself to such a task before. Whatever the end result it will have to be recorded that the United States at least thought of it as a moral obligation to mankind and tried to do something about it.

Much has been made of the fact that the foreign aid program is a way of meeting the Communist challenge, and the Communist promises.

It could be the other way around. It could be that the United States has forced the Communists to contribute part of their resources to the general improvement of mankind; to make good on at least some of their promises.

Whether this is true or not, the fact remains that the Communists, chiefly the Soviets, have a foreign aid program and a military aid program. In the past six years the Soviets have spent over $1 billion on military aid and somewhere around $4 6 billion on economic assistance.

While there have been attacks by critics on U. S. motivations as naive and impossible of fulfillment, the chief criticisms have been directed against ineptitude and even stupidity in the spending of this $85.8 billions.

Among the broad charges levied by critics against the foreign aid program are these:

1. The United States gave economic and military aid to dictators who then used this aid to suppress their own people in the name of anti-communism.

2. The U. S. aid was used by allies and former foes to rebuild and modernize their industrial complexes in such a way that they are now this nation's chief competitors and this competition is injurious to U. S. labor and industry.

3. Corrupt officials used U. S. funds to enrich themselves and their cronies, leaving little for the people.

4. The United States underwrote for all practical purposes the French wars in Indo-China and Algeria.

Undoubtedly there are some truths in all these charges, but they do not affect the United States' basic motivation.

The United States has been lavish in its aid to former enemies and to dictators.

Germany has received over $4 billion in economic aid and $926 million for the creation of an armed force. Italy has been granted $3.4 billion in economic aid and $2 billion in military assistance.

Japan has received $2.5 billion in economic aid and $767 million in military assistance. Austria, now demilitarized, has been given $1.2 billion in economic aid.

The dictators of the Western world have not fared badly either. Spain has received $1 billion in economic aid and $410 million for her military. Portugal has received $68.6 million in economic assistance and over five times that much in military aid.

Cuba was given $41 million in economic assistance, $11 million worth of arms. While the Dominican Republic got only $2.7 million in economic aid, she received $6.3 in military aid.

BILLIONS

Formosa received $1.8 billion in economic aid and $1.9 billion in arms and money to maintain her 500,000 man armed force.

Saudi Arabia was granted $41 million in economic aid. Pakistan got $1.2 billion.

Both Saudi Arabia and Pakistan have received substantial military aid, but just how much is classified as secret. Presumably the United States does not want to offend the Saudi Arabians' enemy, Israel, while mention of arms aid to Pakistan would be offensive to India.

There have been repeated reports of corruption among officials in Korea, Laos and Viet Nam.

France has received $5.1 billion in economic aid, $4.2 billion in military aid. This is just about what France spent on the wars in Indo-China and Algeria.

And so it goes. The United States has even given money to Communist nations. Poland and Yugoslavia together have received $2 billion in economic aid. Yugoslavia also received $700 million in military assistance.

This is the way the aid breaks down: The European nations have received $41.4 billion; Far Eastern nations, $18 billion; the Near Eastern and South Asia nations, $12.8 billion; the nations of Latin America, $4.1 billion; the African nations, $800 million. All of these sums have been rounded off.

The world has never seen such an outpouring of treasure in times of theoretical peace. Unless the free world nations join the United States in a future effort, the world may never see the like again.

COOLEY DEED

To the Editor:

The Ouachita Parish Police Jury, in a session reported in the August 23, 1935 edition of the Monroe News-Star, passed a resolution to approve acceptance of "a clear deed to 26 acres of land at Pine Top," then the name of the propery later identified as G. B. Cooley Sanitorium.

This is apparently the deed that local public officials now claim they cannot find at the court house.

It appears certain the Police Jury records will stow also that the parish accepted title to the property at that time. The headline on the newspaper story reporting the police jury action in August 1935 says "Property Deed is transferred to Police Jury."

Members of the Board of Trustees of the G. B. Cooley Sanitorium have indicated that they feel the property should be disposed of according to the wishes of G. B. Cooley heirs who reportedly desire to have the property converted into an old folks home under the auspices of the Episcopal Church. It was reported that several persons have called members of the board and protested, and urged their friends to do the same.

However, several private citizens have expressed a desire to have the property revert unquestionably to parish ownership and be used for one of several other purposes that have been proposed.

An effort was made by the Ouachita Parish Police Jury in a session March 8 to prod public officials into interceding before the property could be transferred to sectarian interests. A resolution was passed at that time stating the intention of the Police Jury to challenge disposition of the property to any group except Ouachita parish.

The district attorney was prevailed upon at that time to take early steps to reach a legal conclusion.

Meanwhile, members of the sanitorium's Board of Trustees have repeatedly said that the matter was being studied by five lawyers and that an announcement would be made "very soon."

It was not known whether or not newspaper reports were backed up by the actual existance of records but in a 1944 report by the late Capt. G. B. Cooley, published in the News-Star, reads as follows:

"In 1923, I (Capt. Cooley) was elected president of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health Association. The national organization was only beginning its work. I thought the job was only honorary. But as years passed they put the job back on my shoulders year after year.

"Then I began to study the situation. I was surprised to find no place in Louisiana where indigents suffering from T-B were cared for. It seemed to me that what we most needed was a sanatorium where active cases could be hospitalized or isolated.

"So in 1926 we bought the 26 acres known as 'Pine Top.' Money obtained from the sale of Christmas seals bought the land and the board members approved the erection of a sanatorium on the property. But we had no funds. So we just plodded along with our educational programs. We pointed out how Louisiana and this parish were in need for more beds for the tubercular patients. Programs in clubs and schools emphasized this need.

"For 10 years we figured how to get a building for 'Pine Top.' Uncle Sam's alphabet hove in sight. We tried the RFC but that cash had to be paid back; next PWA was tried. We were not a public body so that failed. Next came FERA and ERA but still we were debarred. But the WPA came to our aid. Our project for a sanatorium was approved but in order to comply with conditions we had to form the Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis Association and deed the property to the public to be used exclusively for tubercular work, managed by several governors, appointed for life without remuneration. Politics of any nature was not to be tolerated by any board member.

"The first project called for $76,302 and sponsor contribution required by the government was $10,000. The parish police jury was asked to produce this sum but quickly declined saying they did not have the money. It was then that I told them I'd give a certified check personally for this sum and let them be regarded as the sponsor. And this was done. The project was approved and the first spade of dirt was turned by myself November 7, 1935. On March 11, 1936, the police jury passed a resolution asking the government to name the institution the G. B. Cooley Sanatorium.

"But it seemed that we were to have more troubles. More materials, more labor than previously anticipated were required. We got up another project and sent to Washington asking for additional funds. After delays a second sponsor's contribution was asked for and again I made this with payment required on a $10,303 project. The police jury was again named sponsor.

"It was a proud day June 18, 1938 when the buildings then virtually complete, were dedicated with WPA, state, parish and state department of health officials, parish and Fifth District Medical Society taken part. Fully 2,000 people attended.

"Right at this time we were busy getting a bill ready to put before the state legislature in 1938, permitting parishes to levy from one to two mill tax on all property for the erection, equipping and operation of tuberculosis sanatoriums. The bill became a law in due time. The next step was to get the parish police jury to call an election when property owners could vote on the tax. Before this could be done, the bill required the signature of 250 registered qualified voters and this petition was presented to the police jury January 11, 1939 and election date was set for February 21, 1939. The tax, with Claude Harrison election chairman, passed by a large majority.

"Dr. R. H. Frost was secured as house physician and equipment was purchased. However, most of the equipment of the white building had already been furnished by various clubs, civic organizations, churches and individuals.

"The sanatorium opened for patients October 30, 1939 and this was a day long to be remembered as it represented the culmination of much work on the part of many people in an effort to aid suffering people of Ouachita parish who had no other place to turn for aid."

The disposition of property should be cleared up as soon as possible. It has been closed one year already, during which no public good has been derived from the property. It would be a shame for this continued loss of usage to be inflicted upon the public

Agony, Ecstasy Michaelangelo's

THE AGONY AND THE ECSTACY. By Irving Stone. Doubleday. $5.95.

Michelangelo was an ugly little man with a broken nose, whose long life was filled with harsh struggles. Yet from his agony came the ecstasy of beauty.

Mention his name and everyone thinks of the Sistine Chapel and St. Peter's. There was so much more. Everyone calls him the universal man because he was a sculptor, painter, architect, engineer, and writer of sonnets. But after reading his huge book you have the feeling Stone was right in emphasizing Michelangelo's consuming desire to carve marble. That fact has been documented before, but here you have a pulsating exposition of it.

As everyone knows, the state for this narrative is the great, lusty period known as the Renaissance, when humanism was born. This being a tremendous stage, you would expect many of the characters to be dimmed down to midget size, but not so in this book. Scores of actors in this drama have the sharp reality of living flesh, beginning with Lorenzo the Magnificent, Ghirlandaio and Bertoldo, right down through Savonarola, the Popes with whom Michelangelo was always fighting and the rival architects who gave him trouble at St. Peter's.

This is a "biographical novel." Some people are squeamish about authors who build fiction on a base of biography, and the art scholars will dilate their nostrils. In tackling such a grandiose subject, Stone has dared and achieved a much greater project than he did in 1934 with Van Gogh in "Lust for Life."

Having lived for several years in Italy, and having compiled stacks of bibliographies and research, he has protected himself from hecklers. And the late Bernard Berenson is quoted as saying that Stone "comes closer to the true spirit of Michelangelo than any other writer before him."

Fiction may be fable, but the question is whether you can sense that the author has maintained the integrity of the character. This reader votes for the portrayal of a living, thinking, emotional, creative man, and against the dusty bones hauled up by the pedants.

Average Salary

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average starting salary for the 1961 college grad will be about $470 a month, according to Sales Management magazine.

Engineers will draw a top average starting salary of $520 while the average graduate going into a sales department will draw $451 a month, the publication said.

Dos Passos Changes To 'Ex-Radical'

MIDCENTURY. By John Dos Passos. Houghton Mifflin. $5.95.

For many years John Dos Passos has been a noted innovator in prose, and he also used to be something of a political radical. "Midcentury," his latest novel, continues a measure of technical experimentation but the temper now is strongly conservative.

It is a curiously constructed, intermittently powerful and consistently angry book with straight fiction and current history, as the author sees it, in precarious co-existence.

Dos Passos concentrates on labor corruption as his central theme until at length an entire social order seems refracted in that unlovely prism. A kind of American inferno emerges, peoples by union racketeers, shysters, assassins and conspirators.

INFERNO

The older, medieval Inferno stood redeemed by an over-arching beatific vision. Here the appalled voyager finds only occasional glimpses back to values lost, to a promised land denuded of its promise of freedom. (Somewhat oddly, film mogul Sam Goldwyn is invoked among the venerables of the earlier dispensation.)

There is a richly developed demonology, presided over by Marx and Freud and including a cluster of contemporary or near-contemporary politicians, labor leaders, and even a movie hero, flayed posthumously as the idol-symbol of the mixed-up teenager cult.

Profiles of such personages as Eleanor Roosevelt, Walter Reuther, Jimmy Hoffa, John L. Lewis, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry Truman and Harry Bridges provide a kind of backdrop to the narrative proceeding. Often the portraits and incisive and amusing, occasionally tedious, always controversial. They seem like billboards along a highway — part of the scenery, sure enough, but extraneous all the same, and they impose certain strains on the fabric of illusion by which fiction creates its most moving effects.

Despite this, the novel comes abundantly to life in its episodic fictional parts. Three main characters are involved, though they bear no relationship to one another:

Blackie Bowman, old - time Wobblie, seaman, hobo and labor organizer whose life unreels in flashbacks on a garrulous sickbed in a veterans hospital, and whose stubborn independence of mind and high animal spirits make him an appealing person; Terry Bryant, a decent young veteran and minor union official broken by labor racketeers and later, while driving a cab for a new company fighting a tainted monoply, killed by them; and Jasper Milliron, an incipient captain of industry squeezed out of his job by executive suite intrigue.

SURVIVES

Milliron alone survives handsomely, in plush semi-retirement with the TV star he has wooed and married. Yet each of the heroes is in a sense defeated by a society out of tune with his simple virtues. And as the book closes, Milliron's stepson is off on a stolen credit card spree while his son-in-law, owner of the cab company Bryant drove for, is teetering on the verge of dishonorable compromise with the gang he opposed.

"Man drowns in his own scum," says Dos Passos in a poetic epilogue, and the proceding would seem plain evidence. How far this saveage canvas represents the full realities of mid-century America each reader will decide for himself.

To a large extent, his judgment will depend on his political orientation, a non - literary consideration which all polemical literature invites.

Important Is Mr. Lipchitz

Lipchitz' long career has brought him to a kind of manipulative expression in which the movements of his own hands are the real subject of his work. But because he also has been associated with cubism, abstraction, the employment of voids, surrealism and free association, he has to be counted as double important in this century.

Hammacher is director of Holland's Rijksmuseum Kroller - Muller.

Hammacher is director of Holland's Rijksmuseum Kroller - Muller. He has done a thorough job, and his scholarly approach does not hamper the general reader. He includes source material comments from critics and questions from the sculptor. There also is an introduction by Lipchitz.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The people of Ouachita Parish are excellent readers and read book reviews which appear in the national periodicals. We have requests for many of our new books before they reach the shelves. Although we add approximately 500 books per month, it is sometimes hard to keep up with the requests. This week we have several new titles of fiction, which are certain to be popular. Miki Waltari, author of the Egyptian, has written a new book called "The Secret of the Kingdom." This is a moving and significant book with a setting in Judea at the time of Christ. The Lenten season is a good time to read this book. The library has nine copies of this title, so everyone should be able to get a copy. Another book of fiction, which will have great appeal is "Rizpah" by Charles E. Israel. This story is drawn from the book of Samuel in the Old Testament and relates the story of the Hebrews at the time when Saul ruled the kingdom. Mr. Israel, in addition to being a skillful novelist is a Biblical scholar and he has produced an excellent work.

An excellent novel, dealing with the scientific world of today is "Meeting at Far Meridian" by Wilson. This is a thoughtful and penetrating story of the problems of todays scientists and is one that the reader will long remember. A light love story by a novelist who has written many books with a medical background is "The Doctor Makes A Choice" by Elizabeth Seifert. Her devoted audience will welcome it. No one is more prominent in the field of mystery writing than Frances and Richard Lockridge, who have written many novels about Major North. Their latest book is "With One Stone" and is certain to meet the popular fancy.

Books of non-fiction continue to show a great variety and appeal to readers of all types. Earl A. Loomis is the author of "The Self in Pilgrimage" an interesting study of the search for understanding of self. "The Land and the Promise" by Frank Gill Slaughter is a lovely collection of the best stories from the Bible. It will be widely read and used. "The Informed Heart" by Bruno Bettelheim is a poignant story of life in the German concentration camps. "Story of Pitney-Bowes" by William Cahn is an account of the rise of the metered mail, which has become so popular.

The library is always being asked for books of science projects and we never have enough material to meet the demands. A recent addition which will be helpful in this field is "The Scientific American Book of Projects for the Amateur Scientist" by C. L. Stong. "Saturday Science" by Andrew Bluemle is an interesting account of modern scientific research. "The Sea Within" by William D. Snively. This book covers a subject on which little has been written, that is the fluids in the human body. Morris Fishbein is a prolific writer in the field of popular medicine. His latest title is "Heart Care" which will interest many people. One of the most beautiful books which we have had in a long time is "Golden Wings" by Martin Caidin. This is a pictorial history of the U. S. Navy and Marine Corps in the air and is a perfectly lovely book. A book of interest to local gardeners is "Iris for Every Garden" by Sydney B. Mitchell. Two books which will interest travellers by automobile is "Adventures in Good Eating" and "Lodging for A Night," the 1960 editions of the works by Duncan Hines.

A very splendid book in the field of modern architecture is "The Master Builders" by Peter Blake. All those interested in this subject will want to read it. A searching examination of American present day society is "The Self - Conscious Society" by Eric Larabee. This is a thoughtful and well written study of present day American life. Are you planning a trip to any of the islands of the Caribbean, or to Central America or the Bahamas or Bermuda? If you are, you should read the new guide book or these countries, prepared by George Paul and Reica Butler.

One of the most popular books of this year is "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" by William L. Shirer. We purchased several copies when it first came out and have been trying to get additional ones, since the waiting lists grew so long. This past week, four new copies arrived and we hope this will help speed up the number of people who can read it. Each week there are new titles about the Civil War. This week there are two. One is "Storming of the Gateway: Chattanooga" by Fairfax Downey. This is a graphic account of the battles of Chattanooga and Chickamauga. The other is "The Civil War at Sea" by Virgil Carrington Jones. An interesting and attractive book is a history of St. Louis called "Catfish and Crystal" by Ernest Kirschten. New biographies are always read and appreciated. The latest one is "Stonewall Jackson" by George F. Henderson.

RUNNING THE SCALES

Jazz Orchestra Has Busy Season

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

Highlighting the week on the local scene was the student review, "Redskins on Parade."

A yearly feature of the school since the days when it was called "Northeast Center," the show reflected the growing campus spirit which has been in evidence since the construction of a number of dormitories. There is a measure of school spirit among all who attend colleges, but this grows much stronger when there is a large student body living on the campus.

JAZZ ENSEMBLE

One of the prominent components of "Redskins," the Northeast Jazz Ensemble, will be in the pit for the nine - day run of "Dam Yankees," the musical comedy which will open the new Little Theatre on Lamy Lane during early April.

Del Sawyer, professor of music at Northeast, not only leads this sure - footed musical aggreation but drafts many of its arrangements as well. All told, it is a highly skilled group which should add plenty of sparkle to the giant step forward in the area's theatrical undertakings.

Though it would be fitting to say "Dam Yankees" is based on a Confederate soldier's appraisal of his worthy opponents, this is not the case. It is, in fact a refrence to a well-known professional baseball team which has the bad habit of winning most of its games.

Now some playwright figured this would blend nicely with the classic of stage and opera, "Faust," where the devil puts zip into a tired, old professor. The result brought about a successful Broadway musical show.

ABOUT TIME

It was bound to happen sooner or later and Metropolitan Opera star, Rise Stevens, was ideally suited to start a program in audience discipline.

In a small city in a centrally located state, the mezzo - soprano broke into her aria, slapped a gloved hand against the piano and snapped:

"I'm sorry, ladies and gentlemen, but there are two girls in the audience who have been giggling during the entire thing. They are driving me out of my mind." driving me out of my mind."

Rise Stevens, who appeared in Monroe five or six years ago, impressed some listeners with a reserved manner which may have seemed distant. But no one denies she has a great talent and has every right to expect attention when she performs.

So do several hundred other touring artists. Unlike the images on a picture tube — which have come to spell "entertainment" to so many persons — the live performer is affected by distracting sounds and motions.

As fiery French composer Hector Berlioz put it, "Would the performers on the stage please keep quiet so I can hear what the people in the audience are talking about."

FOLK FRONT

Tunesmith L. Wolfe Gilbert, named the "dean of American composers" by Congress, says there is no such thing as real American folk music. As he puts it, we are a medley of people.

Gilbert, who wrote such hits as "Ramona," and "Waitin' for the Robert E. Lee," made the keen observation that the United States does produce regional products instead of a national folklore.

It's high time the country at large took heed and broke with the idea that Tin Pan Alley, New York, turns out products which represent what the whole country wants to hear.

Today and next Sunday mark the final pair of recitals at Grace Episcopal Church by organist, Jerry E. McSpadden. The lenten programs, beginning at 5 p.m., feature compositions of Buxtehude, Sweelinck, Bach, Langlais and Franck.

A Narrative Of Hazardous Ruby Search

The Valley of Rubies, By Joseph Kessel. Translated from the French by Stella Rodway. McKay. $3.95.

Nearly all rubies come from Upper Burma, and the best of them are classed as "pigeon's blood." Rajahs, royalty and oil barons have competed for their possession for centuries.

But Upper Burma isn this day and age, still a remote, primitive country, is tinged with another kind of red — the color of communism.

Hence the search for rubies, and especially the search for a lost cache supposedly hidden by a bandit, is bound to be filled with dangers.

The author of "The Lion" tells the story of his trip, described as a true narrative, with a dealer in precious stones.

It begins like a travelogue, but it gets better when it becomes an adventure story. If you like those faraway places, you probably will like this book.

Sherry Jackson Tells Preference

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Sherry Jackson seldom dates actors any more.

"I've found real estate men much more attractive—and I can learn more," says the cute redhead who has been a successful actress most of her life.

WEEKLY OIL REPORT

Five New Wells Are Completed In Monroe Area

By RICHARD GREENE
World Oil Editor

Five new oil and gas wells were completed and a total of 10 locations were staked in the Monroe district last week as a result of testing and exploration in the area.

Three of the new wells are in Union Parish, another in Catahoula and the fifth, a re-completion, is in Concordia.

Duncan S. Cook, manager of the 14 parish district also listed in the weekly report 16 rigs active in the fields and five holes that were plugged and abandoned due to little or no oil flow.

The first completion is in the Tew Lake field of Catahoula Parish. It is the Alco Oil and Gas Co. et al's E. McMillin Unit no. 1 in sec. 11-8-6E, it was completed to flow 66 barrels through a 8-64 in. choke from perforations at 4370-72 ft., gas oil ratio is 200-1, tubing pressure 370 lbs., casing pressure 230 lbs., gravity 33.

In the Monroe field of Union Parish the Monla Gas Company has completed three new wells. Its Miss E. M. Chambers no. 1 in sec. 10-22-3E was completed to flow 100 MCF with a rock pressure of 970 lbs.

The J. A. Green No. 1 was finaled to flow 320 MCF with a rock pressure of 1025 lbs. in sec. 25-22-2E.

Their final completion for the week is the G. L. Turner no. 1 in sec. 10-22-3E, it was completed to flow 270 MCF with a rock pressure of 980 lbs.

The re-completion is in the Lake St. John field of Concordia. It is the California Co.'s Lake St. John Unit no. 25, completed to flow 71 barrels through a 24-64 in. choke from perforations at 9038-73 ft., gas oil ratio 31,422:1, tubing pressure 750 lbs. gravity 58.8, it is located in sec. 51-9-10E.

Odd-Lotters Favor Several On Exchange

Odd-lots are purchases or sales of from 1 to 99 shares for stocks trading in 100-share units. Odd-lot trading last year amounted to 164,540,000 shares bought and sold, or 21.5 per cent of reported round-lot transactions of 756,691,000 shares.

Common stocks of the above industry have dominated odd lot volume ratings since the Exchange Magazine first reported the exclusive figures four years ago.

CHARACTERISTICS

Some of the characteristics of odd-lot investors discernible from the magazine's study of the odd-lot volume leaders are:

—They prefer securities of well known and well-established firms.

—They have a wide variety of price preferences, leaning towards shares selling around $40 or less, but varying from $7 per share for sixteenth place Studebaker-Packard to $593 for tenth place IBM. These dollar figures are the year-end prices.

—They are interested in a wide variety of investment objectives. Of the 21 odd-lot favorites paying dividends during the year, yields ranged from .5 per cent for IBM to 6.1 per cent for Bethlehem Steel. Four favorites paying no dividends were Ampex, Thiokol Chemical, Studebaker - Packard and Collins Radio.

—They often have decidedly different views from their round-lot cousins. AT&T rated only ninth in round-lot volume in 1960. American Motors and Studebaker-Packard, which easily took first and second in the round-lot ranking, were fifth and sixteenth with odd-lotters.

NEW ISSUES

Six issues which made their debut on the 25 odd-lot favorites list last year were Brunswick, Ampex, Pfizer, Collins Radio, NAFI and Minnesota Mining. Nine that made the 1959 list failed to repeat in 1960: Aluminium Ltd., Raytheon, Monsanto Chemical, Phillips Petroleum, United Fruit, Chrysler, Boeing, Olin Mathieson and General Tire.

The three issues returning to the list after absences of a year or more were Gulf Oil, General Electric and U. S. Steel.

HOW A BONER HELPED ME EARN $15,000

By a Wall Street Journal Subscriber

One time on a business trip I got to the hotel late at night. The only room I could get was an expensive suite. Next morning the bellman handed me a copy of The Wall Street Journal by mistake. "Some rich guy must have had this room," I said to myself.

Well, I looked at The Journal. For the first time in my life I began to understand why some men get ahead while others stay behind. I learned about the far-reaching changes taking place in America. I found out about new inventions, new industries and new ways of doing business that are helping ambitious men earn money. I sent for a year's subscription to The Wall Street Journal and, believe me, it has paid off. Last year my income was $15,000.

This story is typical. If you think The Wall Street Journal is just for millionaires, you are WRONG! The Journal is a wonderful aid to salaried men making $7,500 to $25,000 a year. It is valuable to owners of small businesses. It can be of priceless benefit to ambitious young men who want to earn more money.

The Wall Street Journal is the complete business DAILY. Has largest staff of writers on business and finance. The only business paper served by all three big press associations. It costs $24 a year, but you can get a Trial Subscription for three months for $7. Just tear out this ad and attach check for $7 and mail. Or tell us to bill you.

Published daily right in the Southwest to bring you vital business and Washington news immediately. Address: The Wall Street Journal, 911 Young St., Dallas 2, Texas. MW 3-19

Business Prospects Brighten In Nation

Alaska Oil Hunting Cost Highest Ever

The average cost of drilling each foot of an Alaskan test is $135.84. The offshore Louisiana average is $38.16. The national average is only $12.90.

The average cost of the 18 wells drilled in Alaska in 1959 was $1,433,888. The average depth was 10,555 feet.

Exploration, development, and production costs were not included.

OFFSHORE

Including Alaska and offshore Louisiana, domestic operators drilled 49,563 wells that averaged $53,500 and 4,146 feet.

An Alaskan test therefore cost more than 26 times as much as the national average and nearly four times as much as an offshore Louisiana well.

Two major factors contribute to the Alaskan averages.

Expenditures for moving equipment to Alaska and over rugged terrain to a drilling site are tremendous. Most Alaskan tests to date also have been wildcats of the wildest variety.

The 1959 survey included no breakdown but a major portion of the national and offshore wells were of a development variety that usually carries much lower cost than wildcats.

Alaska's 18 tests resulted in six oil wells, three gas wells, and nine dry holes. Expenditures made on the oil wells and dry holes dwarfed the national and offshore Louisiana averages but the cost of the Alaskan gas wells was below the offshore average.

The three gas wells had an average cost of $103,333. The price tag on the 5,409 gas producers drilled by all domestic operators was only $100,700 but the 74 drilled offshore averaged $643,445.

The primary difference was depth. The Alaska gas producers averaged only 8,666 feet compared to 11,973 offshore. The Alaskan producers cost $46.53 a foot, compared to offshore Louisiana's $53.74.

OPINIONS DIVIDED

Big Week Scored In Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market this week emerged from a state of uncertainty and, buoyed by evidence of a business upturn, scored its second biggest weekly advance of 1961.

With the list dragging its heels early in the week, some veteran observers shook their heads and predicted that a sharp decline was not far off. They noted "weaknesses" in the market —a race for lower-priced stocks while the blue chips lay flat on their backs. Opinion was divided, however. Others expected a further rise.

AUTO UPTURN

The market rallied in midweek, spurred by surprising news of an upturn in auto production and sales. Chrysler, for instance, said it planned a 25 per cent production increase. American Motors reported record Rambler sales.

At the same time, word came that the nation's industrial production, which had been declining steadily for six months, had firmed in February. The Federal Reserve Board said this was the first sign that the recession had reached bottom or close to it.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 4.10 to a new historic high of 242.60. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index also stood at a new high of 64.60 as the week ended.

The rise in the AP average was the largest since the week ended Jan. 14 when a gain of 4.40 posted the year's record so far.

Volume was 26,461,491 shares compared with 29,026,120 the week before. Of 1,456 issues traded, 872 advanced and 443 declined.

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Silver Creek Precision, up ¾ at 2⅛ on 747,700 shares.

The bond markets reacted swiftly this week to fresh signs that the recession has touched bottom.

Treasury bonds slipped in four of the five sessions to lose as much as ¾ of a point. The setback was the worst since the second week of the year.

And for the first week of 1961 the corporate list failed to make noticeable headway. After a slight gain Monday prices seesawed unevenly the remainder of the week. They closed mixed based on the AP averages.

Volume fell to $38,944,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $48,943,000 last week —a 15-year high. The daily average was $7,788,800 compared with $9,788,600.

Gold Reserve Increases By $11 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—Some heavy statistical support gathered last week behind prophets of an early and marked upturn in business.

The best news of all was that a six month, unbroken skid in industrial production was halted in February.

Important cheer came from automakers who reported a decided pick up in car sales in the 10 days of March. Ford responded with plans for sharply increased production.

This and other food for optimism sent the stock market booming ahead again after what some viewed as an ominous pause lasting over a week.

Such manifestations of confidence are supposed to be a tonic for business all the way around.

GOLD RESERVES

The ebb of U. S. gold reserves was reversed for the first time since July 1959, the Federal Reserve Board reported. The reserves climbed $11 million last week, the board said.

Encouraging word developed on retail sales, electricity production and housing starts. In steel, production was off slightly but the order flow was better.

The number of idle men and women drawing unemployment compensation dipped—a hopeful straw despite concern that March figures would show another rise in joblessness.

In Washington, Congress acted to help those who are out of work and have exhausted jobless pay benefits, moving in a way calculated to boost the economy at the same time.

Enactment of the administration's emergency jobless pay program was virtually assured. This gave promise of pumping possibly $1 billion into the pockets of up to three million unemployed.

On the darker side, the Commerce Department reported the personal income of Americans sagged $700 in February to an annual rate of $405.90 billion.

RAILROADS

Another index that moved in the wrong direction was railroad carloadings, off 1.7 per cent from the preceding week and 12 per cent from the comparable 1960 week.

Underscoring the gravity of unemployment, pegged at above 5.7 million, the Labor Department said one of every four auto workers was idle and one of every six steel workers.

But on balance, events seemed to support a widely discussed remark by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges that "I think we've hit the bottom" of the recession.

Hodges gave his view several days before the main signposts of encouragement appeared. He relied mostly on hunch, encouraging retail trade figures and the conviction inventory shrinkage had about reached its limits.

Almost as Hodges spoke, a big New York bank — the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.—said that economic clouds appeared to be lifting and the business contraction to be at or near its bottom.

COMING THIS FALL

Larger Volkswagen Next

DETROIT (AP) — "Longer, lower, more powerful—and more expensive." The phrase could have been lifted word for word from the new model announcement of any American car of three or four years ago.

It came from a car announcement, all right. But it is a 1962 model, and it's not American.

Just as American auto manufacturers decided the public wanted smaller cars, and brought out the compacts, Volkswagen has decided the time has come to offer Germans something bigger, fancier and in more modern dress than the familiar VW "beetle."

And like the American "Big Three," who continued to offer standard size cars as well, Volkswagen says it will continue the beetle.

For a while only the present model will be sold in the United States.

In many ways a new Volkswagen is as revolutionary as Henry Ford's switch from Model T to Model A.

The VW, sometimes called a modern Model T, has been virtually unchanged in appearance since the end of World War II. But under the skin VW has made many changes.

First pictures of the bigger VW show it styled much more along American lines, minus chrome. Gone is the snub nose and the ducktail rear end.

A Chrysler man, viewing the pictures, saw a resemblance to the French Simca (which Chrysler sells). The new station wagon has strong characteristics of Chevrolet's Corvair wagon.

The company says the new model, the VW-1500, will be six inches longer than the present one, giving it an over-all length of 13 feet 10 inches. This still is seven inches less than the shortest current U.S. car, Rambler's American.

The flat four-cylinder rear engine will have a displacement of 1,500 cubic centimeters as against the present 1,192 cc. But the engine package will be smaller and VW plans a trunk in the rear as well as in the front. The engine will be mounted directly over rear drive wheels.

In Germany the two-door sedan will cost $1,600, or about $370 more than the current one. VW's port-of-entry price in the United States for the beetle is $1,565.

Heinz Nordhoff, guiding genius of Volkswagen, has been eyeing the growing middle class prosperity in Germany and Europe for some time.

SHOW OFF

"People want to show off their prosperity," he told American reporters two years ago, "and can afford better transportation."

At that time Nordhoff also said Volkswagen was building a new model every year for testing purposes and thus would have one ready whenever the market dictated.

Volkswagen is the third biggest selling car in the world, trailing only Chevrolet and Ford. Some four million are in operation in 120 countries both sides of the Iron Curtain. It is by far the biggest foreign seller in the United States, with more than 500,000 in operation.

So far it is the only volume imported car to boost its American sales in the face of competition from the compacts. VW registrations in the United States last year of almost 10,000 topped 1959 figures by 50,000 units.

Carl Hahn, general manager of Volkswagen of America which is building a $2.5 million headquarters at Englewood Cliffs, N. J., predicts at least 200,000 sales here this year.

WE DESIGN

The idea of a new VW design has horrified some conservative Volkswagen fans, among them Rudolph DiFazio, a reporter for the Royal Oak (Mich.) Tribune, who explained his bride of a few months brought along the car as part of her dowry.

DiFazio, in print, said "I know full well that it (the new model) will appear on American streets. Some eager beaver is going to buy one in Europe and bring it back to the U. S.

"And as the owner—once removed—of a VW, my first reaction was to protest. After all, Volkswagens have been exchanged for 15 years!

"Would Rolls-Royce put on tailfins?

"Would Cadillac take them off? "I doubt it!

"All I could think of was this was a fine way to treat a person who religiously reads the VW magazine advertisements! Had VW given in to Madisonstrasse? Was it destroying its corporate image?

"Most of all, would I still be able to wear that superior sneer of nonconformity, when it looked like my 'bug's' big brother was being very conformist?"

But DiFazio admitted he could find few who shared his alarm. Even his wife, assured the present model will be continued, asked "what's all the fuss?"

Another VW owner in Detroit, where the little car has boomed in the shadows of the American auto plants, said he wasn't concerned about the styling changes.

"From what I can see in the pictures," he said, "the Germans are keeping their reputation for building the ugliest cars in the world."

DURING 1960

Construction Up Locally; Decline Seen State Wide

Construction in Monroe increased 36.6 percent during 1960, despite an 8.8 per cent decrease in construction throughout Louisiana.

Dale Martha, who issues building permits in the Monroe engineering building, revealed this yesterday.

"Monroe has made some outstanding advances which have not been made elsewhere," Martha said.

The construction increase was included in his annual report for the city.

"Only 10 out of 32 lines of business showed a very slight gain in Louisiana during 1960," he commented.

22 ISSUED

During the past week, 22 building permits were issued.

Eighteen were for construction or additions costing $153,400, while three were for house moving, and one to demolish a house.

Monday, March 13:

Leeds Homes Inc. received two permits to construct: 1. Frame model residence and office, five rooms and bath, 1907 Louisville Ave., 1000 square feet, $3500; 2. Frame model residence, five rooms and bath, 850 square feet, $1700.

Trois Pettigrew, construct brick veneer residence, five rooms, two baths, 2320 Cadillac Dr., 2050 square feet, $16,000.

R. A. Barnes, add 30 square feet to kitchen in frame residence, 1004 N. McGuire, $500.

Tuesday, March 14:

G. D. McCleery, remodel frame residence, 601 Glenmar, close in screen porch and partition attic, $500.

C. E. Searcy, add one room, den and carport, to frame residence, 704 K St., 432 square feet, $1600. H. K. Litton, construct two room block service station, 3411 Renwick, 375 square feet, $3500.

RESTORE AREA

C. H. Stewart, alter frame residence, restore burned area, 403 Burroughs, $500.

Earl Fisher, construct brick veneer residence, seven rooms, three and one-half baths, 2400 Marie Pl., 3000 square feet, $30,000.

Bulford Fairley, move frame residence to 4001 Gaston from 307 S. McGuire Ave., 30 by 40 by 40 by 16 feet high.

Thursday, March 16:

Globe Furniture Co., add two rooms and bath to block building, 1619 DeSiard, 3000 square feet, $6000.

R. M. Martin, demolish two story frame residence, nine rooms, 625 Catalpa.

W. A. Fitzgerald, add bedroom to frame residence, 503 Plum St., 144 square feet, $500.

David T. King, construct brick veneer residence, six rooms, two baths and carport, 2314 Cadillac, 1839 square feet, $20,000.

Oma C. McGuffee received two permits to construct brick veneer residences, each five rooms and two baths: 1. At 1003 K St., 1300 square feet, $23,000; 2. At 902 Glenmar, 2000 square feet, $20,000.

G. W. Welch, move frame residence from West Monroe to Burg Jones Lane outside city limits, size 24 by 26 by 16 feet high.

Friday, March 17:

Wet Weather Slows Drilling In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Wet weather has caused a delay in moving in completion equipment for a Jefferson County wildcat, the Burkley-Phillips No. 1, sec. 14 10W 2W.

Argo Oil Corp. and Charlton Oil Corp. shut down testing because of the rain after finding an undisclosed amount of oil in the lower Tuscaloosa sand at 9,200-05 feet.

In the new southeast McComb oil field of Pike County, Barnwell Drilling Co. was below 10,500 feet in the Fernwood No. 2, sec. 20-3n-8e and Humble Oil Co. was below 9,000 in the southeast McComb oil unit No.1, sec. 19-3n-8e.

The new area is about 1½ miles southeast of the producing limits of the McComb field and has one completed well.

NUMBER ONE

North American Oil Corp. of Delaware was below 10,500 feet in the board of supervisors No. 2, sec. 16-3n-6e, Lincoln County.

North American operators drilled the board of supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-3n-7e, about one half mile south of the supervisors No. 2.

The No. 1 venture has casing perforated at 10,540-45 feet and a small amount of oil was recovered on initial swabbing operations.

In Issaquena County, Gulf Oil Corp. was reported to have resumed drilling operations on a deep wildcat, the Eagle Bend No. 1, sec. 8-18n-3e, after freeing stuck drill pipe. Pipe was stuck at 13,328 feet with the drilling depth 16,480.

Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. was below 8,700 feet in a Covington County wildcat, the Speed No. 1, sec. 18-8n-14w. Contract depth is 14,400 feet.

Two drilling operations were under in the New Bentonia Oil field in Yazoo County.

Texaco Inc., has set surface casing in the Thompson No. 1, sec. 33-10n-1w, located northwest of the discovery well.

In the Satartia area of Yazoo County, Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. was below 10,000 in the Container Corp. of America, sec. 6-9n-4w, after logging slight gas shows at 9,900 feet.

Field drilling the past week brought three new oilers and one deep gas well.

Thornhill and Biglane completed the Terry No. 3, sec. 27-3n-7e, Pike County. The McComb field well flowed 129 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,963-73 feet.

In the Reedy Creek field of Jones County, California Co. completed the board of supervisors No. 1-2, sec. 16-9n-11w, which pumped 186 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 11,024-111 feet.

Sun Oil Co. completed the Hewitt No. 1, sec. 15-4n-6e, in the Smithdale Field of Amite County. The well was reported to have flowed 53 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 11,040-80 feet.

Knoxo gas unit No. 1, sec. 18-2n-12e, in the Knoxo gas field of Walthall County which flowed 7,992,000 cubic feet of gas per day from a sand at 12,535-45 feet.

Grain Futures Show Mixed On Chicago Board

CHICAGO (UPI)—Soybeans advanced under new-found encouragement this week, but other grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were lower.

Compared with last Friday, wheat was off 1½ to 2⅛; corn off 1½ to 2; oats off 1¾ to up ¼; rye off 3⅛ to 6¼; soybeans off 1 to up 5¾, and drummed lard off 15 to up 5 points.

Soybeans remained sensitive to trade news, and prices swung widely. Old crop months found strength, however, in higher meal and oil prices and export sales.

Wheat futures declined sharply under long liquidation. Good moisture in the Southwest brought selling in new crop months. Small export sales were reported, but overseas business was generally slow.

Red cash wheat had a good mill demand. Interest was light, however, in hard and yellow wheat. Spot prices were about a half-cent lower.

WEEKLY OIL REPORT

Five New Wells Are Completed In Monroe Area

By RICHARD GREENE
World Oil Editor

Five new oil and gas wells were completed and a total of 10 locations were staked in the Monroe district last week as a result of testing and exploration in the area.

Three of the new wells are in Union Parish, another in Catahoula and the fifth, a re-completion, is in Concordia.

Duncan S. Cook, manager of the 14-parish district also listed in the weekly report 16 rigs active in the fields and five holes that were plugged and abandoned due to little or no oil flow.

The first completion is in the Tew Lake field of Catahoula Parish. It is the Alco Oil and Gas Co. et al's E. McMillin Unit no. 1 in sec. 11-8-6E, it was completed to flow 66 barrels through a 8-64 in. choke from perforations at 4370-72 ft., gas oil ratio is 200:1, tubing pressure 370 lbs., casing pressure 230 lbs., gravity 39.

In the Monroe field of Union Parish the Monla Gas Company has completed three new wells. Its Miss E. M. Chambers no. 1 in sec. 10-22-3E was completed to flow 100 MCF with a rock pressure of 970 lbs.

The J. A. Green No. 1. was finaled to flow 320 MCF with a rock pressure of 1025 lbs. in sec. 25-22-2E.

Their final completion for the week is the G. L. Turner no. 1 in sec. 10-22-3E, it was completed to flow 270 MCF with a rock pressure of 980 lbs.

The re-completion is in the Lake St. John field of Concordia. It is the California Co.'s Lake St. John Unit no. 25, completed to flow 71 barrels through a 24-64 in. choke from perforations at 9038-73 ft., gas oil ratio 31,422:1, tubing pressure 750 lbs. gravity 58.8, it is located in sec. 51-9-10E.

Odd-Lotters Favor Several On Exchange

Odd-lots are purchases or sales of from 1 to 99 shares for stocks trading in 100-share units. Odd-lot trading last year amounted to 164,540,000 shares bought and sold, or 21.5 per cent of reported round-lot transactions of 766,694,000 shares.

Common stocks of the above industry have dominated odd -lot volume ratings since the Exchange Magazine first reported the exclusive figures four years ago.

CHARACTERISTICS

Some of the characteristics of odd-lot investors discernible from the magazine's study of the odd-lot volume leaders are:

—They prefer securities of well known and well-established firms.

—They have a wide variety of price preferences, leaning towards shares selling around $40 or less, but varying from $7 per share for sixteenth place Studebaker-Packard to $593 for tenth place IBM. These dollar figures are the year-end prices.

—They are interested in a wide variety of investment objectives. Of the 21 odd-lot favorites paying dividends during the year, yields ranged from .5 per cent for IBM to 6.1 per cent for Bethlehem Steel. Four favorites paying no dividends were Ampex, Thiokol Chemical, Studebaker - Packard and Collins Radio.

—They often have decidedly different views from their round-lot cousins. AT&T rated only ninth in round-lot volume in 1960, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard, which easily took first and second in the round-lot ranking, were fifth and sixteenth with odd-lotters.

NEW ISSUES

Six issues which made their debut on the 25 odd-lot favorites list last year were Brunswick, Ampex, Pfizer, Collins Radio, NAFI and Minnesota Mining. Nine that made the 1959 list failed to repeat in 1960: Aluminium Ltd., Raytheon, Monsanto Chemical, Phillips Petroleum, United Fruit, Chrysler, Boeing, Olin- Mathieson and General Tire.

The three issues returning to the list after absences of a year or more were Gulf Oil, General Electric and U. S. Steel.

HOW A BONER HELPED ME EARN $15,000

By a Wall Street Journal Subscriber

One time on a business trip I got to the hotel late at night. The only room I could get was an expensive suite. Next morning the bellman handed me a copy of The Wall Street Journal by mistake. "Some rich guy must have had this room," I said to myself.

Well, I looked at The Journal. For the first time in my life I began to understand why some men get ahead while others stay behind. I learned about the far-reaching changes taking place in America. I found out about new inventions, new industries and new ways of doing business that are helping ambitious men earn money. I sent for a year's subscription to The Wall Street Journal and, believe me, it has paid off. Last year my income was $15,000.

This story is typical. If you think The Wall Street Journal is just for millionaires, you are WRONG! The Journal is a wonderful aid to salaried men making $7,500 to $25,000 a year. It is valuable to owners of small businesses. It can be of priceless benefit to ambitious young men who want to earn more money.

The Wall Street Journal is the complete business DAILY. Has largest staff of writers on business and finance. The only business paper served by all three big press associations. It costs $24 a year, but you can get a Trial Subscription for three months for $7. Just tear out this ad and attach check for $7 and mail. Or tell us to bill you.

Published daily right in the Southwest to bring you vital business and Washington news immediately. Address: The Wall Street Journal, 911 Young St., Dallas 2, Texas. MW 3-19

Business Prospects Brighten In Nation

Alaska Oil Hunting Cost Highest Ever

The average cost of drilling each foot of an Alaskan test is $135.84. The offshore Louisiana average is $38.16. The national average is only $12.90.

The average cost of the 18 wells drilled in Alaska in 1959 was $1,433,888. The average depth was 10,555 feet.

Exploration, development, and production costs were not included.

OFFSHORE

Including Alaska and offshore Louisiana, domestic operators drilled 49,563 wells that averaged $53,500 and 4,146 feet.

An Alaskan test therefore cost more than 26 times as much as the national average and nearly four times as much as an offshore Louisiana well.

Two major factors contribute to the Alaskan averages.

Expenditures for moving equipment to Alaska and over rugged terrain to a drilling site are tremendous. Most Alaskan tests to date also have been wildcats of the wildest variety.

The 1959 survey included no breakdown but a major portion of the national and offshore wells were of a development variety that usually carries much lower cost than wildcats.

Alaska's 18 tests resulted in six oil wells, three gas wells, and nine dry holes. Expenditures made on the oil wells and dry holes dwarfed the national and offshore Louisiana averages but the cost of the Alaskan gas wells was below the offshore average.

The three gas wells had an average cost of $403,333. The price tag on the 5,409 gas producers drilled by all domestic operators was only $100,700 but the 74 drilled offshore averaged $643,445.

The primary difference was depth. The Alaska gas producers averaged only 8,666 feet compared to 11,973 offshore. The Alaskan producers cost $46.53 a foot, compared to offshore Louisiana's $53.74.

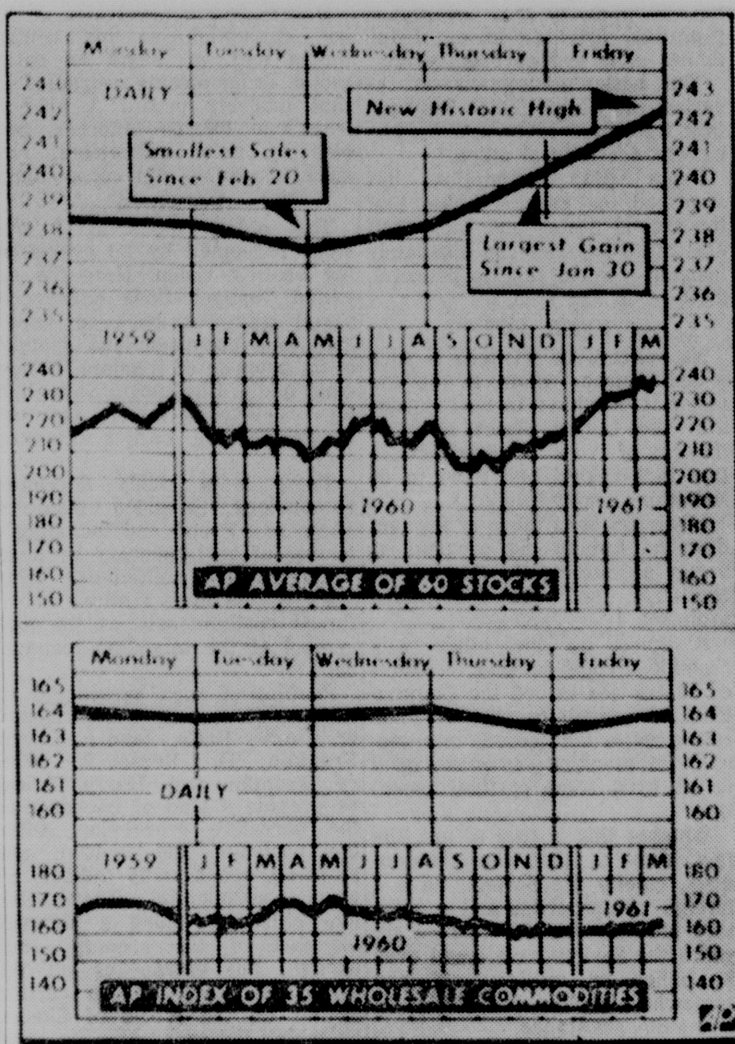
FINANCIAL $ OIL-GAS NEWS



ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks closed at new historic high of 242.6, up sharply from 238.5 a week ago. The Commodity Index closed at 164.2, unchanged from last week. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

OPINIONS DIVIDED

Big Week Scored In Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market this week emerged from a state of uncertainty and, buoyed by evidence of a business upturn, scored its second biggest weekly advance of 1961.

With the list dragging its heels early in the week, some veteran observers shook their heads and predicted that a sharp decline was not far off. They noted "weaknesses" in the market —a race for lower-priced stocks while the blue chips lay flat on their backs. Opinion was divided, however. Others expected a further rise.

AUTO UPTURN

The market rallied in midweek, spurred by surprising news of an upturn in auto production and sales. Chrysler, for instance, said it planned a 25 per cent production increase. American Motors reported record Rambler sales.

At the same time, word came that the nation's industrial production, which had been declining steadily for six months, had firmed in February. The Federal Reserve Board said this was the first sign that the recession had reached bottom or close to it.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 4.10 to a new historic high of 242.60. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index also stood at a new high of 64.60 as the week ended.

The rise in the AP average was the largest since the week ended Jan. 14 when a gain of 4.40 posted the year's record so far.

Volume was 26,461,491 shares compared with 29,026,120 the week before. Of 1,456 issues traded, 872 advanced and 443 declined.

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Silver Creek Precision, up ¾ at 2⅛ on 747,700 shares.

The bond markets reacted swiftly this week to fresh signs that the recession has touched bottom.

Treasury bonds slipped in four of the five sessions to lose as much as ¾ of a point. The setback was the worst since the second week of the year.

And for the first week of 1961 the corporate list failed to make noticeable headway. After a slight gain Monday prices seesawed unevenly the remainder of the week. They closed mixed based on the AP averages.

Volume fell to $38,944,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $48,943,000 last week —a 15-year high. The daily average was $7,788,800 compared with $9,788,600.

Gold Reserve Increases By $11 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—Some heavy statistical support gathered last week behind prophets of an early and marked upturn in business.

The best news of all was that a six month, unbroken skid in industrial production was halted in February.

Important cheer came from automakers who reported a decided pick up in car sales in the 10 days of March. Ford responded with plans for sharply increased production.

This and other food for optimism sent the stock market booming ahead again after what some viewed as an ominous pause lasting over a week.

Such manifestations of confidence are supposed to be a tonic for business all the way around.

GOLD RESERVES

The ebb of U. S. gold reserves was reversed for the first time since July 1959, the Federal Reserve Board reported. The reserves climbed $11 million last week, the board said.

Encouraging word developed on retail sales, electricity production and housing starts. In steel, production was off slightly but the order flow was better.

The number of idle men and women drawing unemployment compensation dipped—a hopeful straw despite concern that March figures would show another rise in joblessness.

In Washington, Congress acted to help those who are out of work and have exhausted jobless pay benefits, moving in a way calculated to boost the economy at the same time.

Enactment of the administration's emergency jobless pay program was virtually assured. This gave promise of pumping possibly $1 billion into the pockets of up to three million unemployed.

On the darker side, the Commerce Department reported the personal income of Americans sagged $700 in February to an annual rate of $405.90 billion.

RAILROADS

Another index that moved in the wrong direction was railroad carloadings, off 1.7 per cent from the preceding week and 12 per cent from the comparable 1960 week.

Underscoring the gravity of unemployment, pegged at above 5.7 million, the Labor Department said one of every four auto workers was idle and one of every six steel workers.

But on balance, events seemed to support a widely discussed remark by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges that "I think we've hit the bottom" of the recession.

Hodges gave his view several days before the main signposts of encouragement appeared. He relied mostly on hunch, encouraging retail trade figures and the conviction inventory shrinkage had about reached its limits.

Almost as Hodges spoke, a big New York bank — the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.—said that economic clouds appeared to be lifting and the business contraction to be at or near its bottom.

DURING 1960

Construction Up Locally; Decline Seen State Wide

Construction in Monroe increased 36.6 percent during 1960, despite an 8.8 per cent decrease in construction throughout Louisiana.

Dale Martha, who issues building permits in the Monroe engineering building, revealed this yesterday.

"Monroe has made some outstanding advances which have not been made elsewhere," Martha said.

The construction increase was included in his annual report for the city.

"Only 10 out of 32 lines of business showed a very slight gain in Louisiana during 1960," he commented.

22 ISSUED

During the past week, 22 building permits were issued.

Eighteen were for construction or additions costing $153,400, while three were for house moving, and one to demolish a house.

Friday, March 17:

Wet Weather Slows Drilling In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Wet weather has caused a delay in moving in completion equipment for a Jefferson County wildcat, the Burkley-Phillips No. 1, sec. 14 10W 2W.

Argo Oil Corp. and Charton Oil Corp. shut down testing because of the rain after finding an undisclosed amount of oil in the lower Tuscaloosa sand at 9,200-05 feet.

In the new southeast McComb oil field of Pike County, Barnwell Drilling Co. was below 10,500 feet in the Fernwood No. 2, sec. 20-3n-8e and Humble Oil Co. was below 9,000 in the southeast McComb oil unit No.1, sec. 19-3n-8e.

The new area is about 1½ miles southeast of the producing limits of the McComb field and has one completed well.

NUMBER ONE

North American Oil Corp. of Delaware was below 10,500 feet in the board of supervisors No. 2, sec. 16-3n-6e, Lincoln County.

North American operators drilled the board of supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-3n-7e, about one half mile south of the supervisors No. 2.

The No. 1 venture has casing perforated at 10,540-45 feet and a small amount of oil was recovered on initial swabbing operations.

In Issaquena County, Gulf Oil Corp. was reported to have resumed drilling operations on a deep wildcat, the Eagle Bend No. 1, sec. 8-18n-3e, after freeing stuck drill pipe. Pipe was stuck at 13,328 feet with the drilling depth 16,430.

Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. was below 8,700 feet in a Covington County wildcat, the Speed No. 1, sec. 18-8n-14w. Contract depth is 14,400 feet.

Two drilling operations were under in the New Bentonia Oil field in Yazoo County.

Humble Oil Co. was below 9,800 feet in the Thompson No. 2, sec. -9n-1w, a south offset to the discovery well.

Texaco Inc., has set surface casing in the Thompson No. 1, sec. 33-10n-1w, located northwest of the discovery well.

In the Satartia area of Yazoo County, Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. was below 10,000 in the Container Corp. of America, sec. 6-9n-4w, after logging slight gas shows at 9,900 feet.

Field drilling the past week brought three new oilers and one deep gas well.

Thornhill and Biglane completed the Terry No. 3, sec. 27-3n-7e, Pike County. The McComb field well flowed 129 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,963-73 feet.

In the Reedy Creek field of Jones County, California Co. completed the board of supervisors No. 1-2, sec. 16-9n-11w, which pumped 186 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 11,024-111 feet.

Sun Oil Co. completed the Hewitt No. 1, sec. 15-4n-6e, in the Smithdale Field of Amite County. The well was reported to have flowed 53 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 11,040-80 feet. Knoxo gas unit No. 1, sec. 18-2n-12e, in the Knoxo gas field of Walthall County which flowed 7,992,000 cubic feet of gas per day from a sand at 12,535-45 feet.

COMING THIS FALL

Larger Volkswagen Next

DETROIT (AP) — "Longer, lower, more powerful—and more expensive." The phrase could have been lifted word for word from the new model announcement of any American car of three or four years ago.

It came from a car announcement, all right. But it is a 1962 model, and it's not American.

Just as American auto manufacturers decided the public wanted smaller cars, and brought out the compacts, Volkswagen has decided the time has come to offer Germans something bigger, fancier and in more modern dress than the familiar VW "beetle."

And like the American "Big Three," who continued to offer standard size cars as well, Volkswagen says it will continue the beetle.

For a while only the present model will be sold in the United States.

In many ways a new Volkswagen is as revolutionary as Henry Ford's switch from Model T to Model A.

The VW, sometimes called a modern Model T, has been virtually unchanged in appearance since the end of World War II. But under the skin VW has made many changes.

First pictures of the bigger VW show it styled much more along American lines, minus chrome. Gone is the snub nose and the ducktail rear end.

A Chrysler man, viewing the pictures, saw a resemblance to the French Simca (which Chrysler sells). The new station wagon has strong characteristics of Chevrolet's Corvair wagon.

The company says the new model, the VW-1500, will be six inches longer than the present one, giving it an over-all length of 13 feet 10 inches. This still is seven inches less than the shortest current U.S. car, Rambler's American.

The flat four-cylinder rear engine will have a displacement of 1,500 cubic centimeters as against the present 1,192 cc. But the engine package will be smaller and VW plans a trunk in the rear as well as in the front. The engine will be mounted directly over rear drive wheels.

In Germany the two-door sedan will cost $1,600, or about $370 more than the current one. VW's port-of-entry price in the United States for the beetle is $1,565.

Heinz Nordhoff, guiding genius of Volkswagen, has been eyeing the growing middle class prosperity in Germany and Europe for some time.

SHOW OFF

"People want to show off their prosperity," he told American reporters two years ago, "and can afford better transportation."

At that time Nordhoff also said Volkswagen was building a new model every year for testing purposes and thus would have one ready whenever the market dictated.

Volkswagen is the third biggest selling car in the world, trailing only Chevrolet and Ford. Some four million are in operation in 120 countries both sides of the Iron Curtain. It is by far the biggest foreign seller in the United States, with more than 500,000 in operation.

So far it is the only volume imported car to boost its American sales in the face of competition from the compacts. VW registrations in the United States last year of almost 10,000 topped 1959 figures by 50,000 units.

Carl Hahn, general manager of Volkswagen of America which is building a $2.5 million headquarters at Englewood Cliffs, N. J., predicts at least 200,000 sales here this year.

WE DESIGN

The idea of a new VW design has horrified some conservative Volkswagen fans, among them Rudolph DiFazio, a reporter for the Royal Oak (Mich.) Tribune, who explained his bride of a few months brought along the car as part of her dowry.

DiFazio, in print, said "I know full well that it (the new model) will appear on American streets. Some eager beaver is going to buy one in Europe and bring it back to the U. S.

"And as the owner—once removed—of a VW, my first reaction was to protest. After all, Volkswagens have been exchanged for 15 years!

"Would Rolls-Royce put on tailfins?

"Would Cadillac take them off?

"I doubt it!

"All I could think of was this was a fine way to treat a person who religiously reads the VW magazine advertisements! Had VW given in to Madisonstrasse? Was it destroying its corporate image?

"Most of all, would I still be able to wear that superior sneer of nonconformity, when it looked like my 'bug's' big brother was being very conformist?"

But DiFazio admitted he could find few who shared his alarm. Even his wife, assured the present model will be continued, asked "what's all the fuss?"

Another VW owner in Detroit, where the little car has boomed in the shadows of the American auto plants, said he wasn't concerned about the styling changes.

"From what I can see in the pictures," he said, "the Germans are keeping their reputation for building the ugliest cars in the world."

Grain Futures Show Mixed On Chicago Board

CHICAGO (UPI)—Soybeans advanced under new-found encouragement this week, but other grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were lower.

Compared with last Friday, wheat was off 1½ to 2⅛; corn off 1½ to 2; oats off 1¾ to up ¼; rye off 3⅛ to 6¼; soybeans off 1 to up 5¾, and drummed lard off 15 to up 5 points.

Soybeans remained sensitive to trade news, and prices swung widely. Old crop monts found strength, however, in higher meal and oil prices and export sales.

Wheat futures declined sharply under long liquidation. Good moisture in the Southwest brought selling in new crop months. Small export sales were reported, but overseas business was generally slow.

Red cash wheat had a good mill demand. Interest was light, however, in hard and yellow wheat. Spot prices were about a half-cent lower.

Janssen One Of Busiest In Film Capital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — David Janssen has, within the last year, made 10 "Richard Diamond" TV episodes; spent a month on summer stock; filmed his own TV pilot and six movies in which he was in practically every scene.

He's known as the town's hardest-working actor.

FORGET

"I see no reason why actors shouldn't keep the same hours as any other working man," he explains. "Besides, I love money."

Other young leading men in town won't work that hard for fear of overexposure.

"That's a word that has cropped up in Hollywood talk the last few years," says Janssen. "I don't think there can be such a thing for a young actor."

That's where he could be smarter than others of the young crop. Nowadays a young actor reads about a John Wayne doing a picture or two a year. They forget that Wayne once turned out a movie every eight days for the old Monogram studio.

"I feel I'm serving my apprenticeship," says Janssen. "Overexposure? There is no such word. An actor has to be seen to make stardom. There's only one road to success in this town — lots of work, good scripts and sensible casting."

His movie cycle started with "From Hell to Eternity" wherein he was a tough Marine sergeant. Next he played a sharp operator who turns nursemaid for a waif in "Dondi;" then gambler Arnold Rothstein in "The Big Bankroll;" followed that with melodramatic adventure in "Ring of Fire;" a tender lover in "Twenty Plus Two," and now a villain who is the very devil himself in "Deadlock."

Actress Feels Justified In Oscar Pursuit

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Should actors campaign for Oscars?

No, say such veteran performers and past winners as Mary Astor and Spencer Tracy.

Yes, says young Shirley Knight, nominated this year for the best supporting actress because of "Dark at the Top of the Stairs."

"I honestly believe that if I hadn't campaigned, I wouldn't have been nominated," she contended. "In most cases, I don't think campaigning for a nomination is right. It certainly isn't right if you put on a big drive to get a nomination you don't deserve.

"But if you feel that you did a job worthy of recognition, I think you should work for it—in cases where your efforts haven't been seen.

"This year, the outstanding examples were Peter Falk and myself. He spent thousands of dollars to get recognition and with good reason—he was in virtually a B picture ("Murder, Inc.") that few of the voters saw.

"As for myself, I doubt if 200 of the 485 actor-members who nominated academy awards for actors actually saw 'Dark at the Top of the Stairs.' So I felt I was justified in calling their attention to it. I spent thousands of dollars of my own money, which I could ill afford, in trade paper ads. The studio (Warner Brothers) paid half of the bills."

The result: she was nominated. And did she get what she wanted?

"Yes," declared Shirley, who is now on "The Couch" (that's a movie). "The main thing I gained was not with the public or with the movie industry. It was with the studio. When you are starting out, as I am, it's hard to get the studio to recognize you.

"The academy nomination did that for me. Now when parts come along, they think of me. It will be easier for me to get loan-outs, too. That's why the nominations mean more to newcomers like Peter Falk and myself than to anyone else in the race."

She doesn't know about her chances, although she hears the Las Vegas odds have made her the dark horse in her particular sweepstakes. At any rate, she plans no more campaigning; she figures she has already won what she was after.

Floyd-Ingo Fight Film At Paramount

The most eagerly awaited showdown, for the most coveted single title in the sports world, will be presented through the all-seeing eye of the motion picture camera when Floyd Patterson, who regained his heavyweight title from Ingemar Johansson only last June, defended it against the Swedish kayo artist in their third bout. Certain to be as dramatic as any "movie showdown" this rubber match, which the experts predicted wouldn't surely end in a knockout, will put theatre audiences closer to the details and excitement of the fight than the $100 a seat ringsiders, when the Paramount Theatre's wide screen displays this history making fight with the clarity and assurance of total observation that only a movie camera can promise. The film will be shown starting today at the Paramount.

Every detail and thrill was photographed from many angles by several cameras which recorded each telling blow, each knockdown, clinch and important sidelight.

Each of these fighters knew that in this showdown he was up against his most dangerous opponent. Each has learned at first hand — at first fist — the other's style. Each has tasted the fruits of owning the title and the agony of losing it. Each determined to leave the ring with it and both, so nearly alike in age, weight, height and other ring considerations, are at the very top of their forms. There was no return clause in the contracts for this fight.

Lenten Message

By
THE REV. THOMAS HOLDEN
Executive Secretary and Stated Clerk, Synod of California, United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.
(Written for UPI)

Christians are under necessity always to remind themselves that "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." The one who spoke thus was an eloquent example of the principal He proclaimed.

Concerning Himself he said, "The foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay his head." Notwithstanding, He lived a life so rich and full that He stands as a watershed in time.

This message is not to say that poverty is more to be extolled than riches, but rather to remind us that, being as a people possessed of superabundance of things, we need the more to give heed to the more important considerations of the spirit.

The observance of Lent provides an occasion and opportunity for all who will to make thoughtful and comprehensive plans for the enrichment of their lives. Resources in great variety are available through Christian churches in every community, and ministers and priests stand ready to make suggestions and to open up avenues of study and activities.

The Almanac

Today is Sunday, March 19, the 78th day of the year with 287 more in 1961.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1813, Scottish missionary and African explorer David Livingstone was born.

In 1860, congressman, and three - time presidential nominee William Jennings Bryan was born.

In 1920, the U. S. Senate rejected the Versailles Treaty providing for a league of nations.

In 1942, all men between the ages of 45 and 64 were ordered to register with the Selective Service for nonmilitary duty in World War II.

In 1951, Herman Wouk's Pulitzer Prize winning novel "The Caine Mutiny" was published.

A thought for today: Alfred North Whitehead said: "The human body is an instrument for the production of art in the life of the human soul."

Hollywood Sees Different Kind Of Film Party

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Composer Dmitri Tiomkin tossed a different kind of Hollywood party last week.

Instead of liquor, there was coffee and fruit punch.

Instead of a jazz group, there was hymn singing by a choir.

The setting—the Beverly Hills Hotel Crystal Room — and the guests—many of the big names in the movies—were the same as for the typical Hollywood parties.

But the guest of honor was unique — Mahalia Jackson, the famed Negro Gospel singer.

Tiomkin calls her the "greatest musical talent of the age." He said the no-liquor edict was in honor of Miss Jackson's deep spirituality.

Said Miss Jackson: "I'm just a simple woman."

FAULKNER PLOT

'Sanctuary' Now At Paramount

The fast - living tragic hard-drinking rebellion of American youth is brought to the screen with realism and suspense in "Sanctuary" 20th Century - Fox CinemaScope version of two best-selling novels by William Faulkner opening today at the Paramount Theatre with Lee Remick Yves Montand and Bradford Dillman in stellar leads.

Here is the deep south as Faulkner delights in exposing it: the "proper" communities riddled with moral decay the "first families" behind whose veneer of social prestige some dark and startling shame exists. This story, combining the plots of "Sanctuary" and "Requiem for a Nun," deals with the correct household of the Governor (Howard St. John), whose cherished and properly married daughter Temple Drake (Lee Remick) makes an astonishing confession to him one night before the execution of a household servant for the murder of Temple's baby. In a desperate last - minute attempt to save the life of the negress (Odetta), the Governor's daughter exposes her own guilty past, her segret headlong affair with an underworld kingpin named Candy (Yves Montand) and the real reasons why the maddened servant felt that the infant would be better off dead. Unfolded in tense and violent flash - back, interpreted by a superb cast, the story makes one of the memorable dramatic experiences of the current film season.

EXCITEMENT

As the excitement seeking flapper who never quite gets over her violent involvement with the "Candy Man," Lee Remick delivers an unforgettable performance sustaining all her earlier promise as a dramatic actress of profound and sensitive gifts.

Yves Montand, as "Candy," the vice ridden Cajun peddler of illicit liquor and illicit love, is persuasive, passionate and dangerous, in love with Temple yet ready to exploit her naivete and her youthful instability. This role is a far cry from his impish casting as the billionaire in the recent "Let's Make Love" and will certainly boost the Montand legend of versatility.

Notable in the cast is the great brooding personality of Odetta an actress of wisdom, range and power, who brings to the part of the Negro murderess a quality of integrity that will not soon be forgotten.

Produced by Richard Zanuck and directed by Tony Richardson, "Sanctuary" is dramatic entertainment that captures the full flavor of the decadent "roaring 20's" in a region of America that William Faulkner has made superbly his own.

My Answer

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am in great distress. I was saved and became a happy, aggressive worker in our church. Then, knowingly and deliberately I committed sin and continued doing so for months and years. Do you think there is any hope for me?

K. T.

ANSWER: You have grieved your Lord, and disappointed others, but most of all, you have hurt yourself. Sin is retroactive, and hurts the one who sins more than anyone else. There is no darkness like the darkness of those who have once known the light. There is no hell like the hell those experience who have once known the joys of heaven. You have been paying for your wrongdoing by the installment plan, and Satan is a ruthless creditor.

You lost your happiness when you deliberately and knowingly sinned, and you will regain it when you humble and sorrowfully repent of the things that separated you from God. The Bible says, "The Lord's hand is not shortened that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that he cannot hear: but your iniquities have separated between you and your God and your sins have hid his face from you." Issa. 59:2.

Satan has led you into sin, and he would like you to commit one more — the sin of despair. But he had duped you long enough. At once repent of this wrong that has separated you from God, and He will forgive and restore you.

Curtain Call

Did you see in the "25 Years Ago" column, that the Monroe Little Theatre's second production of that season was "Two For Three," directed by Jackson Purdy. If "Curtain Call's" memory serves her right, the plays were presented then at the Old City School Auditorium. Little Theatre has come a long way since 1936. The new Strauss Playhouse is a dream come true. "Damn Yankees," in rehearsal there nightly (except Saturdays and Sundays), is a fabulous musical comedy that promises to please everyone. Plans are being made now for a gala opening week. More about that later.

NEW NAMES

We have new names to add to the set construction committee, Mary Wright, Becky Wright, Carol Petty, Jim Guthrie, Ruth Henry, Carol Curry and Phyliss Smith, have been working hard on the sets this past week.

Richard could use some more help backstage with lights and sound. There is new equipment that needs someone to operate it. Also, anyone handy with a paint brush is welcome. And the director is calling for more girl dancers for the chorus. Come on out, girls! Elvie McGehee, our choreographer from New Orleans, will teach you the routines and you will have loads of fun working in the new theatre.

PERFORMANCE

Katherine and Ray Magruder drove down to Baton Rouge last week to catch a performance of daughter, Joan, in the LSU production of Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not For Burning."

They report that these ambitious drama students played to a full house all three nights. Joan has appeared in many of our own plays as well as summer stock in Indiana and Wyoming.

If any of you have extra coffee spoons around the house, the hospitality committee would be happy to have them for the new theatre. Just call Ethel Boardman at FA 3-7611, or Carol Layton at FA 2-4369. They will have twice as many people to serve as they did in the old theatre.

FOR INFLUENCE

Broadway Star Credits Movies

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Hirsch, Broadway's remarkable Frenchman, gives the credit to American movies.

As a kid, the black-eyed actor gorged on Hollywood fare in his father's Paris cinema and so decided show world was the place to be.

"That was the vital influence," he says.

The envy of schoolmates, he recalls seeing "The Charge of the Light Brigade" 24 times and "Captain Blood" 19 times during one juvenile binge.

Now a leading member of the Comedie Francaise, Hirsch, 35, won great attention from public and critics in his U. S. debut at New York City Center and on a brief East Coast tour now ending.

Hirsch garnered standout notices first as a splendid comic in a Moliere classic, "Scapin's Pranks." Several pundits labeled him "master clown," and one called the presentation an event of "international importance."

SIMILAR SALVO

A few nights later he returned, to a similar salvo of superlatives, as the tragic villain Nero of Racine's "Brittanicus."

Tragedy is the newest phase of Hirsch's accomplishments.

"All clowns deep down want a serious role, like 'Hamlet,'" he explains. "In my case it was to act Nero the one tragic role I wanted in all French literature."

Some of these days, he would like also to tackle Shakespeare's Richard III for tragedy, Puck for comedy.

Tracing the development of his career, Hirsch recalls that he first applied himself to dancing. He won a job with the Paris Opera ballet, with military service due, never signed the contract.

His first professional acting appearance was as a toothless ancient in "Taming of the Shrew."

It wasn't long until his dramatic instincts earned a scholarship with the Comedie Francaise, and in 1948 he joined the performing company.

"Tragedy and comedy are equally difficult or easy," Hirsch says. "Scapin is physically exhausting. Nero is more so inside.

"In playing, however, there is a difference—with comedy you must play both the role and the audience. With tragedy it is not so important that you immediately adapt to audience reaction."

Half-Creatures: Criticizing the critics is a popular current theatrical pastime, and now an opinion of George Bernard Shaw on the matter comes to light.

A hitherto-uncollected batch of his writings, just published under the title "How to Become a Musical Critic," includes the 1892 GBS opinion that the thespic reviewer is "something between an unskilled laborer and a journeyman."

He adds, "They are creatures with half-developed senses, who will listen to any sort of stage diction and look at any sort of stage picture without more artistic feeling than is involved in the daily act of listening to the accent and scrutinizing the hat of a new acquaintance in order to estimate his income and social standing."

That, and a lot more, make present anticritics seem pretty tame fellows.

Rialto Roundup: Eileen Brennan, the title warbler of the long-run musical spoof, "Little Mary Sunshine," gets a sharp switch of role in upcoming tour of "The Miracle Worker." She takes the part created on Broadway by Anne Bancroft . . . Another tour provides Sir Laurence Olivier with a turnabout workout. "Becket," the season's most impressive drama import, winds up White Way engagement March 25 for visits to Philadelphia, Washington, Detroit, Boston and Toronto. Olivier will switch from the title role to portrayal of Henry II. Anthony Quinn, who held that part here, leaves the company. Arthur Kennedy steps into Olivier's previous assignment.

Janssen One Of Busiest In Film Capital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — David Janssen has, within the last year, made 10 "Richard Diamond" TV episodes; spent a month on summer stock; filmed his own TV pilot and six movies in which he was in practically every scene.

He's known as the town's hardest-working actor.

FORGET

"I see no reason why actors shouldn't keep the same hours as any other working man," he explains. "Besides, I love money."

Other young leading men in town won't work that hard for fear of overexposure.

"That's a word that has cropped up in Hollywood talk the last few years," says Janssen. "I don't think there can be such a thing for a young actor."

That's where he could be smarter than others of the young crop. Nowadays a young actor reads about a John Wayne doing a picture or two a year. They forget that Wayne once turned out a movie every eight days for the old Monogram studio.

"I feel I'm serving my apprenticeship," says Janssen. "Overexposure? There is no such word. An actor has to be seen to make stardom. There's only one road to success in this town — lots of work, good scripts and sensible casting."

His movie cycle started with "From Hell to Eternity" wherein he was a tough Marine sergeant. My Answer

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am in great distress. I was saved and became a happy, aggressive worker in our church. Then, knowingly and deliberately I committed sin and continued doing so for months and years. Do you think there is any hope for me?

K. T.

ANSWER: You have grieved your Lord, and disappointed others, but most of all, you have hurt yourself. Sin is retroactive, and hurts the one who sins more than anyone else. There is no darkness like the darkness of those who have once known the light. There is no hell like the hell those experience who have once known the joys of heaven. You have been paying for your wrongdoing by the installment plan, and Satan is a ruthless creditor.

You lost your happiness when you deliberately and knowingly sinned, and you will regain it when you humble and sorrowfully repent of the things that separated you from God. The Bible says, "The Lord's hand is not shortened that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that he cannot hear; but your iniquities have separated between you and your God and your sins have hid his face from you." Issa. 592.

Satan has led you into sin, and he would like you to commit one more — the sin of despair. But he had duped you long enough. At once repent of this wrong that has separated you from God, and He will forgive and restore you.

Curtain Call

Did you see in the "25 Years Ago" column, that the Monroe Little Theatre's second production of that season was "Two For Three," directed by Jackson Purdy. If "Curtain Call's" memory serves her right, the plays were presented then at the Old City School Auditorium. Little Theatre has come a long way since 1936. The new Strauss Playhouse is a dream come true. "Damn Yankees," in rehearsal there nightly (except Saturdays and Sundays), is a fabulous musical comedy that promises to please everyone. Plans are being made now for a gala opening week. More about that later.

NEW NAMES

We have new names to add to the set construction committee. Mary Wright Becky Wright, Carol Petty, Jim Guthrie, Ruth Henry, Carol Curry and Phyliss Smith, have been working hard on the sets this past week.

Richard could use some more help backstage with lights and sound. There is new equipment that needs someone to operate it. Also, anyone handy with a paint brush is welcome. And the director is calling for more girl dancers for the chorus. Come on out, girls! Elvie McGehee, our choreographer from New Orleans, will teach you the routines and you will have loads of fun working in the new theatre.

PERFORMANCE

Katherine and Ray Magruder drove down to Baton Rouge last week to catch a performance of daughter, Joan, in the LSU production of Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not For Burning."

They report that these ambitious drama students played to a full house all three nights. Joan has appeared in many of our own plays as well as summer stock in Indiana and Wyoming.

If any of you have extra coffee spoons around the house, the hospitality committee would be happy to have them for the new theatre. Just call Ethel Boardman at FA 3-7611, or Carol Layton at FA 2-4869. They will have twice as many people to serve as they did in the old theatre.

FOR INFLUENCE

Broadway Star Credits Movies

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Hirsch, Broadway's remarkable Frenchman, gives the credit to American movies.

As a kid, the black-eyed actor gorged on Hollywood fare in his father's Paris cinema—and so decided show world was the place to be.

"That was the vital influence," he says.

The envy of schoolmates, he recalls seeing "The Charge of the Light Brigade" 24 times and "Captain Blood" 19 times during one juvenile binge.

Now a leading member of the Comedie Francaise, Hirsch, 33, won great attention from public and critics in his U. S. debut at New York City Center and on a brief East Coast tour now ending.

Hirsch garnered standout notices first as a splendid comic in a Moliere classic, "Scapin's Pranks." Several pundits labeled him "master clown," and one called the presentation an event of "international importance."

SIMILAR SALVO

A few nights later he returned, to a similar salvo of superlatives, as the tragic villain Nero of Racine's "Brittanicus."

Tragedy is the newest phase of Hirsch's accomplishments.

"All clowns deep down want a serious role, like 'Hamlet,'" he explains. "In my case it was to act Nero—the one tragic role I wanted in all French literature."

Some of these days, he would like also to tackle Shakespeare's Richard III for tragedy, Puck for comedy.

Tracing the development of his career, Hirsch recalls that he first applied himself to dancing. He won a job with the Paris Opera but, with military service due, never signed the contract.

His first professional acting appearance was as a toothless ancient in "Taming of the Shrew."

It wasn't long until his dramatic instincts earned a scholarship with the Comedie Francaise, and in 1948 he joined the performing company.

"Tragedy and comedy are equally difficult—or easy," Hirsch says. "Scapin is physically exhausting. Nero is more so inside.

"In playing, however, there is a difference—with comedy you must play both the role and the audience. With tragedy it is not so important that you immediately adapt to audience reaction."

Half-Creatures: Criticizing the critics is a popular current theatrical pastime, and now an opinion of George Bernard Shaw on the matter comes to light.

A hitherto-uncollected batch of his writings, just published under the title "How to Become a Musical Critic," includes the 1892 GBS opinion that the thespic reviewer is "something between an unskilled laborer and a journeyman."

He adds: "They are creatures with half-developed senses, who will listen to any sort of stage diction and look at any sort of stage picture without more artistic feeling than is involved in the daily act of listening to the accent and scrutinizing the hat of a new acquaintance in order to estimate his income and social standing."

That, and a lot more, make present anticritics seem pretty tame fellows.

Rialto Roundup: Eileen Brennan, the title warbler of the long-run musical spoof, "Little Mary Sunshine," gets a sharp switch of role in upcoming tour of "The Miracle Worker." She takes the part created on Broadway by Anne Bancroft . . . Another tour provides Sir Laurence Olivier with a turnabout workout. "Becket," the season's most impressive drama import, winds up White Way engagement March 25 for visits to Philadelphia, Washington, Detroit, Boston and Toronto. Olivier will switch from the title role to portrayal of Henry II. Anthony Quinn, who held that part here, leaves the company. Arthur Kennedy steps into Olivier's previous assignment.

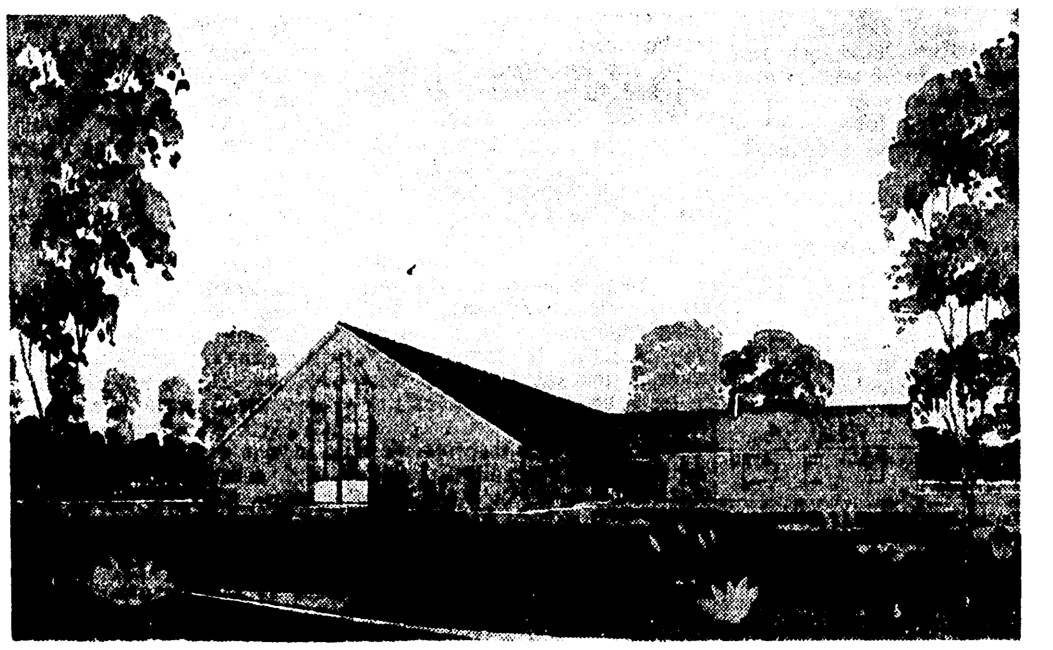
GROUND WAS broken recently for a new educational building for McClendon Baptist Church, Downing Pine Road, West Monroe. Cost of materials will be $15,000, and construction will be by donated labor. Holding shovel is John Finklea, whose wife stands beside him. They are church charter members. From left behind them are Dewey Brown, chairman of Building Committee; Mark Little, treasurer of Finance Committee; Dana Brewster, president of trustees; Ray Anding, Sunday school superintendent, and the Rev. Charles Holstead, pastor.



HERE IS AN architect's drawing of how the St. Mark's Methodist Church building will look when it is completed. Work on the project will start soon.

THE REV. E. E. TAYLOR, above, will return to his home town of West Monroe, to launch a revival series at the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church today which will run through March 26. He is now pastor of the Morningside Baptist Church of Shreveport. Assisting him will be Sonny Steed, a former West Monroyan and music director of the Trinity Baptist Church. Services will be held daily at 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

2 Churches Merge Today At New Site

Congregations of the Fairbanks and Sterlington Methodist churches will worship at 10 a.m. today in their respective sanctuaries, and at 11 a.m. will unite in their new quarters at St. Andrews Methodist Church.

First services will be held today in the new $63,000 brick veneer St. Andrews Church located between Fairbanks and Sterlington, it was announced by the Rev. Ted Howes, pastor. The Rev. George Harbuck, district superintendent will preside at services.

OPEN HOUSE

In the afternoon, from 3 to 5, there will be an open house at the new church building, with members of the Women's Society of Christian Service as hostesses.

Work on the building was started late last year with Rannie Terral of Farmerville as contractor. William Baker of Winnsboro was architect. Chairman of the building committee was Harold DeBray.

Presiding at services in their respective sanctuaries this morning will be former pastors of the churches. At Fairbanks will be the Rev. David Corley, and at Sterlington, the Rev. Walter Allen.

Processions from the two churches to the new sanctuary will be led by chairmen of the official boards, Harry Sloan of Fairbanks, and Harry Seffens of Sterlington.

Plans Ready For Building New Church

Plans are completed and ground breaking scheduled for the beginning of work on the new St. Mark's Methodist Church building at Swartz Road and Bayou Oak Road, it was announced by the Rev. Forrest Blount, pastor.

Ground breaking will take place Sunday, March 26, at 3 p.m. Contract for construction was signed March 14 with Frank C. Eason Construction Co.

ORGANIZED

The church was organized Feb. 28, 1960, with 61 charter members. It now has 121 members. Present meeting place is the Lakeshore Elementary School.

The facilities will include six rooms in the educational annex, fellowship hall and adjacent rest rooms, sanctuary, pastor's study and choir room. Construction will get under way shortly after the ground breaking, and completion of the project is expected by early summer, when the building will be occupied.

Officials said that this will be the first of a three - stage construction program. The second stage will be the main sanctuary with additional education facilities. The third stage will be an educational wing designated for youth activities.

The first unit will include 5,000 square feet of building on a three-acre site. The church will be of solid masonry, with indirect lighting in the sanctuary. It will be fully air conditioned, and the entire educational annex will be pre - finished in ash paneling.

On the building committee are Nolan Maxwell, chairman; R. W. Gregory Jr., H. W. Golson, William Roche, and Mrs. Jase Johnson. The Rev. George Harbuck is superintendent of the Monroe district of the Methodist Church.

Church Arranges Bazaar; Special Speaker Slated

A bazaar will be held Thursday by the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, it was announced by the Rev. W. M. Allen, pastor.

It will be held at the Knights of Pythias Hall, 125½ St. John Street on the second floor above Standard Office Supply. Sponsor is the WSCS of the church. Dinner will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Pie, cake, soft drinks and coffee, as well as Easter gifts will be offered.

Mrs. C. B. Parsons is president of the WSCS group.

It was also announced that featured speaker at the church today will be Capt W. E. Grantham of the Salvation Army. He will appear at the 10:50 a.m. service.

District Council Day Observance Announced Here

The Assembly of God churches of the Monroe area will be cooperating in District Council Day activities in all of their congregations today.

Services will be conducted in all of the Assembly churches throughout the state, with special offerings being taken for the new state offices located in Alexandria.

The Rev. C. E. Peak, state secretary, will be special speaker at the Central Assembly of God Church, Hall and Calypso, the Rev. William Blair, pastor, said.

Youth Week Program Is Slated Here

A lineup of talented speakers has been scheduled for appearance during Youth Week observances at the Parkview Baptist Church, 1001 Forsythe, during the period of March 26 to April 2.

Starting 10 a.m. Friday, March 31, there will be a youth - led rally, and morning and evening services Easter Sunday will climax the observance.

Ed Crowley, chairman of the evangelistic committee, said leadership for the revival will be made up of four ranking Baylor University students, two of them from this area.

MINISTER

Billy Weber, the visiting minister, is the son of the Rev. Jaroy Weber former pastor of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe and now director of evangelism of the Louisiana State Baptist Convention. He is a freshman at Baylor and pastor of the Patton Baptist Church in Waco.

The visiting singer will be John Wyatt, who has been active in choir work around Texas. Dan Sampson, soloist, is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Sampson. He is a freshman and member of the Baylor Glee Club. Mack Moore, a junior, will be pianist and organist.

Parents Group Slates Election

The Parents Club of Jesus the Good Shepherd School will meet on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria for the election of officers. Outgoing president is Dr. Oliver Vreeland.

A special program for the evening will feature Father William Provosty, who will present color slides of Rome, highlighting some interesting aspects of the Vatican.

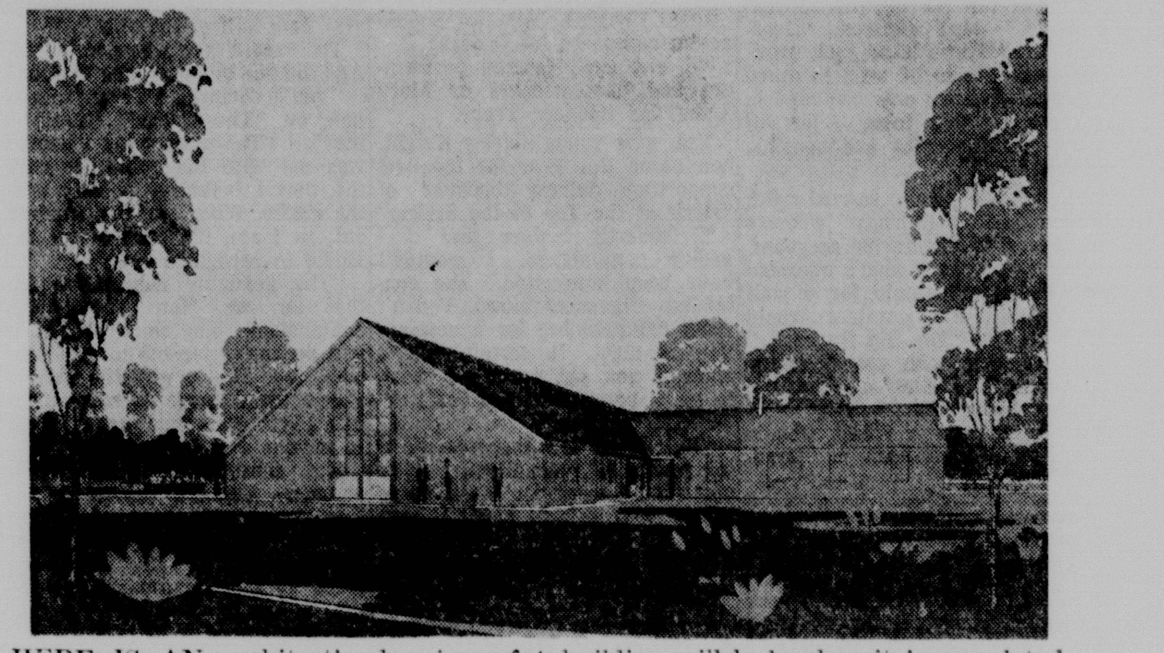
GROUND WAS broken recently for a new educational building for McClendon Baptist Church, Downing Pine Road, West Monroe. Cost of materials will be $15,000, and construction will be by donated labor. Holding shovel is John Finklea, whose wife stands beside him. They are church charter members. From left behind them are Dewey Brown, chairman of Building Committee; Mark Little, treasurer of Finance Committee; Dana Brewster, president of trustees; Ray Anding, Sunday school superintendent, and the Rev. Charles Holstead, pastor.



HERE IS AN architect's drawing of how the St. Mark's Methodist Church building will look when it is completed. Work on the project will start soon.

THE REV. E. E. TAYLOR, above, will return to his home town of West Monroe, to launch a revival series at the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church today which will run through March 26. He is now pastor of the Morningside Baptist Church of Shreveport. Assisting him will be Sonny Steed, a former West Monroyan and music director of the Trinity Baptist Church. Services will be held daily at 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

2 Churches Merge Today At New Site

Congregations of the Fairbanks and Sterlington Methodist churches will worship at 10 a.m. today in their respective sanctuaries, and at 11 a.m. will unite in their new quarters at St. Andrews Methodist Church.

First services will be held today in the new $63,000 brick veneer St. Andrews Church located between Fairbanks and Sterlington, it was announced by the Rev. Ted Howes, pastor. The Rev. George Harbuck, district superintendent will preside at services.

OPEN HOUSE

In the afternoon, from 3 to 5, there will be an open house at the new church building, with members of the Women's Society of Christian Service as hostesses.

Work on the building was started late last year with Rannie Terral of Farmerville as contractor. William Baker of Winnsboro was architect. Chairman of the building committee was Harold DeBray.

Presiding at services in their respective sanctuaries this morning will be former pastors of the churches. At Fairbanks will be the Rev. David Corley, and at Sterlington, the Rev. Walter Allen.

Processions from the two churches to the new sanctuary will be led by chairmen of the official boards, Harry Sloan of Fairbanks, and Harry Seffens of Sterlington.

Plans Ready For Building New Church

Plans are completed and ground breaking scheduled for the beginning of work on the new St. Mark's Methodist Church building at Swartz Road and Bayou Oak Road, it was announced by the Rev. Forrest Blount, pastor.

Ground breaking will take place Sunday, March 26, at 3 p.m. Contract for construction was signed March 14 with Frank C. Eason Construction Co.

ORGANIZED

The church was organized Feb. 23, 1960, with 61 charter members. It now has 121 members. Present meeting place is the Lakeshore Elementary School.

The facilities will include six rooms in the educational annex, fellowship hall and adjacent rest rooms, sanctuary, pastor's study and choir room. Construction will get under way shortly after the ground breaking, and completion of the project is expected by early summer, when the building will be occupied.

Officials said that this will be the first of a three-stage construction program. The second stage will be the main sanctuary with additional education facilities. The third stage will be an educational wing designated for youth activities.

The first unit will include 5,000 square feet of building on a three-acre site. The church will be of solid masonry, with indirect lighting in the sanctuary. It will be fully air conditioned, and the entire educational annex will be pre-finished in ash paneling.

On the building committee are Nolan Maxwell, chairman; R. W. Gregory Jr., H. W. Golson, William Roche, and Mrs. Jase Johnson. The Rev. George Harbuck is superintendent of the Monroe district of the Methodist Church.

Church Arranges Bazaar; Special Speaker Slated

A bazaar will be held Thursday by the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, it was announced by the Rev. W. M. Allen, pastor.

It will be held at the Knights of Pythias Hall, 125½ St. John Street on the second floor above Standard Office Supply. Sponsor is the WSCS of the church. Dinner will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Pie, cake, soft drinks and coffee, as well as Easter gifts will be offered.

Mrs. C. B. Parsons is president of the WSCS group.

It was also announced that featured speaker at the church today will be Capt. W. E. Grantham of the Salvation Army. He will appear at the 10:50 a.m. service.

District Council Day Observance Announced Here

The Assembly of God churches of the Monroe area will be cooperating in District Council Day activities in all of their congregations today.

Services will be conducted in all of the Assembly churches throughout the state, with special offerings being taken for the new state offices located in Alexandria.

The Rev. C. E. Peak, state secretary, will be special speaker at the Central Assembly of God Church, Hall and Calypso, the Rev. William Blair, pastor, said.

Youth Week Program Is Slated Here

A lineup of talented speakers has been scheduled for appearance during Youth Week observances at the Parkview Baptist Church, 1001 Forsythe, during the period of March 26 to April 2.

Starting 10 a.m. Friday, March 31, there will be a youth-led rally, and morning and evening services Easter Sunday will climax the observance.

Ed Crowley, chairman of the evangelistic committee, said leadership for the revival will be made up of four ranking Baylor University students, two of them from this area.

MINISTER

Billy Weber, the visiting minister, is the son of the Rev. Jaroy Weber former pastor of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe and now director of evangelism of the Louisiana State Baptist Convention. He is a freshman at Baylor and pastor of the Patton Baptist Church in Waco.

The visiting singer will be John Wyatt, who has been active in choir work around Texas. Dan Sampson, soloist, is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Sampson. He is a freshman and member of the Baylor Glee Club. Mack Moore, a junior, will be pianist and organist.

Parents Group Slates Election

The Parents Club of Jesus the Good Shepherd School will meet on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria for the election of officers. Outgoing president is Dr. Oliver Vreeland.

A special program for the evening will feature Father William Provosty, who will present color slides of Rome, highlighting some interesting aspects of the Vatican.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Their fine attendance was a tribute to the quality of "football professors" like John Bridgers, Charles McClendon, and George Terry whose gridiron knowledge the prep tutors sought, and to Northeast State and Athletic Director Jack Rowan and his staff.

When the elements were gushing forth with rain, lightning, high winds and tornado threats Friday we figured the opening feature of the clinic, the Friday night barbecue supper, was going to be found short on guests, and that maybe the weather would give the clinic a break yesterday.

But while the weather conditions did deter some, the barbecue was a big success, and the clinic yesterday was welcomed with splendid weather considering what had come before.

Bridgers, the offensive wizard and head coach of the Baylor bears who built the Texans into a national power in two seasons after being lured from the Baltimore Colts, national pro champs at the time, spiced the clinic with his views on offensive tactics and how to exploit them.

McClendon and Terry, aides to head coach Paul Dietzel at LSU, have won acclain for their work in developing and maintaining the defensive might of the Louisiana Bengals. "The Chinese Bandits," the defensive troopers of LSU, have brought national fame and glory on the LSU coaches as well as themselves.

Now, after hearing Bridgers tell what makes a top offensive outfit like Baylor go, and listening to Terry and McClendon expound on the success of a strong defense, the prep coaches are left with the job of sorting out the grid gems best suited to their own needs and their available talent to improve their own teams.

End coach George Luffey of Northeast took occasion to glean a little knowledge from Bridgers on the side by cornering him during the Friday night barbecue to talk deployment of ends for passing attacks and swap other ideas.

The supper of barbecue chicken and fried fish was provided by the Northeast Boosters Club which was also host the night before the Lenny Fant's Northeast basketball banquet.

To choaches who were asking, "How can we repay you for this fine feed?" members of the Boosters Club were replying "just send Coach Rowan a couple of your graduating athletes next year."

Some jokingly wondered how two football game officials like Hoyt Moncrief and Dan Willensky made the barbecue. The coaches took the opportunity to rib them, but Hoyt and Dan got them right back.

"Never heard so much poor mouthing in my life," said Moncrief. "You'd think those coaches were going to have to reach into kindergarten to find material to get out a team with next September," added Dan.

Neville High was supposed to play its spring intra - squad football game the same night, but Coach Bill Ruple called it off because of the weather, rescheduling the game for tomorrow night.

But some coaches who wanted a chance to get a preview of Neville talent thought Ruple might have been throwing up a smoke screen to keep them away because so many would be in town for the clinic. Not believing Ruple, they appeared at Neville Stadium and waited around for the game to come off before being convinced Ruple had really postponed the game.

Ruple and staff had been enjoying hospitality of the Boosters at Bancroft's Camp all the time their rival coaches were hanging around the stadium miles away.

The supper the Boosters had for the basketball players a night earlier had Joe D. Waggoner, member of the state board of education and a navy commander, as guest speaker.

He talked on what he called the "Four Dreams of Mankind, and the conflicting minds of the free world and the communist world. We think the young Northeast athletes, their coaches, and the Boosters found Commander Waggoner's talk very impressive. It was the kind of talk more people should hear. Schools, book clubs, civic, clubs, any kind of public gathering would certainly have been impressed by his thoughts, facts, and prophecies.

Lanny Johnson won the coveted "Most Valuable Player" trophy" for the 1960-61 Indian cagers; Dave Harkins won the scholastic award and permanent acclaim as captain for the season; and G. B. Thompson won the field goal percentage award, but probably no one was prouder of manager Benny Hollis, who was surprised with a gift of a sports coat from Coach Fant.

Hollis, incidentally, is headed for a coaching job at St. Matthew's High here next school year along with football player Jerry Marchbank. Hollis will be inheriting the cage empire of departing Jim Mahoney who is leaving the Irish after coaching them to their first state championship a year ago in Class A basketball and a title runner - up slot this season.

While St. Matthew's was a near miss in bringing a second straight title to the Monroe school, the northeast Louisiana area came up with three other titles.

The Ruston Bearcats won the boys double - A state crown; and in the girls' divisions, Lake Providence made it for the second straight year in Class B, and Ferriday ruled Class A.

Two members of the Lake Providence club, sisters Janico and Joan Clement are neices of Ray Clement well known in north Louisiana as a former Northeast athlete and coach at A. L. Smith in Sterlington and at Woodlawn of Ouachita parish. Ray is currently handling the athletic and physical education program at Woodlawn Elementary School where he is developing a good junior high program.

NCAA PLAYOFFS

Buckeyes Beat Kentucky, 87-74

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — National champion Ohio State, with All-America Jerry Lucas and Larry Siegfried in the starring roles, smashed Kentucky 87-74 Saturday night to win the NCAA Mid-East Regional basketball tournament.

The all but incredible Lucas scored 33 points, set up a rebound monopoly under both backboards and caused two Kentucky defenders to foul out in desperate efforts to bring his under control.

For Lucas it was a brilliant recovery from his career-low performance Friday night when he was held to nine points and Ohio State barely squeezed past Louisville 56-55 in the regional semifinal.

Siegfried aided the Buckeye super star with 20 points, and time after time worked his way into the clear for good shots from the corners.

All in all, the Ohio State performances looked like the defending champions were ominously on the prowl for another title as they recorded win No. 31 in an unbroken string that extends back into the 1959-60 season.

A roaring crowd of 17,454 in Freedom Hall also saw Louisville outclass little Morehead, Ky. State 83-61 for third place in the regional. The attendance for two nights was 36,337.

Kentucky appeared able to stay with the Bucks in the early moments of the game, but poor shooting handcuffed whatever chance the Southeastern Conference squad might have had to threaten the unbeaten Big Ten Conference kings.

Coach Adolph Rupp's team fell nine points off the Ohio State pace with 6:08 to go in the first half and cut the margin to three with 3:33 to play.

But Ohio State forged a 36-28 lead at the half and poured it on from there.

Webber Wins Jonesville Men's Tourney

High scorers for Webber were Chune with 28, McLaughlin 24, and Davies 23. Hunter was top Babbin man with 17, with Lanney Johnson adding 15.

Gonzales Wins

MADRID (AP) — Professional tennis champion Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles defeated Spain's Andres Gimeno 10-5 at the Sports Palace Saturday night.

In other matches, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, defeated Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, 10-5, and Alex Almedo of Peru beat Tony Trabert of Salt Lake City 10-8.

Gonzales leads the tour with 25 victories in 35 matches.

Maroon Unit Wins Squad Tilt

Golds Beaten 23-0 To End Spring Work

Northeast State College football fans got a good look at Indians of next season at Brown Stadium last night as the Maroons came up with a big passing attack and defense to pop the Gold unit, 23-0 climaxing the Tribe's Spring training work.

A soggy field didn't hinder play calling on either side, as quarterbacks Pete Vincent and Benny Stubblefield of the Maroons, Jack Webb and Mundy Breazeale of the Golds mixed their plays well.

The Maroon team scored on a field goal by Stubblefield in the second quarter, a pass from Stubblefield to Jim Love and a line smash by Stubblefield, all in the second period, and a pass from Vincent to Ken Newton in the third quarter. Vincent converted twice for the winners.

Statistics	Maroons	Golds
First Downs	9	5
Yards Rushing	227	110
Passes	9-5	13-7
Yards Passing	110	70
Fumbles Lost	2	3
Punting	1-38	4-40
Penalties	6-56½	5-45

The Maroon team played a control game for most of the first half, keeping the bail out of the hands of Jack Webb, who was an aerial threat when the Gold unit could gain possession of the ball.

Webb took to the air on the first play from scrimmage after the Golds had taken the opening kickoff. He hit speedy Ferdy Cruce with a screen pass, good for nine yards and then missed on a pass intended for the same target.

The jitters caught both teams after six plays from scrimmage, with both sides losing the ball twice each on back to back fumbles.

After the Golds' Willie Ragan fell on Benny Stubblefield's bobble at the 39 yard line, the losers had their last chance of the first quarter, but a tough Maroon line, anchored by Robert Lampard, and Ross Nolan, dug in forcing John Kelly to punt to the Maroons' 20 yard line.

Shifty Don Blackwelder and and big Dan Keith moved the ball to the Gold seven yard line but a penalty moved it back out to the 22. With fourth down, 22 yards to go, Stubblefield botted it just right and the Maroons led, 3-0.

Webb and Breazeale of the Goalds took to the air after Bruce Songier recovered a fumble on the Maroon 37, but halftime caught them on the 30 yard line.

The Maroons took the second half kickoff and marched from their own 38 to the Gold's five yard line as Vincent hit Roy Goodwin with an eight yard toss, Stubblefield connected with Goodwin for 10 yards, Newton picked up 16 yards, and Ott helped out on the short yardage. Stubblefield passed for the score from the five, hitting Love, who bulled into the end zone. Vincent converted and the Maroons led, 10-0.

The Golds bogged down again after the kickoff, with the Maroon line digging in, and Kelly kicked to Blackwelder on the Maroon 35 yard line. Blackwelder hauled in the ball and turned in some fancy broken field running as he raced 55 yards back to the Gold 10 yard line.

Stubblefield sneaked in from one yard away, Vincent's kick was blocked by hustling Gold guard Jimmy Richard and the Maroons led 16-0.

Breazeale had some passing luck with glue fingered Gene Herbert and Pete Hendon early in the final period but the Maroons used a wide open offense, going for the big yardage, and they got it.

The big play in the last quarter was Pete Vincent's screen pass to Ken Newton. Newton took the pass on his own 32 yard line, behind three blockers, used up his interference, then cut back to his right and outran three defenders 68 yards to pay dirt. Vincent added the PAT and the scoring ended at 23-0.

Thornhill, Cruce and Regan moved the ball from their own 30 to the Maroon one yard line but couldn't push it over in the last three plays of the game.

CRACKS TWO RECORDS

Rogers Leads Northeast To Shreveport Run Win

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special) Hoy Rogers won the individual performance honors of the third annual Shreveport relays in guiding Northeast's well-rounded Indians to a team championship over defending titlest Louisiana Tech in the college division here yesterday.

Rogers broke two individual marks picking up a standard in the discus and one in the shot put.

Northeast easily outdistanced Tech of Ruston and Lamar Tech of Beaumont in unofficial point totals racing up 70½ to 45¾ for the Bulldogs, 45½ for the Cardinals, 20 for Southeastern, 14 for Southwestern, 12 for Stephen F. Austin, 11½ for Northwestern State, and 6 for McNeese.

Byrd high school garnered its third straight trophy in a powerful showing in the high school division and Mississippi State routed Tulane in the University class.

In all - six relay marks fell before the collegians and two were established in the high school division.

Besides Rogers marks, the 440 yard dash mark the pole vault superlative and the 440 and mile relay records were topped by the college runners.

The mile run and hop step and jump event saw best performances by high schools.

Rogers put the shot 51 feet 4¾ inches to clip Jim Boucher's mark of 50 feet 7¾ inches set under Lamar Tech's colors. In the discus he shattered Bert Heckel's mark of 140 feet 5¼ inches by flinging the plate 155 feet 4¼ inches.

James Pernell pole vaulted 13 feet 6 inches to establish a new mark while Louisiana Tech's 440 foursome raced in 42.5 to lower the old record by 2-10th of a second.

Northeast's mile relay team toured the circuit in 3 19.5 to best Louisiana Tech and Lamar. That beat the relay record by nearly 3 seconds.

Tallulah's Bill Ladd won the mile in 4:46.5 breaking his own mark by nine and 5.10's.

Northeast won eight of 13 first places and Rogers swung the trophy as the most outstanding field man.

The Indian 880 relay team, composed of James McDonald, Randal Walker, Jim Mouser and Jay Goldsmith who substituted for the injured Jim Glass, won that event in 1:30.3.

Goldsmith finished in the 100 behind La. Tech's fine Pat Garrett who turned in a 10 flat performance.

Walker clipped the 440 in 49.1 for first with Mouser second.

Pennel was fourth in javelin chunking with a 171 feet six inch heave, Noel Orr wound up in a three-way tie in vaulting with 12.6, Copeland finished fifth in the discus and in a three way tie for second in the high jump.

In the open AAU Owen Owen won first in the borad jump with 21.1½ and Claude Mercer was third in the 440 with 51.

Northeast's George Abbott finished third in the mile behind Australian miler Ian Stewart of Lamar Tech and England's Fred Norris now running for McNeese.

Stewart also won the AAU two-mile with Norris second.

TITLE DECIDED

Warriors Edged 106-103 By Nats

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Syracuse Nats, eight points down with less than 11 minutes to play, rallied for a 106-103 victory Saturday night and won the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division semifinal playoff.

The Nats swept all three games of the best-of-5 series and now meet the Boston Celtics, defending league champion, in a best-of-7 series for the Eastern title. The series starts Sunday afternoon in Boston.

Philadelphia, which had been playing lethargic basketball throughout this series, led 87-79 with 10:48 left when Larry Costello connected on two straight baskets for the Nats. Wilt Chamberlain, who led all scorers with 33 points, sank a foul for Philadelphia, but Costello also made one, and Barney Cable got a field goal to put Syracuse within two points, at 88-86.

Ed Conlin stopped the thrust momentarily with a set shot for the Warriors, but Cable scored three straight points and Tom Barnett hit on a long jump shot.

Syracuse was ahead 91-90 with 7:10 to go. Conlin sank another to give Philadelphia its last lead before Syracuse then reeled off nine straight points to ice it.

Costello led the Syracuse scorers with 20 points. Five other players also scored in double figures for the Nats. Paul Arizin had 30 points for the Warriors.

Syracuse led 31-22 at the end of the first quarter, but the Warriors got 13 straight points—nine by Arizin—to put Philadephia ahead 35-31 early in the second period. The Warriors led 52-50 at the half and 82-77 at the end of the third period.

Tom Gola and Arizin fouled out in the final five minutes, immeasurably hindering Philadelphia's ability to stop the Syracuse drive.

Grambling Is NAIA Wreath Winner 95-75

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The tall Tigers of Grambling (La.) used their height and speed to romp to the championship of the NAIA Basketball Tournament Saturday night, 95-75, over Georgetown (Ky.).

Northern Michigan paced by Wayne Monson with 35 points, also capitalized on its height to defeat Westminister (Pa.) 101-81 for third place in a game played under a 30 second shot rule as an experiment.

Grambling, with 6-9 freshman Willis Reed hitting 21 points and pulling down 14 rebounds, thus became only the second Negro team to win the tournament tile in its 23-year history. The other was Tennessee A&I, which won three consecutive titles ending in 1959.

The Louisianans were paced by Hardnett with 21 and Rex Tippit with 20. Cecil Tuttle led Georgetown with 26 and Joe Farris added 16.

Grambling, which ran up a 45-35 halftime lead, dominated the boards 50 to 36, and in addition hit 55.4 per cent from the field, to Georgetown's 41.3.

Grambling never trailed and made its first big surge midway in the first half when it outscored Georgetown 12-1 in a four-minute period to lead 30-19. Georgetown was never able to keep up with the Louisiana team from that time

LSU Grand Slam Clinches 10-4 Win Over Tribe

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana State's left fielder Roy Winston slammed a bases loaded homer in the eighth inning Saturday to clinch a 10-4 baseball victory over Northeast State.

Golby Continues Slim Golf Lead

By WHITNEY MARTIN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Golby carded a 4-under-par 67 Saturday to add to his previous rounds of 67 and 62 for a 196 total and a slim one-stroke lead at the end of three-rounds of the St. Petersburg Open Golf tournament.

Three other players were under 200 for the three rounds. Four more equaled that figure as the onslaught on par continued, although not quite as pronounced as in the first two rounds.

Gary Player, the South African who is leading money winner on the tour to date, had a third round 64, lowest of the day for a 198 total.

Jack McGowan, who tied for the lead during the opening round with a 63 and followed it up with a 67 Friday, had a 69 for 199, equaling the previous low three-round total of the year.

Goalby hit 16 greens in carding his 67, and had birdies on six holes with putts ranging from 5 to 15 feet. He bogied the first hole when he was trapped and the third when he took three to get down from the edge of the green.

Kroll birdied five of the last seven holes on putts ranging from one to 25 feet, with four of the putts 12 feet or longer.

Player needed only 25 putts for his round. He hit 15 greens and had four birdies on each side. He bogied the 13th when his wedge shot bounced over the green and he missed a three-foot putt. He had 11 one-putt greens.

The day was quiet and windy by turns, with the late starters hustling on their final holes to beat a potential storm.

Tied at 200 were Don Fairfield, with a 67 Saturday; Mason Rudolph, with a 68; Doug Ford with a 67; and Bob Brue with a 68. Buddy Slulivan and Bill Casper Jr. with 65 and 68 respectively, were in the 201 bracket.

Tech Splits Doubleheader With Reddies

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech and Henderson State split a twinbill here yesterday afternoon with the Reddies winning the opener 3-0 and Tech the second game, 12-4.

Righthander Carroll Harrison went six innings to win the opener for Henderson State. He gave up seven hits and was frequently in trouble, but proved tough in the clutch.

Tech ace southpaw, Sonney Parker hurled a perfect four innings in the first game, striking out eight of the 12 batters he faced.

The Reddies jumped on Newell Blume for three hits and three runs in the fifth. David Langley singled, Jim Dickson walked and after two men retired, Mike Bush doubled to right to score Langley. Harrison's single scored Dickson and Bush.

Lefthander Jim Penton won the second game for Tech with a three inning stint. He rapped a solo homer in the third to give Tech the lead and the Bulldogs parlayed bases on balls and errors for sixth runs in the fourth and five in the fifth. Jim Golden homered in the fifth for Henderson's lone run.

Righthander Charley Fuller hurled two scoreless innings in both the first and second games for Tech.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Their fine attendance was a tribute to the quality of "football professors" like John Bridgers, Charles McClendon, and George Terry whose gridiron knowledge the prep tutors sought, and to Northeast State and Athletic Director Jack Rowan and his staff.

When the elements were gushing forth with rain, lightning, high winds and tornado threats Friday we figured the opening feature of the clinic, the Friday night barbecue supper, was going to be found short on guests, and that maybe the weather would give the clinic a break yesterday.

But while the weather conditions did deter some, the barbecue was a big success, and the clinic yesterday was welcomed with splendid weather considering what had come before.

Bridgers, the offensive wizard and head coach of the Baylor bears who built the Texans into a national power in two seasons after being lured from the Baltimore Colts, national pro champs at the time, spiced the clinic with his views on offensive tactics and how to exploit them.

McClendon and Terry, aides to head coach Paul Dietzel at LSU, have won acclain for their work in developing and maintaining the defensive might of the Louisiana Bengals. "The Chinese Bandits," the defensive troopers of LSU, have brought national fame and glory on the LSU coaches as well as themselves.

Now, after hearing Bridgers tell what makes a top offensive outfit like Baylor go, and listening to Terry and McClendon expound on the success of a strong defense, the prep coaches are left with the job of sorting out the grid gems best suited to their own needs and their available talent to improve their own teams.

End coach George Luffey of Northeast took occasion to glean a little knowledge from Bridgers on the side by cornering him during the Friday night barbecue to talk deployment of ends for passing attacks and swap other ideas.

The supper of barbecue chicken and fried fish was provided by the Northeast Boosters Club which was also host the night before the Lenny Fant's Northeast basketball banquet.

To choaches who were asking, "How can we repay you for this fine feed?" members of the Boosters Club were replying "just send Coach Rowan a couple of your graduating athletes next year."

Some jokingly wondered how two football game officials like Hoyt Moncrief and Dan Willensky made the barbecue. The coaches took the opportunity to rib them, but Hoyt and Dan got them right back.

"Never heard so much poor mouthing in my life," said Moncrief. "You'd think those coaches were going to have to reach into kindergarten to find material to get out a team with next September," added Dan.

Neville High was supposed to play its spring intra - squad football game the same night, but Coach Bill Ruple called it off because of the weather, rescheduling the game for tomorrow night.

But some coaches who wanted a chance to get a preview of Neville talent thought Ruple might have been throwing up a smoke screen to keep them away because so many would be in town for the clinic. Not believing Ruple, they appeared at Neville Stadium and waited around for the game to come off before being convinced Ruple had really postponed the game.

Ruple and staff had been enjoying hospitality of the Boosters at Bancroft's Camp all the time their rival coaches were hanging around the stadium miles away.

The supper the Boosters had for the basketball players a night earlier had Joe D. Waggoner, member of the state board of education and a navy commander, as guest speaker.

He talked on what he called the "Four Dreams of Mankind, and the conflicting minds of the free world and the communist world. We think the young Northeast athletes, their coaches, and the Boosters found Commander Waggoner's talk very impressive. It was the kind of talk more people should hear. Schools, book clubs, civic, clubs, any kind of public gathering would certainly have been impressed by his thoughts, facts, and prophecies.

Lanny Johnson won the coveted "Most Valuable Player" trophy" for the 1960-61 Indian cagers; Dave Harkins won the scholastic award and permanent acclaim as captain for the season; and G. B. Thompson won the field goal percentage award, but probably no one was prouder of manager Benny Hollis, who was surprised with a gift of a sports coat from Coach Fant.

Hollis, incidentally, is headed for a coaching job at St. Matthew's High here next school year along with football player Jerry Marchbank. Hollis will be inheriting the cage empire of departing Jim Mahoney who is leaving the Irish after coaching them to their first state championship a year ago in Class A basketball and a title runner - up slot this season.

While St. Matthew's was a near miss in bringing a second straight title to the Monroe school, the northeast Louisiana area came up with three other titles.

The Ruston Bearcats won the boys double - A state crown; and in the girls' divisions, Lake Providence made it for the second straight year in Class B, and Ferriday ruled Class A.

Two members of the Lake Providence club, sisters Janico and Joan Clement are neices of Ray Clement well known in north Louisiana as a former Northeast athlete and coach at A. L. Smith in Sterlington and at Woodlawn of Ouachita parish. Ray is currently handling the athletic and physical education program at Woodlawn Elementary School where he is developing a good junior high program.

NCAA PLAYOFFS

Buckeyes Beat Kentucky, 87-74

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — National champion Ohio State, with All-America Jerry Lucas and Larry Siegfried in the starring roles, smashed Kentucky 87-74 Saturday night to win the NCAA Mid-East Regional basketball tournament.

The all but incredible Lucas scored 33 points, set up a rebound monopoly under both backboards and caused two Kentucky defenders to foul out in desperate efforts to bring his under control.

For Lucas it was a brilliant recovery from his career-low performance Friday night when he was held to nine points and Ohio State barely squeezed past Louisville 56-55 in the regional semifinal.

Siegfried aided the Buckeye super star with 20 points, and time after time worked his way into the clear for good shots from the corners.

All in all, the Ohio State performances looked like the defending champions were ominously on the prowl for another title as they recorded win No. 31 in an unbroken string that extends back into the 1959-60 season.

A roaring crowd of 17,454 in Freedom Hall also saw Louisville outclass little Morehead, Ky. State 83-61 for third place in the regional. The attendance for two nights was 36,337.

Kentucky appeared able to stay with the Bucks in the early moments of the game, but poor shooting handcuffed whatever chance the Southeastern Conference squad might have had to threaten the unbeaten Big Ten Conference kings.

Coach Adolph Rupp's team fell nine points off the Ohio State pace with 6:03 to go in the first half and cut the margin to three with 3:33 to play.

But Ohio State forged a 36-28 lead at the half and poured it on from there.

Webber Wins Jonesville Men's Tourney

JONESVILLE, La. (Special) — The Webber Ford Company of Ferriday won the Jonesville Independent men's tourney here last night beating Babbin Motores of Jonesville 91-80.

High scorers for Webber were Chune with 28, McLaughtin 24, and Davies 23. Hunter was top Babbin man with 17, with Lanney Johnson adding 15.

Gonzales Wins

MADRID (AP) — Professional tennis champion Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles defeated Spain's Andres Gimeno 10-5 at the Sports Palace Saturday night.

In other matches, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, defeated Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, 10-5, and Alex Almedo of Peru beat Tony Trabert of Salt Lake City 10-8.

Gonzales leads the tour with 25 victories in 35 matches.

Maroon Unit Wins Squad Tilt

Golds Beaten 23-0 To End Spring Work

Northeast State College football fans got a good look at Indians of next season at Brown Stadium last night as the Maroons came up with a big passing attack and defense to pop the Gold unit, 23-0 climaxing the Tribe's Spring training work.

A soggy field didn't hinder play calling on either side, as quarterbacks Pete Vincent and Benny Stubblefield of the Maroons, Jack Webb and Mundy Breazeale of the Golds mixed their plays well.

The Maroon team scored on a field goal by Stubblefield in the second quarter, a pass from Stubblefield to Jim Love and a line smash by Stubblefield, all in the second period, and a pass from Vincent to Ken Newton in the third quarter. Vincent converted twice for the winners.

Statistics	Maroons	Golds
First Downs	9	5
Yards Rushing	227	110
Passes	9-5	13-7
Fumbles Lost	2	3
Punting	1-38	4-40
Penalties	6-56½	5-45

The Maroon team played a control game for most of the first half, keeping the ball out of the hands of Jack Webb, who was an aerial threat when the Gold unit could gain possession of the ball.

Webb took to the air on the first play from scrimmage after the Golds had taken the opening kickoff. He hit speedy Ferdy Cruce with a screen pass, good for nine yards and then missed on a pass intended for the same target.

The jitters caught both teams after six plays from scrimmage, with both sides losing the ball twice each on back to back fumbles.

After the Golds' Willie Ragan fell on Benny Stubblefield's bobble at the 39 yard line, the losers had their last chance of the first quarter, but a tough Maroon line, anchored by Robert Lampard, and Ross Nolan, dug in forcing John Kelly to punt to the Maroons' 20 yard-line.

Shifty Don Blackwelder and and big Dan Keith moved the ball to the Gold seven yard line but a penalty moved it back out to the 22. With fourth down, 22 yards to go, Stubblefield botted it just right and the Maroons led, 3-0.

Webb and Breazeale of the Goalds took to the air after Bruce Songier recovered a fumble on the Maroon 37, but halftime caught them on the 30 yard line.

The Maroons took the second half kickoff and marched from their own 33 to the Gold's five yard line as Vincent hit Roy Goodwin with an eight yard toss. Stubblefield connected with Goodwin for 10 yards, Newton picked up 16 yards, and Ott helped out on the short yardage. Stubblefield passed for the score from the five, hitting Love, who bulled into the end zone. Vincent converted and the Maroons led, 10-0.

The Golds bogged down again after the kickoff, with the Maroon line digging in, and Kelly kicked to Blackwelder on the Maroon 35 yard line. Blackwelder hauled in the ball and turned in some fancy broken field running as he raced 55 yards back to the Gold 10 yard line.

Stubblefield sneaked in from one yard away, Vincent's kick was blocked by hustling Gold guard Jimmy Richard and the Maroons led 16-0.

Breazeale had some passing luck with glue fingered Gene Herbert and Pete Hendon early in the final period but the Maroons used a wide open offense, going for the big yardage, and they got it.

The big play in the last quarter was Pete Vincent's screen pass to Ken Newton. Newton took the pass on his own 32 yard line, behind three blockers, used up his interference, then cut back to his right and outran three defenders 68 yards to pay dirt. Vincent added the PAT and the scoring ended at 23-0.

Thornhill, Cruce and Regan moved the ball from their own 30 to the Maroon one yard line but couldn't push it over in the last three plays of the game.

CRACKS TWO RECORDS

Rogers Leads Northeast To Shreveport Run Win

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special) Hoy Rogers won the individual performance honors of the third annual Shreveport relays in guiding Northeast's well-rounded Indians to a team championship over defending titlest Louisiana Tech in the college division here yesterday.

Rogers broke two individual marks picking up a standard in the discus and one in the shot put.

Northeast easily outdistanced Tech of Ruston and Lamar Tech of Beaumont in unofficial point totals racing up 70½ to 45¾ for the Bulldogs, 45½ for the Cardinals, 20 for Southeastern, 14 for Southwestern, 12 for Stephen F. Austin, 11½ for Northwestern State, and 6 for McNeese.

Byrd high school garnered its third straight trophy in a powerful showing in the high school division and Mississippi State routed Tulane in the University class.

A special AAU division saw the top relay team performance by an arrow-swift Texas A&M freshman combine.

In all - six relay marks fell before the collegians and two were established in the high school division.

Besides Rogers marks, the 440 yard dash mark the pole vault superlative and the 440 and mile relay records were topped by the college runners.

The mile run and hop step and jump event saw best performances by high schools.

Rogers put the shot 51 feet 4¾ inches to clip Jim Boucher's mark of 50 feet 7¾ inches set under Lamar Tech's colors. In the discus he shattered Bert Heckel's mark of 140 feet 5¼ inches by flinging the plate 155 feet 4¼ inches.

James Pernell pole vaulted 13 feet 6 inches to establish a new mark while Louisiana Tech's 440 foursome raced in 42.5 to lower the old record by 2-10th of a second.

Northeast's mile relay team toured the circuit in 3 19.5 to best Louisiana Tech and Lamar. That beat the relay record by nearly 3 seconds.

Tallulah's Bill Ladd won the mile in 4.46.5 breaking his own mark by nine and 5.10's.

Northeast won eight of 13 first places and Rogers swung the trophy as the most outstanding field man.

The Indian 880 relay team, composed of James McDonald, Randal Walker, Jim Mouser and Jay Goldsmith who substituted for the injured Jim Glass, won that event in 1.30.3.

Goldsmith finished in the 100 behind La. Tech's fine Pat Garrett who turned in a 10 flat performance.

Walker clipped the 440 in 49.1 for first with Mouser second.

Pennel was fourth in javelin chunking with a 171 feet six inch heave, Noel Orr wound up in a three-way tie in vaulting with 12.6, Copeland finished fifth in the discus and in a three way tie for second in the high jump.

In the open AAU Owen Owen won first in the borad jump with 21.4½ and Claude Mercer was third in the 440 with 51.

Northeast's George Abbott finished third in the mile behind Australian miler Ian Stewart of Lamar Tech and England's Fred Norris now running for McNeese.

Stewart also won the AAU two-mile with Norris second.

TITLE DECIDED

Warriors Edged 106-103 By Nats

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Syracuse Nats, eight points down with less than 11 minutes to play, rallied for a 106-103 victory Saturday night and won the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division semifinal playoff.

The Nats swept all three games of the best-of-5 series and now meet the Boston Celtics, defending league champion, in a best-of-7 series for the Eastern title. The series starts Sunday afternoon in Boston.

Philadelphia, which had been playing lethargic basketball throughout this series, led 87-79 with 10:48 left when Larry Costello connected on two straight baskets for the Nats. Wilt Chamberlain, who led all scorers with 33 points, sank a foul for Philadelphia, but Costello also made one, and Barney Cable got a field goal to put Syracuse within two points, at 88-86.

Ed Conlin stopped the thrust momentarily with a set shot for the Warriors, but Cable scored three straight points and Tom Barnett hit on a long jump shot.

Syracuse was ahead 91-90 wifh 7:10 to go. Conlin sank another to give Philadelphia its last lead before Syracuse then reeled off nine straight points to ice it.

Costello led the Syracuse scorers with 20 points. Five other players also scored in double figures for the Nats. Paul Arizin had 30 points for the Warriors.

Syracuse led 31-22 at the end of the first quarter, but the Warriors got 13 straight points—nine by Arizin—to put Philadephia ahead 35-31 early in the second period. The Warriors led 52-50 at the half and 82-77 at the end of the third period.

Tom Gola and Arizin fouled out in the final five minutes, immeasurably hindering Philadelphia's ability to stop the Syracuse drive.

LSU Grand Slam Clinches 10-4 Win Over Tribe

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Loutate's left fielder Roy Winston slammed a bases loaded homer in the eighth inning Saturday to clinch a 10-4 baseball victory over Northeast State.

LSU broke a 4-4 deadlock with 6 runs in the eighth-inning.

Grambling Is NAIA Wreath Winner 95-75

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The tall Tigers of Grambling (La.) used their height and speed to romp to the championship of the NAIA Basketball Tournament Saturday night, 95 - 75, over Georgetown (Ky.).

Northern Michigan paced by Wayne Monson with 35 points, also capitalized on its height to defeat Westminister (Pa.) 101-84 for third place in a game played under a 30-second shot rule as an experiment.

Grambling, with 6-9 freshman Willis Reed hitting 21 points and pulling down 14 rebounds, thus became only the second Negro team to win the tournament tile in its 23-year history. The other was Tennessee A&I, which won three consecutive titles ending in 1959.

The Louisianans were paced by Hardnett with 21 and Rex Tippit with 20. Cecil Tuttle led Georgetown with 26 and Joe Farris added 16.

Grambling, which ran up a 45-35 halftime lead, dominated the boards 50 to 36, and in addition hit 55.1 per cent from the field, to Georgetown's 41.3.

Grambling never trailed and made its first big surge midway in the first half when it outscored Georgetown 12-1 in a four-minute period to lead 30-19. Georgetown was never able to keep up with the Louisiana team from that time on.

Golby Continues Slim Golf Lead

By WHITNEY MARTIN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Golby carded a 4-under-par 67 Saturday to add to his previous rounds of 67 and 62 for a 196 total and a slim one-stroke lead at the end of three-rounds of the St. Petersburg Open Golf tournament.

Three other players were under 200 for the three rounds. Four more equaled that figure as the onslaught on par continued, although not quite as pronounced as in the first two rounds.

Ted Kroll came in with a 66 for a total of 197, good for second place at the three-quarter mark of the $20,000, 72-hole tournament. Gary Player, the South African who is leading money winner on the tour to date, had a third round 64, lowest of the day for a 198 total.

Jack McGowan, who tied for the lead during the opening round with a 63 and followed it up with a 67 Friday, had a 69 for 199, equaling the previous low three-round total of the year.

Goalby hit 16 greens in carding his 67, and had birdies on six holes with putts ranging from 5 to 15 feet. He bogied the first hole when he was trapped and the third when he took three to get down from the edge of the green.

Kroll birdied five of the last seven holes on putts ranging from one to 25 feet, with four of the putts 12 feet or longer.

Player needed only 25 putts for his round. He hit 15 greens and had four birdies on each side. He bogied the 13th when his wedge shot bounced over the green and he missed a three-foot putt. He had 11 one-putt greens.

The day was quiet and windy by turns, with the late starters hustling on their final holes to beat a potential storm.

Tied at 200 were Don Fairfield, with a 67 Saturday; Mason Rudolph, with a 68; Doug Ford with a 67; and Bob Brue with a 68. Buddy Slulivan and Bill Casper Jr. with 65 and 68 respectively, were in the 201 bracket.

Tech Splits Doubleheader With Reddies

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech and Henderson State split a twinbill here yesterday afternoon with the Reddies winning the opener 3-0 and Tech the second game, 12-1.

Righthander Carroll Harrison went six innings to win the opener for Henderson State. He gave up seven hits and was frequently in trouble, but proved tough in the clutch.

Tech ace southpaw, Sonney Parker hurled a perfect four innings in the first game, striking out eight of the 12 batters he faced.

The Reddies jumped on Newell Blume for three hits and three runs in the fifth. David Langley singled, Jim Dickson walked and after two men retired, Mike Bush doubled to right to score Langley. Harrison's single scored Dickson and Bush.

Lefthander Jim Penton won the second game for Tech with a three inning stint. He rapped a solo homer in the third to give Tech the lead and the Bulldogs parlayed bases on balls and errors for sixth runs in the fourth and five in the fifth. Jim Golden homered in the fifth for Henderson's lone run.

Righthander Charley Fuller hurled two scoreless innings in both the first and second games for Tech.

RECOMMENDS HUNTING SEASONS

Wildlife Group Passes, Rejects Some Hot Issues

The Louisiana Wildlife Federation, in convention here, yesterday called for improvement of game habitat, recommended hunting seasons for quail, squirrel, rabbit, and deer, but failed to give support to resolutions that would outlaw the 22 caliber rifle for big game hunting or tighten controls on legal doe deer kills.

The Madison parish resolution concerning the killing of doe deer, while defeated 9-8 by the voting delegates yesterday afternoon, may come up again as a hot potato today at the meeting that will also decide the federation's recommendations for waterfowl and dove seasons.

The doe deer resolution pointed out Madison's opposition to the killing of doe, but signified that if state biologists deemed decreasing the herd necessary that it be taken up with the parish police juries which could give signature approval.

There was argument that the federation in the past has sought to take powers away from police juries and follow the dictates of the biologists, and that the doe deer motion tended to turn these powers back to the police juries.

Jack Rushing of Monroe, supporting the Madison parish resolution, was still waging a fight after the motion had been tabled. He was informed by district vice president T. H. Roger Jr., Norco, presiding in the place of federation president Herbert H. Ducote Jr., Baton Rouge, that he could "move for suspension of rule and ask for a roll call vote" at today's session of the full membership.

After coming out of committee as a resolution outlawing the use of the 22 rifle for big game hunting, particularly deer, an amendment was asked inserting the word "rimfire" in designating the type of 22 ammunition to be outlawed, and thus would have permitted the use of centerfire ammunition. The resulting argument and vote was a smashing 16-3 defeat for the resolution.

Also defeated was a resolution that would have permitted the use of dogs for deer hunting in Webster parish.

The federation will ask the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission for "more days" of deer hunting in the game management areas for the state's archers next season. Bow and arrow hunters had five successive weekends before gun hunting started last year. The archers took nine deer during their season, according to a recent count of tags released by the commission.

Caldwell parish's resolution asking for a statewide Thanksgiving opening day for the deer season passed with amendment to point out that it covered the gun hunters, to avoid conflict with the resolution pertaining to the archers (who can hunt the gun areas as well during the gun season).

A joint resolution from Caldwell, LaSalle, and Catahoula parishes also asked for the same opening, closing, and use of hunting dog regulation, "unless there are biological reasons" why the state should not grant it. The three parishes have about the same problems in the deer areas and do not want their seasons differing.

Recommended seasons to be taken to the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission include quail, Thanksgiving to February 15, with the same bag and possession limits as last season; squirrel and rabbit, same as last season (Oct. 1-Feb. 15 inclusive), and that the bag and possession limits be determined by biologists' recommendations.

Baton Rouge sportsmen pushed through their resolution asking that the commission make available for newspaper publication the names and offenses in all game law violation.

Some other resolutions winning the federation's support included:

Request of Caddo and Ouachita units that permission be obtained from gas companies and others rights-of-way through game areas to seed these strips into food plots for deer and game birds.

Recommend construction of recreation areas near potential fishing areas.

Ask the forestry commission to consider the needs of deer herds keeping watch of growth and when the herds may exceed the cover necessary.

Would create a water commission to work toward maintaining stable water levels and save the wetlands not involved in flood control waters.

St Landry parish won support of a recommendation asking a $500 fine and a mandatory jail sentence of one year for persons convicted of shocking fish.

Request stepping up program of artificial reefs in the Gulf of Mexico.

Conduct a survey of the use of the basket-type fish trap.

Asking Governor Jimmie Davis to push enactment of legislation to stop pollution of streams.

That big game and "little game" hunting license fees remain the same as they were last year. (The licenses were $2 for the basic hunting license and another $2 for the deer and turkey license).

Ask adequate funds for enforcement personnel to carry out their jobs without having to use personal funds and added that the rangers, or wardens, be furnished improved communication systems between themselves and sheriff's offices. (They're on different radio bands. Sheriff Red Gilbert pointed out that the regular sheriff's band is already overcrowded, but some system might be worked out to assist the game rangers).

Iberia parish wants, and got approval, the Louisiana Department of Highways to provide the commission with the name, number, and location of boat ramps its builds, and there were requests for improved boat landings.

Provide funds to print enough Conservationists, the state magazine of the outdoors, to make it available to all residents who request it.

To clarify fish kills and possession as defined in the hunting and fishing pamphlet issued by the commission.

Raise the weight limit of fishing boats from 500 to 1,500 pounds for the minimum license tag.

St. Landry wants public works help on certain dams and weirs to maintain water levels for fish.

There were recommendations commending work that has benefited wildlife work.

Ouachita commended Public Works for cleaning and improving Bayou DeSiard.

DeSoto thanked the federation for its help in passage of "amendment 8" in the election last year that assured Louisiana support for building Toledo dam on Sabine river.

Iberia and Vermilion parishes extended thanks to the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission for work on enforcement.

Calcasieu pledged its full support to the seven - man Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission over the "selfish whims of politicians." There was some objection to the word "selfish" in the resolution as it passed committee, but one delegate asked from the floor, "What other whims do they have?" and the resolution passed without amendment.

Exhibition Baseball

PHILS—CARDS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Tony Curry batted in three runs with three hits Saturday as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 in an exhibition game.

St. Louis had the benefit of nine walks, an error and a wild pitch, but was stopped by poor base running early, plus brilliant pitching the last six innings by two Philadelphia rookie right-handers, Paul Brown and Dwight Siegler. They held the Cardinals hitless.

The Phillies wrapped up the game with three runs in the third inning off right-hander Harry Sonok, combining a walk and wild pitch with a single by Bob Sadowski and a double by Curry and Tony Gonzalez.

Al Cicotte held the Phillies to one run in four innings and Mickey McDermott blanked them the last two innings.

DODGERS—A'S

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Larry Sherry and Ron Perranoski combined to pitch a five-hit shutout Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers handed the Kansas City Athletics a 2-0 defeat.

Sherry worked six innings in which he yielded four hits, struck out four and walked one. Perranoski, a rookie southpaw, allowed only one man to reach base over the final three innings.

The Dodgers scored both of their runs against Tom Baker, a young left-hander who started for the A's. In the first inning Charlie Neal walked and scored on a single by Tommy Davis and an error by Bill Tuttle, the A's center fielder. Sherry helped his own cause in the third when he doubled and scored on a single by Maury Wills.

ANGELS — CUBS B

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The pitching of Ken McBride, former Chicago White Sox right-hander, featured the Los Angeles Angels 8-5 baseball victory Saturday over the Chicago Cub "B" team.

McBride allowed only one hit in five innings and struck out six.

The Angels put the game away with a five - run sixth inning against Dick Ellsworth, the Cubs' starting pitcher. They made all but one of their 13 hits off the tall left-hander. All of their hits were singles.

A five-run uprising against Jerry Casale in the eighth put the Cubs back in contention but reliever Tom Morgan struck out the last two men in the ninth with the tieing runs on base.

WHITE SOX—TIGERS

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The Chicago White Sox halted the Detroit Tigers on three hits Saturday and won their sixth game in eight Grapefruit League starts by a score of 6-1.

The game was called after the White Sox batted in the top of the ninth by a heavy shower.

The White Sox wrapped up the game in the second inning on the wildness of Detroit rookie Al Pehanick. The skinny right-hander walked three batters and hit two more as the Sox sent 10 men to bat and scored five times.

Pehanick faced seven batters in the inning and failed to retire any of them. He walked a batter and hit Minnie Minoso in the first inning but escaped without a run in that inning.

Rookie Ed Drapcho, Turk Lown and southpaw Gary Peters pitched for the White Sox. The Tigers scored their only run off Drapcho in the first inning when second baseman Jake Wood singled, advanced to second on an infield out, to third on Al Kaline's single and came home on another infield out.

Kaline hit safely in both his at bats and raised his average to .538 on 14 hits in 26 trips.

TIGERS B—SENATORS

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Marty Keough rapped out four hits in five at bats to continue his hot streak as the Washington Senators beat the jittery Detroit "B" squad baseball team 5-2 Saturday.

All the Washington runs were unearned, and four of them came in the sixth inning when the Tiger infield committed three errors. A walk to Billy Klaus, a wild throw on a fielder's choice by shortstop Dick McCauliffe, another wild peg into the dirt by McCauliffe on a routine ground ball, and a wild throw by third baseman Bob Micelotta in a trap of Danny O'Connell contributed to the big inning.

In the fifth inning Keough made first on an error by first baseman Dick Gernert, moved to third on Coot Veal's single and scored on a fielder's choice.

Hal Woodeshick gave up only two hits in the five innings he worked. Marty Kutyna yielded both Tiger runs in the ninth on a walk and singles by Gernert, Ron Wituck and Norm Cash.

GIANTS—INDIANS

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Harvey Kuenn rapped three hits, including a pair of doubles, to give the San Francisco Giants a 4-1 Cactus League baseball victory Saturday over the Cleveland Indians.

Billy Loes held the Indians in check for six innings and got credit for the victory. Loes gave up five hits and was never in serious trouble. Rookie Jim Duffalo finished and allowed the Indians one hit.

Gary Bell, making his first pitching appearance since last August, turned in three scoreless innings for Cleveland. Bell, who was forced out last year by a sore arm, permitted only one hit.

Veteran John Antonelli took the loss. The former San Francisco pitcher was touched for two runs in the fifth inning on a walk, a double by Chuck Hiller and Jose Pagan's squeeze bunt.

REDS—BRAVES

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves landed on a former teammate, right-hander Joey Jay, for nine runs in the first three innings and went on to a 12-9 victory over Cincinnati in an exhibition game Saturday.

Shortstop Roy McMillan, who the Reds traded to the Braves for Jay last winter, led the assault on the ex-Milwaukeean. He drove in four runs with two homers and a single. Eddie Mathews and Joe Torre added four - baggers and Henry Aaron clouted a 420 foot triple.

After manhandling Jay, the Braves added three runs off Johnny Tsitouris in the fourth to close out their scoring. Ken Hunt, rookie right-hander, blanked the Braves on two singles the last four innings.

Don Nottebart shut out the Reds for four innings but the spell was broken in the fifth when Vada Pinson tripled in one run and Frank Robinson clouted a two-run homer. Jim Baumer slammed a three-run homer off Carl Willey, Nottebart's successor, in the sixth and Wally Post hit for the circuit in the seventh with one aboard.

PIRATES—TWINS

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Pittsburgh remained on top of its Grapefruit League rivals Saturday with a 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins as pitchers Jim Umbricht and Joe Gibbon befuddled Minnesota sluggers.

The Pirates boosted their baseball exhibition record to 8-1. Starter and winner Umbricht yielded but two runs and six hits in the first five innings and Gibbon held the Twins scoreless the rest of the way.

It was a case of sixth-inning miseries for the Twins for the third time in four days, as the Pirates broke up a 2-2 game with three runs in that frame. The runs came off Chuck Stobbs, second Minnesota pitcher.

Pittsburgh scored on four singles and an error by Twins' center fielder Lenny Green. Each team scored twice in the first inning, the only extra-base blow being Bill Virdon's double.

Minnesota's exhibition record is 2-6.

Cincinnati Whips Kansas State 69-64

By DON WEISS

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Cincinnati's Bearcats, a gritty bunch that just refused to lose, smashed back in the late going and gained a 69-64 victory over Kansas State Saturday night in the championship game of the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

It was the 20th victory in a row for Cincinnati this season.

Texas Tech nipped Houston 69-67 in the consolation opener of the doubleheader, played before a frantic, roaring crowd of about 13,500.

Cincinnati, advancing to the NCAA semifinals next Friday in Kansas City, matched San Francisco University's record of three regional championships.

St. Joseph's Stuns Deacons In 98-86 Jolt

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — St. Joseph's of Philadelphia stunned jittery Wake Forest with a 48-point first half Saturday night and rode the cushion to a 96-86 victory in the NCAA Eastern Regional basketball tournament final and a place in the national semifinals next Friday at Kansas City.

St. Bonaventure came from 17 points behind to trim Princeton 85-67 in the battle for third place.

Northeast Nabs Two Top Area Hoop Standouts

Two outstanding area high school seniors have signed letters of intent to play basketball at Northeast State College.

The two are Larry Butler from Forest High and Billy Brooks from Block High in Jonesville.

They are expected to do much in the future to bolster the Indian squad which last year played to a 11-14 record without having a single senior.

Tag Teamers In Spotlight At Roll-Arena

Neopolitan, who insisted he was not the Black Panther, but turned out to be none other last Monday night when Johnny Harmon got the best of him and his mask was removed, has brought in someone else to wear the hood.

The Mystery Wrestler will have plenty of tricks in store for the Harmon-Rivera team tonight if he has been taking lessons from Neopolitan.

Tonight's tag-team main event battle will also give Neopolitan a chance to gain some revenge for his loss to Rivera last week. Both wrestlers had plenty at stake at Roll-Arena last week. Rivera's hair and the Panther's mask. It took Rivera's victory and outside assistance from the referee to finally get Neopolitan's mask off.

The main event struggle is slated for an hour time limit with two falls to win.

In the semifinal match Prince Omar will tangle with Adrian Ballengeon. Ballengeon has had plenty of strong competition at Roll-Arena in the past and tonight's match should be a tough one. The semifinal match is also scheduled for an hour with two falls to win.

The opening match tonight between Rod Rivera and Tony Neopolitan will give the ex-Panther even more opportunity to make up for his loss to Rivera last week. The battle is set for 15 minutes with one fall to win.

Holy Cross, St. Louis Win Games

NEW YORK (AP)—A rugged, aggressive Holy Cross team and defensive-minded St. Louis eliminated two of the seeded teams from the National Invitation Basketball Tournament in the quarter-final round Saturday night.

Holy Cross walloped Memphis State 81-69 after St. Louis beat Colorado State University 59-53.

The Holy Cross victory climaxed a long day of basketball in Madison Square Garden which also saw Temple beat Army 79-66 and Providence down DePaul 73-67 in afternoon first-round games.

The Crusaders, up against a big, strong Memphis State frontline, won out on their aggressive defense play and keen shooting on a fast-break offense.

Trailing 17-9 at an early stage in the first half, Holy Cross switched into a pressing mid-court defense and disrupted the rhythm of the Memphis State attack.

The Crusaders moved into the lead at 21:20 and were ahead 38-35 at halftime.

Starting the second half, Jack (The Shot) Foley, John Connors and George Blaney accounted for eight straight points to send Holy Cross into a 10-point lead.

From there on, it was only the shooting of Wayne Yates, a 6-foot-8 center from North Little Rock, Ark., that kept Memphis State in the game. At one point, Yates hit nine straight points.

Foley, the Crusaders' thin, 6-foot-5 sharpshooter, accounted for 14 points in the first half. He was pretty well blanketed in the second but Connors, Blaney and Tim Shea kept Holy Cross out in front.

Memphis State was hurt when Frank Snyder, one of its big men fouled out after eight minutes of the second half. Later, it lost two other starters, Gene Wilfong and Lowery Kirk, on fouls.

The Crusaders kept popping in their free throws to increase their lead in the closing minutes.

Yates wound up as the game's high scorer with 26 points. Foley had 24 for Holy Cross and Shea, the blond sharpshooter whose free throws led to a Crusader victory over Detroit in the first round, scored 17.

Colorado State rallied to tie St. Louis three times before the Billikens pulled away in the first game.

BEAT LAKERS 123-114

Pistons Resurge To Even Series

DETROIT (AP) — Chuck Noble and Gene Shue led a Detroit Piston uprising late in the game Saturday that brought the Pistons a 123-114 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers and a 2-2 tie in the National Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs.

The victory, Detroit's second in less than 20 hours on its home floor, forces the teams to return to Los Angeles where they'll clash Sunday in the payoff battle of their best-of-five series.

The winner will advance to the Western finals against the St. Louis Hawks starting Tuesday night at St. Louis.

After lagging by as many as 13 points in the second period and then falling behind 79-74 midway in the third quarter, the Pistons came alive to bury the Lakers before 2,100 fans and a national television audience.

Shue, Bob Ferry, George Lee and Bailey Howell sparked the uprising which carried the Pistons to a 94-87 lead before the third period was over.

Then with Noble and Shue the big guns, Detroit increased its advantage to 113-96 midway in the final period and was able to beat down the Lakers despite loss of Walter Dukes and Noble through fouls with more than five minutes to play.

The Pistons' surge continued as they took a 69-67 lead three minutes into the third period. Baylor then took over again, hitting for 10 straight points to help the Lakers into a 79-74 lead before the Pistons launched their winning rally.

Baylor finished with 47 points to give him a total of 162 in the four games thus far in the series. Shue led the Pistons with 29 while Ferry had 24.

The Madison parish resolution concerning the killing of doe deer, while defeated 9-8 by the voting delegates yesterday afternoon, may come up again as a hot potato today at the meeting that will also decide the federation's recommendations for waterfowl and dove seasons.

The doe deer resolution pointed out Madison's opposition to the killing of doe, but signified that if state biologists deemed decreasing the herd necessary that it be taken up with the parish police juries which could give signature approval.

There was argument that the federation in the past has sought to take powers away from police juries and follow the dictates of the biologists, and that the doe deer motion tended to turn these powers back to the police juries.

Jack Rushing of Monroe, supporting the Madison parish resolution, was still waging a fight after the motion had been tabled. He was informed by district vice president T. H. Roger Jr., Norco, presiding in the place of federation president Herbert H. Ducote Jr., Baton Rouge, that he could "move for suspension of rule and ask for a roll call vote" at today's session of the full membership.

After coming out of committee as a resolution outlawing the use of the 22 rifle for big game hunting, particularly deer, an amendment was asked inserting the word "rimfire" in designating the type of 22 ammunition to be outlawed, and thus would have permitted the use of centerfire ammunition. The resulting argument and vote was a smashing 16-3 defeat for the resolution.

Also defeated was a resolution that would have permitted the use of dogs for deer hunting in Webster parish.

The federation will ask the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission for "more days" of deer hunting in the game management areas for the state's archers next season. Bow and arrow hunters had five successive weekends before gun hunting started last year. The archers took nine deer during their season, according to a recent count of tags released by the commission.

Caldwell parish's resolution asking for a statewide Thanksgiving opening day for the deer season passed with amendment to point out that it covered the gun hunters, to avoid conflict with the resolution pertaining to the archers (who can hunt the gun areas as well during the gun season).

A joint resolution from Caldwell, LaSalle, and Catahoula parishes also asked for the same opening, closing, and use of hunting dog regulations "unless there are biological reasons" why the state should not grant it. The three parishes have about the same problems in the deer areas and do not want their seasons differing.

Recommended seasons to be taken to the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission include quail, Thanksgiving to February 15, with the same bag and possession limits as last season; squirrel and rabbit, same as last season (Oct. 1-Feb. 15 inclusive), and that the bag and possession limits be determined by biologists' recommendations.

Baton Rouge sportsmen pushed through their resolution asking that the commission make available for newspaper publication the names and offenses in all game law violations.

Some other resolutions winning the federation's support included:

Request of Caddo and Ouachita units that permission be obtained from gas companies and others rights-of-way through game areas to seed these strips into food plots for deer and game birds.

Recommend construction of recreation areas near potential fishing areas.

Ask the forestry commission to consider the needs of deer herds keeping watch of growth and when the herds may exceed the cover necessary.

Would create a water commission to work toward maintaining stable water levels and save the wetlands not involved in flood control waters.

St. Landry parish won support of a recommendation asking a $500 fine and a mandatory jail sentence of one year for persons convicted of shocking fish.

Request stepping up program of artificial reefs in the Gulf of Mexico.

Asking Governor Jimmie Davis to push enactment of legislation to stop pollution of streams.

That big game and "little game" hunting license fees remain the same as they were last year. (The licenses were $2 for the basic hunting license and another $2 for the deer and turkey license).

Ask adequate funds for enforcement personnel to carry out their jobs without having to use personal funds and added that the rangers, or wardens, be furnished improved communication systems between themselves and sheriff's offices. (They're on different radio bands. Sheriff Red Gilbert pointed out that the regular sheriff's band is already overcrowded, but some system might be worked out to assist the game rangers).

Iberia parish wants, and got approval, the Louisiana Department of Highways to provide the commission with the name, number, and location of boat ramps its builds, and there were requests for improved boat landings.

Provide funds to print enough Conservationists, the state magazine of the outdoors, to make it available to all residents who request it.

To clarify fish kills and possession as defined in the hunting and fishing pamphlet issued by the commission.

Raise the weight limit of fishing boats from 500 to 1,500 pounds for the minimum license tag.

St. Landry wants public works help on certain dams and weirs to maintain water levels for fish.

There were recommendations commending work that has benefited wildlife work.

Ouachita commended Public Works for cleaning and improving Bayou DeSiard.

DeSoto thanked the federation for its help in passage of "amendment 8" in the election last year that assured Louisiana support for building Toledo dam on Sabine river.

Iberia and Vermilion parishes extended thanks to the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission for work on enforcement.

Calcasieu pledged its full support to the seven - man Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission over the "selfish whims of politicians." There was some objection to the word "selfish" in the resolution as it passed committee, but one delegate asked from the floor, "What other whims do they have?" and the resolution passed without amendment.

Cincinnati Whips Kansas State 69-64

By DON WEISS

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Cincinnati's Bearcats, a gritty bunch that just refused to lose, smashed back in the late going and gained a 69-64 victory over Kansas State Saturday night in the championship game of the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

It was the 20th victory in a row for Cincinnati this season.

Texas Tech nipped Houston 69-67 in the consolation opener of the doubleheader, played before a frantic, roaring crowd of about 13,500.

Cincinnati, advancing to the NCAA semifinals next Friday in Kansas City, matched San Francisco University's record of three regional championships.

St. Joseph's Stuns Deacons In 98-86 Jolt

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — St. Joseph's of Philadelphia stunned jittery Wake Forest with a 48-point first half Saturday night and rode the cushion to a 96-86 victory in the NCAA Eastern Regional basketball tournament final and a place in the national semifinals next Friday at Kansas City.

St. Bonaventure came from 17 points behind to trim Princeton 85-67 in the battle for third place.

Northeast Nabs Two Top Area Hoop Standouts

Two outstanding area high school seniors have signed letters of intent to play basketball at Northeast State College.

They are expected to do much in the future to bolster the Indian squad which last year played to a 11-14 record without having a single senior.

Exhibition Baseball

PHILS—CARDS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Tony Curry batted in three runs with three hits Saturday as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 in an exhibition game.

St. Louis had the benefit of nine walks, an error and a wild pitch, but was stopped by poor base running early, plus brilliant pitching the last six innings by two Philadelphia rookie right-handers, Paul Brown and Dwight Siegler. They held the Cardinals hitless.

The Phillies wrapped up the game with three runs in the third inning off right-hander Harry Sanok, combining a walk and wild pitch with a single by Bob Sadowski and a double by Curry and Tony Gonzalez.

Al Cicotte held the Phillies to one run in four innings and Mickey McDermott blanked them the last two innings.

DODGERS—A'S

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Larry Sherry and Ron Perranoski combined to pitch a five-hit shutout Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers handed the Kansas City Athletics a 2-0 defeat.

Sherry worked six innings in which he yielded four hits, struck out four and walked one. Perranoski, a rookie southpaw, allowed only one man to reach base over the final three innings.

The Dodgers scored both of their runs against Tom Baker, a young left-hander who started for the A's. In the first inning Charlie Neal walked and scored on a single by Tommy Davis and an error by Bill Tuttle, the A's center fielder. Sherry helped his own cause in the third when he doubled and scored on a single by Maury Wills.

ANGELS — CUBS B

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The pitching of Ken McBride, former Chicago White Sox right-hander, featured the Los Angeles Angels 8-6 baseball victory Saturday over the Chicago Cub "B" team.

McBride allowed only one hit in five innings and struck out six.

The Angels put the game away with a five - run sixth inning against Dick Ellsworth, the Cubs' starting pitcher. They made all but one of their 13 hits off the tall left-hander. All of their hits were singles.

A five-run uprising against Jerry Casale in the eighth put the Cubs back in contention but reliever Tom Morgan struck out the last two men in the ninth with the tieing runs on base.

WHITE SOX—TIGERS

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — The Chicago White Sox halted the Detroit Tigers on three hits Saturday and won their sixth game in eight Grapefruit League starts by a score of 6-1.

The game was called after the White Sox batted in the top of the ninth by a heavy shower.

The White Sox wrapped up the game in the second inning on the wildness of Detroit rookie Al Pehanick. The skinny right-hander walked three batters and hit two more as the Sox sent 10 men to bat and scored five times.

Pehanick faced seven batters in the inning and failed to retire any of them. He walked a batter and hit Minnie Minoso in the first inning but escaped without a run in that inning.

Rookie Ed Drapcho, Turk Lown and southpaw Gary Peters pitched for the White Sox. The Tigers scored their only run off Drapcho in the first inning when second baseman Jake Wood singled, advanced to second on an infield out, to third on Al Kaline's single and came home on another infield out.

Kaline hit safely in both his at bats and raised his average to .538 on 14 hits in 26 trips.

TIGERS B—SENATORS

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Marty Keough rapped out four hits in five at bats to continue his hot streak as the Washington Senators beat the jittery Detroit "B" squad baseball team 5-2 Saturday.

All the Washington runs were unearned, and four of them came in the sixth inning when the Tiger infield committed three errors. A walk to Billy Klaus, a wild throw on a fielder's choice by shortstop Dick McCauliffe, another wild peg into the dirt by McCauliffe on a routing ground ball, and a wild throw by third baseman Bob Micelotta in a trap of Danny O'Connell contributed to the big inning.

In the fifth inning Keough made first on an error by first baseman Dick Gernert, moved to third on Cott Veal's single and scored on a fielder's choice.

Hal Woodeshick gave up only two hits in the five innings he worked. Marty Kutyna yielded both Tiger runs in the ninth on a walk and singles by Gernert, Ron Witucki and Norm Cash.

GIANTS—INDIANS

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Harvey Kuenn rapped three hits, including a pair of doubles, to give the San Francisco Giants a 4-1 Cactus league baseball victory Saturday over the Cleveland Indians.

Billy Loes held the Indians in check for six innings and got credit for the victory. Loes gave up five hits and was never in serious trouble. Rookie Jim Duffalo finished and allowed the Indians one hit.

Gary Bell, making his first pitching appearance since last August, turned in three scoreless innings for Cleveland. Bell, who was forced out last year by a sore arm, permitted only one hit.

Veteran John Antonelli took the loss. The former San Francisco pitcher was touched for two runs in the fifth inning on a walk, a double by Chuck Hilier and Jose Pagan's squeeze bunt.

REDS—BRAVES

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves landed on a former teammate, right-hander Joey Jay, for nine runs in the first three innings and went on to a 12-9 victory over Cincinnati in an exhibition game Saturday.

Shortstop Roy McMillan, who the Reds traded to the Braves for Jay last winter, led the assault on the ex-Milwaukeean. He drove in four runs with two homers and a single. Eddie Mathews and Joe Torre added four - baggers and Henry Aaron clouted a 420-foot triple.

After manhandling Jay, the Braves added three runs off Johnny Tsitouris in the fourth to close out their scoring. Ken Hunt, rookie right-hander, blanked the Braves on two singles the last four innings.

Don Nottebart shut out the Reds for four innings but the spell was broken in the fifth when Vada Pinson tripled in one run and Frank Robinson clouted a two-run homer. Jim Baumer slammed a three-run homer off Carl Willey, Nottebart's successor, in the sixth and Wally Post hit for the circuit in the seventh with one aboard.

PIRATES—TWINS

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Pittsburgh remained on top of its Grapefruit League rivals Saturday with a 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins as pitchers Jim Umbricht and Joe Gibbon befuddled Minnesota sluggers.

The Pirates boosted their baseball exhibition record to 8-1. Starter and winner Umbricht yielded but two runs and six hits in the first five innings and Gibbon held the Twins scoreless the rest of the way.

It was a case of sixth-inning miseries for the Twins for the third time in four days, as the Pirates broke up a 2-2 game with three runs in that frame. The runs came off Chuck Stobbs, second Minnesota pitcher.

Pittsburgh scored on four singles and an error by Twins' center fielder Lenny Green. Each team scored twice in the first inning, the only extra-base blow being Bill Virdon's double.

Minnesota's exhibition record is 2-6.

Tag Teamers In Spotlight At Roll-Arena

Neopolitan, who insisted he was not the Black Panther, but turned out to be none other last Monday night when Johnny Harmon got the best of him and his mask was removed, has brought in someone else to wear the hood.

The Mystery Wrestler will have plenty of tricks in store for the Harmon-Rivera team tonight if he has been taking lessons from Neopolitan.

Tonight's tag-team main event battle will also give Neopolitan a chance to gain some revenge for his loss to Rivera last week. Both wrestlers had plenty at stake at Roll-Arena last week. Rivera's hair and the Panther's mask. It took Rivera's victory and outside assistance from the referee to finally get Neopolitan's mask off.

The main event struggle is slated for an hour time limit with two falls to win.

In the semifinal match Prince Omar will tangle with Adrian Ballengeon. Ballengeon has had plenty of strong competition at Roll-Arena in the past and tonight's match should be a tough one. The semifinal match is also scheduled for an hour with two falls to win.

The opening match tonight between Rod Rivera and Tony Neopolitan will give the ex-Panther even more opportunity to make up for his loss to Rivera last week. The battle is set for 15 minutes with one fall to win.

Holy Cross, St. Louis Win Games

NEW YORK (AP)—A rugged, aggressive Holy Cross team and defensive-minded St. Louis eliminated two of the seeded teams from the National Invitation Basketball Tournament in the quarter-final round Saturday night.

Holy Cross walloped Memphis State 81-69 after St. Louis beat Colorado State University 59-53.

The Holy Cross victory climaxed a long day of basketball in Madison Square Garden which also saw Temple beat Army 79-66 and Providence down DePaul 73-67 in afternoon first-round games.

The Crusaders, up against a big, strong Memphis State frontline, won out on their aggressive defense play and keen shooting on a fast-break offense.

Trailing 17-9 at an early stage in the first half, Holy Cross switched into a pressing mid-court defense and disrupted the rhythm of the Memphis State attack.

The Crusaders moved into the lead at 21:20 and were ahead 38-35 at halftime.

Starting the second half, Jack (The Shot) Foley, John Connors and George Blaney accounted for eight straight points to send Holy Cross into a 10-point lead.

From there on, it was only the shooting of Wayne Yates, a 6-foot-8 center from North Little Rock, Ark., that kept Memphis State in the game. At one point, Yates hit nine straight points.

Foley, the Crusaders' thin, 6-foot-5 sharpshooter, accounted for 14 points in the first half. He was pretty well blanketed in the second but Connors, Blaney and Tim Shea kept Holy Cross out in front.

Memphis State was hurt when Frank Snyder, one of its big men fouled out after eight minutes of the second half. Later, it lost two other starters, Gene Wilfong and Lowery Kirk, on fouls.

The Crusaders kept popping in their free throws to increase their lead in the closing minutes.

Yates wound up as the game's high scorer with 26 points. Foley had 24 for Holy Cross and Shea, the blond sharpshooter whose free throws led to a Crusader victory over Detroit in the first round, scored 17.

Colorado State rallied to tie St. Louis three times before the Billikens pulled away in the first game.

BEAT LAKERS 123-114

Pistons Resurge To Even Series

DETROIT (AP) — Chuck Noble and Gene Shue led a Detroit Piston uprising late in the game Saturday that brought the Pistons a 123-114 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers and a 2-2 tie in the National Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs.

The victory, Detroit's second in less than 20 hours on its home floor, forces the teams to return to Los Angeles where they'll clash Sunday in the payoff battle of their best-of-five series.

The winner will advance to the Western finals against the St. Louis Hawks starting Tuesday night at St. Louis.

After lagging by as many as 13 points in the second period and then falling behind 79-74 midway in the third quarter, the Pistons came alive to bury the Lakers before 2,100 fans and a national television audience.

Shue, Bob Ferry, George Lee and Bailey Howell sparked the uprising which carried the Pistons to a 94-87 lead before the third period was over.

Then, with Noble and Shue the big guns, Detroit increased its advantage to 113-96 midway in the final period and was able to beat down the Lakers despite loss of Walter Dukes and Noble through fouls with more than five minutes to play.

The Pistons' surge continued as they took a 69-67 lead three minutes into the third period. Baylor then took over again, hitting for 10 straight points to help the Lakers into a 79-74 lead before the Pistons launched their winning rally.

Baylor finished with 47 points to give him a total of 162 in the four games thus far in the series. Shue led the Pistons with 29 while Ferry had 24.

WHY NOW?

Official Blasts Bribe Releases

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Norton, chairman of the NIT selection committee and coach at Manhattan the past 15 years, blasted the New York District Attorney's office Saturday for its handling of the latest college basketball scandal investigation.

"Why are they announcing this all now just when there are two big tournaments (the NCAA and the NIT) going on," he asked. "They want to get as much publicity as possible out of it. They've been working on it for five months and they've just releasing the information bit by bit. This way, every college basketball player in the country is a suspect."

Norton commented after a disclosure today by Executive Assistant District Attorney David S. Worgan that hundreds of persons in many states have been questioned during the investigation. Worgan said a dozen people had been interrogated in the past several days. He would not identify any of those questioned or discuss the progress of the probe.

Although police sources said that 15 to 20 colleges from coast to coast might be involved, only three players have been charged with accepting bribes to shave points. Two gamblers are in custody.

Two of the three players have been identified. Both played for Seton Hall. They are Henry Gunter of New York and Arthur Hicks of Chicago. One player from the University of Connecticut has not been identified.

Three New York colleges are said by the District Attorney's office to be involved.

"If any of my players had been in this they would have come to me," said Norton. "I warned them to let me know anytime they were approached and I'd call the police immediately. I, myself received two anonymous phone calls last season. They mentioned something about betting rings in this country and Canada and whether I knew about two points being changed in a couple of games. I called the police immediately. Nothing more developed."

"I've heard from all but one player," said Lapchick. "The others assured me they had done nothing wrong. I'm not worried about this fellow. In fact, I'd bet on him." Lapchick refused to identify the player, but said he was a first stringer.

There was considerable speculation as to the affect of the latest developments.

"There's no question that interest in the game will dwindle like it did after the 1951 scandals if this turns out to be a nationwide thing," said Norton, who is also president of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association.

"They're going to say again 'take the game out of Madison Square Garden and other big arenas or do away with basketball altogether.' But if a bank teller runs off with money, you don't close the bank. I say take the odds out of the papers. That's one thing that encourages gambling. Then let the law enforcement agencies do the job they're supposed to as far as gambling is concerned."

The two gamblers who have been taken into custody, described as representing a nationwide syndicate, are Aaron Wagman, 28, and Joseph Hacken, 41, both of New York. They are charged with bribery and conspiracy in an attempt to fix college games.

Two games specifically are mentioned in the charges. One was on Feb. 9 when Dayton defeated Seton Hall 112-77 at Madison Square Garden.

Top Golfers To Vie For Western Amateur Title

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jack Nichlaus, possibly the best amateur golfer to swing down the fairway in a couple of generations, and national amateur champion Deane Beman swap strokes starting Wednesday for the coveted Western Amateur title.

The Western, often called golf's most gruelling tournament, rolls for five days with the winner at sundown next Sunday with something like 144 holes of golf—more or less—behind him.

The tournament starts with three days of medal play and the 16 low scorers then go into two days of march play for the championship.

While the 20-year-old Nicklaus, a student at Ohio State, and Beman, a 23-year-old father of two from Bethesda, Md., would dearly love to win the Western, both will be using it as a sounding board for the fabled Masters at Augusta, Ga., early next month.

This isn't to indicate that Beman and Nicklaus will have the battle all to themselves—not at all, what with three former Western kings among the entries—Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., James Key of Columbus, Ga., and Dale Morey of Morgantown, N.C.

Nicklaus, national amateur champion two years ago, is rated by many golf observers as the game's new Arnold Palmer—strong off the tee, a colorful personality and deadly serious about golf.

The 6-505-yard New Orleans Country Club course, as severe a golf test as can be found in this part of the country, will host the tournament.

Although the course has four par 5 holes—starting with the 595-yard No. 1 and ending with the 572-yard 18th—the power boys won't have any picnic.

The fairways border on the narrow side with most flanked by trees to the right that will give any slicer more than just a headache. The country club's greens are well-cushioned, but their undulations would make a ship's master seasick and demand the deadliest putting.

Gator Golfer Tops Florida Meet With 277

OCALA, Fla. (AP) — Frank Beard, a University of Florida golfer, won the individual championship of the Florida Collegiate Invitational Saturday over the Ocala Municipal Course with a four-round 7-under-par score of 277.

The University of Houston won the team championship with a score of 1,126—10-under-par 71. Florida was second with 1,135 and Georgia third with 1,150. Florida State was fourth with 1,181, and Florida Southern fifth with 1,183. Middle Tennessee was sixth with 1,186 and Miami seventh with 1,192.

A FREAK SQUIRREL with front teeth that resemble a pre-historic animal has been turned over to biologists of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission. The head is pictured here. C. D. Babers of Saline killed the bushytail, which at the time was cutting a pine cone. With wrap-around incisons, the squirrel undoubtedly was having a tough time. (Staff photo by John Fogleman)

WHY NOW?

Official Blasts Bribe Releases

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Norton, chairman of the NIT selection committee and coach at Manhattan the past 15 years, blasted the New York District Attorney's office Saturday for its handling of the latest college basketball scandal investigation.

"Why are they announcing this all now just when there are two big tournaments (the NCAA and the NIT) going on," he asked. "They want to get as much publicity as possible out of it. They've been working on it for five months and they've just releasing the information bit by bit. This way, every college basketball player in the country is a suspect."

Norton commented after a disclosure today by Executive Assistant District Attorney David S. Worgan that hundreds of persons in many states have been questioned during the investigation. Worgan said a dozen people had been interrogated in the past several days. He would not identify any of those questioned or discuss the progress of the probe.

Although police sources said that 15 to 20 colleges from coast to coast might be involved, only three players have been charged with accepting bribes to shave points. Two gamblers are in custody.

Two of the three players have been identified. Both played for Seton Hall. They are Henry Gunter of New York and Arthur Hicks of Chicago. One player from the University of Connecticut has not been identified.

Three New York colleges are said by the District Attorney's office to be involved.

"If any of my players had been in this they would have come to me," said Norton. "I warned them to let me know anytime they were approached and I'd call the police immediately. I, myself received two anonymous phone calls last season. They mentioned something about betting rings in this country and Canada and whether I knew about two points being changed in a couple of games. I called the police immediately. Nothing more developed."

"I've heard from all but one player," said Lapchick. "The others assured me they had done nothing wrong. I'm not worried about this fellow. In fact, I'd bet on him." Lapchick refused to identify the player, but said he was a first stringer.

There was considerable speculation as to the affect of the latest developments.

"There's no question that interest in the game will dwindle like it did after the 1951 scandals if this turns out to be a nationwide thing," said Norton, who is also president of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association.

"They're going to say again 'take the game out of Madison Square Garden and other big arenas or do away with basketball altogether.' But if a bank teller runs off with money, you don't close the bank. I say take the odds out of the papers. That's one thing that encourages gambling. Then let the law enforcement agencies do the job they're supposed to as far as gambling is concerned."

The two gamblers who have been taken into custody, described as representing a nationwide syndicate, are Aaron Wagman, 28, and Joseph Hacken, 41, both of New York. They are charged with bribery and conspiracy in an attempt to fix college games.

Two games specifically are mentioned in the charges. One was on Feb. 9 when Dayton defeated Seton Hall 112-77 at Madison Square Garden.

Top Golfers To Vie For Western Amateur Title

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jack Nichlaus, possibly the best amateur golfer to swing down the fairway in a couple of generations, and national amateur champion Deane Beman swap strokes starting Wednesday for the coveted Western Amateur title.

The Western, often called golf's most gruelling tournament, rolls for five days with the winner at sundown next Sunday with something like 144 holes of golf—more or less—behind him.

The tournament starts with three days of medal play and the 16 low scorers then go into two days of march play for the championship.

While the 20-year-old Nicklaus, a student at Ohio State, and Beman, a 23-year-old father of two from Bethesda, Md., would dearly love to win the Western, both will be using it as a sounding board for the fabled Masters at Augusta, Ga., early next month.

This isn't to indicate that Beman and Nicklaus will have the battle all to themselves—not at all, what with three former Western kings among the entries—Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., James Key of Columbus, Ga., and Dale Morey of Morgantown, N.C.

Nicklaus, national amateur champion two years ago, is rated by many golf observers as the game's new Arnold Palmer—strong off the tee, a colorful personality and deadly serious about golf.

The 6-505-yard New Orleans Country Club course, as severe a golf test as can be found in this part of the country, will host the tournament.

Although the course has four par 5 holes—starting with the 595-yard No. 1 and ending with the 572-yard 18th—the power boys won't have any picnic.

The fairways border on the narrow side with most flanked by trees to the right that will give any slicer more than just a headache. The country club's greens are well-cushioned, but their undulations would make a ship's master seasick and demand the deadliest putting.

Gator Golfer Tops Florida Meet With 277

OCALA, Fla. (AP) — Frank Beard, a University of Florida golfer, won the individual championship of the Florida Collegiate Invitational Saturday over the Ocala Municipal Course with a four-round 7-under-par score of 277.

The University of Houston won the team championship with a score of 1,126—10-under-par 71. Florida was second with 1,135 and Georgia third with 1,150. Florida State was fourth with 1,181, and Florida Southern fifth with 1,183. Middle Tennessee was sixth with 1,186 and Miami seventh with 1,192.

NEW FRONTIERS BILLS

JFK To Muster Thin Majorities

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy apparently will be able to muster thin majorities in both houses of Congress for most of the controversial bills in his New Frontiers program.

But the President probably will have to use every tactic known to modern politicians to run some of his proposals past the bristling guns of a Republican-Southern Democratic coalition still full of fight.

The Senate's vote 44-42 last week to kill an amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to the emergency unemployment compensation measure indicated to administration leaders how uncomfortably narrow their margin is in that body.

They were similarly concerned about a 209-202 squeaker by which the administration's feed grains bill won House approval.

The two tests showed Kennedy that if he throws the full White House weight behind his congressional supporters, he has a slightly better than even chance of getting what he wants.

The Byrd amendment was a case in point. Byrd, who heads the Senate Finance Committee, had won the approval of that group for his amendment. It would have provided that states wouldn't have to pay back through payroll taxes more than they draw from the federal government to extend compensation payments to jobless who have used up their benefits.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., led the floor fight to restore the Kennedy principle under which taxes collected from employers would go into a national pool. Under this plan, 40 states would have to pay in more than they receive in loans.

Administration leaders did some thinking before they decided to take on Byrd on this unfavorable ground. But Kennedy decided it was time to find out whether he could lick the coalition.

It was not entirely by coincidence that he chose to have his first showdown in each house with a Virginia. He had bested Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., in a 217-212 test earlier in the Rules Committee controversy.

Now he elected to take on Byrd, who withheld support for Kennedy in last year's campaign.

The President sent Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg into the fray. He enlisted Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, the former Senate Democratic leader, to work on his former colleagues. Every administration official who could be counted on to reason with doubtful senators was dispatched to Capitol Hill.

There were reports that Kennedy himself got on the telephone to several governors and had them call their senators.

The resulting 44-42 vote did not represent the full Kennedy strength on that particular issue. Counting those who were "paired" and five who did not vote but were announced as opposing the amendment, the outcome would have been 52-45 had all whose positions was known been present and casting their votes.

Of the three unrecorded absentees, Kennedy ordinarily could count on the support of only one. Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Sens. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., and Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., are not on the President's team.

While mathematically the President thus might be said to have a bloc of 53 of the Senate's 100 members behind him, the figure could fluctuate materially on other controversial issues.

On the roll call, Kennedy got the support of five Republicans. Of these, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant GOP leader, and Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., may not be with the President too often.

Seven Southern Democrats who would depart from him on any civil rights proposal were among the 9 party members who stood with Kennedy on the roll call. On the other hand, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who can be expected to support many Kennedy proposals, was among the 16 Democrats who voted on the Byrd side.

FOREST SINGLETON, above, has been named assistant manager of the local J. C. Penney store, according to an announcement by manager Fred Beckett. Singleton, a native of Texarkana, comes to Monroe from Dallas. He has been with the company for seven years. The Singleton's, with their two children, are at home at 1909 Forsythe.

Escapee Seeks To Regain His Artificial Leg

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A convicted hammer slayer who led the escape of 11 prisoners from Los Angeles County jail asked Superior Court Saturday to make jailers return his artificial leg.

Sheriff's deputies removed Joe Morgan's leg when they recaptured him several days after the Feb. 21 break. Officers say Morgan, 32, has been known to conceal hacksaw blades in the limb and is quite agile when wearing it. He has escaped from custody several times.

Morgan, a convicted murderer at 16, contended in a petition for habeas corpus that his health and well-being are affected by lack of his artificial limb.

Superior Court will hold a hearing on Morgan's unique request Wednesday.

Laos Rebels Still Rolling Near Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels, their 11-day offensive still rolling, have artillery within 22 miles of the royal capital of Luang Prabang, an informed military source said Saturday.

Seasoned rebels, some of them Communist - indoctrinated, have advanced 36 miles north along the Queen Astrid Highway since capturing Sala Phou Koun road junction, the source said. But their two 105mm. howitzers still are 44 winding road miles from King Savang Vathana's royal city and still are out of range. The 105s is considered effective at 10-12 miles.

Premier Boun Oum, his poorly trained, battle-shy troops unable to smash the offensive, has shaken up the front line command. More changes are expected.

Energetic Col. Kouprasith Abhay has taken over field command in the Muong Kassy area. The Luang Prabang military commander, Col. Bouteng, nephew of a Cabinet minister, is reported due to be replaced.

The rebels are thought to have thrown 8,000 to 10,000 troops into the central Laos offensive, which gained quick success March 7 when Sala Phou Koun road junction fell. Against these well-trained mountain and jungle fighters, the government has employed 30,000 troops.

Western experts consider only one in five of the government troops trained in even the rudiments of combat. Their leadership leaves much to be desired. Capping this is the soldiers' natural peaceful tendencies, stemming in part from their Buddhist religion.

Religion doesn't enter the picture with many of the rebels, especially a hard core of 2,000 to 2,500 who have been Communist indoctrinated.

A reported increase in U. S. military aid to the pro-Western government is now being interpreted in Vientiane as the beginning of an arms race to match Soviet contributions to the rebels. The reported increase also is viewed as a direct U. S. answer to the current rebel offensive.

The rebels, accused by the Vientiane government of failing to honor a pledge to open peace talks, appear confident of winning a military decision.

The alternative seems to be arbitration by a proposed 14-nation conference that would include the Red Chinese.

The United States regards this alternative as a foot-dragging trick to lower the government's fighting spirit by dangling the prospect of peace and feels months, perhaps years, would go by before anything was settled.

Searchers Fail To Find Youths Lost In Flood

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (AP)—Searchers failed Saturday to find any trace of two teen-agers missing since swollen creek waters flooded their camp at Bay St. Louis Thursday night.

Some 300 persons combed the inundated woods for G. E. Maurigi, 15, of Bay St. Louis, and Wallace Bourgeois Jr., 14, of Waveland. Two private sea planes and two helicopters aided the massive search.

The two missing youths and four others were trapped Thursday night in a flash flood while camping out on a strip of land between two creeks northwest of Bay St. Louis.

Maurigi and Bourgeois swam for help. They were described as good swimmers. The other four were rescued Friday as they clung to the tops of trees.

Hancock County Sheriff Gerald Price expressed the hope during the morning that the missing boys had reached an isolated camp somewhere and were safe.

Although the search was aided by the end of the heavy rains that had struck the region, the peninsula where the boys had camped was still covered with from 10 to 15 feet of water. A missing bridge at Kiln also hampered the search.

The Senate's vote 44-42 last week to kill an amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to the emergency unemployment compensation measure indicated to administration leaders how uncomfortably narrow their margin is in that body.

They were similarly concerned about a 209-202 squeaker by which the administration's feed grains bill won House approval.

The two tests showed Kennedy that if he throws the full White House weight behind his congressional supporters he has a slightly better than even chance of getting what he wants.

The Byrd amendment was a case in point. Byrd, who heads the Senate Finance Committee, had won the approval of that group for his amendment. It would have provided that states wouldn't have to pay back through payroll taxes more than they draw from the federal government to extend compensation payments to jobless who have used up their benefits.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., led the floor fight to restore the Kennedy principle under which taxes collected from employers would go into a national pool. Under this plan, 40 states would have to pay in more than they receive in loans.

Administration leaders did some thinking before they decided to take on Byrd on this unfavorable ground. But Kennedy decided it was time to find out whether he could lick the coalition.

It was not entirely by coincidence that he chose to have his first showdown in each house with a Virginia. He had bested Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., in a 217-212 test earlier in the Rules Committee controversy.

Now he elected to take on Byrd, who withheld support for Kennedy in last year's campaign.

The President sent Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg into the fray. He enlisted Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, the former Senate Democratic leader, to work on his former colleagues. Every administration official who could be counted on to reason with doubtful senators was dispatched to Capitol Hill.

There were reports that Kennedy himself got on the telephone to several governors and had them call their senators.

The resulting 44-42 vote did not represent the full Kennedy strength on that particular issue. Counting those who were "paired" and five who did not vote but were announced as opposing the amendment, the outcome would have been 52-45 had all whose positions was known been present and casting their votes.

Of the three unrecorded absentees, Kennedy ordinarily could count on the support of only one. Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Sens. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., and Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., are not on the President's team.

While mathematically the President thus might be said to have a bloc of 53 of the Senate's 100 members behind him, the figure could fluctuate materially on other controversial issues.

On the roll call, Kennedy got the support of five Republicans. Of these, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant GOP leader, and Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., may not be with the President too often.

Seven Southern Democrats who would depart from him on any civil rights proposal were among the 9 party members who stood with Kennedy on the roll call. On the other hand, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who can be expected to support many Kennedy proposals, was among the 16 Democrats who voted on the Byrd side.

FOREST SINGLETON, above, has been named assistant manager of the local J. C. Penney store, according to an announcement by manager Fred Beckett. Singleton, a native of Texarkana, comes to Monroe from Dallas. He has been with the company for seven years. The Singleton's, with their two children, are at home at 1909 Forsythe.

Escapee Seeks To Regain His Artificial Leg

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A convicted hammer slayer who led the escape of 11 prisoners from Los Angeles County jail asked Superior Court Saturday to make jailers return his artificial leg.

Sheriff's deputies removed Joe Morgan's leg when they recaptured him several days after the Feb. 24 break. Officers say Morgan, 32, has been known to conceal hacksaw blades in the limb and is quite agile when wearing it. He has escaped from custody several times.

Morgan, a convicted murderer at 16, contended in a petition for habeas corpus that his health and well-being are affected by lack of his artificial limb.

Superior Court will hold a hearing on Morgan's unique request Wednesday.

Laos Rebels Still Rolling Near Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels, their 11-day offensive still rolling, have artillery within 22 miles of the royal capital of Luang Prabang, an informed military source said Saturday.

Seasoned rebels, some of them Communist - indoctrinated, have advanced 36 miles north along the Queen Astrid Highway since capturing Sala Phou Koun road junction, the source said. But their two 105mm. howitzers still are 44 winding road miles from King Savang Vathana's royal city and still are out of range. The 105 is considered effective at 10-12 miles.

Premier Boun Oum, his poorly trained, battle-shy troops unable to smash the offensive, has shaken up the front line command. More changes are expected.

Energetic Col. Kouprasith Abhay has taken over field command in the Muong Kassy area. The Luang Prabang military commander, Col. Bouteng, nephew of a Cabinet minister, is reported due to be replaced.

The rebels are thought to have thrown 8,000 to 10,000 troops into the central Laos offensive, which gained quick success March 7 when Sala Phou Koun road junction fell. Against these well-trained mountain and jungle fighters, the government has employed 30,000 troops.

Western experts consider only one in five of the government troops trained in even the rudiments of combat. Their leadership leaves much to be desired. Capping this is the soldiers' natural peaceful tendencies, stemming in part from their Buddhist religion.

Religion doesn't enter the picture with many of the rebels, especially a hard core of 2,000 to 2,500 who have been Communist indoctrinated.

A reported increase in U. S. military aid to the pro-Western government is now being interpreted in Vientiane as the beginning of an arms race to match Soviet contributions to the rebels. The reported increase also is viewed as a direct U. S. answer to the current rebel offensive.

The rebels, accused by the Vientiane government of failing to honor a pledge to open peace talks, appear confident of winning a military decision.

The alternative seems to be arbitration by a proposed 14-nation conference that would include the Red Chinese.

The United States regards this alternative as a foot-dragging trick to lower the government's fighting spirit by dangling the prospect of peace and feels months, perhaps years, would go by before anything was settled.

Searchers Fail To Find Youths Lost In Flood

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (AP)—Searchers failed Saturday to find any trace of two teen-agers missing since swollen creek waters flooded their camp at Bay St. Louis Thursday night.

Some 300 persons combed the inundated woods for G. E. Maurigi, 15, of Bay St. Louis, and Wallace Bourgeois Jr., 14, of Waveland. Two private sea planes and two helicopters aided the massive search.

The two missing youths and four others were trapped Thursday night in a flash flood while camping out on a strip of land between two creeks northwest of Bay St. Louis.

Maurigi and Bourgeois swam for help. They were described as good swimmers. The other four were rescued Friday as they clung to the tops of trees.

Hancock County Sheriff Gerald Price expressed the hope during the morning that the missing boys had reached an isolated camp somewhere and were safe.

Although the search was aided by the end of the heavy rains that had struck the region, the peninsula where the boys had camped was still covered with from 10 to 15 feet of water. A missing bridge at Kiln also hampered the search.

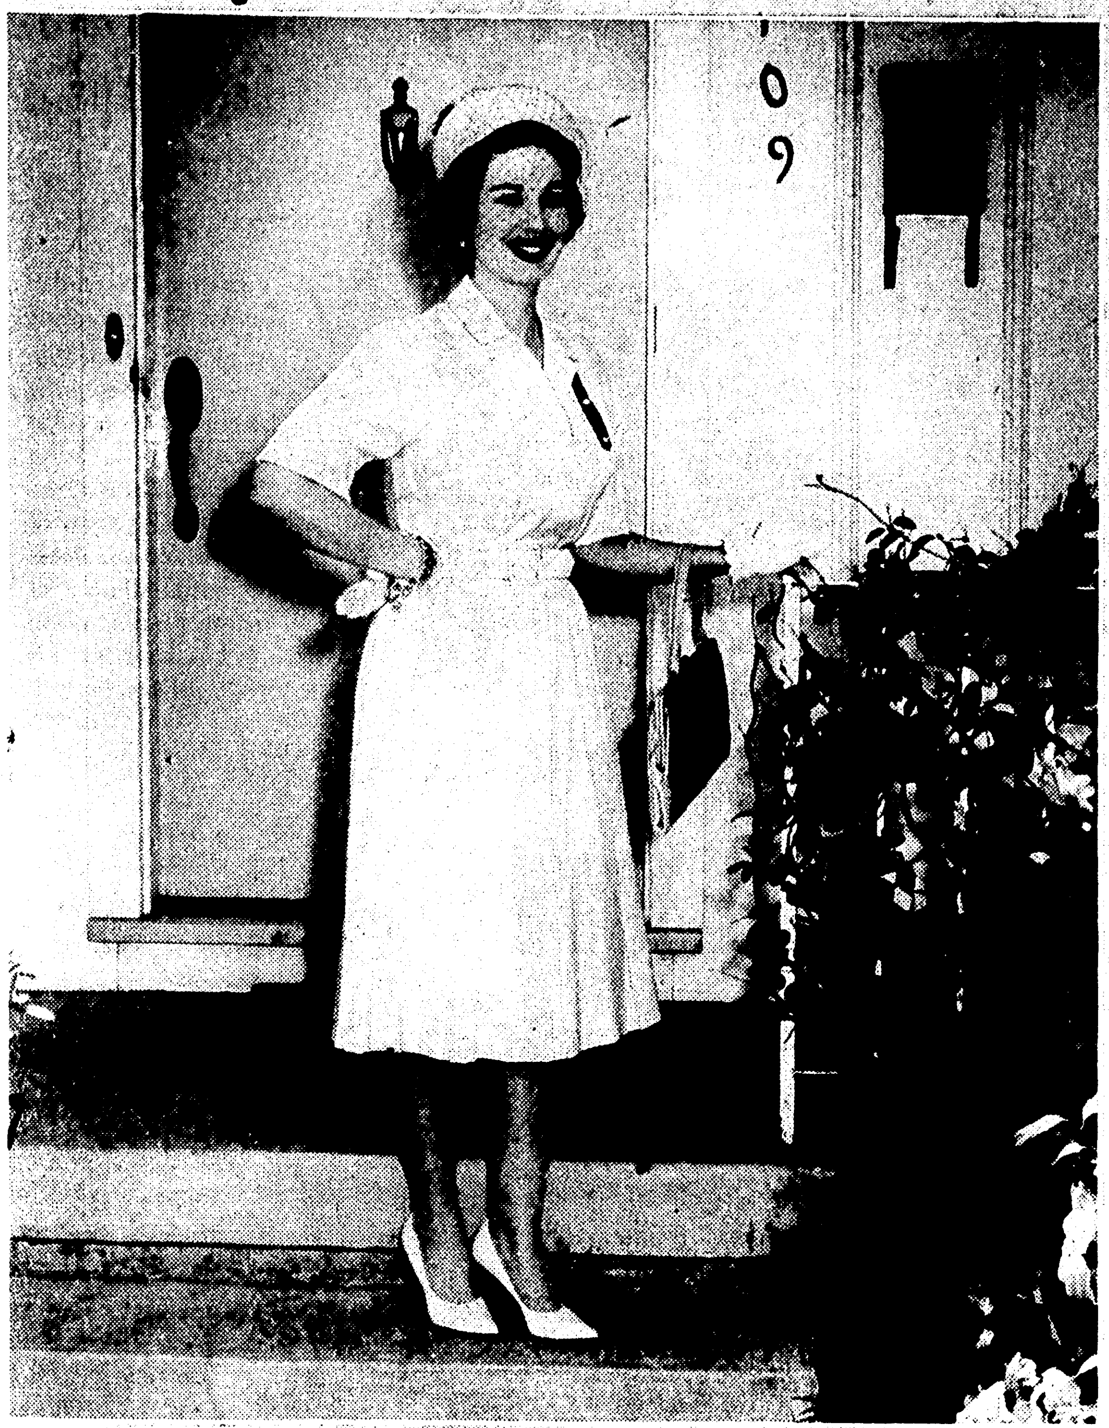
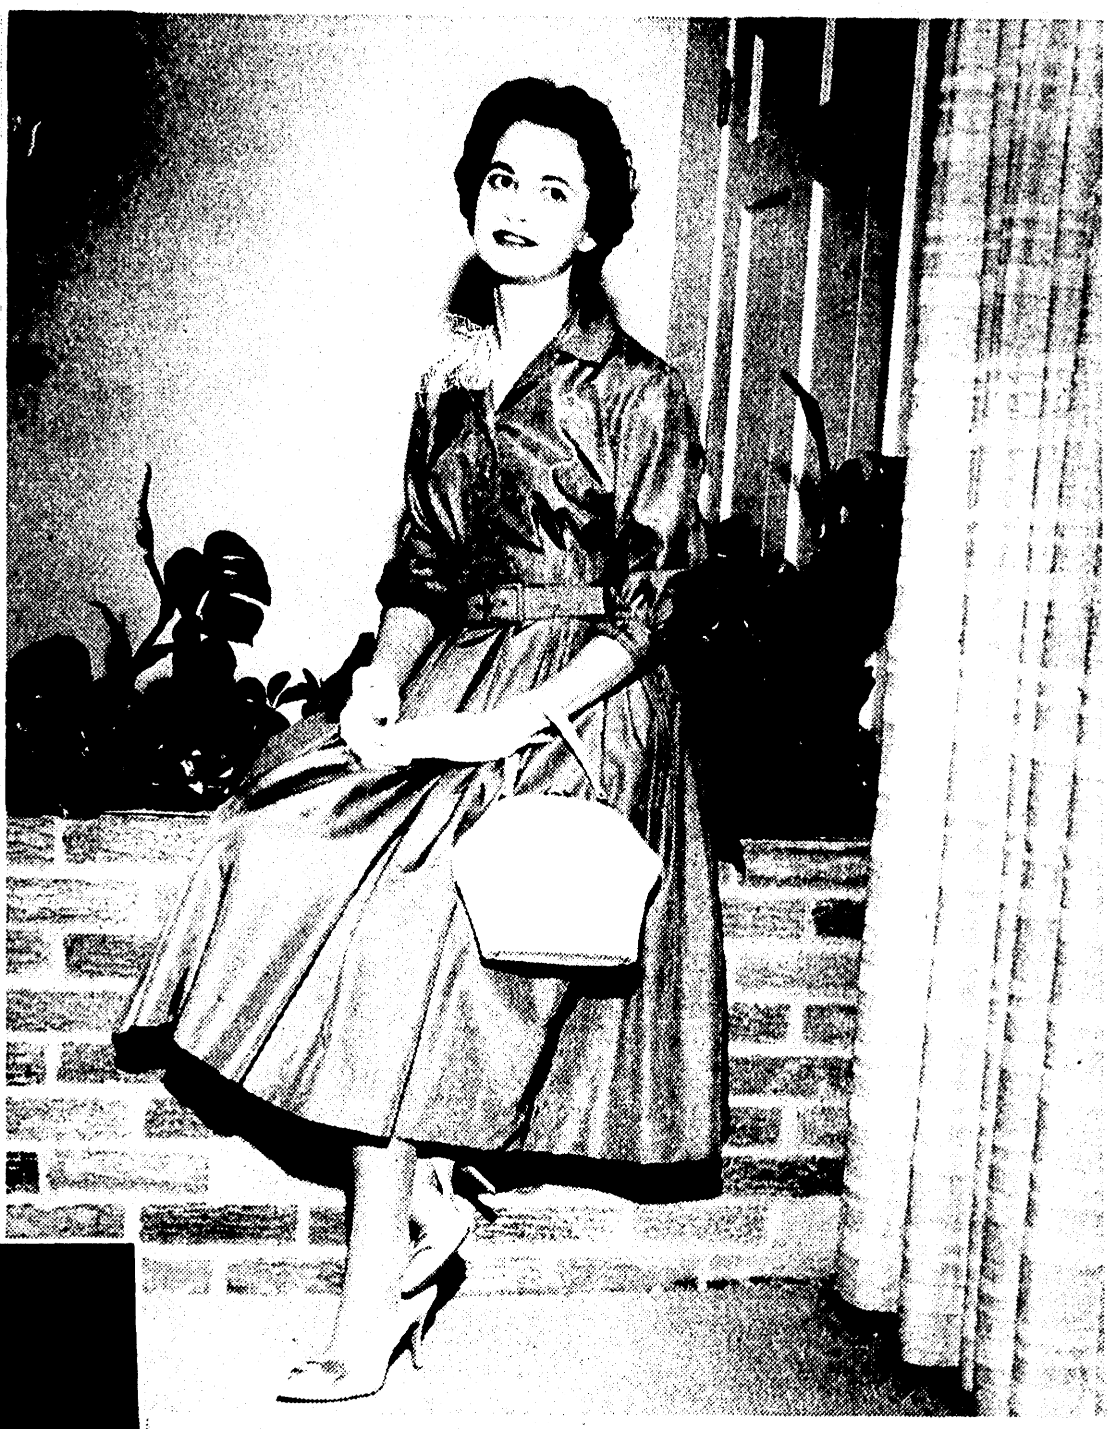
Suddenly it's Spring

Monroe Morning World
March 19



And a whole new world of color bursts into bloom in Milady's Spring fashions. Suddenly too, the gals and guys, the young and the young in spirit feel the exhilaration of this gay new season. With Easter just around the corner, it's time to think of spring and spring's inspiring, beautiful new fashions. This is the season when you'll see and wear all the colors of the rainbow. Since simplicity keynotes the subtle spring styles, a woman can, by indulging her own tastes in the selection of color, give her wardrobe both individuality and fashion. Pictured here are five young Monroe matrons modeling their choice in spring fashions.

FOR NOW, EASTER AND LATER is this silk shantung dress in bone white worn by Mrs. Toby O. Bancroft, 2109 Jasmine. A look of slenderness and relaxed ease is achieved by the knife-sharpness of the deep inverted pleats of the skirt. A gay accent note is the red and blue tab detailing at one side of the front waist. Her toque style straw hat adorned with flat bow on top and other accessories are identically matched to the pale bone hue.



ULTRA FEMININE, yet very much at ease for any occasion, is the ever-popular shirtwaist dress, worn here as the spring choice of Mrs. William Ledoux, 17 Kathy Lane. In aquamarine, the dress is a silk and cotton blend denoting party airs. Her accessories include bone calf shoes and bag with matching gloves and a gay pink flower hat perched on back of her head.

AT RIGHT: FLOWERS THAT BLOOM in the Spring are more often found on milady's head this season. Sitting atop the head of Mrs. Robert D. Clay, 2222 Island Drive, is a veritable bower of flowers in shades ranging from rosy pink to lavender, with touches of green and white. With her flower chapeau, Mrs. Clay is wearing a silk shantung suit of pale green.

BELOW: HEADLINED FOR SPRING is the hat, in many colorful and feminine forms. Mrs. John O. Clay, 2123 Pargoud Blvd., models a filmy cloche style hat of silk organza petals in shades of mint green and coral. The dainty flower petals create an airy effect and the high fashion colors provide a perfect complement to her beige spring suit.

Whatever other lovelies we've been enjoying, they all take a back seat when dogwood time is here. One of Monroe's crown jewels, the dogwood tree on the corner of North Third and Arkansas, is approaching the height of its glory. Barring a hard driving rain between writing and reading time, said tree should be perfect today, Sunday. 'Tis worth a drive to see.

Another one of the real fun things about spring is Milady's new hat. There was a bumper crop of gay chapeaux in evidence at the annual Homecoming luncheon of the Junior Charity League, held Saturday at Bayou DeSiard country club.

Preceding the luncheon, LOUISE SEYMOUR and LOUISE THIELS entertained the League's past presidents at a sherry party in the Seymour home. This affair has become traditional through the years. Branches of flowering peach arranged with camellias decorated the living room. Centering the dining table was a low arrangement of jonquils and daffodils in a footed [illegible] bowl. Twenty-six past presidents attended and then proceeded to the Homecoming, where a special table was reserved for the group.

Past [illegible] and sustaining members of the League attend the Homecoming luncheon, where new provisional members are introduced. All were entertained with a presentation of "Three Little Pigs" by the League Puppeteers. This program is being presented at various schools throughout Ouachita parish, where children are simply delighted with three elaborate pigs and a Big Bad Wolf with real stage presence.

Among the hats we spied at the party were two "Jacqueline bubbles," one of black patent worn by YVONNE ANDERSON and one of beige straw, chosen by JEAN HAMILTON . . . The new [illegible] [illegible] was most becoming to MABEL RATLIFF . . . JOYCE KELLOGG also wore a suit in this shade, with a stunning turban of shocking pink straw interwoven with pale pink cotton.

A real conversation piece was SUZANNE KELLOGG's tiny yellow hat bestrewn with menacing bumble bees . . . ZINNIA CHAPMAN wore a navy sailor ringed with blue roses . . . With her silver blonde hair, HELEN WALLACE's pale spring green suit was most eye-catching . . . CHARLOTTE ETHRIDGE's hat was a tall cone completely covered with white flowers . . . MARTHA SCOTT chose a white sailor, polka-dotted in black and finished with a red band . . . With a navy silk suit, new president ANNE BERNHARDT wore a tall crowned hat of blue flowers . . . HAZEL CALLOWAY's tone and caramel-colored Chanel was the perfect compliment to her bone suit with platinum mink collar.

Cat faces are another of the pleasures of the season Wednesday afternoon when GEORGIE TOUCHSTONE entertained at a mother-daughter party honoring her mother, MRS. DAN BURDEN of Baton Rouge, mixed bouquets throughout the reception suite brought Spring indoors.

In the living room, where Georgie and her mother received, a pedestal held a spring bouquet of crabapple branches, King Alfreds, blue Dutch iris, and camellias . . . White violets in a tiny silver bowl decorated another table, and white camellias were used on the mantel.

In the dining room, Georgie used a bare table, centered with an old-fashioned arrangement in a milk glass compote. Flowers in the bouquet included tulips, Mt. Hood jonquils, camellias, and Dutch iris. PEGGY CLAY poured coffee at one end, while VIRGINIA ALLEN served sherry at the other. Goodies included hot deviled oysters in pattie shells, chicken salad sandwiches, cheese dollars, and almond dreams. Others who assisted in the dining room were JANE ROWAN, TEEDEE DIXON, JANE OLIVER, and HORTENSE TOUCHSTONE.

One of our bred-in-the-bone Rebel-type children, DIXON ABEL, celebrated his sixth birthday at a Confederate party last weekend. The birthday boy greeted his guests wearing his brand-new Confederate uniform. Ponies and a pony cart were provided for the party in the Abel yard. The table, decorated with red and white flowers, was set up in the carport. The cake was a work of art, with Confederate soldiers defending a fort of chocolate icing. Even the ice cream cups were decorated with tiny Confederate flags.

Following the party, Dixon with his parents, the NELSON ABELS, and brothers NELS and HUGHES, went to Natchez, where they attended the Confederate Ball Saturday night. They also toured some of the Pilgrimage houses, and generally made it a real Old South weekend.

Really effective use of a bayou site is made in the arrangement of the new home of SHIRLEY and CLARE BOYCE on Bayou DeSiard. The house presents a columned, colonial facade to the street. Inside, thanks to a V-shaped construction and careful planning, almost every room commands a view of the sweeping curve of the water.

The entrance hall, with slate floor and white walls, is dominated by a large breakfront containing several pieces from Shirley's collection of antique silver and china. The hall to the bedroom wing stretches away to the left, with living areas to the right. On the "street side" of the hall are a succession of storage rooms and closets, containing a workshop, heating equipment, a flower arranging center, out-of-season storage, and a full-size sewing room.

Opening [illegible] ahead from the hall is the dining room, with living room to the left, on the bayou side of the house. Terrazzo flooring, overlaid with an Oriental rug, is used in the dining room. Furniture is walnut, with a gold leaf mirror hanging between windows draped in off-white silk. Grass cloth covers the wall.

Soft gray-green is the color of carpet and two walls of the living room. A wall of glass overlooks the waterfront, and walnut panelling covers the fireplace wall. Furniture is in shades of green and gold. A refreshment center belonging to the man of the house is built into a passageway between living room and breakfast area.

Kitchen cabinets are of walnut-finished birch, with counters covered with ceramic tile in shades of brown, grey, and yellow. A breakfast table and chairs in cheery tangerine are placed before the glass wall overlooking the back garden.

Beyond the kitchen is the children's living room, with sliding glass panels opening onto the back gallery, which extends across the entire back of the house. The swimming pool is directly outside the children's room. Draperies used here are of unlined linen, printed brown on beige. A dining counter, covered with ceramic tile, is reached by a pass-through from the kitchen. In the yellow-tiled half bath, curtain material is printed over and over with the words "Caterpillar" and "CAT" in black and yellow.

In the bedroom wing are three unusual bathrooms, all without tubs. The wallpaper in the guest bath suggests Oriental soldiers printed in gold - on - grey. Both this room and the bath in the master suite are done in ceramic tile in shades of light and dark grey. Glass walls and storage areas divide them into several sections. Shower stalls, with sunken tile-covered floors and glass doors, may be closed and filled at [illegible].

The master bedroom has walls and carpet of pale green, with sliding glass doors onto the gallery. One wall, filled with cabinets, opens to reveal a desk, typewriter table, space for collections, hi-fi equipment and records, and books . . . . In the white-walled guest room, the floor is covered with gold carpeting. Draperies are of white silk, printed in a gold pattern.

At the end of the hall are the boys' rooms. Clark, Jr., has spreads of blue with a cowboy print, and draperies of alternating panels in shades of blue. In Robert's room, green spreads pick up one of the colors in the Federalist print at the windows. The boys' bath, a dressing-room, divided into sections by glass doors and closets, extends across the end of the house.

Springtime brings to mind the lyrics of Edna St. Vincent Millay, as found in this "Elegy":

There will be rose and rhododendron
When you are dead and under ground.
Still will be heard from white syringas,
Heavy with bees, a sunny sound:
Still will the tamaracks be raining
After the rain has ceased, and still
Will there be robins in the stubble,
Brown sheep upon the warm green hill.
Spring will not fail nor autumn falter;
Nothing will know that you are gone,
Saving alone some sullen plowland
None but yourself sets foot upon;
Oh, there will pass with your great passing
Little of beauty not your own —
Only the light from common water,
Only the grace from simple stone!

A Sharp Music Coterie Meets

Miss Diane McGee was hostess to the A Sharp Music Coterie Saturday, March 11 at her home.

A musical program followed the serving of refreshments and a brief business session. The program included Minuet From Partita in B Flat, Bach by Linda Atkinson; Lord I Call On Thee, Bezotti by Mary Ann Caldwell; In the Meadow, Lichner by Sandy Heller and Romance in F Sharp, Schumann by Eleanor Harmon.

Members present were Linda Atkinson, Mary Ann Caldwell, Judy Cobb, Laura Griffith, Eleanor Harmon, Sandy Heller, Gayle Kelly, Peggy Lanier, Marie Nelson and Nancy Talbott and the sponsors, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie and Mrs. Gib McDonald.

MISS MARY LETHA SANDLIN

April Nuptials Planned By Miss Sandlin, Fiance

Announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Mary Letha Sandlin to Edwin Joseph Pezant, is made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Troy K. Sandlin of West Monroe. The future bridegroom, a student at Northeast Louisiana State College, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Pezant of Sorrento, La.

The couple will be united in marriage at Nuptial Mass on April 22 at 10 a.m. in St. Paschal's Catholic Church in West Monroe. Father Jordan Schell will be celebrant.

The bride - elect has chosen Miss Shirley Jolissaint of West Monroe, to serve as maid of honor. Best man will be Errol Lasagne of Gramercy.

Miss Sandlin is a graduate of St. Matthews school. Her fiance is enrolled in the school of pharmacy at Northeast. They plan to make their home in Monroe until Mr. Pezant completes his studies, following which they will reside in Sorrento.

Pilgrimage Is Discussed By Homemakers HD

An informative talk and demonstration on "Refinishing Furniture" with time and money saving tips were given by Mrs. Audrey Dawson, home demonstration agent, at the March 2 meeting of the Better Home Demonstration club held in the home of Mrs. Ernest Grubbs, 114 Riggs, West Monroe.

The morning meeting was presided over by Mrs. Grubbs, president, with an appropriate poem and thought for the day by Mrs. Rayford Wright, Leader reports were given by Mrs. Grubbs on and by Mrs. H. T. Everitt on house furnishings; Mrs. Luther Klick on landscape and gardening; and by Ms. H. T. Everitt on Family Life.

Several members volunteered to make cookies for veterans at the Alexandria hospital for Easter. The annual pilgrimage to the Hodge Gardens was also discussed.

MRS LLOYD E. WILLIAMS

Miss Donna Rhea Welch Marries Lloyd Williams

Solemnized Friday night, March 17 in a candlelight and floral setting was the wedding which united Miss Donna Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Welch of Monroe, and Lloyd E. Williams, West Monroe, son of Mrs. Clarence Williams and the late Mr. Williams of Winnsboro.

Dr. James T. Horton officiated at the double ring ceremony performed at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Monroe.

Forming a background for the exchange of vows was an arch of smilax and pink and white roses, flanked with arrangements of pink stock and interspersed with branched candelabra holding pink tapers. Fern trees and smilax adorned the chancel rail.

Preceding the nuptials, Mrs. Jimmy Terry sang "I Love You Truly," by Jacobs; "I Take Thee Dear," Carter and following the prayer, "Our Wedding Prayer," Webb. She was accompanied by the organist, Mrs. B. D. Albritton, who also provided appropriate nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white crystal yarn taffeta in waltz length, styled with fitted bodice and a princess panel in front flowing into a full circle skirt. A pleated inset of self material accented each side of the bodice with a sweetheart neckline and a double pouf marked the waistline in back. Her elbow length of double illusion was attached to a pearl headpiece, with a prayer veil in front. She wore short white gloves and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of pink roses centered with a white glamellia. Her only jewelry was a tear drop pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Lawrence Thorn, cousin of the bride served as matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a pink moire cotton frock, styled with sweetheart neckline, basque bodice and full pleated skirt. A brief fitted jacket completed the costume and her pink illusion prayer veil was attached to a matching headband. She wore pink shoes, short white gloves and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, centered with white carnations to form a crescent.

Charles Myers served as best man and ushers who also served as candlelighters were Eddie Allen Naff, cousin of the bride and Earl Williams, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a pure silk shantung sheath with fitted jacket in moss green, with flower hat and bone accessories. Her corsage was of pink glamellias. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a purple crepe sheath with jacket, bone accessories and a pink glamellia corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. Baskets of pink stock and fern trees formed a background. Centering the reception table were the bou[illegible] of the bride and [illegible] attendant, [illegible] pink tapers in silver candelabra. Presiding at opposite ends of the table were Mrs. Van Anderson, who served the cake and Mrs. Ken Saterfield, at the punch bowl. Mrs. Jim Johnson presided at the bride's book from a table holding a memory candle. Tea girls were Mrs. David Powell and Miss Joy Goza.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Nashville, Tennessee, the bride was wearing a brown cobble - stone fitted suit, with bone accessories, a small flowered hat and the glamellia corsage from her bouquet. Upon their return they will be at home at 307 North Sixth in West Monroe. Mrs. Williams graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and Louisiana Business college. Mr. Williams graduated from Ogden high school.

A JUNE DATE has been selected for their wedding by Miss Billy Sue Dance and Jennings David Keele, whose betrothal is announced today. She is the daughter of Mrs. Zelma Babb Dance of San Marcos, Texas, and the late Willie Walt Dance of Gibsland, Louisiana. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keele of Edna, Texas. The ceremony will be performed June 3 in Central Presbyterian Church at Houston, Texas.

MR. AND MRS. SHELBY E. AULDS JR.

Edgewood Church Scene Of Aulds - Jones Nuptials

Baskets of gladioli and candelabra against a background of greenery interlaced with white carnations formed a setting in Edgewood Baptist church, West Monroe, for the wedding of Miss Mary Annette Jones and Shelby E. Aulds Jr. Rev. Napoleon Aulds performed the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m. on March 4.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edward L. Salsbury of West Monroe, and the late C. N. Jones. Mr. Aulds is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Aulds, also of West Monroe.

Miss Biddy Dupree, organist, presented a program of nuptial selections and accompanied Bobby Hodnett, who sang "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Norman Jones. She wore a ballerina length gown of white satin, fashioned with scalloped Sabrina neckline, appliqued in lace, embellished with seed pearls. Lace appliques were repeated on the long tapered sleeves. The fitted bodice that came to a point in front was accented in back with a large bow, above the full gathered skirt. A pearl headdress held her fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of large white chrysanthemums with satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Linda Carter, who wore a red lace sheath with satin cummerbund. A tulle veil was attached to her red satin headdress, embroidered with seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of red and white feathered chrysanthemums, showered with satin ribbons.

Miss Jane Wallace, served as junior bridesmaid and was dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Bobby Andrews attended the bridegroom as best man and junior groomsman was Jimmy Aulds, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Joe Ford Jr. and Ronnie Bennett.

Mrs. Salsbury, mother of the bride, wore a beige faille suit with bone accessories and a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Aulds wore a light blue linen sheath dress with matching jacket and accessories. Her corsage was of blue - tipped white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Salsbury were hosts at a reception in the church social room. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth, down the center of which were red satin streamers, bearing the names "Shelby and Annette" in gold letters. An arrangement of white and red stock was placed in center of the table, with the wedding cake and crystal bowl of red punch at opposite ends. Baskets of white gladioli formed a background for the receiving line.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Alexandria the bride was wearing a beige wool flannel suit with matching accessories and the corsage from her bouquet. Both were graduated from West Monroe high school and Mr. Aulds is at present attending the University of Southwestern Louisiana at Lafayette, where the couple will establish a home.

Out - of - town guests included Mrs. G. B. Willis of Shreveport; Norman Jones, Memphis, Tenn., Rev. Napoleon Aulds, Natchitoches; Mr. and Mrs. George McGowen, Mrs. J. W. Eagleson, Angleton, Texas; Mrs. E. J. Owens, and Mrs. C. C. Bayles and Connie Sue Bayles of Downsville.

Annual Spring Luncheon Held By Colonial Dames

Annual Spring meeting of the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Louisiana, Monroe Committee was held Monday, with a sherry party followed by a gala luncheon at the Lotus club.

Mrs. O. R. Lewis, assisted by three members of the Committee, entertained in her home on Riverside Drive, Monday morning. Coffee and sherry were served in the dining room where a massive spring arrangement of giant daffodils and white flowering peach, graced the table.

Following the informal gathering the group met for luncheon in the library of the Lotus Club. Twin arrangements of violets, purple magnolias and spirea decorated the table to carry out the spring motif.

Those present for the spring festivities were Mrs. Henry Bernstein Jr., Mrs. David Garrett Jr., Mrs. Edward Shepard Girault, Mrs. James G. Groves, Mrs. George Gunby, Mrs. Roy Johns Jr., Mrs. E. T. Lamkin, Mrs. Robert Layton, Mrs. Thomas Leigh, Mrs. O. R. Lewis, Mrs. Armand McHenry Jr., Mrs. Carl McHenry, Mrs. Charles Mitchell.

Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery, Mrs. Wesley Shafto, Mrs. Allan Sholars, Mrs. Elmer Slagle, Mrs. William Smith Jr., Mrs. George M. Snellings Jr., Mrs. Guy P. Stubbs, Mrs. William King Stubbs, Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. George Nichol, Mrs. Bradley Waelder and two out - of - town guests, Mrs. Earl Chumney of Mexico City and Mrs. Frank P. Stubbs of Natchez, Mississippi.

Merritt-Cloy Vows Exchanged

Vows uniting Miss Patricia Louise Cloy and Robert Edward Merritt of Natchez, were solemnized February 25 at 8 p.m. in the Cloverdale Baptist Church. The Rev. H. A. Merritt performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius R. Cloy and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Merritt, all of Natchez.

Mrs. Merritt was graduated from Natchez High School and attended Hinds County Junior College, Raymond, Miss. Mr. Merritt attended Natchez High School.

Miss Edmonds Is Bride Of Mr. McDaniel

Vows uniting Miss Mary Wynn Edmonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Edmonds of Waterproof, and Ted McDaniel Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted McDaniel Sr., of Pineville, were solemnized Saturday, March 4 at 3 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. Sidney Sterrett, pastor of the First Methodist church, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her only attendant was Miss Millie Edmonds, her sister, who served as maid of honor. Garland Colvin of Dubach, who is presently residing in Monroe where he is a senior at Northeast Louisiana State college, served as best man.

A reception was held following the exchange of vows and after a short wedding trip the couple is residing near the college campus in Monroe.

A graduate of Waterproof high school, the bride attended Northeast. Mr. McDaniel was graduated from Pineville high school and attended Texarkana Junior college and Louisiana State University before enrolling at Northeast here. He will receive his degree in agriculture in May. He is at present serving as president of his social fraternity, Sigma Tau Gamma and is also a member of Delta Demeter and Circle "K" an auxiliary of Kiwanis International, for which he also serves as president. He has been tapped for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary leadership fraternity. He also served a tour of duty in the navy as an electronic's technician second class.

MRS LLOYD E. WILLIAMS

Miss Donna Rhea Welch Marries Lloyd Williams

Solemnized Friday night, March 17 in a candlelight and floral setting was the wedding which united Miss Donna Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Welch of Monroe, and Lloyd E. Williams, West Monroe, son of Mrs. Clarence Williams and the late Mr. Williams of Winnsboro.

Dr. James T. Horton officiated at the double ring ceremony performed at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Monroe.

Forming a background for the exchange of vows was an arch of smilax and pink and white roses, flanked with arrangements of pink stock and interspersed with branched candelabra holding pink tapers. Fern trees and smilax adorned the chancel rail.

Preceding the nuptials, Mrs. Jimmy Terry sang "I Love You Truly," by Jacobs; "I Take Thee Dear," Carter and following the prayer, "Our Wedding Prayer," Webb. She was accompanied by the organist, Mrs. B. D. Albritton, who also provided appropriate nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white crystal yarn taffeta in waltz length, styled with fitted bodice and a princess panel in front flowing into a full circle skirt. A pleated inset of self-material accented each side of the bodice with a sweetheart neckline and a double pouf marked the waistline in back. Her elbow length of double illusion was attached to a pearl headpiece, with a prayer veil in front. She wore short white gloves and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of pink roses centered with a white glamellia. Her only jewelry was a tear drop pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Lawrence Thorn, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a pink moire cotton frock, styled with sweetheart neckline, basque bodice and full pleated skirt. A brief fitted jacket completed the costume and her pink illusion prayer veil was attached to a matching headband. She wore pink shoes, short white gloves and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, centered with white carnations to form a crescent.

Charles Myers served as best man and ushers who also served as candlelighters were Eddie Allen Naff, cousin of the bride and Earl Williams, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a pure silk shantung sheath with fitted jacket in moss green, with flower hat and bone accessories. Her corsage was of pink glamellias. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a purple crepe sheath with jacket, bone accessories and a pink glamellia corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. Baskets of pink stock and fern trees formed a background. Centering the reception table were the bouquets of the bride and her honor attendant, flanked by pink tapers in silver candelabra. Presiding at opposite ends of the table were Mrs. Van Anderson, who served the cake and Mrs. Ken Saterfield, at the punch bowl. Mrs. Jim Johnson presided at the bride's book from a table holding a memory candle. Tea girls were Mrs. David Powell and Miss Joy Goza.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Nashville, Tennessee, the bride was wearing a brown cobble - stone fitted suit, with bone accessories, a small flowered hat and the glamellia corsage from her bouquet. Upon their return they will be at home at 307 North Sixth in West Monroe. Mrs. Williams graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and Louisiana Business college. Mr. Williams graduated from Ogden high school.

MR. and MRS JOHN M. MORRIS

Morris - Magee Nuptials Read In Rayville

Eastside Baptist church of Rayville, was scene of the wedding of Miss Carol Ann Magee and John M. Morris, solemnized Friday, March 10 at 6:45 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Magee and Mr. Morris is the son of Mrs. O. L. Morris and the late Mr. Morris, all of Rayville.

White gladioli and branched candelabra holding lighted tapers formed a setting for the ceremony, performed by Rev. Fred Keyes. Aisles were lined with garlands of ivy.

Miss Mary Jane Joyner, pianist, played "Because," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Bless This House," and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an afternoon-length frock of white satin, embellished with brocaded roses. Her scalloped nose veil was held in place by a bandeau of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white roses atop a white Bible.

Miss Mary V. Robinson, maid of honor, wore a pink spring cotton frock, encircled at the hemline with pink lace. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Magee wore a beige linen dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue linen frock with white accessories and white carnation corsage.

After a wedding trip to Destin, Florida, the couple has established a home at 302 Pine Street in Rayville. Both are graduates of Rayville high school and Mr. Morris served with the air force.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Magee and family, Harold Robinson, Mrs. J. P. Robinson, Miss Mildred Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Reems and family, Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Griffing, all of Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rodden, Mrs. Lloyd Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Gene White, all of Monroe.

Bridge Tourney Winners Are Announced

The annual Club Membership Tournament of the Northeast Louisiana Duplicate Bridge Club was an event that attracted a large number of players Monday afternoon, March 13. The tournament was under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Youngblood in the ball room of the Paragon Club, with 56 players entered. Coffee was served to players and guests during the afternoon of competition.

A large silver trophy serves as a revolving prize to the winning pair each year. Names of each year's tournament winners are engraved on the plate making a permanent record of each year's winners. Silver goblets were presented to the four top winners.

First place winners were Mrs. Joy Goyne and Mrs. Neil Buie. Second, third, and fourth place winners were Mesdames L. M. Ray, Jack Wicks, H. E. Milligan, Alex Winn, Marcus Mapp and B. C. Tanguis.

MRS LLOYD E. WILLIAMS

Miss Donna Rhea Welch Marries Lloyd Williams

Solemnized Friday night, March 17 in a candlelight and floral setting was the wedding which united Miss Donna Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Welch of Monroe, and Lloyd E. Williams, West Monroe, son of Mrs. Clarence Williams and the late Mr. Williams of Winnsboro.

Dr. James T. Horton officiated at the double ring ceremony performed at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Monroe.

Forming a background for the exchange of vows was an arch of smilax and pink and white roses, flanked with arrangements of pink stock and interspersed with branched candelabra holding pink tapers. Fern trees and smilax adorned the chancel rail.

Preceding the nuptials, Mrs. Jimmy Terry sang "I Love You Truly," by Jacobs; "I Take Thee Dear," Carter and following the prayer, "Our Wedding Prayer," Webb. She was accompanied by the organist, Mrs. B. D. Albritton, who also provided appropriate nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white crystal yarn taffeta in waltz length, styled with fitted bodice and a princess panel in front flowing into a full circle skirt. A pleated inset of self-material accented each side of the bodice with a sweetheart neckline and a double pouf marked the waistline in back. Her elbow length of double illusion was attached to a pearl headpiece, with a prayer veil in front. She wore short white gloves and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of pink roses centered with a white glamellia. Her only jewelry was a tear drop pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Lawrence Thorn, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a pink moire cotton frock, styled with sweetheart neckline, basque bodice and full pleated skirt. A brief fitted jacket completed the costume and her pink illusion prayer veil was attached to a matching headband. She wore pink shoes, short white gloves and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, centered with white carnations to form a crescent.

Charles Myers served as best man and ushers who also served as candlelighters were Eddie Allen Naff, cousin of the bride and Earl Williams, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a pure silk shantung sheath with fitted jacket in moss green, with flower hat and bone accessories. Her corsage was of pink glamellias. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a purple crepe sheath with jacket, bone accessories and a pink glamellia corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. Baskets of pink stock and fern trees formed a background. Centering the reception table were the bouquets of the bride and her honor attendant, flanked by pink tapers in silver candelabra. Presiding at opposite ends of the table were Mrs. Van Anderson, who served the cake and Mrs. Ken Saterfield, at the punch bowl. Mrs. Jim Johnson presided at the bride's book from a table holding a memory candle. Tea girls were Mrs. David Powell and Miss Joy Goza.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Nashville, Tennessee, the bride was wearing a brown cobble - stone fitted suit, with bone accessories, a small flowered hat and the glamellia corsage from her bouquet. Upon their return they will be at home at 307 North Sixth in West Monroe. Mrs. Williams graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and Louisiana Business college. Mr. Williams graduated from Ogden high school.

MR. AND MRS. SHELBY E. AULDS JR.

Edgewood Church Scene Of Aulds - Jones Nuptials

Baskets of gladioli and candelabra against a background of greenery interlaced with white carnations formed a setting in Edgewood Baptist church, West Monroe, for the wedding of Miss Mary Annette Jones and Shelby E. Aulds Jr. Rev. Napoleon Aulds performed the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m. on March 4.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edward L. Salsbury of West Monroe, and the late C. N. Jones. Mr. Aulds is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Aulds, also of West Monroe.

Miss Biddy Dupree, organist, presented a program of nuptial selections and accompanied Bobby Hodnett, who sang "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Norman Jones. She wore a ballerina length gown of white satin, fashioned with scalloped Sabrina neckline, appliqued in lace, embellished with seed pearls. Lace appliques were repeated on the long tapered sleeves. The fitted bodice that came to a point in front was accented in back with a large bow, above the full gathered skirt. A pearl headdress held her fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of large white chrysanthemums with satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Linda Carter, who wore a red lace sheath with satin cummerbund. A tulle veil was attached to her red satin headdress, embroidered with seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of red and white feathered chrysanthemums, showered with satin ribbons.

Miss Jane Wallace, served as junior bridesmaid and was dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Bobby Andrews attended the bridegroom as best man and junior groomsman was Jimmy Aulds, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Joe Ford Jr. and Ronnie Bennett.

Mrs. Salsbury, mother of the bride, wore a beige faille suit with bone accessories and a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Aulds wore a light blue linen sheath dress with matching jacket and accessories. Her corsage was of blue - tipped white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Salsbury were hosts at a reception in the church social room. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth, down the center of which were red satin streamers, bearing the names "Shelby and Annette" in gold letters. An arrangement of white and red stock was placed in center of the table, with the wedding cake and crystal bowl of red punch at opposite ends. Baskets of white gladioli formed a background for the receiving line.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Alexandria the bride was wearing a beige wool flannel suit with matching accessories and the corsage from her bouquet. Both were graduated from West Monroe high school and Mr. Aulds is at present attending the University of Southwestern Louisiana at Lafayette, where the couple will establish a home.

Out - of - town guests included Mrs. G. B. Willis of Shreveport; Norman Jones, Memphis, Tenn., Rev. Napoleon Aulds, Natchitoches; Mr. and Mrs. George McGowen, Mrs. J. W. Eagleson, Angleton, Texas; Mrs. E. J. Owens, and Mrs. C. C. Bayles and Connie Sue Bayles of Downsville.

MARCH 31 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Sonja Traxler, above and James Delmoth Stephens, whose engagement is revealed today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Traxler of Winnsboro. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stephens of Baskin.

Wedding Of Mollie Guin Mr. Anding Held In Kelly

Miss Mollie Sue Guin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Guin of Kelly, became the bride of Martin Leon Anding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Anding, of Natchez, Mississippi, in a double ring ceremony performed Sunday, March 12 in Kelly Baptist church. Rev. Williams A. Massey Jr. officiated at the exchange of vows at 4 p.m.

Baskets of white gladioli flanked the altar, with myriads of lighted white tapers in tall candelabra against a background of greenery and white pompons forming a background for the nuptial scene.

Mrs. Winston Bernard Campbell, organist, accompanied John Louis La Prarie, as he sang "Because," "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer" at the end of the ceremony. She also played traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin, styled with floor length skirt which swept into a court train. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline and long sleeves which tapered to petal points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of tulle fell from a tiara of seed pearls and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, centered with a purple throated white orchid.

Miss Gail Guin, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore an orchid crystalline sheath, designed with basque bodice and scoop neckline and featuring an overskirt of orchid lace. She wore an orchid tulle leaf headband, accented by a tiny veil and carried a nosegay of white pompons with orchid ribbons and streamers in lover's knots.

Bridesmaids, who were dressed identical to the honor attendant, were Miss Peggy Williams, Forest, La., Miss Bonnie Wales, West Monroe and Miss Pat Tackel, Lake Charles.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his cousin, Jimmy Anding and groomsmen were Robert Guin, William E. Bradely and Warren Enterkin.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a tan linen sheath with bone accessories and a corsage of white pompons. The bridegroom's mother wore a light green embroidered linen sheath and jacket with bone accessories and white pompon corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. A white cutwork cloth underlined with orchid covered the bride's table with the attendants' bouquets, flanked by four burning tapers, as the centerpiece. Miniature orchid chrysanthemums encircled the crystal punch bowl, presided over by Mrs. William Bradely, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Robert D. Guin of Alexandria, served the tiered wedding cake, which was topped by a miniature bride and groom. Miss Ginger Guin of Alexandria, had charge of registering guests in the bride's book, placed on a table with lighted white tapers.

Upon their return the couple will be at home in Natchez, Miss. The bride is a graduate of Kelly high school and recently graduated from Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe. A graduate of Natchez high school, Mr. Anding served in the Air Force and is currently employed in Natchez.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Bessie Sanders, Tullos; Mrs. A. D. Kyle and Dan, Magnolia, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Guin and Ginger, Alexandria; Mrs. Edith Starks, Mrs. Kenneth Hemphill and children; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Elliott Sr., Olla; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Campbell and Jan, Scott Oakdale; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Tackel, Gilbert; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Russell, Linda and Jane, DeQuincy; Mrs. Willie E. Brock, Miss Metta G. Folds, Columbia, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Munro, Winnfield; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Anding, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Anding and Bill; Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Anding, Natchez, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Parks and France, Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Long, Sterlington, Miss Shirley Lamb, Miss Charlotte Barnes, Miss Arlene Haile, Miss Kay Tewall, Miss Shirley Gary, Miss Roubie Lee Coxe, Miss Kathleen Shirley, Miss Barbara Parker, James Guin and Ray Jones, all of Monroe.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. A white cutwork cloth underlined with orchid covered the bride's table with the attendants' bouquets, flanked by four burning tapers, as the centerpiece. Miniature orchid chrysanthemums encircled the crystal punch bowl, presided over by Mrs. William Bradely, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Robert D. Guin of Alexandria, served the tiered wedding cake, which was topped by a miniature bride and groom. Miss Ginger Guin of Alexandria, had charge of registering guests in the bride's book, placed on a table with lighted white tapers.

Upon their return the couple will be at home in Natchez, Miss., The bride is a graduate of Kelly high school and recently graduated from Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe. A graduate of Natchez high school, Mr. Anding served in the Air Force and is currently employed in Natchez.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Bessie Sanders, Tullos; Mrs. A.D. Kyle and Dan, Magnolia, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Guin and Ginger, Alexandria; Mrs. Edith Starks, Mrs. Kenneth Hemphill and children; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Elliott Sr., Olla; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Campbell and Jan, Scott Oakdale; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. NEW EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE for the Reveler's Dance club, in charge of arrangements for the club's annual Spring formal at the Paragon Supper Club, include left to right, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downing and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr.

Revelers' Spring Formal Held In Outdoor Garden Setting At Paragon Club

Ballroom of the Paragon Supper Club was transformed into an outdoor garden setting when the Revelers' Dance club staged its annual spring formal Saturday night, March 11.

Replicas of live oak trees, draped with hanging Louisiana moss, stood in the background and tall wicker baskets filled with multi-colored spring flowers were placed on the bandstand. In prominent display was the crest of the Revelers' Dance club, which was spotlighted behind the orchestra. Lighted candles in star shaped holders centered the individual tables.

Clever invitations mailed in advance, keynoted the theme of the affair, "Let's Dance." Music for dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. was provided by Jerry Lane and his orchestra.

Newly elected executive committee for the dance club acted as hosts for the evening. The committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Jim Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downing and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr.

Members present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Adcock, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Anderson, and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hastings of Lake Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Stan Bagwell, Mr. and Mrs. Toby Bancroft and guests, Mrs. Marguerite Lamkin Harrity of Los Angeles, Calif., and Sneed Bancroft; Mr. and Mrs. Dilly Bernhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dent, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Durrett, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Eunson.

Second Grades Give Play For Highland PTA

Second grade classes at Highland Elementary School under direction of their teachers, Mrs. Cecil Dopson, Mrs. Royce Bryan and Mrs. Henry Camp, presented a play entitled, "Peter Rabbit Helps The Children," for the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Costumes were in keeping with the springtime theme of the play and depicted various flowers and trees in addition to Peter Rabbit.

Children participating were Vickey Jo Adams, Hillary Heard, Karen Sue Nix and Eddie Horton, Fred Wilhite, Steve Whitlock, Jan Blackmon, Billie Autonberry, Mike Moore, Milton Kelly, Janice Moore, Karen Sue May, Pam Stewart, Beverly Anders, Sloane Martin, Karen Jaeson, Rissa Eley, Cindy Dew, Sally Downey, Dale West, Nancy Futrell, with Philip DeLand as Peter Rabbit; John Downs, Jerri Johnston and Mike Wilkes as announcers.

Other students of the three second grades furnished the choral background for the play. Their selections included "Waiting to Grow," "April Showers," "DAnelion," and "Oh Sweet Springtime."

Proceeds from the performance will be used to purchase a supplementary reader entitled, "Portugese Phillips and the Fighting Sioux."

Following the play Dr. R. D. Sandifer of Ruston spoke to the P-TA on "The Importance of Vision."

Election of officers for the ensuing year was also held. Those chosen are Mrs. James Hall, president; Mrs. J. B. McDuffie, vice-president; Mrs. Ray Cormier, secretary and C. M. Streeter, treasurer.

Mrs. Cecil Dopson's second grade won room count.

Stegall-Pittman Vows Exchanged

Miss Jo Ann Pittman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Pittman of McComb, Miss., became the bride of John Stegall, son of Mrs. Inez Pierce of Fayette, Miss., and C. M. Stegall of Natchez, Miss., on March 8.

The wedding was solemnized in Vidalia, La., with the Rev. Robert Eugene Watson, performing the double ring ceremony.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Molly Pittman of McComb and best man was Billie Ray Berry of Winnfield. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McDaniel were hosts at a reception.

Mrs. Stegall is on the staff of Jefferson Davis Memorial hospital in Natchez and her husband is also employed in that city.

Male Appeal

To make Thousand Island dressing, add chili sauce, chopped olives and green pepper, minced onion and pimiento to mayonnaise. Serve on hearts of lettuce for a salad men usually go for.

Mrs. Willis Fetes HD Club

Mrs. Don Willis entertained the McGuire Home Demonstration club at her home in Forest Park Addition in West Monroe on Tuesday, March 14.

Mrs. Joe Rodgers, president, had charge of the meeting and announced forthcoming events. A demonstration on refinishing furniture, both old and new, was given by Mrs. Audrey Dawson. Leader reports were by Mrs. Bill Bardwell on Gardening and Landscaping and by Mrs. Danny Sullivan on House Furnishings.

THE HOME SHIFT

Queen Of Day Is Crabapple

By MILDRED SWIFT

The crabapples are queen of the day. So many varieties, but very few whites. The bucata is a satisfactory white but the pinks and rose colored ones are more popular.

The azaleas should be blooming this week. Now you can see where to prune. Cut those very long limbs. Take several limbs out of each plant, right where they come out of the ground or where they join a main branch. You'll be rewarded with lots of new shoots that will grow and bear more flowers next year. If you haven't fertilized those azaleas, do that job, now. If you use 8-8-8 spread one half cupful around each plant. Spread this out at the edge of the branches. Be careful not to get the 8-8-8 on the plant. Water down unless it rains.

Bedding plants that can be set in the open this month are: Adjuga, sweet alyssum, calendula, candytuft, carnation, coreopsis, cornflower, daisies, snapdragon, gerber daisies, lobelia, lupine, violets, petunia, phlox, queen anne's lace, salvia. If I haven't named your favorite flower, inquire at the seed stores and nurseries and find if these are on hand.

There's a starter solution you can purchase. When used, according to directions, this liquid fertilizer helps plant off to a good start because it induces good root formation.

STARTER SOLUTION

You can make your own starter solution by dissolving a cup of 8-8-8 in a gallon of water. However, the starter you buy is stronger in the root forming element and that's what you need for bedding plants.

March or April are the months for dividing and resetting violets. This plant just seems to disappear unless reset every three years. Violets love plenty of humus worked in the soil. Some cotton seed meal and bonemeal (half and half) will help make the plants healthy and they'll give you more blooms. As the weather gets warmer, violets are infected with red spider.

The cockscomb is an old-fashioned flower that has become popular again with flower arrangers. They are long lasting and dry beautifully. Some new varieties are: Maple gold, rose beauty, green gold, harlequin gold dust and new penny.

When selecting the fall blooming bulbs, don't forget lycoris or spider lily. You're familiar with the old fashioned red ones that bloom in the fall. This spider lily also comes in pink, yellow and white. The reds and pinks are the hardiest. Watch the seed stores for these bulbs later on.

Best fertilizer for dogwoods is a mixture of bonemeal and cotton seed meal. Go out to the edge of the spread of the branches and sprinkle a pound of this for every year of growth.

Make a place for imperial candle tree. Get these out as soon as danger of freeze is over. Sooner they get some growth, earlier you'll have blooms.

Make cuttings of geranium and hibiscus this month. Cut short stems on roses flowering from plantings made this year. Just float your blooms in a bowl. Let the new bush develop before cutting long stems. Call for our rose bulletin for recommendations for spraying.

Balled and burlapped plants or bucket plants can still be put out. Most deciduous plants have already leafed out. It will be too great a shock to these to transplant now, since they're usually moved in the bare root stage. However, if it becomes necessary to move such a plant, prune it back heavily and keep watered well unless there's plenty of rain.

NICOTIANA PLANT

Nicotiana (tobacco plant) is a fast growing, free-flowering plant for this area. It blooms from spring through summer until the first frost. The small tube shaped, petunia like flowers are highly fragrant and open mostly at night. They do not hold up too well when cut.

The nicatiniana is self seeding. Once you have the plants you'll have them with you for all time.

Plants get about two feet tall — have a two foot span. They die down in winter but come back in the spring. Foliage is bluish green and fuzzy. Colors of blossoms are: mauve, chartreuse, wine, deep red and chocolate. No care is involved in growing this tobacco plant. Only thinning is needed. They seem unaffected by any disease or insects.

MEN'S STYLES

Here's the new look in male styles: The natural look is giving way to a new style cycle. Suits are moving closer to the body. Incidentally this trend is opposite to trends in women's fashions.

Which buttons should be buttoned on a three buttoned suit according to authorities. On male fashions, there's no strict rule. However, they say most men look best, and suits hang better, with only the middle one buttoned.

FOR WOMEN

Seersucker, once a house dress fabric, has come out into society this winter. It is going to be popular through spring, too, judging by the way it is used in some of the new spring collections. Many designers have chosen it for some of their smart resort clothes. Also seen recently was a dinner suit of blue seersucker with a bodice of pale blue lace.

The old favorite chiffon, is making a big comeback for spring and summer. You'll see many lovely chiffon cocktail and dance dresses on summer evenings. The newest look will be the tiered skirt of chiffon.

Flapper styles are more in evidence again in some of the spring collections — the hip cinching dress, the cloche hat, the ruffled gloves and the bow trimmed shoes.

Many clothes feature the clutch coat with fluffy fur collar and cuffs, so reminiscent of the flapper era — the sleeveless dress with low waist and flaring hem.

Grandmothers don't worry — we'll still have the shirtwaist dress, and that's what we'll wear regardless of the styles.

With all this talk about a revival of the fashions of the 1920's fashion conscious American women want to know whether there'll be a revival of the shingled head. Well — thus far American hair stylist are all featuring shorter hairdos — but these are pretty and flattering, not extreme like the shingle.

In all the new collections, fashion comes first, but comfort is not far behind. Skirts are short but have a slight flair, for easy walking, and no matter where the waistline is — or whether there is one, dresses never fit tightly through the mid-section.

The tiny hat is big news in the spring millinery collection. The tiny hat comes in a miniature version of almost every conventional shape and usually is perched forward.

The standing ring collar is a spring favorite. It is narrow or wide, and usually stands well away from the face.

Whenever you shop for a dress, keep this tip in mind. It's important that you look for a lining, because a lined dress will give you far more wear. Even budget-priced dresses come with skirts lined these days.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Twig Garden Club Stages Show Here

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR
Guest Writer

The Sprig and Twig Garden Club of Ruston staged a beautiful flower show last week. The plant materials used were all home grown by the exhibitors which added special value to their display.

Mrs. E. W. Orton created a lovely arrangement using driftwood and tulips. The curved driftwood branch was placed vertically in a low black oblong container. The tulips formed the focal area. Yellow tulips were placed high and outward, and deep purple ones were used low in the arrangement. The tulip foliage was placed in it's natural growth manner around the tulips. This arrangement will be long lasting and would be perfect for the den or entrance hall table.

NATURAL GROWTH

Mrs. Rudolph Feihler used the natural growth of the red bud to create a lovely diagonal line arrangement. She placed the flowering branch in a low white oval shaped container. Securing it in place with the needle point holder. This holder was cleverly hidden by using small white sea shells. Three red tulips formed the focal area at the base of the deisgn. The voids in this arrangement played an important part in the overall design. This would be ideal for the coffee table.

Mrs. Earnest Bryant captured the true feeling of spring in the use of three lovely crab apple branches. These were placed in a needle point cup holder to form a very graceful oval design. One branch was placed vertically in the center.

The blossoms at the base of this branch were large in form, thus giving weight and proper balance to the design. Further weight was added by using large ivy leaves at the base of the design. The container for these branches was very unique. It was hand - made from boards cut to form a square base - like container. A hole was cut in the center into which the pinpoint cup holder was placed, and concealing it from view. The simplicity of this design and use of materials gave a true feeling of nature's own handiwork — lovely for the enclosed patio or family room.

LEASING

Mrs. J. W. Patterson made a very pleasing long - lasting arrangement by using all green foliage and blossoms of the pine to accent it. She used the yucca leaves in a cluster to form a right triangle. These were placed in a pinpoint holder which was anchored to the right in a low black bowl. The focal area was achieved by using a rosette of magnolia leaves, centered with a cluster of the pine blossoms. The cream color of the pine blossoms gave a pleasing contrast to the green and added interest to the design. More pine blossoms were placed low to the back of the design to add depth. This arrangement would be very suitable for the den or the man's room.

For the horticulture display, Mrs. Troy Laswell brought a branch of the lovely pink floribunda crabapple. Also, for her display she brought the Mt. Hood bulb. Mrs. E. W. Orton displayed the yellow tulip with red markings. The purple Dawn Camellias was brought for display by Mrs. Reggie Reives

SEEDLING TREES

If you have seedling trees in your garden that you do not need, share them with home owners in new sub-divisions. Tree shade makes the air conditioned home 10 to 20 degrees cooler than unshaded homes. Trees increase the value of property by $200 and up, according to the size of the tree.

The long low built homes can be made more attractive by the use of plants to espalier on the wall. Garage walls and narrow areas along a drive way can be made most attractive with espaliered plants. Start with young plants that are easily trained. Do not use nitrogen on these plants, as it feeds the stems and leaves. Bone meal is a good slow acting fertilizer for espalier plants. Shrubbery that responds to espalier growth are cotoneaster forsythia, flowering quince, Japanese yew and pyracantha.

Mrs. Guy Kincaid of Delhi, represented the Fifth District Garden Clubs at the South Atlantic meeting of National Council of State Garden Clubs in Mobile, Ala. recently.

Mrs. M. B. Latham will speak on "Flowers All Through the House," at the 2:30 p.m. Monday meeting of the Welcome Garden Club, which will be held at the West Monroe First Methodist Church.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Event Marks Season's End

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Regardless of what date it falls on, the blooming of the common orange daylilies always seems to your columnist to be the end of spring and the beginning of summer.

Because they are common, most of us are missing a wonderful opportunity to have a splendid show for very little effort with these old "lilies."

Here and there, people are learning how easy it is to hold up steep banks with them, but they do not seem to have thought much about planting something blue near them.

Two blue flowers that usually bloom with orange daylilies are the annual larkspur and vitex, that powder blue shrub that is so welcome just as the hot weather eliminates most spring flowers.

LARKSPUR

Masses of larkspur can be planted from seed in the fall in front of the daylilies. It is too late to plant larkspur now, but vitex can be set out right now. Since the vitex will grow to be a small tree if left unpruned, it must be planted amongst daylilies or behind them. In places where this shrub is too large, people cut it back to almost any size they want and keep it there.

A dazzling effect can be achieved by planting our wild butterfly weed (asclepias tuberosa in the catalogues) in groups of three to five in front of the orange daylilies and then sowing larkspur in between the groups each fall. With vitex in amongst the "lilies" or behind them, an orange and blue effect par excellence can be achieved. The only care that such a planting needs is the annual sowing of larkspur and the pruning of the vitex, for all the plants involved are tough old tried-and-trues.

SUMMER TREES

If you want a neat, disease-free tree for some small area, plant the golden-rain tree. The golden rain of tiny blossoms in late spring or early summer is beautiful, but the neat foliage and the ease of cultivation of this small tree are its chief virtues. It's not hard to transplant like dogwood and does not get full of borers like many flowering cherries. It is not spectacular but will provide shade fairly quickly for a small area. It used to be criticized some for the little paper lanterns which hang on into winter, but now the flower arrangers like to use them.

The old Chinese parasol tree, that sleek green barked tree with limbs in whorls has great masses of bronzy flowers in summer that are followed by little boats with pea - like seeds on their sides. The leaves are huge, and the smooth green bark and large leaves attract attention at once. In winter, the green bark is also an eye-catcher. The older Southern nurseries can supply parasol and golden-rain trees.

Percentages, Luck Figure At Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — You can't lose in Las Vegas — that is if you go in for just the entertainment, low-cost "chuck wagon" meals and the other fringe lures of the desert oasis.

The gamble comes once you step to the gaming tables. That's when luck and percentages take over. But there's plenty to keep you amused and occupied — at not too stiff a tariff — even if you never step up to the tables or the slot machines.

Of course, without the gambling to make the profit for the big hotel owners, the vacationer wouldn't get the benefit of 98 cent "all you can eat" buffets, $1.50 Polynesian feasts, big name singers and entertainers back-to-back on cocktail lounge stages and night clubs stocked with such names as Dinah Shore, Victor Borge and Frank Sinatra. That is, the visitor wouldn't get them at the current going rate.

POSSIBLE

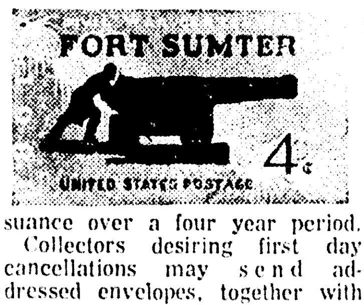
There aren't many resorts where it's possible to move into a first class air conditioned hotel room (with a pool not far away) for as little as $6. Naturally, it's also just as possible to "go for broke" in renting a room as it is at the roulette table.

Five Stamps Mark Events Of Civil War

The first of the series of five stamps marking the Civil War Centennial, highlighting the firing on Fort Sumter, will be issued April 12 at Charleston, S.C.

The central subject of this 4-cent stamp depicts a sea coast gun of the period as representative of the arms used by both sides in the conflict. An officer is shown sighting the gun. The background reveals a spray of palmetto leaves. Across the top of the stamp is the wording "Civil War Centennial." Below this (and above the gun) are the words "Fort Sumter." The dates "1861" and "1961" also appear.

This stamp will establish the general pattern for the other four stamps announced for issuance over a four year period.



Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Charleston, S. C. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Fort Sumter Stamp." Remember, outer envelopes containing requests for first day covers must be postmarked before midnight five days in advance of the issuance date or April 7, 1961.

The record price of $2,800 was paid for a superb, on - cover, lightly cancelled copy of Canada's 1959 error — the St. Lawrence Seaway 5-cent stamp with center inverted — at a recent auction in New York. This invert catalogs $2,500 and the auctioneers believe only one other cover exists.

The new Harris Second 1961 Edition (U.S. and British North America) Catalog has just been published featuring 160 pages with nearly 2,000 illustrations. It also contains a special "America" section, United Nations issues and U. S. Stamp Identifier. The second edition follows a record sale of the first 1961 printing. The price is 35 cents, post free, and can be obtained by writing H. E. Harris & Co., Catalog Department, Boston 17, Mass.

India commemorates the Golden Jublice of its first aerial post by issuing two new stamps. The designs will feature the aircraft used in 1911 and the Boeing 707 of today. The special postmark used in 1911 will also form part of the design. The first official airmail of India was carried on Feb. 18, 1911 from Allahabad to Naini, a distance of six miles, by a French aviator (M. Piquet) in a Humber bi-plane of the De-Havilland family. There were 6,500 letters and cards carried on that flight.

The United Arab Republic has issued five new stamps honoring the first anniversary of the republic. Depicted is an eagle, the emblem of Republic, surrounded by two olive branches designating space. The 10 mils stamp is maroon. Printing is in Arabic and English.

EXTENSION NEWS

Annual Vines Good Screens

By AUDREY DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, need to screen off an unsightly view during these next few summer months, you may choose one of the annual vines and its about time to plant the seed.

The time is when danger of frost is over or when spring is here to stay. The most popular annuals are moon flower, which gives quick shade and makes an excellent evening show; morning glory which is good for color as well as screen; balloonvine and cathedral bells make an excellent screen. Most of these vines will give a mass of color from early summer until frost. If you have moved into a new home and do not have trees on your lot these vines will make a nice shield from the sun.

PEAT MOSS

If your soil needs humus then peat moss rates high as one of the best sources. This is a soft brown spongy substance when exposed to air it gradually breaks down into humus. A great number of plants welcome peat moss because of its acidity — these plants include azaleas, gardenias, camellias, chrysanthemums, lilies.

The best grades of peat moss come ready for use and need only to be moistened before applying. Since peat moss has been dried it will repel water until it has been soaked thoroughly.

Peat moss has many uses — it is an ideal mulch, in summer it protects plants from drouth and in winter it prevents freezing. It can be used for storing tender bulbs during the winter months and to root and grow house plants.

COUNCIL MEETING

Mrs. L. J. Bower, president of Parish Home Demonstration Council, asked me to remind you of the important meeting Friday. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Alice Teddlie, family life specialist. Plans will be made for celebrating National Home Demontion Week — so be sure your Home Demonstration Club is represented.

RETIRED AGENT

It's good to have our former Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Euna D. Spielman, (retired in 1958 — now living in Memphis, Tennessee), Mrs. Spielman has been so busy working in her garden and enjoying her grandchildren that she has not been back to visit with us very often.

A REMINDER

If you plan to make the four to Hodges Garden with the 10 and 25 Year Home Demonstration Club members Thursday, March 23, be sure to make reservations with Mrs. E. W. Earle Phone FA 2-5111, Mrs. J. G. Haynes FA 2-2773 or Mrs. C. C. Street FA 3-9400.

The bus will leave the Agricultural Building, 704 Cypress, West Monroe at 7:30 a.m. and return that afternoon about 5:00 p.m.

To prevent cheese from getting moldy, wrap in a piece of cheese cloth dampened with vinegar then place in a covered container. Occasionally moisten the cloth with vinegar to assure fresh cheese.

When your dishes show brown stains (especially coffee cups) that can't wash off in the dish pan, soak them for a few hours in borax water.

To restore the color to ivory handle knives after they have become yellow, rub them with fine sandpaper. This will restore their whiteness and take out the spots.

Wooden clothespins will last longer if, before use they are soaked 30 minutes in a washing soda. Put two tablespoons of soda into each two cups water required to cover the clothespins.

A fresh piece of bread kept in a jar of brown sugar will keep the sugar from hardening.

JUST TALKING

If you ate 1,488 pounds of food last year, you ate as much as the average person according to the latest USDA figures. If your pattern of food intake was average, you consumed 414 pounds of dairy products, 409 pounds of fruits and vegetables plus 109 pounds of potatoes, 178 pounds of meats and fish, 146 pounds of flour and cereal products, 108 pounds of sugar and sirup, 67 pounds of fats and oils, 41 pounds of eggs and 17 pounds of coffee, tea and cocoa. Do you think you were an average American in 1960?

A THOUGHT

Take responsibility on your shoulders and there will be no room for chips.

Queen Of Day Is Crabapple

By MILDRED SWIFT

The crabapples are queen of the day. So many varieties, but very few whites. The bucata is a satisfactory white but the pinks and rose colored ones are more popular.

The azaleas should be blooming this week. Now you can see where to prune. Cut those very long limbs. Take several limbs out of each plant, right where they come out of the ground or where they join a main branch. You'll be rewarded with lots of new shoots that will grow and bear more flowers next year. If you haven't fertilized those azaleas, do that job, now. If you use 8-8-8 spread one half cupful around each plant. Spread this out at the edge of the branches. Be careful not to get the 8-8-8 on the plant. Water down unless it rains.

Bedding plants that can be set in the open this month are: Adjuga, sweet alyssum, calendula, candytuft, carnation, coreopsis, cornflower, daisies, snapdragon, gerber daisies, lobelia, lupine, violets, petunia, phlox, queen anne's lace, salvia. If I haven't named your favorite flower, inquire at the seed stores and nurseries and find if these are on hand.

There's a starter solution you can purchase. When used, according to directions, this liquid fertilizer helps plant off to a good start because it induces good root formation.

STARTER SOLUTION

You can make your own starter solution by dissolving a cup of 8-8-8 in a gallon of water. However, the starter you buy is stronger in the root forming element and that's what you need for bedding plants.

March or April are the months for dividing and resetting violets. This plant just seems to disappear unless reset every three years. Violets love plenty of humus worked in the soil. Some cotton seed meal and bonemeal (half and half) will help make the plants healthy and they'll give you more blooms. As the weather gets warmer, violets are infected with red spider.

The cockscomb is an old-fashioned flower that has become popular again with flower arrangers. They are long lasting and dry beautifully. Some new varieties are: Maple gold, rose beauty, green gold, harlequin gold dust and new penny.

When selecting the fall blooming bulbs, don't forget lycoris or spider lily. You're familiar with the old fashioned red ones that bloom in the fall. This spider lily also comes in pink, yellow and white. The reds and pinks are the hardiest. Watch the seed stores for these bulbs later on.

Best fertilizer for dogwoods is a mixture of bonemeal and cotton seed meal. Go out to the edge of the spread of the branches and sprinkle a pound of this for every year of growth.

Make a place for imperial candle tree. Get these out as soon as danger of freeze is over. Sooner they get some growth, earlier you'll have blooms.

Make cuttings of geranium and hibiscus this month. Cut short stems on roses flowering from plantings made this year. Just float your blooms in a bowl. Let the new bush develop before cutting long stems. Call for our rose bulletin for recommendations for spraying.

Balled and burlapped plants or bucket plants can still be put out. Most deciduous plants have already leafed out. It will be too great a shock to these to transplant now, since they're usually moved in the bare root stage. However, if it becomes necessary to move such a plant, prune it back heavily and keep watered well unless there's plenty of rain.

NICOTIANA PLANT

Nicotiana (tobacco plant) is a fast growing, free-flowering plant for this area. It blooms from spring through summer until the first frost. The small tube shaped, petunia like flowers are highly fragrant and open mostly at night. They do not hold up too well when cut.

The nicatiniana is self seeding. Once you have the plants you'll have them with you for all time. Plants get about two feet tall — have a two foot span. They die down in winter but come back in the spring. Foliage is bluish green and fuzzy. Colors of blossoms are: mauve, chartreuse, wine, deep red and chocolate. No care is involved in growing this tobacco plant. Only thinning is needed. They seem unaffected by any disease or insects.

MEN'S STYLES

Here's the new look in male styles: The natural look is giving way to a new style cycle. Suits are moving closer to the body. Incidentally this trend is opposite to trends in women's fashions.

Which buttons should be buttoned on a three buttoned suit according to authorities. On male fashions, there's no strict rule. However, they say most men look best, and suits hang better, with only the middle one buttoned.

FOR WOMEN

Seersucker, once a house dress fabric, has come out into society this winter. It is going to be popular through spring, too, judging by the way it is used in some of the new spring collections. Many designers have chosen it for some of their smart resort clothes. Also seen recently was a dinner suit of blue seersucker with a bodice of pale blue lace.

The old favorite chiffon, is making a big comeback for spring and summer. You'll see many lovely chiffon cocktail and dance dresses on summer evenings. The newest look will be the tiered skirt of chiffon.

Flapper styles are more in evidence again in some of the spring collections — the hip cinching dress, the cloche hat, the ruffled gloves and the bow trimmed shoes.

Many clothes feature the clutch coat with fluffy fur collar and cuffs, so reminiscent of the flapper era — the sleeveless dress with low waist and flaring hem.

Grandmothers don't worry — we'll still have the shirtwaist dress, and that's what we'll wear regardless of the styles.

With all this talk about a revival of the fashions of the 1920's fashion conscious American women want to know whether there'll be a revival of the shingled head. Well — thus far American hair stylist are all featuring shorter hairdos — but these are pretty and flattering, not extreme like the shingle.

In all the new collections, fashion comes first, but comfort is not far behind. Skirts are short but have a slight flair, for easy walking, and no matter where the waistline is — or whether there is one, dresses never fit tightly through the mid-section.

The tiny hat is big news in the spring millinery collection. The tiny hat comes in a miniature version of almost every conventional shape and usually is perched forward.

The standing ring collar is a spring favorite. It is narrow or wide, and usually stands well away from the face.

Whenever you shop for a dress, keep this tip in mind. It's important that you look for a lining, because a lined dress will give you far more wear. Even budget-priced dresses come with skirts lined these days.

It is not hard to transplant like dogwood and does not get full of borers like many flowering cherries. It is not spectacular but will provide shade fairly quickly for a small area. It used to be criticized some for the little paper lanterns which hang on into winter, but now the flower arrangers like to use them.

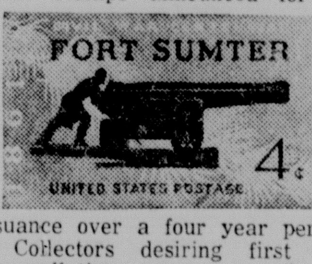
The old Chinese parasol tree, that sleek green barked tree with limbs in whorls has great masses of bronzy flowers in summer that are followed by little boats with pea - like seeds on their sides. The leaves are huge, and the smooth green bark and large leaves attract attention at once. In winter, the green bark is also an eye-catcher. The older Southern nurseries can supply parasol and golden-rain trees.

Five Stamps Mark Events Of Civil War

The first of the series of five stamps marking the Civil War Centennial, highlighting the firing on Fort Sumter, will be issued April 12 at Charleston, S.C.

The central subject of this 4-cent stamp depicts a sea coast gun of the period as representative of the arms used by both sides in the conflict. An officer is shown sighting the gun. The background reveals a spray of palmetto leaves. Across the top of the stamp is the wording "Civil War Centennial." Below this (and above the gun) are the words "Fort Sumter." The dates "1861" and "1961" also appear.

This stamp will establish the general pattern for the other four stamps announced for issuance over a four year period.



Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Charleston, S. C. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Fort Sumter Stamp." Remember, outer envelopes containing requests for first day covers must be postmarked before midnight five days in advance of the issuance date or April 7, 1961.

The record price of $2,800 was paid for a superb, on - cover, lightly cancelled copy of Canada's 1959 error — the St. Lawrence Seaway 5-cent stamp with center inverted — at a recent auction in New York. This invert catalogs $2,500 and the auctioneers believe only one other cover exists.

The new Harris Second 1961 Edition (U.S. and British North America) Catalog has just been published featuring 160 pages with nearly 2,000 illustrations. It also contains a special "America" section, United Nations issues and U. S. Stamp Identifier. The second edition follows a record sale of the first 1961 printing. The price is 35 cents, post free, and can be obtained by writing H. E. Harris & Co., Catalog Department, Boston 17, Mass.

India commemorates the Golden Jublice of its first aerial post by issuing two new stamps. The designs will feature the aircraft used in 1911 and the Boeing 707 of today. The special postmark used in 1911 will also form part of the design. The first official airmail of India was carried on Feb. 18, 1911 from Allahabad to Naini, a distance of six miles, by a French aviator (M. Piquet) in a Humber bi-plane of the De-Havilland family. There were 6,500 letters and cards carried on that flight.

The United Arab Republic has issued five new stamps honoring the first anniversary of the republic. Depicted is an eagle, the emblem of Republic, surrounded by two olive branches designating space. The 10 mils stamp is maroon. Printing is in Arabic and English.

Annual Vines Good Screens

By AUDREY DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, need to screen off an unsightly view during these next few summer months, you may choose one of the annual vines and its about time to plant the seed.

The time is when danger of frost is over or when spring is here to stay. The most popular annuals are moon flower, which gives quick shade and makes an excellent evening show; morning glory which is good for color as well as screen; balloonvine and cathedral bells make an excellent screen. Most of these vines will give a mass of color from early summer until frost. If you have moved into a new home and do not have trees on your lot these vines will make a nice shield from the sun.

PEAT MOSS

If your soil needs humus then peat moss rates high as one of the best sources. This is a soft brown spongy substance when exposed to air it gradually breaks down into humus. A great number of plants welcome peat moss because of its acidity — these plants include azaleas, gardenias, camellias, chrysanthemums, lilies.

The best grades of peat moss come ready for use and need only to be moistened before applying. Since peat moss has been dried it will repel water until it has been soaked thoroughly.

Peat moss has many uses — it is an ideal mulch, in summer it protects plants from drouth and in winter it prevents freezing. It can be used for storing tender bulbs during the winter months and to root and grow house plants.

COUNCIL MEETING

Mrs. L. J. Bower, president of Parish Home Demonstration Council, asked me to remind you of the important meeting Friday. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Alice Teddlie, family life specialist. Plans will be made for celebrating National Home Demonstration Week — so be sure your Home Demonstration Club is represented.

RETIRED AGENT

It's good to have our former Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Euna D. Spielman, (retired in 1958 — now living in Memphis, Tennessee). Mrs. Spielman has been so busy working in her garden and enjoying her grandchildren that she has not been back to visit with us very often.

A REMINDER

If you plan to make the four to Hodges Garden with the 10 and 25 Year Home Demonstration Club members Thursday, March 23, be sure to make reservations with Mrs. E. W. Earle Phone FA 2-5111, Mrs. J. G. Haynes FA 2-2773 or Mrs. C. C. Street FA 3-9400.

The bus will leave the Agricultural Building, 704 Cypress, West Monroe at 7:30 a.m. and return that afternoon about 5:00 p.m.

To prevent cheese from getting moldy, wrap in a piece of cheese cloth dampened with vinegar then place in a covered container. Occasionally moisten the cloth with vinegar to assure fresh cheese.

When your dishes show brown stains (especially coffee cups) that can't wash off in the dish pan, soak them for a few hours in borax water.

To restore the color to ivory handle knives after they have become yellow, rub them with fine sandpaper. This will restore their whiteness and take out the spots.

Wooden clothespins will last longer if, before use they are soaked 30 minutes in a washing soda. Put two tablespoons of soda into each two cups water required to cover the clothespins.

A fresh piece of bread kept in a jar of brown sugar will keep the sugar from hardening.

JUST TALKING

If you ate 1,488 pounds of food last year, you ate as much as the average person according to the latest USDA figures. If your pattern of food intake was average, you consumed 414 pounds of dairy products, 409 pounds of fruits and vegetables plus 109 pounds of potatoes, 178 pounds of meats and fish, 146 pounds of flour and cereal products, 108 pounds of sugar and sirup, 67 pounds of fats and oils, 41 pounds of eggs and 17 pounds of coffee, tea and cocoa. Do you think you were an average American in 1960?

A THOUGHT

Take responsibility on your shoulders and there will be no room for chips.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Thanks and thanks again to all of you who came to the rescue of Mrs. E.W.G. who wanted a zipper for a reversible skirt. Through your letters and further research on my part, we have found that there are many places where this type of zipper can be obtained. Most dressmaker supply companies have them available on special order.

Any unique zipper construction or special colors may be ordered through your local department store. With the increased popularity of reversible skirts, this information should be of great value to all of you.

"Dear Eunice,

"I made a winter coat this year which I like very much except that it has only one button at the neckline and the fronts fly open all the time instead of lapping each other. Can you tell me what to do to make it stay closed?"

Mrs. A. McV.

Dear Mrs. A. McV.:

Fashion details change constantly, consequently you will find a variation in the number of buttons used on all garments. Sometimes the style of the coat would be spoiled by adding extra buttons.

You may add one or two additional buttons to the inside of your coat so they won't show from the right side. This is done by making additional buttonholes on the coat FACING only. Use a flat button matching the color of your coat. Your coat will stay closed and will not affect the one button style.

SELVAGE PROBLEM

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"Is it all right for me to use the SELVAGE edge for the lower edge of the skirt lining? This would use less material than if I have to cut it the same as the skirt."

Mrs. R. F.

Dear Mrs. R. F.:

One of the details I can't stress enough is the correct GRAIN-LINE of your fabric. The lining should be cut with the same grain line as the skirt itself. The lower edge of the lining should be machine stitched about ¼" from the edge and then pinked to prevent raveling. Do not machine stitch hem, the hem might show a ridge in your skirt.

STRONG THREAD

"Dear Eunice,

"Should I use silk thread for sewing on wool or silk?"

Mrs. N. E. S.

Dear Mrs. N. E. S.:

I would recommend mercerized thread for sewing on all fabrics except nylon. It is more refined and stronger than cotton thread and has the elasticity of silk thread.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:

Selvage: The woven border on the lengthwise edges of your fabric. This is seldom used because it is woven a little tighter than the fabric and would have a tendency to pull.

In the limited space, it is impossible to answer all of your letters immediately. Questions of the most general interest will be answered first. If your answer does not appear in time for your current sewing project, save them for future reference. Send all your questions and suggestions to Sew Simple, in care of this newspaper.

If you plan to use bound buttonholes any time in the future, send now for my free leaflet, BOUND BUTTONHOLES. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Girl Scout News

All community [illegible] Girl Scout Week [illegible] were the best yet [illegible] [illegible] School [illegible].

Singled out for special [illegible] were the Senior Scouts, who presided: Jane [illegible], Betty [illegible]dleton, Deas Parrish and Kathleen Kelley, Troops 43 and 44. "The World Song" [illegible] Neighborhood [illegible] Hance talked on "The Juliette Low Fund" and Diane Halley [illegible] choice for her [illegible] Senior Scouting. The [illegible] ceremony was conducted at Southside Neighborhood by Troop 16, at College Neighborhood by Troop 33, at Southside by Troop 105 and West Monroe by Troop 1.

Of course, birthdays call for cakes and candles. Troop 44 made a beautiful one for the College Neighborhoods, decorating it with roses of yellow icing. Troop 8 made the Southside one. Each troop went to the leader's home afterward and enjoyed eating the cake they had made. Troop [illegible], West Monroe, made a [illegible] creation with [illegible] that [illegible] last for several years, [illegible] green "49" on it in honor of the 49th birthday of Scouting. Northside's made by Troop 3[illegible], was similar.

Girls wore their uniforms for Church Sunday, many of them attending as a troop. One was Troop 3. Mrs. O. L. Davis and Mrs. M. R. Howell, leaders. They attended College Place Baptist Church, after which they had a picnic lunch on the bayou bank, a custom they started last year, before going to their neighborhood program. Girl Scouts of Sherrouse School were recognized at the school assembly last week.

Senior Scouts Diane Halley, Deas Parrish, and Gayle Smith attended the family night supper and program for Girl Scout Week in Newellton.

At least eight seniors are delighted to hear that Mrs. N. L. Huckabee, our Lucy, has been selected for the staff of the "Mississippi Mermaid" trip on the steamer Avalon, for the down the river trip in June.

Girls and leaders who are planning to share in the Roundup training are to meet at the office Saturday, March 25 with Mrs. Charles Overton, Roundup trainer, to set up a schedule for training.

Day camp folders were distributed at neighborhood meetings last week. Sign-up day has been set for April 15 at schools in various parts of the Twin Cities.

Leaders are planning an overnight at Pine Wood for next Friday, the 24th, meeting last week to plan it. An overnight is lots of fun for the grown-ups and a must for those who take girls troop camping. Any leader may attend, whether her troop is ready for the overnight experience or not.

Simple camping skills, including a cookout, will be covered in a training session at the office Thursday morning at 9:30. New leaders, Brownie leaders who have not had outdoor training, will find the morning well spent.

Mrs. May Fetes Progressive HD Club, Six Guests

Six guests were present when the Progressive Home Demonstration club met March 7 in the home of Mrs. Hollis May at 9:30 a.m. They were Mrs. Bob Light, Mrs. J. C. Hernandez, Mrs. Finley Perkins, Mrs. W. L. Ewing, Miss Ella Kay Guraedy and Mrs. Audrey Dawson.

Mrs. Dawson gave the demonstration on refinishing furniture after which Mrs. T. W. Chapman reported on Landscape and Mrs. Tim Ford on house furnishings.

Mrs. C. D. Shirley, president, conducted the business session during which Mrs. Rowe Harrell was elected secretary - treasurer. Members were also asked to donate cookies to be given to the Red Cross with 27 dozen pledged.

Mrs. Boyce Johnson won the contest prize during the recreation hour, following which luncheon was served by the hostess. Members present were Mrs. B. H. Moore, Mrs. Gil Guillory, Mrs. E. Hargrove, Mrs. L. O. Guillory, Mrs. Charles Guraedy, Mrs. Robert Fowler, Mrs. James White, Mrs. James Fletcher, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Harrell, Mrs. Shirley and Mrs. May.

Film Features Mitchell PTA Program Topic

Mrs. R. H. Alexander, chairman of the nominating committee for W. R. Mitchell P.T.A. announced the slate of new officers at a meeting held Wednesday, March 8 in the school cafeteria.

They include Mrs. W. W. Hinson, president; Mrs. W. H. Phillips, vice president; Mrs. J. O. Boyd, secretary and Mrs. G. W. Wade, treasurer.

Rev. H. W. Freeman made a brief talk on "A Christian Home," and the business session was conducted by Mrs. Hinson, vice-president, in absence of Mrs. Roy Boyd.

Highlight of the afternoon was a film entitled, "Child's Emotions," shown on the school's new projector, which was purchased as the PTA's project for this year.

Room count was won by Mrs. Lyda Tolbird's fourth grade.

Camellia Club Has Grafting Demonstration

A demonstration on grafting of camellias by Frank Spivey highlighted the monthly meeting of Northeast Louisiana Camellia club held in the Covenant Presbyterian church.

The door prize was won by Mrs. G. T. Cannon.

Members present were Mrs. W. C. Bentrup, Mrs. R. L. Tirmenstein, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Cannon, J. M. Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Allen, Mrs. L. R. Adams, Frank V. Spivey, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Girl Scout News

All comments indicate that Girl Scout Week birthday programs were the best yet! Four of them — all going on at once. Attendance was excellent. Lexington School auditorium was overflowing.

Singled out for special comment were the Senior Scouts who presided, Jane Edwards, Becky Middleton, Deas Parrish and Jateen Kelley. Troops 34 and 52 sang "The World Song" at the College Neighborhood. Ann Elizabeth Hanna talked on "The Juliette Low Fund" and Diane Halley chose for her subject "Senior Scouting". Chamber Banquet Plans Completed

West Monroe Chamber of Commerce Manager Gene Smith yesterday announced completion of plans for the organization's annual officer installation banquet, being headlined by the appearance of Louisiana Controller Roy Theriot.

"Tuesday, March 21, is the night and 7:30's the time," Smith said, adding that the West Monroe High School cafeteria was the place.

According to Smith, M. L. Owens is set to become new C of C president that night, taking over the reins from A. T. (Buddy) Harrelson, who steps down to become vice president during the ensuing year. Harrelson will fill the post being vacated by Hugh Balfour. Jennings Wilkins, in turn, has been named to replace the retiring Roy Brooks as treasurer.

Besides formal installation of officers for 1961, five new members of the board of directors will be recognized during ceremonies. They are A. L. DeLoach, Tex Kilpatrick, Herbert Milford, George Wylie and Wilkins, and they succeed a like number of outgoing directors which includes Murphy Blackwell, C. G. Wall Jr., Hilton Heard, Jeff Burnett and Brooks.

Manager Smith will present certificates of appreciation to retiring directors to mark their conclusion of three years' service each on the board.

Though the topic for Theriot's address still was not known yesterday, Smith declared that the Controller is widely reputed as an "ingratiating" type speaker, possessed of the capacity for combining high wit with pertinent information.

A former mayor of Abbeville, serving from 1954 until his election last year as Controller, Theriot is a 1939 graduate of the Tulane Law School.

He practiced law for a time in Abbeville, where he also was active in numerous civic affairs.

Theriot is a past district governor of Lions International, and a past president of the Louisiana Association of Fairs and Festivals, and of the Bayou Girls Girl Scout Council.

Lawyer Says Strikers Use Machine Guns

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Attorney Mark Taliaferro said Saturday a $500,000 damage suit was pending as a result of a five months old labor dispute in which strikers allegedly used two submachine guns to hamper operations at a coal mine.

Taliaferro said the United Mine Workers of America had moved for dismissal of the suit in a preliminary hearing and the motion was under consideration by a federal judge here.

The attorney said members of Locals 9635 and 8878 in Brookwood Ala., went on strike Nov. 21 and had blocked entrances to the Abston Construction Co. with barricades backed by sub - machine guns and had threatened to hang co-owner C. L. Abston.

The National Labor Relations Board Friday ordered the union locals to stop using the machine guns and barricades.

Taliaferro said a full report on the sub-machine guns had been given to the FBI and the National Guard since the weapons were of the "type that the government has not released for normal use. None are for sale. They are owned by the government."

The FBI in Birmingham said the matter was referred to the Justice Department and it had no comment since the NLRB was handling the case.

In Washington, the Justice Department said it had no comment.

Church Arranges Open House Here

The First Presbyterian Church, now located at Stubbs and North 11th streets, will hold an open house today at its new educational building between the hour of 3:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

The new building of the church is contemporary in design and is equipped with the latest methods for christian service, said the pastor, the Rev. W. H. McFadden.

Charge Continues On Right-Of-Way For Pipelines

Louisiana's Register of State Lands, Mrs. Ellen Bryan Moore, said Saturday that the State Land Office would continue assessing charges for granting of rights-of-way to the Louisiana Gulf boundary as set out by Act 33 of 1954.

Under present legislation, a company desiring to lay a pipeline or lines across a navigable stream of any size belonging to the State of Louisiana secures a permit granted exclusively by the Register of the State Land Office and the Governor. Permits are also granted to allow companies to lay pipelines outward into the Gulf of Mexico to transport "tidelands" oil or gas.

Mrs. Moore had requested a legal interpretation as to the extent charges could be made outward into the Gulf due to a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision on Louisiana's tidelands claims.

The opinion rendered by the Attorney General's office held in part as follows: "Louisiana relies on a 1954 statute of its own establishing the State's boundary at three leagues seaward of the line between inland and open waters (Act 33 of 1954).

It is said that in so legislating Louisiana followed the coastline as defined in regulations promulgated by the Commandant of the Coast Guard, pursuant to the Federal Act of February 19, 1895 and that because of this, and also on considerations of convenience and certainty, this state enactment should be accepted as establishing Louisiana's coast."

Mrs. Moore further stated that revenue from right-of-way grants during the past calendar year brought into the State Treasury the sum of $145,603.85.

Local Rotary Delegates To Attend Meet

Delegations from Monroe and West Monroe Rotary clubs will attend the joint conference of Rotary districts 619 and 620 in Alexandria today and Monday.

The Alexandria conclave will represent the first joint session of representatives of all Rotary Clubs in Louisiana since the state was divided into two districts following the last conference held there in 1958.

Featured addresses will be presented by Frank Spain, former president of Rotary International, and Pablo Campos-Lynch of Mexico City, governor of Rotary District 413.

The conference, which expected to draw some 500 Rotarians and their wives, will convene at 3:15 p.m. today. Robert T. Nash of Pineville is governor of District 619, and John Brady of Golden Meadow is governor of District 620.

General conference chairman will be Ted Pate of Alexandria. Assistant chairman will be Rodney Young of Crowley.

A luncheon Monday will fete Rotary Anns from the Twin Cities and other areas of the state. Hostesses will be wives of members of the Alexandria Rotary Club. Among guests at the event will be Mrs. Frank Spain and Senora Pablo Campos-Lunch.

Rotarians and Rotary Anns scheduled to attend from the Monroe club include Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Faulk, Mr. and Mrs. James Ussery, John Fox, W. D. H. Rodriguez, R. D. Farr Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bernstein Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Weaks, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pohlmen, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Rorex, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bagwell, C. B. Braun and Jack May.

PLAN OCEAN LINER

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union published Saturday a plan to build its biggest ocean liner. Construction of the vessel, displacing 28,000 tons, is scheduled to start soon in Leningrad. The ship, still unnamed, is planned for 1,000 passengers and a picture of the model published in the Moscow press shows a nine deck, white, streamlined, ship with one funnel.

23 PERISH IN FIRE

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Twenty-three persons — including many women perished Friday in a factory fire at Jalgaon, 225 miles northeast of here, according to official reports reaching Bombay Saturday.

Chamber Banquet Plans Completed

West Monroe Chamber of Commerce Manager Gene Smith yesterday announced completion of plans for the organization's annual officer installation banquet, being headlined by the appearance of Louisiana Controller Roy Theriot.

"Tuesday, March 21, is the night and 7:30's the time," Smith said, adding that the West Monroe High School cafeteria was the place.

According to Smith, M. L. Owens is set to become new C of C president that night, taking over the reins from A. T. (Buddy) Harrelson, who steps down to become vice president during the ensuing year. Harrelson will fill the post being vacated by Hugh Balfour. Jennings Wilkins, in turn, has been named to replace the retiring Roy Brooks as treasurer.

Besides formal installation of officers for 1961, five new members of the board of directors will be recognized during ceremonies. They are A. L. DeLoach, Tex Kilpatrick, Herbert Milford, George Wylie and Wilkins, and they succeed a like number of outgoing directors which includes Murphy Blackwell, C. G. Wall Jr., Hilton Heard, Jeff Burnett and Brooks.

Manager Smith will present certificates of appreciation to retiring directors to mark their conclusion of three years' service each on the board.

Though the topic for Theriot's address still was not known yesterday, Smith declared that the Controller is widely reputed as an "ingratiating" type speaker, possessed of the capacity for combining high wit with pertinent information.

A former mayor of Abbeville, serving from 1954 until his election last year as Controller, Theriot is a 1939 graduate of the Tulane Law School.

He practiced law for a time in Abbeville, where he also was active in numerous civic affairs.

Theriot is a past district governor of Lions International, and a past president of the Louisiana Association of Fairs and Festivals, and of the Bayou Girls Girl Scout Council.

Lawyer Says Strikers Use Machine Guns

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Attorney Mark Taliaferro said Saturday a $500,000 damage suit was pending as a result of a five months old labor dispute in which strikers allegedly used two submachine guns to hamper operations at a coal mine.

Taliaferro said the United Mine Workers of America had moved for dismissal of the suit in a preliminary hearing and the motion was under consideration by a federal judge here.

The attorney said members of Locals 9635 and 8878 in Brookwood Ala., went on strike Nov. 21 and had blocked entrances to the Abston Construction Co. with barricades backed by sub - machine guns and had threatened to hang co-owner C. L. Abston.

Columbia Top Winner At Science Fair

Columbia High School yesterday captured top place in the annual Region 3 Science Fair at Northeast Louisiana State College. The nine-point score included ratings on exhibits in junior and senior divisions in various categories.

Ranking second in total points was Delhi with eight points followed by Neville of Monroe and Bastrop, each winning six points.

Other schools receiving awards were Grayson, with three points; Mangham one; Ouachita Parish High School, one; Robert E. Lee Jr. High of Monroe, two; Tallulah, three; West Monroe High, three; and West Monroe Junior High, two.

200 DISPLAYS

The fair included approximately 200 displays, the largest list which the event has ever had, Howard Whitley of the biology faculty and fair chairman said.

Quality of exhibits also surpassed last year's group the judges stated. This was particularly true of the junior division, they said. Numerous teachers whose student participated in the project expressed interest in the high quality of judging.

Only junior and senior high schools competed for awards, but elementary schools also entered exhibits.

Judges considered the following five factors in making awards: scientific thought, creative ability, thoroughness, clarity and [illegible], and technical skill.

Seven first place awards went to the following students in categories listed: Corre Anding, Delhi, biology; Thomas Baxter, West Monroe, physics; Maurice Cottingham, Columbia, mathematics; James Crawley Jr., Columbia, electronics; Bill Gore, Ouachita Parish High School, physical science; Cecelia Grobe, Bastrop, social sciences; Myra Prewitt, Mangham, earth science.

Third place awards went to: Tony Porter, Bastrop, biology; Bert Batchelor, Tallulah, chemistry; Billy Cy Frazier, Grayson, earth science; Sherman Louis Carroll, Columbia, mathematics; Jim Davis, OPHS, physics; Jane Hurley, Delhi, biology; Steve Wilson, Delhi, mathematics.

Awards also were made to members of the Louisiana Junior Academy of Science, who participated in conjunction with the science fair. The event was sponsored by Dr. Frank A. Welder of the Northeast Geology Department and chairman of the Academy.

Competitors were judged on their appearance before a committee who questioned them regarding their scientific projects and findings. The personal appearance of high school students before a critical group is quite a challenge, Dr. Welder said.

The Academy chairman declared "This region will have strong representation at the state meeting on April 15 at the University of Southwestern, where students will compete with members from nine regions."

Serving as judges for the Academy entrants were: Lt. Col. Lawrence R. Longfellow, Neil Covington, Edward J. Rynes, Dr. A. J. Speece, all of the Northeast faculty, and Jack Harper, Monroe geology senior and president of the Northeast Geological Society.

ICC Receives Plans To Merge Four Railroads

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Plans to merge four railroads into a giant system stretching from Norfolk, Va., to Omaha, Neb., were submitted Friday to the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC).

The plans involve merger of the Norfolk and Western Railway with the Nickel Plate Road which would in turn acquire the Sandusky line and lease the Wabash Railroad.

If the merger is allowed, the combined system would be one of the 10 largest railroads in the country. It would operate some 7,400 miles through 14 states from the Atlantic Seaboard to Buffalo and Chicago and the upper Midwest.

The joint N&W-Nickel Plate application said the combined road could effect a saving of about $25 million a year within five years after the plan goes into effect. The two railroads have assets totaling more than $1.4 billion.

They would be linked by the 111-mile Sandusky line between Columbus and Sandusky, Ohio. The Sandusky is owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad which also owns most of the Wabash's stock.

College Student Booked In Theft; Radio Is Stolen

West Monroe police booked a 22-year-old Ruston college student yesterday with felony theft after he took a radio from a parked car at a local club.

Transferred to the parish jail on a $750 bond on the charge was Benny F. Laney, 22, Box 616 Tech Station, Ruston.

Laney was picked up by Ruston authorities for West Monroe.

According to police, the portable radio valued at $36, was taken from the seat of a police car. Officials said that during a routine check Friday night, the police car was parked in front of a local club and the portable transistor radio belonging to one of the patrolmen was laying on the front seat.

As Laney came out of the club police said, he just reached in and took the radio.

It was recovered by Ruston authorities whey then apprehended the youth.

2 Negro Women Booked By Police

Several cutting scrapes early Saturday morning resulted in the booking of two Negro women for aggravated battery by Monroe police.

Ruth Ethridge, Negro, 21 of No. 14 Johnson's Alley was booked for aggravated battery with a dangerous weapon. She is alleged to have cut Robert Lee Diggins, Negro of 1206 Rogers St. with a fingernail file. Her bond was set at $500.

Booked for aggravated battery with a knife was Frances Smith, Negro, 26 of 205 North 18th St., who allegedly cut George Smith, 33, Negro of 205 North 18th St., at their home during an argument. She was held on a $500 bond and will face the charges in municipal court Wednesday.

PARIS (AP)—A Paris auction house says it has sold a lock of Napoleon's hair for $300.

Police Probing Shotgun Theft

Monroe police are investigating the Friday night theft of a shotgun which was reported Saturday morning.

The gun, valued at $15, belonged to Charles Wood of 700 Hudson Lane.

Wood told investigators that it was taken from his car as it was parked at Ouachita Parish High School Friday between the hours of 7:30 and 9 p.m.

He described the gun as a 20 gauge Remington, single, blue barrel shotgun.

Columbia Top Winner At Science Fair

Columbia High School yesterday captured top place in the annual Region 3 Science Fair at Northeast Louisiana State College. The nine-point score included ratings on exhibits in junior and senior divisions in various categories.

Ranking second in total points was Delhi with eight points followed by Neville of Monroe and Bastrop, each winning six points.

Other schools receiving awards were Grayson, with three points; Mangham one; Ouachita Parish High School, one; Robert E. Lee Jr. High of Monroe, two; Tallulah, three; West Monroe High, three; and West Monroe Junior High, two.

200 DISPLAYS

The fair included approximately 200 displays, the largest list which the event has ever had, Edward Whatley of the biology faculty and fair chairman said.

Quality of exhibits also surpassed last year's group the judges stated. This was particularly true of the junior division, they said. Numerous teachers whose students participated in the project expressed interest in the high quality of judging.

Only junior and senior high schools competed for awards, but elementary schools also entered exhibits.

Judges considered the following five factors in making awards: scientific thought, creative ability, thoroughness, clarity and dramatic value, and technical skill.

Seven first place awards went to the following students in categories listed: Corre Anding, Delhi, biology; Thomas Baxter, West Monroe, physics; Maurice Cottingham, Columbia, mathematics; James Crawley Jr., Columbia, electronics; Bill Gore, Ouachita Parish High School, physical science; Cecelia Grobe, Bastrop, social sciences; Myra Prewitt, Mangham, earth science.

Third place awards went to: Tom Porter, Bastrop, biology; Bert Batchelor, Tallulah, chemistry; Billy Cy Frazier, Grayson, earth science; Sherman Louis Carroll, Columbia, mathematics; Jim Davis, OPHS, physics; Jane Hurley, Delhi, biology; Susie Wilson, Delhi, mathematics.

Awards also were made to members of the Louisiana Junior Academy of Science, who participated in conjunction with the science fair. The event was sponsored by Dr. Frank A. Welder of the Northeast Geology Department and chairman of the Academy.

Competitors were judged on their appearance before a committee who questioned them regarding their scientific projects and findings. The personal appearance of high school students before a critical group is quite a challenge, Dr. Welder said.

The Academy chairman declared "This region will have strong representation at the state meeting on April 15 at the University of Southwestern, where students will compete with members from nine regions."

Serving as judges for the Academy entrants were: Lt. Col. Lawrence R. Longfellow, Neil Covington, Edward J. Rynes, Dr. A. J. Speece, all of the Northeast faculty, and Jack Harper, Monroe geology senior and president of the Northeast Geological Society.

ICC Receives Plans To Merge Four Railroads

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Plans to merge four railroads into a giant system stretching from Norfolk, Va., to Omaha, Neb., were submitted Friday to the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC).

The plans involve merger of the Norfolk and Western Railway with the Nickel Plate Road which would in turn acquire the Sandusky line and lease the Wabash Railroad.

If the merger is allowed, the combined system would be one of the 10 largest railroads in the country. It would operate some 7,400 miles through 14 states from the Atlantic Seaboard to Buffalo and Chicago and the upper Midwest.

The joint N&W-Nickel Plate application said the combined road could effect a saving of about $25 million a year within five years after the plan goes into effect. The two railroads have assets totaling more than $1.4 billion.

They would be linked by the 111-mile Sandusky line between Columbus and Sandusky, Ohio. The Sandusky is owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad which also owns most of the Wabash's stock.

"ACTION REALTORS"

COLLEGE AVE.—Spacious and gracious! Are two words to best describe this lovely Colonial Home. Rarely does a lovely property of this type come on the market. Custom built for family living with its spacious 7-bedrooms, and carpeted living room and dining room. The kitchen has oodles of cabinets and a breakfast area. A large den with fireplace opening out on a huge screened patio, is just the thing for teenage entertaining! A utility room with servant's bath and enclosed garage makes this home one of the most convenient, and floor space throughout this home cannot be duplicated for one-half the asking price. If you have a large family you owe it to yourself to see this lovely home! The 200x200 lot is loaded with prize shrubs and trees. Shown by appointment only.

LIONEL ST.—2 bedroom and den, brick home in College Area. Close to College and Grammar School. $500 down and closing costs moves you in. One year old, Central Heat, attic fan, beautiful drapes, wired 200. Lot 75x150. It's vacant. Call to see.

WHITE'S FERRY ROAD—This is one of the most outstanding homes in West Monroe. 3-bedroom brick, bath and half. Lot 90x150 with plenty of trees. Built-in oven and range, birch cabinets, separate paneled dining room, large laundry room, double carport. You have to see to appreciate.

SOUTH 9TH ST.—IMMACULATE! DESIRABLE! REASONABLE! These words best describe this roomy, 3-bedroom, brick on its large corner lot. Central heat, wired 220, plumbed for washer and loads of closet space. It's vacant and a SMALL down payment will move you right in!

HILL STREET—We are very fortunate to list this nice bungalow only 1 block from the College at such a modest price. 2-bedrooms, separate dining room, front and back screened porches and large fenced back yard. It's priced to sell and we have excellent financing for it!

SOUTH 5TH ST., W. M.—A perfect family home! 3-large bedrooms, den, large living room and dining area and a kitchen you'll love with its gleaming birch cabinets, Formica counter tops and double stainless steel sink. Completely fenced yard, just across the street from Mitchell School. Double paved carport and central heat. This is a fine home for a growing family and it's priced within their means!

FAIRFIELD, W. M.—Lots of room! 2-large bedrooms, 14x14. Spacious living room and kitchen. Very clean. On large lot 83x150. Back yard fenced. 220 wiring, plumbed for washer and dryer. Newly painted outside. Adjacent to Shopping Center and bus line. $400 down on FHA loan.

OAKDALE, W. M.—Notice! Olin Employees! Imagine a 3-bedroom, brick for only $300 down and closing cost of less than $100. Less than one year old, clean as a whistle, built-in electric range and food center. By all means see this home, the value is apparent!

SOUTH 7TH ST.—Just a hop, skip and jump to the Plum Street schools, 2-large bedrooms and den. Wall heaters, 220 wiring, plumbed for washer and good closets and storage. It's only $350 down and owner will pay half of the closing costs. It's a real value!

CLAIBORNE ST.—Cute as a bug's ear! And only a block from the College. Just the thing for a College couple or teacher. 2-large bedrooms, living room, bath with shower, air conditioner, attic fan, fenced yard, in tip-top shape. See this right away. Only $5250!

THIS, LINUS, IS WHAT IS KNOWN AS A "FLANNELGRAPH"...
I HAVE TACKED A PIECE OF FLANNEL TO THIS BOARD AS YOU CAN SEE...NOW, I HAVE ALSO USED A PIECE OF FLANNEL FOR THESE LITTLE CUT-OUT FIGURES...
SEE? THE FIGURES STICK TO THE BOARD MAKING IT AN IDEAL METHOD FOR TELLING ILLUSTRATED STORIES...
NOW, IF YOU'LL JUST SIT OVER THERE, I'LL ENTERTAIN YOU WITH AN EXCITING TALE
THIS IS GREAT! WHAT INGENUITY SHE HAS!
NOW, THIS IS THE STORY OF THE SHEPHERD AND HIS THREE SHEEP... ONE DAY A SHEPHERD WAS STANDING ON A HILL..
I WONDER HOW SHE THINKS OF THINGS LIKE THIS? A FLANNELGRAPH! JUST IMAGINE!
I WONDER WHERE SHE GOT THE FLANNEL IN THE FIRST PLACE TO....

THEY ENGULF AND ABSORB THEIR FOOD! HE'S TRYING TO SWALLOW THE SUB!
PROF! CAREFUL! NOT TOO CLOSE!
PROF..!
SHOTS DON'T HARM IT! NO WONDER! NO NERVOUS SYSTEM! JUST A GIANT PRIMITIVE CELL!
BUT THEY KILL CELLS WITH MICRO-SURGERY! IT MAY WORK NOW..! THERE IT IS... THE THING THAT MAKES IT TICK... THE 'NUCLEUS'! I'LL CUT THROUGH THIS GELATIN!
WHILE INSIDE, AS THE SCREENS CLEAR UP.....
THEY'RE GONERS! YOUR HUSBAND AND YOUR ROCKET JOCKEY! I'M PULLING OUT OF HERE NOW!
YOU COWARDLY WATER RAT! YOU LEAVE THEM, AND I'LL KILL YOU.. YOU HEAR ME?
NEXT WEEK: ABANDONED!!

FLASH GORDON

by MAC RABOY

THEY ENGULF AND ABSORB THEIR FOOD! HE'S TRYING TO SWALLOW THE SUB!
PROF! CAREFUL! NOT TOO CLOSE!
PROF..!
SHOTS DON'T HARM IT! NO WONDER! NO NERVOUS SYSTEM! JUST A GIANT PRIMITIVE CELL!
BUT THEY KILL CELLS WITH MICRO-SURGERY! IT MAY WORK NOW..! THERE IT IS... THE THING THAT MAKES IT TICK... THE 'NUCLEUS'! I'LL CUT THROUGH THIS GELATIN!
WHILE INSIDE, AS THE SCREENS CLEAR UP.....
THEY'RE GONERS! YOUR HUSBAND AND YOUR ROCKET JOCKEY! I'M PULLING OUT OF HERE NOW!
YOU COWARDLY WATER RAT! YOU LEAVE THEM, AND I'LL KILL YOU.. YOU HEAR ME?
NEXT WEEK: ABANDONED!!

DITTO, YOU HAVE TO TAKE A LITTLE NAP! YOU'RE SO TIRED AND CROSS.
I AM NOT!
CAN I GET UP NOW? I'M RESTED!
FOR HEAVEN'S SAKES! YOU JUST GOT IN HERE!
I'M OKAY NOW! I GOT A GOOD SLEEP.
GET BACK IN YOUR ROOM. YOU HAVEN'T BEEN THERE 5 MINUTES!
OKAY NOW, MOM ?! CAN I COME OUT ?!
MAYBE HE JUST ISN'T SLEEPY.
HUH, MOM? CAN I COME OUT, PLEASE ?!
WELL, OKAY. GO TELL HIM HE CAN COME OUT.
